SEC. 5. The Secretary shall, as early as practicable in the calendar year 1969 and in the calendar year 1970, make a report to the respective Committees on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives and the Senate identifying specific areas of program administration and management which require improvement, describing actions taken and proposed for the purpose of making such improvements, and recommending such legislation as may be necessary to accomplish such improvements. Each such report shall include, but not be limited to, the following areas of program administration and management: uniformity and standardization in program requirements, simplification of program procedures, ways and means of expediting consideration of proposed projects and applications for assistance, the provision of more useful and specific assistance to communities, organizations and individuals seeking to utilize the Department's programs, and ways and means of combining or otherwise adapting the Department's programs to increase their usefulness in meeting the individual needs of applicants.

TITLE I—LOWER INCOME HOUSING

HOMEOWNERSHIP FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 101. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new section:

"HOMEOWNERSHIP FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

"SEC. 235. (a) For the purpose of assisting lower income families in acquiring homeownership or in acquiring membership in a cooperative association operating a housing project, the Secretary is authorized to make, and to contract to make, periodic assistance payments on behalf of such homeowners and cooperative members. The assistance shall be accomplished through payments to mortgagees holding mortgages meeting the special requirements specified in this section.

"(b) To qualify for assistance payments, the homeowner or the cooperative member shall be of lower income and satisfy eligibility requirements prescribed by the Secretary, and—

"(1) the homeowner shall be a mortgagor under a mortgage which meets the requirements of and is insured under subsection (i) or (j)(4) of this section: Provided, That a mortgage meeting the requirements of subsection (i)(3)(A) of this section but insured under section 237 may qualify for assistance payments if such mortgage was executed by a mortgagor who is determined not to be an acceptable credit risk for mortgage insurance purposes (but otherwise eligible) under subsection (j)(4) of this section or under section 221(d)(2) or 234(c) and accepted as a reasonably satisfactory credit risk under section 237; or

"(2) the cooperative association of which the family is a member shall operate a housing project the construction or substantial rehabilitation of which has been financed with a mortgage insured under section 213 and which has been completed within two years prior to the filing of the application for assistance payments and the dwelling unit has had no previous occupant other than the family: Provided, That if the initial cooperative member receiving assistance payments transfers his membership and occupancy rights to another person who satisfies the eligibility requirements prescribed by the Secretary, such new cooperative member may qualify for assistance payments upon the filing of an application with respect to the dwelling unit involved to be occupied by him: Provided further, That assistance payments may be made with respect to a dwelling unit in an existing cooperative project which meets such standards as the Secretary may prescribe, if the family qualifies as a displaced family as defined in section 221(f), or a family which includes five or more minor persons, or a family occupying low-rent public housing: Provided further, That the amount of the mortgage attributable to the dwelling unit shall involve a principal obligation not in excess of $15,000 ($17,500 in any geographical area where the Secretary authorizes an increase on the basis of a finding that cost levels so require), except that with respect to any family with five or more persons the foregoing limits shall be $17,500 and $20,000, respectively.

"(c) The assistance payments to a mortgagee by the Secretary on behalf of a mortgagor shall be made during such time as the mortgagor shall continue to occupy the property which secures the mortgage: Provided, That assistance payments may be made on behalf of a homeowner who assumes a mortgage insured under subsection (j)(4) with respect to which assistance payments have been made on behalf of the previous owner, if the homeowner is approved by the Secretary as eligible for receiving such assistance. The payment shall be in an amount not exceeding the lesser of—

"(1) the balance of the monthly payment for principal, interest, taxes, insurance, and mortgage insurance premium due under the mortgage remaining unpaid after applying 20 per centum of the mortgagor's income; or

"(2) the difference between the amount of the monthly payment for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest which the mortgagor would be obligated to pay if the mortgage were to bear interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum.

"(d) Assistance payments to a mortgagee by the Secretary on behalf of a family holding membership in a cooperative association operating a housing project shall be made only during such time as the family is an occupant of such project and shall be in amounts computed on the basis of the formula set forth in subsection (c) applying the cooperative member's proportionate share of the obligations under the project mortgage to the items specified in the formula.

"(e) The Secretary may include in the payment to the mortgagee such amount, in addition to the amount computed under subsection (c), (d), or (j)(7), as he deems appropriate to reimburse the mortgagee for its expenses in handling the mortgage.

"(f) Procedures shall be adopted by the Secretary for recertifications of the mortgagor's (or cooperative member's) income at intervals of two years (or at shorter intervals where the Secretary deems is desirable) for the purpose of adjusting the amount of such assistance payments within the limits of the formula described in subsection (c).

"(g) The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as he deems necessary to assure that the sales price of, or other consideration paid in connection with, the purchase by a homeowner of the property with respect to which assistance payments are to be made is not increased above the appraised value on which the maximum mortgage which the Secretary will insure is computed.

"(h)(1) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, including such sums as may be necessary to make the assistance payments under contracts entered into under this section. The aggregate amount of contracts to make such payments shall not exceed amounts approved in appropriation Acts, and payments pursuant to such contracts shall not exceed $75,000,000 per annum prior to July 1, 1969, which maximum dollar amount shall be increased by $100,000,000 on July 1, 1969, and by $125,000,000, on July 1, 1970.

"(2) Not more than 20 per centum of the total amount of assistance payments authorized to be contracted to be made pursuant to appropriation Acts shall be contracted to be made on behalf of families whose incomes at the time of their initial occupancy exceed 135 per centum of the maximum income limits which can be established in the area, pursuant to the limitations prescribed in sections 2(2) and 15(7)(b)(ii) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings, but the incomes of such families at the time of their initial occupancy shall in no case exceed 90 per centum of the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with mortgages insured under section 221(d)(3) which bear interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of section 221(d)(5). The limitations prescribed in this paragraph shall be administered by the Secretary so as to accord a preference to those families whose incomes are within the lowest practicable limits for achieving homeownership with assistance under this section. The Secretary shall report annually to the respective Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives with respect to the income levels of families on behalf of which assistance payments have been made under this section.

"(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (b)(2) and (i)(3)(A) with respect to the prior construction or rehabilitation of a dwelling, or of the project in which there is a dwelling unit, for which assistance payments may be made, and notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (j)(1) authorizing the purchase of housing which is neither deteriorating nor substandard, not more than—

"(A) 25 per centum of the total amount of contracts for assistance payments authorized by appropriation Acts to be made prior to July 1, 1969,

"(B) 15 per centum of the total additional amount of contracts for assistance payments authorized by appropriations Acts to be made prior to July 1, 1970, and may be made with respect to existing dwellings, or dwelling units in existing projects.

"(C) 10 per centum of the total additional amount of contracts for assistance payments authorized by appropriations Acts to be made prior to July 1, 1971,

"(i)(1) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure a mortgage executed by a mortgagor who meets the eligibility requirements for assistance payments prescribed by the Secretary under subsection (b). Commitments for the insurance of such mortgages may be issued by the Secretary prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(2) To be eligible for insurance under this subsection, a mortgage shall meet the requirements of section 221(d)(2) or 234(c), except as such requirements are modified by this subsection.

"(3) A mortgage to be insured under this subsection shall—

"(A) involve a single-family dwelling which has been approved by the Secretary prior to the beginning of construction or substantial rehabilitation, or a two-family dwelling one of the units of which is to be occupied by the owner if the dwelling is purchased with the assistance of a nonprofit organization and is approved by the Secretary prior to the beginning of substantial rehabilitation, or a one-family unit in a condominium project (together with an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities serving the project) which is released from a multifamily project, the construction or substantial rehabilitation of which has been completed within two years prior to the filing of the application for assistance payments with respect to such family unit and the unit has had no previous occupant other than the mortgagor: Provided, That the mortgage may involve an existing dwelling or a family unit in an existing condominium project which meets such standards as the Secretary may prescribe, if the mortgagor qualifies as a displaced family as defined in section 221(f), or a family which includes five or more minor persons, or a family occupying low-rent public housing: Provided further, That the mortgage may involve an existing dwelling or a family unit in an existing condominium project if assistance payments have been made on behalf of the previous owner of the dwelling or family unit with respect to a mortgage insured under subsection (j)(4): Provided further, That the mortgage may involve a dwelling unit in an existing project covered by a mortgage insured under section 236 or in an existing project receiving the benefits of financial assistance under section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965;

"(B) where it is to cover a one-family unit in a condominium project, have a principal obligation not exceeding $15,000 ($17,500 in any geographical area where the Secretary authorizes an increase on the basis of a finding that cost levels so require), except that with respect to any family with five or more persons the foregoing limits shall be $17,500 and $20,000, respectively; and

"(C) be executed by a mortgagor who shall have paid (i) in the case of any family whose income is not in excess of 135 per centum of the maximum income limits which can be established in the area, pursuant to the limitations prescribed in sections 2(2) and 15(7)(b)(ii) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings, at least $200, or (ii) in the case of any other family, at least 3 per centum (or such larger amount as the Secretary may require) of the Secretary's estimate of the cost of acquisition, which amount (in cash or its equivalent) in either instance may be applied for the payment of settlement costs and initial payments for taxes, hazard insurance, mortgage insurance premiums, and other prepaid expenses.

"(j)(1) In addition to mortgages insured under the provisions of subsection (i), the Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure a mortgage (including advances under such mortgage during rehabilitation) which is executed by a nonprofit organization or public body or agency to finance the purchase of housing, and the rehabilitation of such housing if it is deteriorating or substandard, for subsequent resale to lower income home purchasers who meet the eligibility requirements for assistance payments prescribed by the Secretary under subsection (b). Commitments for the insurance of such mortgages may be issued by the Secretary prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(2) To be eligible for insurance under paragraph (1) of this subsection, a mortgage shall—

"(A) be executed by a private nonprofit organization or public body or agency approved by the Secretary, for the purpose of financing the purchase (with the intention of subsequent resale), and rehabilitation where the housing involved is deteriorating or substandard, of property comprising one or more tracts or parcels, whether or not contiguous, consisting of (i) four or more single-family dwellings of detached, semidetached, or row construction, or (ii) four or more one-family units in a structure or structures for which a plan of family unit ownership approved by the Secretary is established; except that in a case not involving the rehabilitation of deteriorating or substandard housing the property purchased may consist of one or more such dwellings or units;

"(B) be in a principal amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property at the time of its purchase under the mortgage plus the estimated cost of any rehabilitation;

"(C) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charge, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the mortgage market;

"(D) provide for complete amortization (subject to paragraph (4)(E)) by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary may prescribe; and

"(E) provide for the release of individual single-family dwellings from the lien of the mortgage upon their sale in accordance with paragraph (4).

"(3) No mortgage shall be insured under paragraph (1) unless the mortgagor shall have demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Secretary that (A) the property involved is located in a neighborhood which is sufficiently stable and contains sufficient public facilities and amenities to support long-term values, or (B) the purchase or rehabilitation of such property plus the mortgagor's related activities and the activities of other owners of housing in the neighborhood, together with actions to be taken by public authorities, will be of such scope and quality as to give reasonable promise that a stable environment will be created in the neighborhood.

"(4)(A) No mortgage shall be insured under paragraph (1) unless the mortgagor enters into an agreement, satisfactory to the Secretary, that it will offer to sell the dwellings involved, after purchase and upon completion of any rehabilitation, to lower income individuals or families meeting the eligibility requirements established by the Secretary under subsection (b).

"(B) The Secretary is authorized to insure under this paragraph mortgages executed to finance the sale of individual dwellings to lower income purchasers as provided in subparagraph (A). Any such mortgage shall—

"(i) be in a principal amount not in excess of that portion of the unpaid principal balance of the blanket mortgage covering the property which is allocable to the individual dwelling involved;

"(ii) bear interest at the same rate as the blanket mortgage; and

"(iii) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within a term equal to the remaining term (determined without regard to subparagraph (E)) of such blanket mortgage.

"(C) The price for which any individual dwelling is sold under this paragraph shall be in an amount equal to that portion of the unpaid principal balance of the blanket mortgage covering the property which is allocable to the dwelling plus such additional amount, not less than $200 (which may be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs and may be paid in cash or its equivalent), as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable.

"(D) Upon the sale under this paragraph of any individual dwelling, such dwelling shall be released from the lien of the blanket mortgage. Until all of the individual dwellings in the property covered by the blanket mortgage have been sold, the mortgagor shall hold and operate the dwellings remaining unsold at any given time, in such manner and under such terms as the Secretary may prescribe, as though they constituted rental units.

"(E) Upon the sale under this paragraph of all the individual dwellings in the property covered by the blanket mortgage and the release of all individual dwellings from the lien of the blanket mortgage, the insurance of the blanket mortgage shall be terminated and no adjusted premium charge shall be charged by the Secretary upon such termination.

"(5) Where the Secretary has approved a plan of family unit ownership, the terms 'single-family dwelling', 'single-family dwellings', 'individual dwelling', and 'individual dwellings' shall mean a family unit or family units, together with the undivided interest (or interests) in the common areas and facilities.

"(6) For purposes of this subsection, the terms 'single-family dwelling' and 'single-family dwellings' (except for purposes of paragraph (5)) shall include a two-family dwelling which has been approved by the Secretary if one of the units is to be occupied by the owner.

"(7) In addition to the assistance payments authorized under subsection (b), the Secretary may make such payments to a mortgagee on behalf of a nonprofit organization or public body or agency which is a mortgagor under the provisions of paragraph (1) in an amount not exceeding the difference between the monthly payment for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest such mortgagor would be obligated to pay if the mortgage were to bear interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum.

"(8) A mortgage covering property which is not deteriorating or substandard may be insured under this subsection only if it is situated in an area in which mortgages may be insured under section 221(h).

"(k) The Secretary shall from time to time allocate and transfer to the Secretary of Agriculture, for use (in accordance with the terms and conditions of this section) in rural areas and small towns, a reasonable portion of the total authority to contract to make assistance payments as approved in appropriation Acts under subsection (h)(1).

"(l) In determining the income of any person for the purposes of this section, there shall be deducted an amount equal to $300 for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of such person and living with such family, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of such person or his family."

(A) by striking out "not to exceed (i) $12,500" and inserting in lieu thereof "not to exceed (i) $15,000 (or $17,500, if the mortgagor's family includes five or more persons)"; and

(B) by striking out "not to exceed $15,000" in the second proviso and inserting in lieu thereof "not to exceed $17,500 (or $20,000 if the mortgagor's family includes five or more persons)".

(2) Section 221(d)(2)(B) of such Act is amended—

(A) by inserting ", in cash or its equivalent" before the semicolon after "acquisition cost" in the first proviso; and

(B) by inserting before the semicolon after "appraised value" at the end thereof the following: ": Provided further, That, if the mortgagor is the owner and an occupant of the property, such mortgagor shall to the maximum extent feasible be given the opportunity to contribute the value of his labor as equity in such dwelling".

(c)(1) Section 221(h)(5)(B)(ii) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(ii) bear interest at the same rate as the principal mortgage or such lower rate, not less than 1 per centum, as the Secretary may prescribe if in his judgment the purchaser's income is sufficiently low to justify the lower rate, and provide for complete amortization within a term equal to the remaining term (determined without regard to subparagraph (E)) of such principal mortgage: Provided, That, if the rate of interest initially prescribed is less than the rate borne by the principal mortgage and the purchaser's income (as determined on the basis of periodic review) subsequently rises, the rate of interest so prescribed shall be increased (but not above the rate borne by such principal mortgage), under regulations of the Secretary, to the extent appropriate to reflect the increase in such income, and the mortgage shall so provide."

(2) Section 221(h)(4) of such Act is amended by striking out "$20,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$50,000,000".

(3) Section 221(h) of such Act is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(6) In addition to the mortgages that may be insured under paragraphs (1) and (5), the Secretary is authorized to insure under this subsection at any time within one year after the date of the enactment of this paragraph, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, mortgages which are executed by individuals or families that meet the income criteria prescribed in paragraph (5)(A) and are executed for the purpose of financing the rehabilitation or improvement of single-family dwellings of detached, semi-detached, or row construction that are owned and occupied in each instance by a mortgagor who has purchased the dwelling from a nonprofit organization of the type described in this subsection. To be eligible for such insurance, a mortgage shall—

"(A) be in a principal amount not exceeding the lesser of $15,000 or the sum of the estimated cost of repair and rehabilitation and the Secretary's estimate of the value of the property before repair and rehabilitation, except that in no case involving refinancing shall such mortgage exceed such estimated cost of repair and rehabilitation and the amount (as determined by the Secretary) required to refinance existing indebtedness secured by the property;

"(B) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charge, if any) at 3 per centum per annum or such lower rate, not less than 1 per centum, as the Secretary may prescribe if in his judgment the mortgagor's income is sufficiently low to justify the lower rate: Provided, That, if the rate of interest initially prescribed is less than 3 per centum per annum and the mortgagor's income (as determined on the basis of periodic review) subsequently rises, the rate shall be increased (but not above 3 per centum), under regulations of the Secretary, to the extent appropriate to reflect the increase in such income, and the mortgage shall so provide;

"(C) involve a mortgagor that shall have paid on account of the property at the time of the rehabilitation such amount (which shall not be less than $200 in cash or its equivalent, but which may be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs) as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable and appropriate under the circumstances; and

"(D) contain a provision that, if the low-income mortgagor does not continue to occupy the property, the interest rate shall increase to the highest rate permissible under this section and the regulations of the Secretary effective at the time the commitment was issued for insurance of the mortgage; except that the increase in interest rate shall not be applicable if the property is sold and the purchaser is (i) a nonprofit organization which has been engaged in purchasing and rehabilitating deteriorating and substandard housing with financing under a mortgage insured under paragraph (1) of this subsection, (ii) a public housing agency having jurisdiction under the United States Housing Act of 1937 over the area where the dwelling is located, or (iii) a low-income purchaser approved for the purposes of this paragraph by the Secretary."

(4) The purchase of any individual dwelling, sold by a nonprofit organization pursuant to the provisions of section 221(h)(5) of the National Housing Act after the date of enactment of this section, may be financed with a mortgage insured under the provisions of section 235(j)(4) of such Act, but such mortgage shall bear interest at the rate provided in section 235(j)(2)(C) of such Act.

(d) Section 212(a) of such Act is amended by inserting "or section 235(j)(1)" after "subsection (h)(1)" each place it appears.

(e) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to provide, or contract with public or private organizations to provide, such budget, debt management, and related counseling services to mortgagors whose mortgages are insured under section 235(i) or 235(j)(4) of the National Housing Act as he determines to be necessary to assist such mortgagors in meeting the responsibilities of homeownership. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this subsection.

CREDIT ASSISTANCE

SEC. 102. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 236 (as added by section 201 of this Act) the following new section:

"SPECIAL MORTGAGE INSURANCE ASSISTANCE

"SEC. 237. (a) The purpose of this section is to help provide adequate housing for families of low and moderate income, including those who, for reasons of credit history, irregular income patterns caused by seasonal employment, or other factors, are unable to meet the credit requirements of the Secretary for the purchase of a single-family home financed by a mortgage insured under section 203, 220, 221, 234, or 235(j)(4), but who, through the incentive of homeownership and counseling assistance, appear to be able to achieve homeownership.

"(b) The Secretary is authorized upon application by the mortgagee to insure under this section any mortgage meeting the requirements of this section.

"(c) To be eligible for insurance under this section, a mortgage shall—

"(2) involve a principal obligation (including such initial service charges, and such appraisal, inspection, and other fees, as the Secretary shall approve) in an amount not to exceed $15,000: Provided, That the Secretary may increase the amount to not exceed $17,500 in any geographical area where he finds that cost levels so require: Provided further, That no mortgage meeting the requirements of section 203(h) or 203(i) shall be eligible for insurance under this section if its principal obligation is in excess of the maximum limits prescribed in such section;

"(3) be executed by a mortgagor who the Secretary has determined, after a full and complete study of the case, would not be an acceptable credit risk for mortgage insurance purposes under section 203, 220, 221, 234, or 235(j)(4), because of his credit standing, debt obligations, total annual income, or income characteristics, but who the Secretary is satisfied would be a reasonably satisfactory credit risk, consistent with the objectives stated in subsection (a), if he were to receive budget, debt management, and related counseling: Provided, That, in determining whether the mortgagor is a reasonably satisfactory credit risk, the Secretary shall review the credit history of the applicant giving special consideration to those delinquent accounts which were ultimately paid by the applicant and to extenuating factors which may have caused credit accounts of the applicant to become delinquent; and the Secretary shall also give special consideration to income characteristics of applicants whose total income over the two years prior to their applications has remained at levels of eligibility (as required under paragraph (4) of this subsection), but who, because of the character of their seasonal employment or for other reasons, have not maintained continuous employment under one employer during that time; and

"(4) require monthly payments which, in combination with local real estate taxes on the property involved, do not exceed 25 per centum of the applicant's income, based on his average monthly income during the year prior to his application or the average monthly income during the three years prior to his application, whichever is higher.

"(d) The Secretary shall give preference in approving mortgage insurance applications under this section to families living in public housing units, especially those families required to leave public housing because their incomes have risen beyond the maximum prescribed income limits, and families eligible for residence in public housing who have been displaced from federally assisted urban renewal areas.

"(e) The Secretary is authorized to provide, or contract with public or private organizations to provide, such budget, debt management, and related counseling services to mortgagors whose mortgages are insured under this section as he determines to be necessary to meet the objectives of this section. The Secretary may also provide such counseling to otherwise eligible families who lack sufficient funds to supply a downpayment to help them to save an amount necessary for that purpose.

"(f) The aggregate principal balance of all mortgages insured under this section and outstanding at one time shall not exceed $200,000,000.

"(g) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of subsection (e) of this section."

(b) Section 226 of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "235(i), 237," after "234,".

RELAXATION OF MORTGAGE INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS IN CERTAIN URBAN NEIGHBORHOODS

SEC. 103. (a) Section 223 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof a new subsection as follows:

"(e) Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this title except section 212, and without regard to limitations upon eligibility contained in any section of this title, the Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure under any section of this title a mortgage executed in connection with the repair, rehabilitation, construction, or purchase of property located in an older, declining urban area in which the conditions are such that one or more of the eligibility requirements applicable to the section of this title under which insurance is sought could not be met, if the Secretary finds that (1) the area is reasonably viable, giving consideration to the need for providing adequate housing for families of low and moderate income in such area, and (2) the property is an acceptable risk in view of such consideration. The insurance of a mortgage pursuant to this subsection shall be the obligation of the Special Risk Insurance Fund."

(b) Section 203(l) of such Act is repealed.

SPECIAL RISK INSURANCE FUND

SEC. 104. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 237 (as added by section 102 of this Act) the following new section:

"PAYMENT OF INSURANCE—SPECIAL RISK INSURANCE FUND

"SEC. 238. (a)(1) Any mortgagee under a mortgage insured under section 235(i), 235(j)(4), or 237 shall be entitled to receive the benefits of the insurance as provided in section 204(a) with respect to mortgages insured under section 203. The provisions of subsections (b), (c), (d), (g), (j), and (k), of section 204 shall be applicable to mortgages insured under section 235(i), 235(j)(4), or 237, except that all references therein to the 'Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund' shall be construed to refer to the 'Special Risk Insurance Fund', and all references therein to section 203 shall be construed to refer to section 235(i), 235(j)(4), or 237, as may be appropriate.

"(2) Any mortgagee under a mortgage insured under section 235(j)(1) or 236 shall be entitled to receive the benefits of insurance as provided in section 207(g) with respect to mortgages insured under section 207. The provisions of subsections (d), (e), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), and (n) of section 207 shall be applicable to mortgages insured under section 235(j)(1) or 236, except that all references therein to the 'General Insurance Fund' shall be construed to refer to the 'Special Risk Insurance Fund' and the premium charge provided in section 207(d) shall be payable only in cash or debentures of the Special Risk Insurance Fund.

"(3) In lieu of the amount of insurance benefits computed pursuant to paragraph (1) or (2) of this subsection the Secretary, in his discretion and in accordance with such regulations as he may prescribe may, (with respect to any mortgage loan acquired by him) compute and pay insurance benefits to the mortgagee in a total amount equal to the unpaid principal balance of the loan plus any accrued interest and any advances approved by the Secretary and made previously by the mortgagee under the provisions of the mortgage.

"(b) There is hereby created a Special Risk Insurance Fund (hereinafter referred to as the 'fund') which shall be used by the Secretary as a revolving fund for carrying out the mortgage insurance obligations of sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237, and the Secretary is hereby authorized to advance to the fund the sum of $5,000,000 from the General Insurance Fund established pursuant to the provisions of section 519. Such advance shall be repayable at such times and at such rates of interest as the Secretary deems appropriate. Premium charges, adjusted premium charges, inspection and other fees, service charges, and any other income received by the Secretary under sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237, together with all earnings on the assets of the fund, shall be credited to the fund. All payments made pursuant to claims of mortgagees with respect to mortgages insured under sections 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237 or pursuant to section 223(e), cash adjustments, the principal of and interest paid on debentures which are the obligation of the fund, expenses incurred in connection with or as a consequence of the acquisition and disposal of property acquired under such sections, and all administrative expenses in connection with the mortgage insurance operations under such sections shall be paid out of the fund. There is authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be needed from time to time to cover losses sustained by the fund in carrying out the mortgage insurance obligations of sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237. Moneys in the fund not needed for current operations of the fund shall be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States to the credit of the fund or invested in bonds or other obligations of, or in bonds or other obligations guaranteed by, the United States. The Secretary, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may purchase in the open market debentures which are the obligation of the fund. Such purchases shall be made at a price which will provide an investment yield of not less than the yield obtained from other investments authorized by this section. Debentures so purchased shall be canceled and not reissued."

(b) Section 224 of such Act is amended by striking out "or section 233" and inserting in lieu thereof "section 233, or section 238".

(c) Section 519(e) of such Act is amended by inserting after "section 213(k)" the following: ", or the provisions of sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236 and 237".

CONDOMINIUM AND COOPERATIVE OWNERSHIP FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 105. (a) Section 221 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof two new subsections as follows:

"(i)(1) The Secretary is authorized, with respect to any project involving a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5), to permit a conversion of the ownership of such project to a plan of family unit ownership. Under such plan, each family unit shall be eligible for individual ownership and provision shall be included for the sale of the family units, together with an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities which serve the project, to low or moderate income purchasers. The Secretary shall obtain such agreements as he determines to be necessary to assure continued maintenance of the common areas and facilities. Upon such sale, the family unit and the undivided interest in the common areas shall be released from the lien of the project mortgage.

"(2)(A) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure under this subsection mortgages financing the purchase of individual family units under the plan prescribed in paragraph (1). Commitments may be issued by the Secretary for the insurance of such mortgages prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe. To be eligible for such insurance, the mortgage shall—

"(i) be executed by a mortgagor having an income within the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at the below-market rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5);

"(ii) involve a principal obligation (including such initial service charges, and such appraisal, inspection, and other fees, as the Secretary shall approve) in an amount not to exceed the Secretary's estimate of the appraised value of the family unit, including the mortgagor's interest in the common areas and facilities, as of the date the mortgage is accepted for insurance;

"(iii) bear interest at a rate determined by the Secretary (which may vary in accordance with the regulations of the Secretary promulgated pursuant to the last sentence of paragraph (4) of this subsection) but not less than the below-market rate in effect under the proviso of subsection (d)(5) at the date of the commitment for insurance; and

"(iv) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary may prescribe, but not to exceed the lesser of forty years from the beginning of amortization of the mortgage or three-quarters of the Secretary's estimate of the remaining economic life of the building improvements.

"(B) The price for which the individual family unit is sold to the low or moderate income purchaser shall not exceed the appraised value of the property, as determined under subparagraph (A) (ii), except that the purchaser shall be required to pay on account of the property at the time of purchase at least such amount, in cash or its equivalent (which shall be not less than 3 per centum of such price, but which may be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs), as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable and appropriate.

"(3) Upon the sale of all of the family units covered by the project mortgage, and the release of all of the family units (including the undivided interest allocable to each unit in the common areas and facilities) from the lien of the project mortgage, the insurance of the project mortgage shall be terminated and no adjusted premium charge shall be collected by the Secretary upon such termination.

"(4) Any mortgage covering an individual family unit insured under this subsection shall contain a provision that, if the original mortgagor does not continue to occupy the property, the interest rate shall increase to the highest rate permissible under this section and the regulations of the Secretary effective at the time the commitment was issued for the insurance of the project mortgage; except that the requirement for an increase in interest rate shall not be applicable if the property is sold and the purchaser is (i) a nonprofit purchaser approved by the Secretary, or (ii) a low or moderate income purchaser who has an income within the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with a mortgage insured under subsection (d) (3) which bears interest at the below-market rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d) (5). The mortgage shall also contain a provision that, if the Secretary determines that the annual income of the original mortgagor (or a purchaser described in clause (ii) of the preceding sentence) has increased to an amount enabling payment of a greater rate of interest, the interest rate of the individual mortgage may be increased up to the highest rate permissible under the regulations of the Secretary for mortgages insured under this section effective at the time the commitment was issued for the insurance of the mortgage.

"(5) For the purpose of this subsection—

"(i) the term 'mortgage', when used in relation to a mortgage insured under paragraph (2) of this subsection, includes a first mortgage given to secure the unpaid purchase price of a fee interest in, or a long-term lease-hold interest in, a one-family unit in a multifamily project and an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities which serve the project; and

"(ii) the term 'common areas and facilities' includes the land and such commercial, community, and other facilities as are approved by the Secretary.

"(j) (1) The Secretary is authorized, with respect to any rental project involving a mortgage insured under subsection (d) (3) which bears interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d) (5), to permit a conversion of the ownership of such project to a cooperative approved by the Secretary. Membership in such cooperative shall be made available only to those families having an income within the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with a mortgage insured under subsection (d) (3) which bears interested at such below-market rate: Provided, That families residing in the rental project at the time of its conversion to a cooperative who do not meet such income limits may be permitted to become members in the cooperative under such special terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(2) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure under this subsection cooperative mortgages financing the purchase of projects meeting the requirements of paragraph (1). Commitments may be issued by the Secretary for the insurance of such mortgages prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe. To be eligible for such insurance, the mortgage shall—

"(i) involve a principal obligation (including such initial service charges and appraisal, inspection, and other fees as the Secretary shall approve) in an amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property for continued use as a cooperative, which value shall be based upon a mortgage amount on which the debt service can be met from the income of the property when operated on a nonprofit basis, after the payment of all operating expenses, taxes, and required reserves;

"(ii) bear interest at the below-market rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d) (5); and

"(iii) provide for complete amortization within such term as the Secretary may prescribe."

(b) Section 221(g) (1) of such Act is amended by striking out "or paragraph (5) of subsection (h) of this section" and inserting in lieu thereof "paragraph (5) of subsection (h) of this section, or paragraph (2) of subsection (i) of this section".

(c) Section 221(g) (2) of such Act is amended by striking out "or paragraph (1) of subsection (h)" and inserting in lieu thereof "paragraph (1) of subsection (h) of this section, or paragraph (2) of subsection (j),".

(d) Section 221(f) of such Act is amended by inserting after "subsection (h)" in the third sentence of the second paragraph the following: ", (i), or (j)".

ASSISTANCE TO NONPROFIT SPONSORS OF LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING

SEC. 106. (a) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to provide, or contract with public or private organizations to provide, information, advice, and technical assistance with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation by nonprofit organizations of housing for low or moderate income families. Assistance by the Secretary may include—

(1) the assembly, correlation, publication, and dissemination of information with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation of low and moderate income housing, and

(2) the provision of advice and technical assistance with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation of low and moderate income housing.

(b) (1) The Secretary is authorized to make loans to nonprofit organizations for the necessary expenses, prior to construction, in planning, and obtaining financing for, the rehabilitation or construction of housing for low or moderate income families under any federally assisted program. Such loans shall be made without interest and shall not exceed 80 per centum of the reasonable costs expected to be incurred in planning, and in obtaining financing for, such housing prior to the availability of financing, including, but not limited to, preliminary surveys and analyses of market needs, preliminary site engineering and architectural fees, site acquisition, application and mortgage commitment fees, and construction loan fees and discounts. The Secretary shall require repayment of loans made under this subsection, under such terms and conditions as he may require, upon completion of the project or sooner, and may cancel any part or all of a loan if he determines that it cannot be recovered from the proceeds of any permanent loan made to finance the rehabilitation or construction of the housing.

(2) The Secretary shall determine prior to the making of any loan that the nonprofit organization meets such requirements with respect to financial responsibility and stability as he may prescribe.

(3) There are authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of this subsection not to exceed $7,500,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $10,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amounts so appropriated shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this paragraph but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year.

(4) All funds appropriated for the purposes of this subsection shall be deposited in a fund which shall be known as the Low and Moderate Income Sponsor Fund, and which shall be available without fiscal year limitation and be administered by the Secretary as a revolving fund for carrying out the purposes of this subsection. Sums received in repayment of loans made under this subsection shall be deposited in such fund.

NATIONAL HOMEOWNERSHIP FOUNDATION

SEC. 107. (a) (1) There is hereby created a body corporate to be known as the "National Homeownership Foundation" (hereinafter referred to as the "Foundation") to carry out a continuing program of encouraging private and public organizations at the national, community, and neighborhood levels to provide increased homeownership and housing opportunities in urban and rural areas for lower income families through such means as—

(A) encouraging the investment in, and sponsoring of, housing for lower income families;

(B) encouraging the establishment of programs of assistance and counseling to lower income families to enable them better to achieve and afford adequate housing;

(C) providing a broad range of technical assistance through publications and advisory services to public and private organizations which are carrying out, or are desirous of carrying out, programs to expand homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families; and

(D) providing grants and loans to public and private organizations carrying out homeownership and housing opportunity programs for lower income families to help cover some of the expenses of such programs.

(2) The Foundation shall be deemed to be a corporation without members organized and established under the provisions of the District of Columbia Nonprofit Corporation Act, with all the rights, powers, and responsibilities thereof except as limited by this section and any amendments thereto. This section shall constitute the articles of incorporation and charter of the Foundation, which shall not be an agency or instrumentality of the United States Government. The Congress expressly reserves the exclusive right to alter or amend this charter. The Foundation shall have succession until dissolved by Act of Congress. The Foundation shall maintain its principal office in the District of Columbia.

(3) No part of the net earnings of the Foundation shall inure to the benefit of any private person, and no substantial part of its activities shall be devoted to attempting to influence legislation. The Foundation shall not participate or intervene in any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office. The Foundation shall be operated and administered at all times as a charitable and educational foundation.

(4) No employee or officer of the Foundation shall receive compensation in excess of that received by or hereafter prescribed by law for heads of executive departments.

(5) The Foundation shall make maximum use of existing public and private agencies and programs, and in carrying out its functions the Foundation is authorized to contract with individuals, private corporations, organizations, and associations, and with agencies of the Federal, State, and local governments.

(6) The Foundation is authorized to receive donations and grants from individuals and from public and private organizations, foundations, and agencies.

(7) The Foundation may use only donated funds, or funds derived from payment of interest on loans made by it, for the principal and interest payments on any borrowings.

(b)(1) The Foundation shall have a Board of Directors consisting of eighteen members, fifteen of whom shall be appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The other three members shall be, ex officio, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity. The President shall appoint one of the fifteen appointed members to serve as Chairman of the Board during his term of office as a member.

(2) Within thirty days after the date of enactment of this Act, the President shall appoint the fifteen appointed members of the Board. Not more than five of such members shall, at the time of their appointment, be serving full time as officers or employees of the Federal Government, or as officers or employees of any State or local government. Each appointed member of the Board shall hold office for a term of three years, except that (A) any member appointed to fill a vacancy prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term, and (B) the terms of the members first taking office shall expire, as designated by the President at the time of appointment, five at the end of the first year, five at the end of the second year, and five at the end of the third year after the date of appointment. Members of the Board, however appointed, shall be eligible for reappointment, but at no time shall there be more than five members of the Board who at the time of their appointment or reappointment were full-time officers or employees of the Federal Government or of any State or local government.

(3) Appointed members of the Board who are not employees of the Federal Government, while attending meetings or conferences of the Board or otherwise serving on business of the Board, shall be entitled to receive compensation at rates fixed by the President, but not exceeding $100 per day, including travel time, and while so serving away from their homes or regular places of business they may be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as authorized by section 5703 of title 5, United States Code, for persons in the Government service employed intermittently.

(4) The Board shall appoint an Executive Director of the Foundation. The Executive Director shall be the chief executive officer of the Foundation and shall serve at the pleasure of the Board, and all other executive officers and employees of the Board shall be responsible to him. The Board shall also cause to be appointed a secretary, a treasurer, and such other officers as may be necessary to conduct properly the business of the Foundation, and shall provide for filling vacancies in such offices.

(5) The Board shall adopt bylaws for the Foundation which shall be made available for public inspection upon request.

(c)(1) The Foundation shall assist public and private organizations, at their request, in initiating, developing, and conducting programs to expand homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families. To provide such assistance and to carry out the purposes of this section, the Foundation is authorized to—

(A) carry out a continuing program of encouraging private and public organizations at the national, community, and neighborhood levels in the establishment of such programs;

(B) assist in the formation of organizations the purpose of which is the development and carrying out of such programs, including the establishment of local development funds for financing housing for lower income families through the pooling of moneys from private sources;

(C) identify and arrange for the technical and managerial assistance and personnel needed for the successful operation of such programs by public and private organizations;

(D) assist public and private organizations in obtaining the mortgage financing, insurance, and other requirements or aids necessary for conducting programs of housing construction, rehabilitation, or improvement for lower income families;

(E) arrange for, or provide on a limited basis, training for persons in the skills needed in administering programs of homeownership and housing opportunity for lower income families;

(F) encourage research and innovation, and collect and make available such information as may be desirable to further the purposes of this section, including but not limited to such activities as the sponsoring of seminars, conferences, and meetings and the establishment of a continuing information program to acquaint lower income families with the means they can use to improve the quality of their housing and the homeownership and housing opportunities available to them;

(G) assist private and public organizations in establishing, in connection with their homeownership and housing opportunity programs for lower income families, counseling and similar activities designed to advise lower income families of the means available to better themselves economically through job training and manpower development programs; and

(H) perform other similar services in order to further the purposes of this section.

(2) The Foundation may, if it deems it appropriate, charge a reasonable fee for any assistance or service provided under this subsection.

(d)(1) In order to assist public and private organizations which are carrying out homeownership and housing opportunity programs for lower income families to fill unmet needs, initiate exceptional programs, and experiment with new approaches and programs, the Foundation is authorized, subject to such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, to make grants and loans to such organizations to help defray the following expenses:

(A) organizational and administrative expenses incurred in commencing the operation of a program, or in expanding an existing program, to the extent that the activities are related to providing homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families;

(B) necessary preconstruction costs incurred for architectural assistance, land options, application fees, and similar items; and

(C) the cost of carrying out programs providing counseling or similar services to lower income families for whom housing is being provided, in order to enable those families better to achieve and afford adequate housing, in such matters as home management, budget management, and home maintenance.

(2) In order to be eligible for a grant or loan under this subsection, the organization seeking such assistance shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Foundation that the funds requested are not otherwise available from Federal sources: Provided, That a grant or loan under this subsection may be provided to help cover that portion of the cost of an eligible activity not covered by Federal funds.

(3) The Foundation shall encourage cooperation between public and private organizations carrying out programs of homeownership and housing opportunity for lower income families and the neighborhoods and communities affected by such programs. To help assure such cooperation and in order to coordinate, to the maximum extent feasible, any construction or rehabilitation activities with the development goals of the neighborhood or community affected, no application for a loan or grant under this subsection shall be considered unless such application has been submitted to the governing body of the community affected, or to such other entity of local government as may be designated by the governing body, for such recommendations as the local governing body or its designee may desire to make. Any recommendations so made shall be given careful consideration by the Foundation before taking final action on any such application. If, upon the expiration of thirty days after any such application has been submitted to such governing body or its designee, such body or designee fails to provide such recommendations, the application may be considered without the benefit of such recommendations.

(e) The Foundation shall coordinate its activities and consult with the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other Federal departments and agencies engaged in providing homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families.

(f)(1) Not later than one hundred and twenty days after the close of each fiscal year, the Foundation shall prepare and submit to the President and to the Congress a full report of its activities during such year. Such report shall include an account of the Foundation's experiences with the efforts of private and public organizations to expand homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families, together with such recommendations as it deems appropriate.

(2) Whenever in its judgment the general unavailability of mortgage funds is sufficiently serious to deter the Foundation from carrying out its objective of expanding homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families, the Foundation shall, in its annual report or in a separate report to the President and the Congress, state its findings and make such recommendations for alternate means of financing housing for such families as it deems appropriate.

(g)(1) The financial transactions of the Foundation shall be audited by the General Accounting Office in accordance with the principles and procedures applicable to commercial corporate transactions and under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Comptroller General of the United States. The representatives of the General Accounting Office shall have access to all books, accounts, financial records, reports, files, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to or in use by the Foundation and necessary to facilitate the audit, and they shall be afforded full facilities for verifying transactions with the balances or securities held by depositories, fiscal agents, and custodians. The audit shall cover the fiscal year corresponding to that of the United States Government.

(2) A report of each such audit shall be made by the Comptroller General to the Congress not later than January 15 following the close of the fiscal year for which the audit was made. The report shall set forth the scope of the audit and shall include a statement of assets and liabilities, capital, and surplus or deficit; a statement of sources and application of funds; and such comments and information as may be deemed necessary to keep the Congress informed of the operations and financial condition of the Foundation, together with such recommendations with respect thereto as the Comptroller General may deem advisable. The report shall also show specifically any program, expenditure, or other financial transaction or undertaking, observed in the course of the audit, which, in the opinion of the Comptroller General, has been carried on or made without authority of law. A copy of each report shall be furnished to the President and to the Foundation at the time submitted to the Congress.

(h) Funds of the Foundation shall be deposited, to the extent practicable, in accounts with financial institutions which are actively engaged in making loans or are otherwise carrying on activities in furtherance of homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families.

(i) There is authorized to be appropriated to the Foundation not to exceed $10,000,000 to carry out the purposes of this section. Appropriations made hereunder shall remain available until expended.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 108. (a) In order to encourage the use of new housing technologies in providing decent, safe, and sanitary housing for lower income families; to encourage large-scale experimentation in the use of such technologies; to provide a basis for comparison of such technologies with existing housing technologies in providing such housing; and to evaluate the effect of local housing codes and zoning regulations on the large-scale use of new housing technologies in the provision of such housing, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (hereinafter referred to as the "Secretary") shall institute a program under which qualified organizations, public and private, will submit plans for the development of housing for lower income families, using new and advanced technologies, on Federal land which has been made available by the Secretary for the purposes of this section, or on other land where (1) local building regulations permit the construction of experimental housing, or (2) State or local law permits variances from building regulations in the construction of experimental housing for the purpose of testing and developing new building technologies.

(b) The Secretary shall approve not more than five plans utilizing new housing technologies which are submitted to him pursuant to the program referred to in subsection (a) and which he determines are most promising in furtherance of the purposes of this section. In making such determination the Secretary shall consider—

(1) the potential of the technology employed for producing housing for lower income families on a large scale at a moderate cost;

(2) the extent to which the plan envisages environmental quality;

(3) the possibility of mass production of the technology; and

(4) the financial soundness of the organization submitting the plan, and the ability of such organization, alone or in combination with other organizations, to produce at least one thousand dwelling units a year utilizing the technology proposed.

(c) In approving projects for mortgage insurance under section 233(a)(2) of the National Housing Act (as added by subsection (f) of this section), the Secretary shall seek to achieve the construction of at least one thousand dwelling units a year over a five-year period for each of the various types of technologies proposed in approved plans under subsection (b). The Secretary shall evaluate each project with respect to which assistance is extended pursuant to this section with a view to determining (1) the detailed cost breakdown per dwelling unit, (2) the environmental quality achieved in each such unit, and (3) the effect which local housing codes and zoning regulations have, or would have if applicable, on the cost per dwelling unit.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, any land which is excess property within the meaning of such Act and which is determined by the Secretary to be suitable in furtherance of the purposes of this section may be transferred to the Secretary upon his request.

(e) The Secretary shall, at the earliest practicable date, report his findings with respect to projects assisted pursuant to this section (including evaluations of each such project in accordance with subsection (c)), together with such recommendations for additional legislation as he determines to be necessary or desirable to expand the available supply of decent, safe, and sanitary housing for lower income families through the use of technologies the efficacy of which has been demonstrated under this section.

(A) by inserting "(1)" after "(a)",

(B) by redesignating clauses (1), (2), and (3) as clauses (A), (B), and (C), respectively, and

(C) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(2) The Secretary is further authorized to insure and to make commitments to insure, under this section, mortgages (including advances on mortgages during construction) secured by properties in projects to be carried out in accordance with plans approved by the Secretary under section 108 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968.".

(2) Section 233(c) of such Act is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Any authority which the Secretary may exercise in connection with a mortgage, or property covered by a mortgage, insured under any other section of this title (including payments to reduce rentals for, or to facilitate homeownership by, lower income families) may be exercised in connection with a mortgage, or property covered by a mortgage, meeting the requirements of such other section (except as specified in subsection (b)), which is insured under this section to the same extent and in the same manner as if the mortgage insured under this section was insured under such other section."

INSURANCE PROTECTION FOR HOMEOWNERS

SEC. 109. (a) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized, in cooperation with the private insurance industry, to develop a plan for the establishment at the earliest practicable date of an insurance program to help homeowners in meeting mortgage payments in times of personal economic adversity. Such insurance program shall be designed to protect mortgagors against foreclosure due to curtailment of income resulting from factors beyond their effective control, including such factors as death, disability, illness, and unemployment. Such insurance program shall also be designed to be actuarially sound through the use of premiums, fees, extended or increased payment schedules, or other similar methods, in conjunction with such Federal participation as may be necessary.

(b) Within six months following the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall report to the Congress on his actions under this section, and shall recommend to the Congress such legislation as he deems appropriate to authorize him to enter into agreements with any insurance company, or any corporation or joint enterprise formed to provide home mortgage insurance protection, for the purpose of reinsuring insurance reserve funds, subsidizing premium payments on behalf of lower income mortgagors, or otherwise making possible the insurance protection of homeowners in accordance with subsection (a). In preparing such recommendations the Secretary shall consult with other agencies or instrumentalities of the United States which insure or guarantee home mortgages in order that such legislation as may be recommended affords equal benefits to mortgagors participating in their programs.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMISSION ON LOW INCOME HOUSING

SEC. 110. (a)(1) There is hereby established the National Advisory Commission on Low Income Housing (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission"). The Commission shall be composed of twenty-one members as follows:

(A) Four members appointed by the President of the Senate, two from the majority party and two from the minority party;

(B) Four members appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, two from the majority party and two from the minority party; and

(C) Thirteen members appointed by the President, not more than three of whom shall be from the Federal Government, and of whom four shall be representative of persons, eligible for low income housing. Appointment shall be made by the President, whenever practicable, after consultation with the ranking majority and minority members of the Housing Subcommittees of the Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives.

(2) Any vacancy in the Commission shall not affect its powers, but shall be filled in the same manner in which the original appointment was made.

(3) Eleven members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum, but a lesser number may conduct hearings.

(4) The members of the Commission shall elect a Chairman and a Vice Chairman from the membership of the Commission.

(b)(1) The Commission shall undertake a comprehensive study and investigation, to further the policy set forth in section 2 of this Act, of practicable and effective ways of bringing decent, safe, and sanitary housing within the reach of low income families. Such study shall evaluate existing housing programs designed to assist such families, and explore new ways by which public and private resources may be more effectively utilized in meeting the housing needs of such families. In the carrying out of such study, the Commission may, where necessary or desirable, utilize the services of private research organizations, and shall, insofar as is practicable, seek to coordinate its investigation with studies undertaken, or being undertaken by the Banking and Currency Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives.

(2) The Commission shall be organized and begin its functions at the earliest possible date, and shall submit to the President and to the Congress an interim report with respect to its findings and recommendations not later than July 1, 1969. A final report of its findings and recommendations shall be submitted to the President and the Congress not later than July 1, 1970.

(c)(1) The Commission or, on the authorization of the Commission, any subcommittee or members thereof, may, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this section, hold such hearings, take such testimony, and sit and act at such times and places as the Commission deems advisable. Any member authorized by the Commission may administer oaths or affirmations to witnesses appearing before the Commission or any subcommittee or members thereof.

(2) Each department, agency, and instrumentality of the executive branch of the Government is authorized and directed to furnish to the Commission, upon request made by the Chairman or Vice Chairman, such information as the Commission deems necessary to carry out its functions under this section.

(3) Subject to such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the Commission, the Chairman, without regard to the provisions of title 5, United States Code, governing appointments in the competitive service, and without regard to the provisions of chapter 51 and subchapter III of chapter 53 of such title relating to classification and General Schedule pay rates shall have the power—

(1) to appoint and fix the compensation of such staff personnel as he deems necessary, and

(2) to procure temporary and intermittent services to the same extent as is authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, but at rates not to exceed $50 a day for individuals.

(d)(1) Any member of the Commission who is appointed from the executive or legislative branch of the Government shall serve without compensation in addition to that received in his regular employment, but shall be entitled to reimbursement for travel, subsistence, and other necessary expenses incurred by him in the performance of duties vested in the Commission.

(2) Members of the Commission, other than those referred to in paragraph (1), shall receive compensation at the rate of $75 per day for each day they are engaged in the performance of their duties as members of the Commission and shall be entitled to reimbursement for travel, subsistence, and other necessary expenses incurred by them in the performance of their duties as members of the Commission.

(e) There are authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary to carry out this section.

(f) The Commission shall cease to exist thirty days after the submission of its final report.

TITLE II—RENTAL HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

PART A—PRIVATE HOUSING

RENTAL AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 201. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 235 (as added by section 101 of this Act) the following new section:

"RENTAL AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

"SEC. 236. (a) For the purpose of reducing rentals for lower income families, the Secretary is authorized to make, and to contract to make, periodic interest reduction payments on behalf of the owner of a rental housing project designed for occupancy by lower income families, which shall be accomplished through payments to mortgagees holding mortgages meeting the special requirements specified in this section.

"(b) Interest reduction payments with respect to a project shall only be made during such time as the project is operated as a rental housing project and is subject to a mortgage which meets the requirements of, and is insured under, subsection (j) of this section: Provided, That interest reduction payments may be made with respect to a rental or cooperative housing project owned by a private nonprofit corporation or other private nonprofit entity, a limited dividend corporation or other limited dividend entity, or a cooperative housing corporation, which is financed under a State or local program providing assistance through loans, loan insurance, or tax abatements, and which prior to completion of construction or rehabilitation is approved for receiving the benefits of this section.

"(c) The interest reduction payments to a mortgagee by the Secretary on behalf of a project owner shall be in an amount not exceeding the difference between the monthly payment for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the project owner as a mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest such project owner would be obligated to pay if the mortgage were to bear interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum.

"(d) The Secretary may include in the payment to the mortgagee such amount, in addition to the amount computed under subsection (c), as he deems appropriate to reimburse the mortgagee for its expenses in handling the mortgage.

"(e) As a condition for receiving the benefits of interest reduction payments, the project owner shall operate the project in accordance with such requirements with respect to tenant eligibility and rents as the Secretary may prescribe. Procedures shall be adopted by the Secretary for review of tenant incomes at intervals of two years (or at shorter intervals where the Secretary deems it desirable).

"(f) For each dwelling unit there shall be established with the approval of the Secretary (1) a basic rental charge determined on the basis of operating the project with payments of principal and interest due under a mortgage bearing interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum; and (2) a fair market rental charge determined on the basis of operating the project with payments of principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage covering the project. The rental for each dwelling unit shall be at the basic rental charge or such greater amount, not exceeding the fair market rental charge, as represents 25 per centum of the tenant's income.

"(g) The project owner shall, as required by the Secretary, accumulate, safeguard, and periodically pay to the Secretary all rental charges collected in excess of the basic rental charges. Such excess charges shall be deposited by the Secretary in a fund which may be used by him as a revolving fund for the purpose of making interest reduction payments with respect to any rental housing project receiving assistance under this section, subject to limits approved in appropriation Acts pursuant to to subsection (i). Moneys in such fund not needed for current operations may be invested in bonds or other obligations of the United States or in bonds or other obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States.

"(h) In addition to establishing the requirements specified in subsection (e), the Secretary is authorized to make such rules and regulations, to enter into such agreements, and to adopt such procedures as he may deem necessary or desirable to carry out the provisions of this section.

"(i)(1) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, including such sums as may be necessary to make interest reduction payments under contracts entered into under this section. The aggregate amount of contracts to make such payments shall not exceed amounts approved in appropriation Acts, and payments pursuant to such contracts shall not exceed $75,000,000 per annum prior to July 1, 1969, which maximum dollar amount shall be increased by $100,000,000 on July 1, 1969, and by $125,000,000 on July 1, 1970.

"(2) Not more than 20 per centum of the total amount of interest reduction payments authorized to be contracted to be made pursuant to appropriation Acts shall be contracted to be made with respect to families, occupying rental housing projects assisted under this section; whose incomes at the time of the initial renting of the projects exceed 135 per centum of the maximum income limits which can be established in the area, pursuant to the limitations prescribed in sections 2(2) and 15(7)(b)(ii) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings, but the income of such families at the time of the initial renting of the projects shall in no case exceed 90 per centum of the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with mortgages insured under section 221(d)(3) which bear interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of section 221(d)(5). The limitations prescribed in this paragraph shall be administered by the Secretary so as to accord a preference to those families whose incomes are within the lowest practicable limits for obtaining rental accommodations in projects assisted under this section. The Secretary shall report annually to the respective Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives with respect to the income levels of families living in projects assisted under this section.

"(j)(1) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure a mortgage (including advances on such mortgage during construction) which meets the requirements of this subsection. Commitments for the insurance of such mortgages may be issued by the Secretary prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe.

"(2) As used in this subsection—

"(A) the terms 'family' and 'families' shall have the same meaning as in section 221;

"(B) the term 'elderly or handicapped families' shall have the same meaning as in section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959; and

"(C) the terms 'mortgage', 'mortgagee', and 'mortgagor' shall have the same meaning as in section 201.

"(3) To be eligible for insurance under this subsection, a mortgage shall meet the requirements specified in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(3) of section 221, except as such requirements are modified by this subsection. In the case of a project financed with a mortgage insured under this subsection which involves a mortgagor other than a cooperative or a private nonprofit corporation or association and which is sold to a cooperative or a nonprofit corporation or association, the Secretary is further authorized to insure under this subsection a mortgage given by such purchaser in an amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property at the time of purchase, which value shall be based upon a mortgage amount on which the debt service can be met from the income of the property when operated on a nonprofit basis, after payment of all operating expenses, taxes, and required reserves.

"(4) A mortgage to be insured under this subsection shall—

"(A) be executed by a private mortgagor eligible under subsection (d)(3) or (e) of section 221;

"(B) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charges, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the mortgage market; and

"(C) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(5) The property or project shall—

"(A) comply with such standards and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe to establish the acceptability of the property for mortgage insurance and may include such nondwelling facilities as the Secretary deems adequate and appropriate to serve the occupants and the surrounding neighborhood: Provided, That the project shall be predominantly residential and any nondwelling facility included in the mortgage shall be found by the Secretary to contribute to the economic feasibility of the project, and the Secretary shall give due consideration to the possible effect of the project on other business enterprises in the community: Provided further, That, in the case of a project designed primarily for occupancy by elderly or handicapped families, the project may include related facilities for use by elderly or handicapped families, including cafeterias or dining halls, community rooms, workshops, infirmaries, or other inpatient or outpatient health facilities, and other essential service facilities;

"(B) include five or more dwelling units; and

"(C) be designed primarily for use as a rental project to be occupied by lower income families or by elderly or handicapped families: Provided, That lower income persons who are less than sixty-two years of age shall be eligible for occupancy in such a project, but not more than 10 per centum of the dwelling units in any such project shall be available for occupancy by such persons.

"(6) With the approval of the Secretary, the mortgagor may sell the individual dwelling units to lower income or elderly or handicapped purchasers. The Secretary may consent to the release of the mortgagor from his liability under the mortgage and the credit instrument secured thereby, or consent to the release of parts of the mortgaged property from the lien of the mortgage, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, and the mortgage may provide for such release.

"(k) As used in this section the term 'tenant' includes a member of a cooperative; the term 'rental housing project' includes a cooperative housing project; and the terms 'rental' and 'rental charge' mean, with respect to members of a cooperative, the charges under the occupancy agreements between such members and the cooperative.

"(l) The Secretary shall from time to time allocate and transfer to the Secretary of Agriculture, for use (in accordance with the terms and conditions of this section) in rural areas and small towns, a reasonable portion of the total authority to contract to make periodic interest reduction payments as approved in appropriation Acts under subsection (i).

"(m) In determining the income of any person for the purposes of this section, there shall be deducted an amount equal to $300 for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of such person and living with such family, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of such person or his family."

(b)(1) Section 212(a) of the National Housing Act is amended by striking out "or 232" in the first sentence of the second paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof ", 232, or 236".

(2) Section 227(a) of such Act is amended by striking out "or (viii) under section 234(d)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(viii) under section 234(d), or (ix) under section 236".

(3) Section 227(c) of such Act is amended by striking out "or section 233(b)(2)" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "section 233, or section 236".

(c) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, to transfer to section 236(j) of the National Housing Act the insurance of a mortgage which has not been finally endorsed for insurance under section 221(d)(3) of such Act and which has been approved for the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of section 221(d)(5) of such Act.

(d) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, to insure under section 236(j) of the National Housing Act a mortgage meeting the requirements of such section which is given to refinance a mortgage loan made under section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959: Provided, That the application for such insurance is filed with the Secretary on or before the date of project completion, or within such reasonable time thereafter as the Secretary may permit.

(e)(1) Section 101(d) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "In determining the income of any tenant for the purposes of this section, there shall be deducted an amount equal to $300 for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of such tenant and living with such tenant, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of such tenant."

(2) Section 101(g) of such Act is amended by striking out "or section 231(c)(3)" and inserting in lieu thereof ", 231(c)(3), or section 236".

(3) Section 101(j)(1) of such Act is amended—

(A) by striking out "and" at the end of subparagraph (B);

(B) by striking out the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and inserting in lieu thereof "; and"; and

(C) by inserting after subparagraph (C) a new subparagraph as follows:

"(D) a private nonprofit corporation or other private nonprofit legal entity, a limited dividend corporation or other limited divided legal entity, or a cooperative housing corporation, which is assisted under section 236 of the National Housing Act and which has been approved for receiving the benefits of this section: Provided, That payments shall not be made with respect to more than 20 per centum of the dwelling units in any property so financed."

(f) Section 207 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 is amended—

(1) by inserting in the heading "AND SECTION 236" immediately after "SECTION 221";

(2) by inserting "or section 236" after "section 221" each place it appears;

(3) by inserting "or 'section 236'" after "'section 221'" in subsection (a); and

(4) by inserting ", Government National Mortgage Association," immediately after "Federal Housing Administration" in subsection (c).

(g) The first sentence of section 305(i) of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "or (3)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(3)"; and

(2) by inserting after "221(e)" the following: ", or (4) a mortgage insured under section 236".

RENT SUPPLEMENT PROGRAM

SEC. 202. (a) Section 101(a) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by striking out everything after the word "exceed" the second time the word appears in the third sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "$150,000,000 per annum prior to July 1, 1969, which maximum dollar amount shall be increased by $40,000,000 on July 1, 1969, and by $100,000,000 on July 1, 1970."

(b) Section 101(b) of such Act is amended by inserting after the first sentence the following: "Such term also includes a private nonprofit corporation or other private nonprofit legal entity, a limited dividend corporation or other limited dividend legal entity, or a cooperative housing corporation, which is the owner of a rental or cooperative housing project financed under a State or local program providing assistance through loans, loan insurance, or tax abatement and which prior to completion of construction or rehabilitation is approved for receiving the benefits of this section."

PART B—LOW-RENT PUBLIC HOUSING

INCREASED LOW-RENT PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORIZATION

SEC. 203. (a) Section 10(e) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by striking out "$366,250,000 per annum, which limit shall be increased by $47,000,000 on the date of enactment of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, and by further amounts of $47,000,000 on July 1 in each of the years 1966, 1967, and 1968, respectively," in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "$554,250,000 per annum, which limit shall be increased by $100,000,000 on the date of enactment of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and by further amounts of $150,000,000 on July 1 in each of the years 1969 and 1970,".

(b) Section 20 of such Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "not to exceed $1,500,000,000" in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "which shall not, unless authorized by the President, exceed $1,500,000,000"; and

(2) by inserting after the first sentence the following: "For the purpose of determining obligations incurred to make loans pursuant to this Act against any limitation otherwise applicable with respect to such loans, the Secretary shall estimate the maximum amount to be loaned at any one time pursuant to loan agreements then outstanding with public housing agencies."

UPGRADING MANAGEMENT AND SERVICES IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS

SEC. 204. Section 15 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(10) The Secretary is authorized to enter into contracts to make grants to public housing agencies to assist, where necessary, in financing tenant services for families living in low-rent housing projects. In making such contracts and grants, the Secretary shall give preference to programs providing for the maximum feasible participation of the tenants in the development and operation of such tenant services. For purposes of this paragraph the term 'tenant services' includes the following services and activities for families living in low-rent housing projects: counseling on household management, housekeeping, budgeting, money management, child care, and similar matters; advice as to resources for job training and placement, education, welfare, health, and other community services; services which are directly related to meeting tenant needs and providing a wholesome living environment; and referral to appropriate agencies when necessary for the provision of such services. To the maximum extent available and appropriate, existing public and private agencies in the community shall be used for the provision of such services. There are authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of this paragraph not to exceed $15,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $30,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amount so appropriated shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this paragraph but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970."

PURCHASE OF UNITS BY TENANTS

SEC. 205. Section 15(9) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by striking out "which is suitable by reason of its detached or semidetached construction" and inserting in lieu thereof ", if the property to be acquired is sufficiently separable from other property retained by the public housing agency to make it suitable".

PUBLIC HOUSING IN INDIAN AREAS

SEC. 206. (a) Section 1 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by striking out "urban and rural nonfarm" in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "urban, rural nonfarm, and Indian".

(b) Section 10(a) of such Act is amended by inserting "or Indian" after "nonfarm" in the fourth proviso.

LIMITATION ON HIGH-RISE STRUCTURES IN LOW-RENT PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS

SEC. 207. Section 15 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by adding at the end thereof (after the new paragraph added by section 204 of this Act) the following new paragraph:

"(11) Except in the case of housing predominantly for the elderly, upon enactment of this paragraph, the Secretary shall not approve high-rise elevator projects for families with children unless he makes a determination that there is no practical alternative."

SALE TO TENANTS OF LOW-RENT HOUSING IN PRIVATE ACCOMMODATIONS

SEC. 208. (a) Section 23(f) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by inserting "(1)" after "shall not apply to", and by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: ", or (2) housing purchased (or in the process of purchase) by the public housing agency for resale to tenants as provided in subsection (g)".

(b) Section 23 of such Act is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(g) To the extent authorized in contracts entered into by the Authority with a public housing agency, such agency may purchase any structure containing one or more dwelling units leased to provide low-rent housing in private accommodations under this section for the purpose of reselling the structure to the tenant or tenants of the structure or to a group of such tenants occupying units aggregating in value at least 80 per centum of the structure's total value. Any such resale shall be made subject to such terms and conditions (including provisions for deferment of the required downpayment and for elimination of or adjustments in the required interest payments during a temporary period) as may be necessary to enable the tenants involved to make the purchase without undue financial hardship."

ADDITIONAL SUBSIDY FOR LARGE FAMILIES AND FAMILIES OF UNUSUALLY LOW INCOME

SEC. 209. (a) Section 2(2) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following new sentences: "The term 'large families' means families which include four or more minors. The term 'families of unusually low income' means families with incomes below the income level established by the public housing agency, as approved by the Authority, who could not be housed without the additional subsidy authorized under section 10(a)."

(b) The first proviso in section 10(a) of such Act is amended—

(1) by inserting after "an elderly family," the following: "or a large family, or a family of unusually low income,";

(2) by striking out "to lease the dwelling unit to an elderly or displaced family at a rental it could afford and"; and

(3) by striking out ", and, in the case of displaced families, if and to the extent that the average or estimated average rental for units so occupied by such families was less than the rental which the Authority determines, on the basis of the average or estimated average project rentals, would have been established in leasing the units to families which were neither elderly nor similiarly displaced".

PROHIBITION AGAINST CERTAIN LIMITATIONS ON TYPES OR CATEGORIES OF LOW-RENT HOUSING IN PRIVATE ACCOMMODATIONS

SEC. 210. The first sentence of section 23(d) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: "(and no limitation not specifically provided for in this section shall be imposed by regulations of the Authority on the types or categories of structures or dwelling units, qualifying under subsection (a)(3) and approved under subsection (c), which may be so used in any community)".

TITLE III—FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION INSURANCE OPERATIONS

MORTAGE INSURANCE PREMUIMS FOR SERVICEMEN AND THEIR WIDOWS

SEC. 301. Section 222 of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "Secretary of the Treasury" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "Secretary of Transportation"; and

(2) by adding at the end thereof two new subsections as follows:

"(f) The Secretary is authorized to transfer to this section the insurance on any mortgage covering a single-family dwelling or a one-family unit in a condominium project insured under this Act, if the mortgage indebtedness thereof has been assumed by a serviceman who at the time of assumption is the owner of the property and either occupies the property or certifies that his failure to do so is the result of his military assignment, or, in the case of the United States Coast Guard, other assignment.

"(g) Where a serviceman dies while on active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States or in the United States Coast Guard, leaving a surviving widow as owner of the property, the periods of ownership by the serviceman (within the meaning of subsection (c) of this section) shall extend for two years beyond the date of the serviceman's death or until the date the widow disposes of the property, whichever date occurs first. The Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of Transportation, as the case may be, shall notify such widow promptly following the serviceman's death of the additional costs to be borne by the mortgagor following termination of the two-year period."

MODIFICATIONS IN TERMS OF INSURED MORTGAGES COVERING MULTIFAMILY PROJECTS

SEC. 302. Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 238 (as added by section 104 of this Act) the following new section:

"MODIFICATIONS IN TERMS OF INSURED MORTGAGES COVERING MULTIFAMILY PROJECTS

"SEC. 239. (a) The Secretary shall not consent to any request for an extension of the time for curing a default under any mortgage covering multifamily housing, as defined in the regulations of the Secretary, or for a modification of the terms of such mortgage, except in conformity with regulations prescribed by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of this section. Such regulations shall require, as a condition to the granting of any such request, that, during the period of such extension or modification, any part of the rents or other funds derived by the mortgagor from the property covered by the mortgage which is not required to meet actual and necessary expenses arising in connection with the operation of such property, including amortization charges under the mortgage, be held in trust by the mortgagor and distributed only with the consent of the Secretary; except that the Secretary may provide for the granting of consent to any request for an extension of the time for curing a default under any mortgage covering multifamily housing, or for a modification of the terms of such mortgage, without regard to the foregoing requirements, in any case or class of cases in which an exemption from such requirement does not (as determined by the Secretary) jeopardize the interests of the United States.

"(b) Whoever, as an owner of a property which is security for a mortgage described in subsection (a), or as a stockholder of a corporation owning such property, or as a beneficial owner under any business organization or trust owning such property, or as an officer, director, or agent of any such owner, (1) willfully uses or authorizes the use of any part of the rents or other funds derived from property covered by such mortgage in violation of a regulation prescribed by the Secretary under subsection (a), or (2) if such mortgage is determined, as provided in subsection (a), to be exempt from the requirement of any such regulation or is not otherwise covered by such regulation, willfully and knowingly uses or authorizes the use, while such mortgage is in default, of any part of the rents or other funds derived from the property covered by such mortgage for any purpose other than to meet actual and necessary expenses arising in connection with such property (including amortization charges under the mortgage), shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

CONDOMINIUMS

SEC. 303. (a) Section 234(c) of the National Housing Act is amended by striking out "rental housing, and (3)" in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "rental housing: Provided, That a one-family unit in a multifamily project involving eleven or less units shall be eligible for insurance without having been covered by a project mortgage, and (3)".

(b) Section 234(c) of such Act is further amended by striking out "(iii) 75 per centum" in the third sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "(iii) 80 per centum".

(c) Section 234(f) of such Act is amended by striking "five" and inserting in lieu thereof "four".

INSURANCE OF LOANS FOR PURCHASE OF FEE SIMPLE TITLE FROM LESSORS

SEC. 304. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 239 (as added by section 302 of this Act) the following new section:

"PURCHASE OF FEE SIMPLE TITLE FROM LESSORS

"SEC. 240. (a) The Secretary is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, to make commitments to insure and to insure loans made by financial institutions for the purpose of financing purchasers by homeowners of the fee simple title to property on which their homes are located.

"(b) As used in this section—

"(1) the term 'financial institution' means a lender approved by the Secretary as eligible for insurance under section 2 or a mortgagee approved under section 203(b)(1); and

"(2) the term 'homeowner' means a lessee under a long-term ground lease.

"(c) To be eligible for insurance under this section, a loan shall—

"(1) relate to property on which there is located a dwelling designed principally for a one-, two-, three-, or four-family residence;

"(2) not exceed the cost of purchasing the fee simple title, or $10,000 per family unit, whichever is the lesser;

"(3) be, limited to an amount which when added to any outstanding indebtedness related to the property (as determined by the Secretary) creates a total outstanding indebtedness which does not exceed the applicable mortgage limit prescribed in section 203(b);

"(4) bear interest at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet market conditions, and such other charges (including service charges and appraisal, inspection, and other fees) as may be approved by the Secretary;

"(5) have a maturity satisfactory to the Secretary, but not to exceed twenty years from the beginning of amortization of the loan or three-quarters of the remaining economic life of the home, whichever is the lesser; and

"(6) comply with such other terms, conditions, and restrictions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(d) The provisions of paragraphs (3), (5), (6), (7), (8), and (10) of section 220(h) shall be applicable to loans insured under this section and, as applied to loans insured under this section, references in those paragraphs to 'home improvement loans' and 'this subsection' shall be construed to refer to loans under this section."

(b) Section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C. 1464(c)) is amended by adding immediately after the next to the last paragraph the following new paragraph:

"Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, an association may invest in loans or obligations, or interests therein, as to which the association has the benefit of insurance under section 240 of the National Housing Act, or of a commitment or agreement therefor, and such investments shall not be included in any percentage of assets or other percentage referred to in this subsection."

EXTENSION OF SECTION 221(d)(2) SALES HOUSING PROGRAM FOR TWO-, THREE-, AND FOUR-FAMILY RESIDENCES TO ALL LOW AND MODERATE INCOME FAMILIES

REMOVAL OF DIVIDEND RESTRICTION FOR NONDWELLING FACILITIES IN SECTION 221 PROJECTS

SEC. 306. Section 221(f) of the National Housing Act is amended by striking out in the first sentence all that follows the word "mortgage" in the proviso and inserting in lieu thereof ": Provided further, That, in the case of a mortgage which bears interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5), the provisions of section 220(d)(3)(B)(iv) shall only apply if the mortgagor waives the right to receive dividends on its equity investment in the portion thereof devoted to commercial facilities."

SUPPLEMENTAL LOAN PROGRAM FOR PROJECTS FINANCED WITH FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION INSURED MORTGAGES

SEC. 307. Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 240 (as added by section 304 of this Act) the following new section:

"SUPPLEMENTAL LOANS FOR MULTIFAMILY PROJECTS

"SEC. 241. (a) With respect to a multifamily project or group practice facility covered by a mortgage insured under any section or title of this Act, the Secretary is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, to make commitments to insure, and to insure, supplemental loans (including advances during construction or improvement) made by financial institutions approved by the Secretary. As used in this section, 'supplemental loan' means a loan, advance of credit, or purchase of an obligation representing a loan or advance of credit made for the purpose of financing improvements or additions to such project or facility: Provided, That a loan involving a nursing home covered by a mortgage insured under section 232 or a loan involving a group practice facility covered by a mortgage insured under title XI may also be made for the purpose of financing equipment to be used in the operation of such nursing home or facility.

"(b) To be eligible for insurance under this section, a supplemental loan shall—

"(1) be limited to 90 per centum of the amount which the Secretary estimates will be the value of such improvements, additions, and equipment, except that such amount when added to the outstanding balance of the mortgage covering the project or facility, shall not exceed the maximum mortgage amount insurable under the section or title pursuant to which the mortgage covering such project or facility is insured;

"(2) have a maturity satisfactory to the Secretary but not to exceed the remaining term of the mortgage;

"(3) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charges, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet market conditions;

"(4) be secured in such manner as the Secretary may require;

"(5) be governed by the labor standards provisions of section 212 that are applicable to the section or title pursuant to which the mortgage covering the project or facility is insured; and

"(6) contain such other terms, conditions, and restrictions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(c) The provisions of subsections (d), (e), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), and (n) of section 207 shall be applicable to loans insured under this section, except that (1) all references to the term 'mortgage' shall be construed to refer to the term 'loan' as used in this section, (2) loans involving projects covered by a mortgage insured under section 213 that is the obligation of the Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund shall be insured under and shall be the obligation of such fund, and (3) loans involving projects covered by a mortgage insured under section 236 shall be insured under and shall be the obligation of the Special Risk Insurance Fund."

SEC. 310. Section 1002(d)(1) of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "seven" and inserting in lieu thereof "ten"; and

(2) by striking out the semicolon and inserting in lieu thereof the following: ": Provided, That the Secretary may agree to a reasonable extension of the term of a mortgage, the maturity of which is limited by this paragraph to not more than ten years, if he determines that unusual or unforeseen circumstances make such extension necessary to avoid undue hardship to the mortgagor;".

REHABILITATED MULTIFAMILY PROJECTS IN URBAN RENEWAL AREAS

SEC. 311. (a) Section 220(d)(3)(B)(ii) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting immediately before the semicolon at the end thereof ": Provided further, That the mortgage may involve the financing of the purchase of property which has been rehabilitated by a local public agency with Federal assistance pursuant to section 110(c)(8) of the Housing Act of 1949, and, in such case the foregoing limitations upon the amount of the mortgage shall be based upon the appraised value of the property as of the date the mortgage is accepted for insurance".

(b) Section 221(d)(3)(iii) of such Act is amended by inserting immediately before the colon at the end of the first proviso ": Provided further, That the mortgage may involve the financing of the purchase of property which has been rehabilitated by a local public agency with Federal assistance pursuant to section 110(c)(8) of the Housing Act of 1949, and, in such case, the amount of the mortgage shall not exceed the appraised value of the property as of the date the mortgage is accepted for insurance".

MISCELLANEOUS HOUSING INSURANCE

SEC. 312. (a) Section 223 of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by striking out so much of subsection (a) as precedes paragraph (1) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(a) Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this Act and without regard to limitations upon eligibility contained in any section or title of this Act, the Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure or make commitments to insure under any section or title of this Act any mortgage—":

(2) by striking out "applicable to loans insured under section 203, 207, 213, 220, 221, 222, 231, 232, or 233, as the case may be" in the first and second provisos of subsection (a)(7) and inserting in lieu thereof "prescribed under the applicable section or title of this Act";

(3) by striking out "this title" each time it appears in subsection (c) and inserting in lieu thereof "this Act";

(4) by striking out "title I, title II, title VI, title VII, title VIII, or title IX" in subsection (c) and inserting in lieu thereof "any section or title of this Act"; and

(5) by striking out "(except that in any case the payment of insurance shall be in debentures)" at the end of subsection (c).

(b) Section 223(d) of such Act is amended by striking out all that follows "as he may prescribe," and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "insure under the same section as the original mortgage a loan by the mortgagee in an amount not exceeding the excess of the foregoing expenses over the project income. Such loan shall (1) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance) at not to exceed the per centum per annum currently permitted for mortgages insured under the section under which it is to be insured, (2) be secured in such manner as the Secretary shall require, and (3) be limited to a term not exceeding the unexpired term of the original mortgage. The Secretary is authorized to collect a premium charge for insurance of loans pursuant to this subsection in an amount computed at the same premium rate as is applicable to the original mortgage. This premium shall be payable in cash or in debentures of the insurance fund under which the loan is insured at par plus accrued interest. In the event of a failure of the borrower to make any payment due under such loan or under the original mortgage, both the loan and original mortgage shall be considered in default, and if such default continues for a period of thirty days, the lender shall be entitled to insurance benefits, computed in the same manner as for the original mortgage, except that in determining the interest rate under section 224 for the debentures representing the portion of the claim applicable to the loan, the date of the commitment to insure the loan and the insurance date of the loan shall be taken into consideration rather than the commitment or insurance date for the original mortgage."

SUPPLEMENTARY LOANS FOR COOPERATIVE HOUSING PURCHASED FROM THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

SEC. 313. Section 213(j) of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by inserting after the first sentence of paragraph (1) the following sentence: "The Secretary is further authorized to make commitments to insure and to insure supplementary cooperative loans (including advances during construction or improvement) with respect to any property purchased from the Federal Government by a nonprofit corporation or trust of the character described in paragraph (1) of subsection (a), if the property is covered by an uninsured mortgage representing a part of the purchase price."; and

(2) by adding before the semicolon at the end of paragraph (2)(B) the following: "; except that, in the case of repairs or improvements to a property covered by an uninsured mortgage dated more than twenty years prior to the date of the commitment to insure, of such magnitude that the Secretary deems them to be a major rehabilitation or modernization of such property, the loan may have a maturity date up to ten years in excess of the remaining term of the uninsured mortgage".

EQUIPMENT IN NURSING HOMES

SEC. 314. Section 232 of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by striking out subsection (b)(2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(2) the term 'mortgage' means a first mortgage on real estate in fee simple, or on the interest of either the lessor or lessee thereof (A) under a lease for not less than ninety-nine years which is renewable, or (B) under a lease having a period of not less than fifty years to run from the date the mortgage was executed. The term 'first mortgage' means such classes of first liens as are commonly given to secure advances (including but not limited to advances during construction) on, or the unpaid purchase price of, real estate under the laws of the State in which the real estate is located, together with the credit instrument or instruments, if any, secured thereby, and any mortgage may be in the form of one or more trust mortgages or mortgage indentures or deeds of trust, securing notes, bonds, or other credit instruments, and, by the same instrument or by a separate instrument, may create a security interest in initial equipment, whether or not attached to the realty. The term 'mortgagor' shall have the meaning set forth in section 207(a) of this Act.":

(2) by striking out so much of subsection (d) as precedes paragraph (1) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(d) In order to carry out the purposes of this section, the Secretary is authorized to insure any mortgage which covers a new or rehabilitated nursing home, including equipment to be used in its operation, subject to the following conditions:"; and

(3) by striking out "when the proposed improvements are completed" before the period at the end of subsection (d)(2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: ", including equipment to be used in the operation of the nursing home, when the proposed improvements are completed and the equipment is installed".

FLEXIBLE INTEREST RATES FOR CERTAIN FHA INSURANCE PROGRAMS

SEC. 315. Section 3(a) of the Act entitled "An Act to amend chapter 37 of title 38 of the United States Code with respect to the veterans' home loan program, to amend the National Housing Act with respect to interest rates on insured mortgages, and for other purposes", approved May 7, 1968, is amended by inserting "235(j)(2)(C), 236(j)(4)(B), 240(c)(4), 241(b)(3), 242(d)(3)(B)," after "234(f),".

FHA SECTION 221(H) PROGRAM

SEC. 316. (a) Section 221(h)(2)(A) of the National Housing Act is amended to read as follows:

"(A) be executed by a private nonprofit corporation or association, approved by the Secretary, for financing the purchase and rehabilitation (with the intention of subsequent resale) of property comprising one or more tracts or parcels, whether or not contiguous, upon which there is located deteriorating or substandard housing consisting of (i) four or more single-family dwellings of detached, semidetached, or row construction, or (ii) four or more one-family units in a structure or structures for which a plan of family unit ownership approved by the Secretary is established;".

(b) Section 221(h) of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof (after the new paragraph added by section 101(c)(3) of this Act) two new paragraphs as follows:

"(7) Where the Secretary has approved a plan of family unit ownership, the terms 'single-family dwelling', 'single-family dwellings', 'individual dwelling', and 'individual dwellings' shall mean a family unit or family units, together with the undivided interest (or interests) in the common areas and facilities.

"(8) For purposes of this subsection, the terms 'single-family dwelling' and 'single-family dwellings' (except for purposes of paragraph (7)) shall include a two-family dwelling which has been approved by the Secretary if one of the units is to be occupied by the owner."

HOUSING IN OUTLYING AREAS

SEC. 317. Section 203(i) of the National Housing Act is amended by striking out "not in excess of $12,500" and inserting in lieu thereof "not in excess of $13,500".

SEASONAL HOMES

SEC. 318. Section 203 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(m) The Secretary is authorized to insure under this section any mortgage meeting the requirements of subsection (b) of this section, except as modified by this subsection. To be eligible, the mortgage shall involve a principal obligation not in excess of $15,000 and not in excess of 75 per centum of the appraised value of the property, as of the date the mortgage is accepted for insurance. The mortgage shall cover a dwelling for single-family occupancy which is approved for mortgage insurance prior to the beginning of construction. The dwelling need not be designed for year-round occupancy, but it shall (1) meet standards prescribed by the Secretary, and (2) be located in an area where the Secretary finds it is not practicable to obtain conformity with many of the requirements essential to the insuring of mortgages on housing in built-up urban areas. The development of the property with respect to which the mortgage is executed shall be consistent with the conservation of water and other natural resources of the area, and such property shall be an acceptable risk, giving consideration to the economic potential of the area in which the dwelling is located and the contribution that the housing will make toward improving the area. The Secretary may suspend the issuance of commitments under this subsection for the insurance of mortgages secured by properties situated in any area, whenever he determines that (i) there is a serious and unusual shortage of mortgage funds for residential construction in such area, (ii) such insurance would affect materially and adversely the availability of mortgage funds for residential construction in such area, and (iii) such suspension would not have an adverse impact upon the balanced economic development of the area."

TITLE IV—GUARANTEES FOR FINANCING NEW COMMUNITY LAND DEVELOPMENT

CITATION

SEC. 401. This title may be referred to as the "New Communities Act of 1968".

PURPOSE

SEC. 402. It is the purpose of this title, by facilitating the enlistment of private capital in new community development, to encourage the development of new communities that—

(1) contribute to the general betterment of living conditions through the improved quality of community development made possible by a consistent design for the provision of homes, commercial and industrial facilities, public and community facilities, and open spaces.

(2) make substantial contributions to the sound and economic growth of the areas in which they are located;

(3) provide needed additions to the general housing supply;

(4) provide opportunities for innovation in housing and community development technology and in land use planning;

(5) enlarge housing and employment opportunities by increasing the range of housing choice and providing new investment opportunities for industry and commerce;

(6) encourage the maintenance and growth of a diversified local homebuilding industry; and

(7) include, to the greatest extent feasible, the employment of new and improved technology, techniques, materials, and methods in housing construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance under programs administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development with a view to reducing the cost of such construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance, and stimulating the increased and sustained production of housing under such programs.

GUARANTEE AUTHORITY

SEC. 403. To carry out the purposes of this title the Secretary is authorized to guarantee, and enter into commitments to guarantee, the bonds, debentures, notes, and other obligations issued by new community developers to help finance new community development projects. The Secretary may make such guarantees and enter into such commitments, subject to the limitations contained in sections 404 and 405, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, taking into account (1) the large initial capital investment required to finance sound new communities, (2) the extended period before initial returns on this type of investment can be expected, (3) the irregular pattern of cash returns characteristic of such investment, and (4) the financial and security interests of the United States in connection with guarantees made under this title.

ELIGIBLE NEW COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 404. No guarantee or commitment to guarantee may be made under this title unless the Secretary has determined that—

(1) the proposed new community (A) will be economically feasible in terms of economic base or potential for growth, and (B) will contribute to the orderly growth and development of the area of which it is a part;

(2) there is a practicable plan (including appropriate time schedules) for financing the land acquisition and land development costs of the proposed new community and for improving and marketing the land which, giving due consideration to the public purposes of this title and the special problems involved in financing new communities, represents an acceptable financial risk to the United States;

(3) there is a sound internal development plan for the new community which (A) has received all governmental approvals required by State or local law or by the Secretary; and (B) is acceptable to the Secretary as providing reasonable assurance that the development will contribute to good living conditions in the area being developed, will be characterized by sound land use patterns, will include a proper balance of housing for familes of low and moderate income, and will include or be served by such shopping, school, recreational, tranportation, and other facilities as the Secretary deems satisfactory; and

(4) the internal development plan is consistent with a comprehensive plan which covers, or with comprehensive planning being carried on for, the area in which the land is situated, and which meets criteria established by the Secretary for such comprehensive plans or planning.

ELIGIBLE OBLIGATIONS

SEC. 405. (a) Any bond, debenture, note or other obligation guaranteed under this title shall—

(1) be issued by a new community developer, other than a public body, approved by the Secretary on the basis of financial, technical and administrative ability which demonstrates his capacity to carry out the proposed project;

(2) be issued to and held by investors approved by, or meeting requirements prescribed by, the Secretary, or if an offering to the public is contemplated, be underwritten upon terms and conditions approved by the Secretary;

(3) be issued to finance a program of land development (including acquisition or use of land) approved by the Secretary: Provided, That the Secretary shall through cost certification procedures, escrow or trusteeship requirements, or other means, insure that all proceeds from the sale of obligations guaranteed under this title are expended pursuant to such program;

(4) involve a principal obligation in an amount not to exceed the lesser of (A) 80 per centum of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the property upon completion of the land development or (B) the sum of 75 per centum of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the land before development and 90 per centum of his estimate of the actual cost of the land development;

(5) bear interest at a rate satisfactory to the Secretary, such interest to be exclusive of any service charges and fees that may be approved by the Secretary;

(6) contain repayment and maturity provisions satisfactory to the Secretary; and

(7) contain provisions which the Secretary shall prescribe with respect to the protection of the security interests of the United States (including subrogation provisions), liens and releases of liens, payment of taxes, and such other matters as the Secretary may, in his discretion, prescribe.

(b) The outstanding principal obligations guaranteed under this title with respect to a single new community development project shall at no time exceed $50,000,000.

FEES AND CHARGES

SEC. 406. The Secretary is authorized to establish and collect fees for guarantees made under this title and may make such charges as he considers reasonable for the analysis of development and financing plans and for appraisals and inspections related to new community development projects. On or before January 1, 1970, the Secretary shall make a report to the Congress concerning the fees and other charges under this title that he estimates will be adequate to provide income sufficient for a self-supporting program.

GUARANTEE FUND

SEC. 407. (a) To provide for the payment of any liabilities incurred as a result of guarantees made under this title, the Secretary is authorized to establish a revolving fund which shall be comprised of (1) receipts from fees and charges; (2) recoveries under security or subrogation rights or other rights, and any other receipts obtained in connection with such guarantees; and (3) such sums, which are hereby authorized to be appropriated, as may be required for program operations and nonadministrative expenses and to make any and all payments guaranteed under this title.

(b) The full faith and credit of the United States is pledged to the payment of all guarantees made under this title with respect to both principal and interest, including (1) interest, as may be provided for in the guarantee, accruing between the date of default under a guaranteed obligation and the payment in full of the guarantee, and (2) principal and interest due under any debentures issued by the Secretary toward payment of guarantees made under this title.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of law relating to the acquisition, handling, improvement, or disposal of real and other property by the United States, the Secretary shall have power, for the protection of the interests of the guarantee fund authorized under this section, to pay out of such fund all expenses or charges in connection with the acquisition, handling, improvement, or disposal of any property acquired by him under this title; and notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall also have power to pursue to final collection by way of compromise or otherwise all claims acquired by him in connection with any security, subrogation, or other rights obtained by him in carrying out this title.

(d) The aggregate of the outstanding principal obligations guaranteed under this title shall at no time exceed $250,000,000.

INCONTESTABILITY

SEC. 408. Any guarantee made by the Secretary under this title shall be conclusive evidence of the eligibility of the obligations for such guarantee, and the validity of any guarantee so made shall be incontestable in the hands of a qualified holder of the guaranteed obligation except for fraud or material misrepresentation on the part of such holder.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF SMALL BUILDERS

SEC. 409. The Secretary shall adopt such requirements as he deems necessary to assure that new community construction assisted under this title will encourage the maintenance of a diversified local homebuilding industry and broad participation by builders, particularly small builders.

LABOR

SEC. 410. All laborers and mechanics employed by contractors or subcontractors in land development assisted under section 403 shall be paid wages at rates not less than those prevailing on similar construction in the locality as determined by the Secretary of Labor in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act, as amended (40 U.S.C. 276a—276a–5). No assistance shall be extended under section 403 for land development without first obtaining adequate assurance that these labor s' ndards will be maintained upon the construction work involved in such development. The Secretary of Labor shall have, with respect to the labor standards specified in this section, the authority and functions set forth in Reorganization Plan Numbered 14 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1267), and section 2 of the Act of June 13, 1934 (40 U.S.C. 276c).

REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

SEC. 411. Nothing in this title shall be construed to exempt any real property that may be acquired and held by the Secretary as a result of the exercise of lien or subrogation rights from real property taxation to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed.

SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS

SEC. 412. (a) The Secretary is authorized to make supplementary grants to State and local public bodies and agencies carrying out new community assistance projects, as defined in section 415(c), if the Secretary determines that such grants are necessary or desirable for carrying out a new community development project approved for assistance under section 403, and that a substantial number of housing units for low and moderate income persons is to be made available through such development project.

(b) In no case shall any grant under this section exceed 20 per centum of the cost of the new community assistance project for which the grant is made; and in no case shall the total Federal contributions to the cost of such project be more than 80 per centum.

(c) In carrying out his authority under this section the Secretary shall consult with the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to new community assistance projects assisted by that Department, and he shall, for the purpose of subsection (b), accept that Department's certifications as to the cost of such projects.

(d) There are authorized to be appropriated for grants under this section not to exceed $5,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $25,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amounts so appropriated shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this subsection but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970.

GENERAL PROVISIONS AND RULES AND REGULATIONS

SEC. 413. In the performance of, and with respect to, the functions, powers, and duties vested in him by this title, the Secretary shall (in addition to any authority otherwise vested in him) have the functions, powers, and duties (including the authority to issue rules and regulations) set forth in section 402, except subsections (c)(2), (d), and (f), of the Housing Act of 1950: Provided, That subsection (a)(1) of section 402 shall not apply with respect to functions, powers, and duties under section 412 of this title.

AUDIT BY GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

SEC. 414. Insofar as they relate to any grants or guarantees made pursuant to this title, the financial transactions of recipients of Federal grants or of developers whose obligations are guaranteed by the United States pursuant to this title may be audited by the General Accounting Office under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Comptroller General of the United States. The representatives of the General Accounting Office shall have access to all books, account, records, reports, files, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to or in use by such developers or recipients of grants pertaining to such financial transactions and necessary to facilitate the audit.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 415. As used in this title—

(a) The term "land development" means the process of grading land, making, installing, or constructing water lines and water supply installations, sewer lines and sewage disposal installations, steam, gas, and electric lines and installations, roads, streets, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, storm drainage facilities, and other installations or work, whether on or off the site, which the Secretary deems necessary or desirable to prepare land for residential, commercial, industrial, or other uses, or to provide facilities for public or common use. The term "land development" shall not include any building unless it is (1) a building which is needed in connection with a water supply or sewage disposal installation or a steam, gas, or electric line or installation, or (2) a building, other than a school, which is to be owned and maintained jointly by the residents of the new community or is to be transferred to public ownership, but not prior to its completion.

(b) The term "actual costs" means the costs (exclusive of rebates or discounts) incurred by a new community developer in carrying out the land development assisted under this title. These costs may include amounts paid for labor, materials, construction contracts, land planning, engineers' and architects' fees, surveys, taxes, and interest during development, organizational and legal expenses, such allocation of general overhead expenses as are acceptable to the Secretary, and other items of expense incidental to development which may be approved by the Secretary. If the Secretary determines that there is an identity of interest between the new community developer and a contractor, there may be included as a part of actual costs an allowance for the contractor's profit in an amount deemed reasonable by the Secretary.

(c) The term "new community assistance projects" means projects assisted by grants made under section 702 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, section 306(a)(2) of the Consolidated Farmers Home Administration Act, or title VII of the Housing Act of 1961.

CONFORMING AMENDMENTS

SEC. 416. (a) Section 202(b)(4) of the Housing Amendments of 1955 is amended by adding before the period at the end of the second sentence "or under title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968".

(b) The first paragraph of section 24 of the Federal Reserve Act is amended by striking out all that follows "national banking association" in the fourth sentence and adding "may make loans or purchase obligations for land development which are secured by mortgages insured under title X of the National Housing Act or guaranteed under title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968.".

(c) The paragraph which, prior to the amendments made by this Act, was the next to last paragraph of section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Without regard to any other provision of this subsection, an association may invest in loans or obligations, or interests therein, as to which the association has the benefit of any guaranty under title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as now or hereafter in effect, or of a commitment or agreement therefor, and such investments shall not be included in any percentage of assets or other percentage referred to in this subsection."

TITLE V—URBAN RENEWAL

NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

SEC. 501. (a) Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after the title heading the following new subheading:

"PART A—URBAN RENEWAL PROJECTS, DEMOLITION PROGRAMS, AND CODE ENFORCEMENT PROGRAMS"

(b) Title I of such Act is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new part:

"PART B—NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

"PURPOSE AND AUTHORITY

"SEC. 131. (a) To facilitate more rapid renewal and development of urban areas on an effective scale, and to encourage more efficient and flexible utilization of public and private development opportunities by local communities in such areas, the Secretary is authorized to make financial assistance available under this title to local public agencies for undertakings and activities which are carried out under a neighborhood development program approved by him pursuant to this part.

"(b) A neighborhood development program shall consist of urban renewal project undertakings and activities in one or more urban renewal areas which are planned and carried out on the basis of annual increments in accordance with the provisions of this title for planning and carrying out urban renewal projects, except as modified by the provisions of this part.

"(c) No application for financial assistance in planning and carrying out a neighborhood development program shall be approved by the Secretary unless—

"(1) the governing body of the locality has, by resolution or ordinance, approved the proposed program and the annual increment covered by the application and authorized the filing of the application for financial assistance; and

"(2) the Secretary has concluded that there is the necessary capacity to carry out the undertakings and activities included under the program.

"FINANCIAL PROVISIONS

"SEC. 132. (a) Upon the approval of a neighborhood development program by the Secretary, the cost of any undertakings and activities authorized as part of the program shall be financed in accordance with the loan, capital grant, and project cost provisions of part A, except that—

"(1) net project cost may be calculated on the basis of costs incurred and proceeds derived for the account of the program during a specified twelve-month period, and may be recalculated for succeeding periods of twelve months to reflect additional costs and additional proceeds since the date of the last computation or recomputation; and

"(2) if property has been acquired but not disposed of prior to the computation or recomputation of net project cost, temporary loans made or secured under this title to finance undertakings or activities included in the program may remain outstanding until the property has been disposed of and the proceeds thereof, together with additional funds becoming available to the program, are sufficient to permit repayment of the loans.

"(b) In the event that gross project cost as computed for a specified twelve-month period is exceeded, with respect to that period, by the sum of (1) the sales price of land or other property sold, and (2) the imputed capital value of land or other property leased or retained by the local public agency in accordance with the provisions of the urban renewal plan, the local public agency shall pay to the Secretary two-thirds of the excess (or three-fourths in the case of a program on a three-fourths grant basis), which amount shall be available to the Secretary for grant payments under section 103.

"LOCAL GRANTS-IN-AID

"SEC. 133. (a) For the purpose of determining the eligibility of local grants-in-aid in connection with undertakings and activities carried out under a neighborhood development program, the three-year period referred to in the second paragraph of section 110(d) shall be deemed to be a period of three years prior to the authorization by the Secretary of the first contract for financial assistance under the program which includes the urban renewal area which is benefited by the public improvement or facility for which credit is claimed; and the seven-year period referred to in clause (1) of section 112(b) shall be deemed to be a period of seven years prior to the date of authorization by the Secretary of the first contract for financial assistance under the program which includes the urban renewal area which is benefited by the expenditures for which credit is claimed.

"(b) No portion of the cost of a public improvement or public facility (to the extent otherwise eligible) may be included as a local grant-in-aid in computing the gross project cost of an approved program for any twelve-month period—

"(1) prior to commencement of construction of the improvement or facility, or

"(2) in excess of the amount actually expended or obligated by contract.

"(c) The provisions of section 104 with respect to the pooling of local grants-in-aid among the various projects undertaken by a local public agency shall not be applicable with respect to any excess local grants-in-aid resulting from the urban renewal projects contained in a neighborhood development program.

"GENERAL PROVISIONS

"SEC. 134. (a) For purpose of this part—

"(1) the workable program requirement in section 101(c) shall apply to the authorization, rather than the execution, of any contract for loans or capital grants;

"(2) capital grants on a three-fourths basis may only be made under section 103(a)(2)(B);

"(3) the relocation requirements specified in section 105(c) shall apply to each annual increment of an approved program;

"(4) section 106(g) (relating to transient housing) shall apply to activities undertaken under approved programs, except that the determination as to need for transient housing shall be made with respect to any sale or lease of land for construction of such housing prior to such sale or lease; and

"(5) the requirement concerning demolition and removal of buildings and improvements stated in clause (A) of the sentence following paragraph (10) of section 110(c) shall apply to each annual increment of an approved program.

"(b) The approval by the Secretary of financial assistance for one or more annual increments of a neighborhood development program shall not be considered as obligating him to provide financial assistance for any subsequent annual increments.

"(c) The urban renewal plan referred to in section 110(b) may cover one or more of the urban renewal areas covered by a neighborhood development program and such plan may be modified from time to time to cover additional urban renewal areas added to the program. The Secretary may establish such requirements as he deems appropriate prescribing the scope and content of such plan, taking into consideration, among other matters, the degree of detail needed in the plan to properly and expeditiously carry out the activities and undertakings proposed in any annual increment of a neighborhood development program."

(c) Notwithstanding any requirement or condition to the contrary in section 6 or 20(i) of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Act of 1945 or in any other provision of law, the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency may plan and undertake neighborhood development programs under part B of title I of the Housing Act of 1949 (as added by this section), subject to all of the provisions of such Act of 1945 to the extent not inconsistent with such part B, and any such program shall be regarded as complying with the requirements of such sections 6 and 20(i) and of such other provision of law if it meets the applicable requirements established under such part B.

INCREASED AUTHORIZATION

SEC. 502. (a) Section 103(b) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out everything in the first sentence after "exceed" and inserting in lieu thereof "$7,600,000,000, which amount shall be increased by $1,400,000,000 on July 1, 1969".

(b) Section 103(b) of such Act is further amended by striking out "$250,000,000" in the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "$600,000,000".

REHABILITATION GRANTS

SEC. 503. (a) The second sentence of section 115(a) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out the words "a structure" and "such structure" and inserting in lieu thereof "real property" and "such real property", respectively.

(b) Section 115(b) of such Act is amended by striking out "$1,500" and inserting in lieu thereof "$3,000".

(c) Section 115(b) of such Act is amended by inserting "(1)" after "(a)", and by adding at the end thereof a new paragraph as follows:

"(2) In addition to the authority conferred by paragraph (1), and notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the Secretary is authorized, through the utilization of local public agencies where feasible, to make grants (payable from any grant funds provided under section 103(b)) to an individual or family, as described in subsection (b), to cover the cost of repairs and improvements necessary to make real property owned and occupied by such individual or family conform to public standards for decent, safe, and sanitary housing. No grants shall be made under this paragraph in the case of any property, unless (A) such property is in an area within a locality (other than an urban renewal or code enforcement area) which the governing body of the locality has determined, and so certifies to the Secretary, contains a substantial number of structures in need of such repairs and improvements, (B) there is in effect for the locality a workable program meeting the requirements of section 101(c), and (C) the area is definitely planned for rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement within a reasonable time, and such repairs and improvements to such property are consistent with the plan for rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement."

(d) Section 115 of such Act is further amended—

(1) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c) and inserting after subsection (a) a new subsection (b) as follows:

"(b) The Secretary is authorized to make grants (payable from any grant funds provided under section 103(b)), through the utilization of local public and private agencies where feasible, to an individual or family, as described in subsection (c), who owns and occupies real property which has been determined to be uninsurable because of physical hazards after an inspection pursuant to a statewide property insurance plan approved by the Secretary under title XII of the National Housing Act. Such grants may only be made to rehabilitate such property to the extent which the Secretary determines to be necessary to make it meet reasonable underwriting standards imposed by such plan."; and

(2) by striking out "subsection (b)" in subsection (a) and inserting in lieu thereof "subsection (c)".

REHABILITATION IN URBAN RENEWAL AREAS

(1) by inserting after "public body or agency," the following: "or other approved purchaser or lessee,";

(2) by inserting ", section 221(h)(1), section 235(j)(1), or section 236" after "or (d)(4)";

(3) by inserting "or lessee" after "a purchaser" and after "such purchaser", and "or lease" after "purchase";

(4) by striking out "rental or cooperative";

(5) by striking out "moderate" and inserting in lieu thereof "low or moderate"; and

(6) by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: "; Provided, That when property is made available under clause (1) to an approved purchaser or lessee other than a limited dividend corporation, nonprofit corporation or association, cooperative, or public body or agency, the Secretary shall assure that the benefits of this subsection will go to the occupant of the property rather than to such purchaser or lessee".

GRANTS FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING IN OPEN LAND PROJECTS

SEC. 506. Section 103(a)(1) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: ", except that he may contract for a grant in an amount not to exceed two-thirds of the difference between the proceeds from any land disposed of pursuant to section 107 and the fair value of the land without regard to such section".

URBAN RENEWAL LOAN CONTRACTS

SEC. 507. (a) Section 102(c) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended—

(1) by striking out "at interest rates lower than provided in the loan contract" in the first sentence; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence the following: ": Provided, That, if at any time during the undertaking of the project, the interest rate on such a loan from a source other than the Federal Government is greater than the rate at which funds could be made available under the Federal loan contract, the Secretary may make a supplemental grant to the local public agency in the amount of the difference between the interest cost from such sources and the interest cost at the contract rate, and no part of the amount of any such grant shall be required to be contributed as a part of the local grant-in-aid".

(b) Loan contracts outstanding on the date of enactment of this section may be amended to incorporate the provisions authorized by the amendment contained in subsection (a) without regard to the proviso in section 110(g) of the Housing Act of 1949.

PROJECT COMPLETION PRIOR TO DISPOSITION OF CERTAIN PROPERTY

SEC. 508. (a) Section 106 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(i) Upon a determination by the Secretary that (1) not more than 5 per centum of the total area of land acquired as part of an urban renewal project remains to be disposed of, (2) the local public agency does not expect to be able, due to circumstances beyond its control, to dispose of such land in the near future, (3) all other project activities are completed, and (4) the local public agency has agreed to dispose of or retain such land for uses in accordance with the urban renewal plan, the urban renewal project may be deemed completed, and the net project cost may be computed and the capital grant paid."

(b) Section 110(f) of such Act is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: "or for subsequent disposition or retention as provided under section 106(i)".

REHABILITATION LOANS

SEC. 509. (a) The first sentence of section 312(d) of the Housing Act of 1964 is amended to read as follows: "There is authorized to be appropriated not to exceed $150,000,000 for each fiscal year which shall constitute a revolving fund to be used by the Secretary in carrying out this section."

(b) Section 312(h) of such Act is amended by striking out "October 1, 1969" and inserting in lieu thereof "June 30, 1973".

(c) Section 312(a) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(a) The Secretary is authorized, through the utilization of local public and private agencies where feasible, to make loans as herein provided to the owners and tenants of property to finance the rehabilitation of such property. No loan shall be made under this section unless—

"(1)(A) the property is situated in an urban renewal area or an area in which a program of concentrated code enforcement activity is being carried out pursuant to section 117 of the Housing Act of 1949, and the rehabilitation is required to make the property conform to applicable code requirements or to carry out the objectives of the urban renewal plan for the area and, in addition, to generally improve the condition of the property; or

"(B) (i) the property is in an area (other than an area described in subparagraph (A)) which the governing body of the locality has determined, and so certifies to the Secretary, contains a substantial number of structures in need of rehabilitation, (ii) there is in effect for the locality a workable program meeting the requirements of section 101(c) of the Housing Act of 1949, (iii) the property is residential and owner-occupied, (iv) the property is in need of rehabilitation and is in violation of the local minimum housing or similar code, and (v) the area is definitely planned for rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement within a reasonable time, and the rehabilitation of such property is consistent with the plan for rehabilitation or code enforcement;

"(2) the applicant is unable to secure the necessary funds from other sources upon comparable terms and conditions; and

"(3) the loan is an acceptable risk taking into consideration the need for the rehabilitation, the security available for the loan, and the ability of the applicant to repay the loan."

(d) Section 312 of such Act is further amended—

(1) by inserting "or" after the semicolon at the end of paragraph (1)(B) in subsection (a) (as amended by subsection (c) of this section), and by inserting after such paragraph (1)(B) the following new subparagraph:

"(C)(i) the property has been determined to be uninsurable because of physical hazards after an inspection pursuant to a statewide property insurance plan approved by the Secretary under title XII of the National Housing Act, and (ii) the loan is made to the owner or tenant of the property to finance rehabilitation which the Secretary determines to be necessary to make the property meet reasonable underwriting standards;"; and

(2) by striking out "or" after "applicable codes" in subsection (b)(1) and inserting in lieu thereof a comma, and by inserting after "urban renewal plan" in such subsection ", or a statewide property insurance plan".

(e) Section 312(a) of such Act (as amended by the preceding provisions of this section) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this subsection, no loan with respect to residential property shall be made under this section to any person whose annual income, as determined pursuant to criteria and procedures established by the Secretary, exceeds the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with below-market interest rate mortgages insured (in the area involved) under section 221(d)(3) of the National Housing Act: Provided, That the provisions of this sentence shall not apply to property in the area of an urban renewal project or a code enforcement project for which the city or other local public body or agency is receiving financial assistance under title I of the Housing Act of 1949 if, prior to the date of enactment of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, such local public body or agency specifically developed plans for such project in reliance upon the availability of loans under this section."

DEMOLITION GRANTS

SEC. 510. (a) The first sentence of section 116(a) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by inserting after "unsound" the following: ", a harborage or potential harborage of rats,".

(b) Section 116(b) of such Act is amended by inserting after the comma at the end of clause (2) the following: "or will be consistent with a systematic rodent control program being undertaken in the neighborhood,".

AIR RIGHTS SITES IN URBAN RENEWAL AREAS

SEC. 511. (a) Section 110(c)(1)(iv) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out "for use for industrial developing" and inserting in lieu thereof "for use for the development of industrial or educational facilities".

(b) Section 110(c)(7) of such Act is amended by striking out "for industrial development" and inserting in lieu thereof "for the development of industrial or educational facilities".

LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING IN RESIDENTIAL URBAN RENEWAL AREAS

SEC. 512. Section 105(f) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended to read as follows:

"(f) A majority of the housing units provided in each community's total of such approved urban renewal projects as will be redeveloped for predominantly residential uses and which receive Federal recognition after the date of enactment of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 shall be standard housing units for low and moderate income families or individuals: Provided, That the units in each community's total of such approved urban renewal projects which are for low-income families or individuals shall constitute at least 20 per centum of the units in such projects, except that the Secretary may waive the requirement of this proviso in any community to the extent that units for low-income families and individuals are not needed. The Secretary shall promptly report any waiver under the proviso in the preceding sentence to the Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and the House of Representatives."

WORKABLE PROGRAM REQUIREMENT IN CASE OF INDIAN TRIBES

SEC. 513. Section 101(c) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by inserting after "1964" in the second proviso the following: "or, in the case of an Indian tribe, band, or nation, commencing January 1, 1970".

INTERIM ASSISTANCE FOR BLIGHTED AREAS

SEC. 514. Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after section 117 a new section as follows:

"INTERIM ASSISTANCE FOR BLIGHTED AREAS

"SEC. 118. Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the Secretary is authorized to enter into contracts (in an aggregate amount not to exceed $15,000,000 in any fiscal year) to make, and to make, grants as provided in this section (payable from any grant funds provided under section 103(b)) to cities, other municipalities, and counties for the purpose of assisting such localities in carrying our programs to alleviate harmful conditions in slum and blighted areas which are planned for substantial clearance, rehabilitation, or federally assisted code enforcement in the near future but in which some immediate public action is needed until clearance, rehabilitation, or code enforcement activities can be undertaken. Such grants shall not exceed two-thirds (or three-fourths in the case of any city, other municipality, or county having a population of fifty thousand or less according to the most recent decennial census) of the cost of planning and carrying out programs which may include (1) the repair of streets, sidewalks, parks, playgrounds, publicly owned utilities, and public buildings to meet needs consistent with the short-term continued use of the area prior to the undertaking of the contemplated clearance or upgrading activities, (2) the improvement of private properties to the extent needed to eliminate the most immediate dangers to public health and safety, (3) the demolition of structures determined to be structurally unsound or unfit for human habitation and which constitute a public nuisance and serious hazard to the public health and safety. (4) the establishment of temporary public playgrounds on vacant land within the area, and (5) the improvement of garbage and trash collection, street cleaning, and similar activities. The Secretary shall encourage, wherever feasible, the employment of otherwise unemployed or underemployed residents, of the area in carrying out the activities and undertakings assisted under this section. The provisions of sections 101(c), 106, and 114 shall be applicable to activities and undertakings assisted under this section to the same extent as if such activities and undertakings were being carried out in an urban renewal area as part of an urban renewal project."

UTILIZATION OF LOCAL PRIVATE NONPROFIT AGENCIES FOR REHABILITATION GRANTS IN CODE ENFORCEMENT AREAS

SEC. 515. Section 117 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by inserting the following before the period at the end thereof: ": Provided, That the Secretary may, in addition to authorizing a local public agency to make grants as prescribed in section 115, make such grants through the utilization of local private nonprofit agencies".

RELOCATION PAYMENTS

SEC. 516. Section 114(c) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended—

(1) by striking out the first sentence of paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "In addition to any amount under paragraph (1), a local public agency may pay to or on behalf of any displaced family, displaced individual sixty-two years of age or over, or displaced handicapped individual, monthly payments over a period not to exceed twenty-four months in an amount not to exceed $500 in the first twelve months and $500 in the second twelve months to assist such displaced family or individual to secure a decent, safe, and sanitary dwelling,";

(2) by striking out "relocation adjustment" in the second sentence of paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof "additional";

(3) by striking out the second proviso in paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: ": Provided further, That additional payments under this paragraph may be paid on a lump sum or other than monthly basis in cases in which the small size of the payments that would otherwise be required do not warrant a number of separate payments or in other cases in which other than monthly payments are determined warranted by the Secretary: And provided further, That no payment received under this paragraph shall be considered as income for the purpose of determining the eligibility or the extent of eligibility of any person for assistance under the Social Security Act or any other Federal Act"; and

(4) by inserting a new paragraph (3) as follows:

"(3) In addition to any amount under paragraph (1), a local public agency may make a payment to a displaced family or individual, who does not receive the additional payment authorized under paragraph (2) and who is the owner of real property which is acquired for a project assisted under this title and which is improved by a single- or two-family dwelling occupied by the owner for a period of not less than one year prior to the initiation of negotiations for the acquisition of such property. Such payment, not to exceed $5,000, shall be an amount which, when added to the acquisition payment, equals the average price required for a decent, safe, and sanitary dwelling of modest standards adequate in size to accommodate the displaced owner, reasonably accessible to public services and places of employment and available on the private market: Provided, That such payment may be made only to a displaced owner who purchases and occupies a dwelling within one year subsequent to the date on which he is required to move from the dwelling acquired for the project: Provided further, That no such payment may be made if the owner-occupant receives a payment required by the State law of eminent domain which is determined by the Secretary to have substantially the same purpose and effect as this paragraph and to be part of the cost of the project for which Federal financial assistance is available."

TITLE VI—URBAN PLANNING AND FACILITIES

COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING

SEC. 601. Section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954 is amended to read as follows:

"COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING

"SEC. 701. (a) In order to assist State and local governments in solving planning problems, including those resulting from the increasing concentration of population in metropolitan and other urban areas and the out-migration from and lack of coordinated development of resources and services in rural areas; to facilitate comprehensive planning for urban and rural development, including coordinated transportation systems, on a continuing basis by such governments; and to encourage such governments to establish and improve planning staffs and techniques on an areawide basis, and to engage private consultants where their professional services are deemed appropriate by the assisted governments, the Secretary is authorized to make planning grants to—

"(1) State planning agencies for the provision of planning assistance to (A) cities and other municipalities having a population of less than 50,000 according to the latest decennial census, and counties without regard to population: Provided, That grants shall be made under this paragraph for planning assistance to counties having a population of 50,000 or more, according to the latest decennial census, which are within metropolitan areas, only if (i) the Secretary finds that planning and plans for such county will be coordinated with the program of comprehensive planning, if any, which is being carried out for the metropolitan area of which the county is a part, and (ii) the aggregate amount of the grants made subject to this proviso does not exceed 15 per centum of the aggregate amount appropriated, after September 2, 1964, for the purposes of this section, (B) any group of adjacent communities, either incorporated or unincorporated, having a total population of less than 50,000 according to the latest decennial census and having common or related urban planning problems, (C) cities, other municipalities, and counties referred to in paragraph (3) of this subsection, and areas referred to in paragraph (4) of this subsection, and (D) Indian reservations;

"(2) State, metropolitan, and regional planning agencies for metropolitan or regional planning, and to cities, within metropolitan areas, for planning which is part of comprehensive metropolitan planning and which shall supplement and be coordinated with State, metropolitan, and regional planning;

"(3) (A) economic development districts designated by the Secretary of Commerce under title IV of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, and

"(B) cities, other municipalities, and counties which (i) are situated in redevelopment areas or economic development districts designated by the Secretary of Commerce under title IV of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, or (ii) have suffered substantial damage as a result of catastrophe which the President, pursuant to section 2(a) of the Act entitled 'An Act to authorize Federal assistance to States and local governments in major disasters, and for other purposes', approved September 30, 1950, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1855a), has determined to be a major disaster;

"(4) official governmental planning agencies for areas where rapid urbanization has resulted or is expected to result from the establishment or rapid and substantial expansion of a Federal installation, or for areas where rapid urbanization is expected to result on land developed or to be developed as a new community approved under section 1004 of the National Housing Act or title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968;

"(5) States for State and interstate comprehensive planning and for research and coordination activity related thereo, including technical and other assistance for the establishment and operation of intrastate and interstate planning agencies;

"(6) State planning agencies for assistance to district planning, or planning for areas within districts, carried on by or for district planning agencies;

"(7) metropolitan and regional planning agencies, with the approval of the State planning agency or (in States where no such planning agency exists) of the Governor of the State, for the provision of planning assistance within the metropolitan area or region to cities, other municipalities, counties, groups of adjacent communities, or Indian reservations described in clauses (A), (B), (C), and (D) of paragraph (1) of this subsection;

"(8) official governmental planning agencies for any area where there has occurred a substantial reduction in employment opportunities as the result of (A) the closing (in whole or in part) of a Federal installation, or (B) a decline in the volume of Government orders for the procurement of articles or materials produced or manufactured in such area;

"(9) tribal planning councils or other tribal bodies designated by the Secretary of the Interior for planning for an Indian reservation;

"(10) the various regional commissions established by the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 or under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 for comprehensive planning for the regions established under such Acts (or State agencies or instrumentalities participating in such planning); and

"(11) local development districts, certified under section 301 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965, for comprehensive planning for their entire areas, or for metropolitan planning, urban planning, county planning, or small municipality planning within such areas in the Appalachian region, and for planning for Appalachian regional programs.

Planning assisted under this section shall, to the maximum extent feasible, cover entire areas having common or related development problems. The Secretary shall encourage cooperation in preparing and carrying out plans among all interested municipalities, political subdivisions, public agencies, and other parties in order to achieve coordinated development of entire areas. To the maximum extent feasible, pertinent plans and studies already made for areas shall be utilized so as to avoid unnecessary repetition of effort and expense. Planning which may be assisted under this section includes the preparation of comprehensive transportation surveys, studies, and plans to aid in solving problems of traffic congestion, facilitating the circulation of people and goods in metropolitan and other areas and reducing transportation needs. Planning carried out with assistance under this section shall also include a housing element as part of the preparation of comprehensive land use plans, and this consideration of the housing needs and land use requirements for housing in each comprehensive plan shall take into account all available evidence of the assumptions and statistical basis upon which the projection of zoning, community facilities, and population growth is based, so that the housing needs of both the region and the local communities studied in the planning will be adequately covered in terms of existing and prospective inmigrant population growth. Funds available under this section shall be addition to and may be used jointly with funds available for planning surveys and investigations under other federally aided programs, and nothing contained in this section shall be construed as affecting the authority of the Secretary of Transportation under section 307 of title 23, United States Code.

"(b) A planning grant made under subsection (a) shall not exceed two-thirds of the estimated cost of the work for which the grant is made: Provided, That such a grant may be made for up to 75 per centum of such estimated cost when made for planning primarily for (1) redevelopment areas, local development districts, or economic development districts, or portions thereof, described in paragraph (3) (A) and (11) of subsection (a), (2) areas described in subsection (a)(8), and (B)(i) and paragraph (3) the various regions, as described in subsection (a)(10). All grants made under this section shall be subject to terms and conditions prescribed by the Secretary. No portion of any grant made under this section shall be used for the preparation of plans for specific public works. The Secretary is authorized, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3648 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, to make advance or progress payments on account of any grant made under this section. There are authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of this section not to exceed $265,000,000 prior to July 1, 1969, and not to exceed $390,000,000 prior to July 1, 1970. Of the amount available prior to July 1, 1969, $20,000,000 may be used only for district planning grants under subsection (a)(6), which amount shall be increased by $10,000,000 on July 1, 1969. Any amounts appropriated under this section shall remain available until expended: Provided, That, of any funds appropriated under this section, not to exceed an aggregate of $10,000,000 plus 5 per centum of the funds so appropriated may be used by the Secretary for studies, research, and demonstration projects, undertaken independently or by contract, for the development and improvement of techniques and methods for comprehensive planning and for the advancement of the purposes of this section, and for grants to assist in the conduct of studies and research relating to needed revisions in State statutes which create, govern, or control local governments and local governmental operations.

"(c) The Secretary is authorized, in areas embracing several municipalities or other political subdivisions, to encourage planning on a unified regional, district, or metropolitan basis and to provide technical assistance for such planning and the solution of problems relating thereto.

"(d) It is the further intent of this section to encourage comprehensive planning, including transportation planning, for States, cities, counties, metropolitan areas, districts, regions, and Indian reservations and the establishment and development of the organizational units needed therefor. In extending financial assistance under this section, the Secretary may require such assurances as he deems adequate that the appropriate State and local agencies are making reasonable progress in the development of the elements of comprehensive planning. The Secretary is authorized to provide technical assistance to State and local governments and their agencies and instrumentalities, and to Indian tribal bodies, undertaking such planning and, by contract or otherwise, to make studies and publish information on related problems.

"(e) In the exercise of his responsibilities under this section, the Secretary shall consult with those officials of the Federal Government responsible for the administration of programs of Federal assistance to the States and municipalities for various categories of public facilities and other comprehensively planned activities. He shall, particularly, consult with the Secretary of Agriculture prior to his approval of any district planning grants under subsections (a)(6) and (g), and with the Secretary of Commerce prior to his approval of any planning grants which include any part of an economic development, district as defined and designated under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Commerce, as appropriate, may provide technical assistance, with or without reimbursement, in connection with the establishment of districts by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and the carrying out of planning by such districts.

"(f) The consent of the Congress is hereby given to any two or more States to enter into agreements or compacts, not in conflict with any law of the United States, for cooperative efforts and mutual assistance in the comprehensive planning for the growth and development of interstate, metropolitan, or other urban areas, and to establish such agencies, joint or otherwise, as they may deem desirable for making effective such agreements and compacts.

"(g) In addition to the planning grants authorized by subsection (a), the Secretary is further authorized to make grants to organizations composed of public officials representative of the political jurisdictions within the metropolitan area, region, or district for the purpose of assisting such organizations to undertake studies, collect data, develop metropolitan, regional, and district plans and programs, and engage in such other activities, including implementation of such plans, as the Secretary finds necessary or desirable for the solution of the metropolitan, regional, or district problems in such areas, regions, or districts. To the maximum extent feasible, all grants under this subsection shall be for activities relating to all the developmental aspects of the total metropolitan area, region, or district including, but not limited to, land use, transportation, housing, economic development, natural resources development, community facilities, and the general improvement of living environments. A grant under this subsection shall not exceed two-thirds of the estimated cost of the work for which the grant is made.

"(h) In addition to the other grants authorized by this section, the Secretary is authorized to make grants to assist any city, other municipality, or county in making a survey of the structures and sites in such locality which are determined by its appropriate authorities to be of historic or architectural value. Any such survey shall be designed to identify the historic structures and sites in the locality, determine the cost of their rehabilitation or restoration, and provide such other information as may be necessary or appropriate to serve as a foundation for a balanced and effective program of historic preservation in such locality. The aspects of any such survey which relate to the identification of historic and architectural values shall be conducted in accordance with criteria found by the Secretary to be comparable to those used in establishing the national register maintained by the Secretary of the Interior under other provisions of law; and the results of each such survey shall be made available to the Secretary of the Interior. A grant under this subsection shall not exceed two-thirds of the cost of the survey for which it is made, and shall be made to the appropriate agency or entity specified in paragraphs (1) through (11) of subsection (a) or, if there is no such agency or entity which is qualified and willing to receive the grant and provide for its utilization in accordance with this subsection, directly to the city, other municipality, or county involved.

"(i) As used in this section—

"(1) The term 'metropolitan area' means a standard metropolitan statistical area, as established by the Bureau of the Budget, subject, however, to such modifications or extensions as the Secretary deems to be appropriate for the purposes of this section.

"(2) The term 'region' includes (A) all or part of the area of jurisdiction of one or more units of general local government, and (B) one or more metropolitan areas.

"(3) The term 'district' includes all or part of the area of jurisdiction of (A) one or more counties, and (B) one or more other units of general local government, but does not include any portion of a metropolitan area.

"(4) The term 'comprehensive planning' includes the following:

"(A) preparation, as a guide for governmental policies and action, of general plans with respect to (i) the pattern and intensity of land use, (ii) the provision of public facilities (including transportation facilities) and other government services, and (iii) the effective development and utilization of human and natural resources;

"(B, long-range physical and fiscal plans for such action;

"(C) programing of capital improvements and other major expenditures, based on a determination of relative urgency, together with definitive financing plans for such expenditures in the earlier years of the program;

"(D) coordination of all related plans and activities of the State and local governments and agencies concerned; and

"(E) preparation of regulatory and administrative measures in support of the foregoing.

Comprehensive planning for the purpose of districts shall not include planning for or assistance to establishments in relocating from one area to another or assist subcontractors whose purpose is to divest, or whose economic success is dependent upon divesting, other contractors or subcontractors of contracts theretofore customarily performed by them: Provided, That this limitation shall not be construed to prohibit assistance for the expansion of an existing business entity through the establishment of a new branch, affiliate, or subsidiary of such entity, if the Secretary finds that the establishment of such branch, affiliate, or subsidiary will not result in an increase in unemployment in the area of original location or in any other area where such entity conducts business operations, unless the Secretary has reason to believe that such branch, affiliate, or subsidiary is being established with the intention of closing down the operations of the existing business entity in the area of its original location or in any other area where it conducts such operations.

"(5) The term 'State planning agencies' includes official State planning agencies and (in States where no such planning agency exists) agencies or instrumentalities of State government designated by the Governor of the State and acceptable to the Secretary.

"(6) The terms 'metropolitan planning agencies', 'regional planning agencies', and 'district planning agencies' mean official metropolitan, regional, and district planning agencies, or other agencies and instrumentalities designated by the Governor (or Governors in the case of interstate planning), and acceptable to the Secretary, empowered under State or local law or interstate compact to perform metropolitan, regional, or district planning, respectively: Provided, That such agencies and instrumentalities shall, to the greatest practicable extent, be composed of or responsible to the elected officials of the unit or units of general local government for whose jurisdictions they are empowered to engage in planning."

PLANNED AREAWIDE DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 602. (a) The heading of title II of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 is amended to read as follows: "TITLE II—PLANNED AREAWIDE DEVELOPMENT".

(b) Section 201 of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

"SEC. 201. (a) The Congress hereby finds that the welfare of the Nation and of its people is directly dependent upon the sound and orderly development and the effective organization and functioning of our State and local governments.

"It further finds that it is essential that our State and local governments prepare, keep current, and carry out comprehensive plans and programs for their orderly physical development with a view to meeting efficiently all their economic and social needs.

"It further finds that our State and local governments are especially handicapped in this task by the complexity and scope of governmental services required, the multiplicity of political jurisdictions and agencies involved, and the inadequacy of the operational and administrative arrangements available for cooperation among them.

"It further finds that present requirements for areawide planning and programing in connection with various Federal programs have materially assisted in the solution of areawide problems, but that greater coordination of Federal programs and additional participation and cooperation are needed from the States and localities in perfecting and carrying out such efforts.

"(b) It is the purpose of this title to provide through greater coordination of Federal programs, and through supplementary grants for certain federally assisted development projects, additional encouraegment and assistance to States and localities for making comprehensive areawide planning and programing effective."

(c) Section 202 of such Act is amended by striking out "metropolitan" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide".

(d) (1) Section 205 of such Act is amended by striking out "metropolitan development" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide development".

(2) Such section is further amended by striking out "metropolitan areas" and "metropolitan area" and inserting in lieu thereof "areas" and "area", respectively.

(3) Such section is further amended by striking out "metropolitanwide" each place it appears, and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide".

(4) Such section is further amended by striking out "metropolitan planning" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide planning".

(5) Such section is further amended by inserting "where appropriate," after "(B)" in subsection (c)(1).

(6) Such section is further amended by striking out "within the metropolitanwide area" in subsection (f).

(e) (1) Paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 208 of such Act are amended by striking out "Metropolitan" and inserting in lieu thereof "Areawide".

(2) Paragraph (7) of such section is amended—

(A) by striking out "or metropolitan or regional" and inserting in lieu thereof ", metropolitan, regional, or district"; and

(B) by striking out "metropolitan" in the parenthetical phrase. (f) Section 206(b) of such Act is amended by striking out the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Any amounts appropriated under this section shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this section but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970."

ADVANCE ACQUISITION OF LAND

SEC. 603. (a) Section 701 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by striking out "in connection with the future construction of public works and facilities" in clause (3) and inserting in lieu thereof "in the future for public purposes".

(b) Section 704 of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"ADVANCE ACQUISITION OF LAND

"SEC. 704. (a) In order to encourage and assist the timely acquisition of land planned to be utilized in the future for public purposes, the Secretary is authorized to make grants to States and local public bodies and agencies to assist in financing the acquisition of a fee simple estate or other interest in such land.

"(b) The amount of any grant made under this section shall not exceed the aggregate amount of reasonable interest charges on the loans or other financial obligations incurred to finance the acquisition of such land for a period not in excess of the lesser of (1) five years from the date of acquisition of such land or (2) the period of time between the date on which the land was acquired and the date its use began for the purpose for which it was acquired: Provided, That where all or any portion of the cost of such land is not financed through borrowings, the amount of the grant shall be computed on the basis of the aggregate amount of reasonable interest charges that the Secretary determines would have been required.

"(c) No grant shall be made under this section unless the Secretary determines that the land will be utilized for a public purpose within a reasonable period of time and that such utilization will contribute to economy, efficiency, and the comprehensively planned development of the area. The Secretary shall in all cases require that land acquired with the assistance of a grant under this section be utilized for a public purpose within five years after the date on which a contract to make such grant is entered into, unless the Secretary (1) determines that due to unusual circumstances a longer period of time is necessary and in the public interest, and (2) reports such determination promptly to the Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives.

"(d) No land acquired with assistance under this section shall, without approval of the Secretary, be diverted from the purpose originally approved. The Secretary shall approve no such diversion unless he finds that the diversion is in accord with the then applicable comprehensive plan for the area. In cases of a diversion of land to other than a public purpose, the Secretary may require repayment of the grant, or substitution of land of approximately equal fair market value, whichever he deems appropriate. An interim use of the land for a public or private purpose in accordance with standards prescribed by the Secretary, or approved by him, shall not constitute a diversion within the meaning of this subsection.

"(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no project for which land is acquired with assistance under this section shall, solely as a result of such advance acquisition, be considered ineligible for the purpose of any other Federal loan or grant program, and the amount of the purchase price paid for the land by the recipient of a grant under this section may be considered an eligible cost for the purpose of such other Federal loan or grant program."

(2) by striking out "Chairman of the Board" and inserting in lieu thereof "Secretary of Housing and Urban Development";

(3) by striking out "agents," and inserting in lieu thereof "agents of the Association,"; and

(4) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(2) The board of directors of the corporation shall have the power to select and appoint or employ such officers, attorneys, employees, and agents, to vest them with such powers and duties, and to fix and to cause the corporation to pay such compensation to them for their services, as it may determine; and any such action shall be without regard to the Federal civil service and classification laws. Appointments, promotions, and separations so made shall be based on merit and efficiency, and no political tests or qualifications shall be permitted or given consideration. Each officer and employee of the corporation who is employed by the corporation prior to the termination of the transitional period referred to in section 810(b) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and who on the day previous to the beginning of such employment will have been subject to the civil service retirement law (subch. III of ch. 83 of title 5, United States Code) shall, so long as his employment by the corporation continues without a break in continuity of service, continue to be subject to such law; and for the purpose of such law his employment by the corporation without a break in continuity of service shall be deemed to be employment by the Government of the United States. The corporation shall contribute to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund a sum as provided by section 8334(a) of title 5, United States Code, except that such sum shall be determined by applying to the total basic pay (as defined in 5 U.S.C. 8331(3) and except as hereinafter provided) paid to the employees of the corporation who are covered by the civil service retirement law, the per centum rate determined annually by the United States Civil Service Commission to be the excess of the total normal cost per centum rate of the civil service retirement system over the employee deduction rate specified in section 8334(a) of title 5, United States Code. The corporation shall also pay into the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund such portion of the cost of administration of the fund as is determined by the United States Civil Service Commission to be attributable to its employees. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, there shall not be considered for the purposes of the civil service retirement law that portion of the basic pay in any one year of any officer or employee of the corporation which exceeds the basic pay provided for in section 5312 of title 5, United States Code, on the last day of such year. Except as provided in this subsection, the corporation shall not be subject to the provisions of title 5, United States Code."

(1) by striking out "body corporate created by section 302" and inserting in lieu thereof "bodies corporate named in section 302(a)(2)";

(2) by inserting ", 'Government National Mortgage Association'," immediately following "'Federal National Mortgage Association'"; and

(3) by striking out the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Violations of the foregoing sentence may be enjoined by any court of general jurisdiction at the suit of the proper body corporate. In any such suit, the plaintiff may recover any actual damages flowing from such violation, and, in addition, shall be entitled to punitive damages (regardless of the existence or nonexistence of actual damages) of not exceeding $100 for each day during which such violation is committed or repeated."

(dd) Section 309(g) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(g) The Federal Reserve banks are authorized and directed to act as depositaries, custodians, and fiscal agents for each of the bodies corporate named in section 302(a)(2), for its own account or as fiduciary, and such banks shall be reimbursed for such services in such manner as may be agreed upon; and each of such bodies corporate may itself act in such capacities, for its own account or as fiduciary, and for the account of others."

(ee) Section 309 of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(h) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall have general regulatory power over the Federal National Mortgage Association and shall make such rules and regulations as shall be necessary and proper to insure that the purposes of this title are accomplished. No stock, obligation, security, or other instrument shall be issued by the corporation without the prior approval of the Secretary. The Secretary may require that a reasonable portion of the corporation's mortgage purchases be related to the national goal of providing adequate housing for low and moderate income families, but with reasonable economic return to the corporation. The Secretary may examine and audit the books and financial transactions of the corporation, and he may require the corporation to make such reports on its activities as he deems advisable."

(ff) Section 311 of such Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "the Association" and inserting in lieu thereof "either of the bodies corporate named in section 302(a)(2)"; and

(2) by adding at the end thereof the following: "All stock, obligations, securities, participations, or other instruments issued pursuant to this title shall, to the same extent as securities which are direct obligations of or obligations guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, be deemed to be exempt securities within the meaning of laws administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission; but all such issuances shall be made only with the approval of the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development."

PARTICIPATIONS

SEC. 803. Section 302(c)(5) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following: "In the event that the insufficiency required by the trustee is on account of principal maturities of outstanding beneficial interests or participations authorized to be issued pursuant to paragraph (4) of this subsection, or pursuant hereto, the trustee is authorized to elect to issue additional beneficial interests or participations for refinancing purposes in lieu of requiring any trustor or trustors to make payments to the trustee from appropriated funds or other sources. Each such issue of beneficial interests or participations shall be in an amount determined by the trustee but not in excess of the aggregate amount which the trustee would otherwise require the trustor or trustors to pay from appropriated funds or other sources, and may be issued without regard to the provisions of paragraph (4) of this subsection. All refinancing issues of beneficial interests or participations shall be deemed to have been issued pursuant to the authority contained in the appropriation Act or Acts under which the beneficial interests or participations were originally issued."

MORTGAGE-BACKED SECURITIES

SEC. 804. (a) Section 304 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(d) To provide a greater degree of liquidity to the mortgage investment market and an additional means of financing its operations under this section, the corporation is authorized to set aside any mortgages held by it under this section, and, upon approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue and sell securities based upon the mortgages so set aside. Securities issued under this subsection may be in the form of debt obligations or trust certificates of beneficial interest, or both. Securities issued under this subsection shall have such maturities and bear such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the corporation with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Securities issued by the corporation under this subsection shall, to the same extent as securities which are direct obligations of or obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States, be deemed to be exempt securities within the meaning of laws administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Mortgages set aside pursuant to this subsection shall at all times be adequate to enable the corporation to make timely principal and interest payments on the securities issued and sold pursuant to this subsection."

(b) Section 306 of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(g) The Association is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as it may deem appropriate, to guarantee the timely payment of principal of and interest on such trust certificates or other securities as shall (1) be issued by the corporation under section 304(d), or by any other issuer approved for the purposes of this subsection by the Association, and (2) be based on and backed by a trust or pool composed of mortgages which are insured under the National Housing Act or title V of the Housing Act of 1949, or which are insured or guaranteed under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 or chapter 37 of title 38, United States Code. The Association shall collect from the issuer a reasonable fee for any guaranty under this subsection and shall make such charges as it may determine to be reasonable for the analysis of any trust or other security arrangement proposed by the issuer. In the event the issuer is unable to make any payment of principal of or interest on any security guaranteed under this subsection, the Association shall make such payment as and when due in cash, and thereupon shall be subrogated fully to the rights satisfied by such payment. Any Federal, State, or other law to the contrary notwithstanding, the Association is hereby empowered, in connection with any guaranty under this subsection, whether before or after any default, to provide by contract with the issuer for the extinguishment, upon default by the issuer, of any redemption, equitable, legal, or other right, title, or interest of the issuer in any mortgage or mortgages constituting the trust or pool against which the guaranteed securities are issued; and with respect to any issue of guaranteed securities, in the event of default and pursuant otherwise to the terms of the contract, the mortgages that constitute such trust or pool shall become the absolute property of the Association subject only to the unsatisfied rights of the holders of the securities based on and backed by such trust or pool. The full faith and credit of the United States is pledged to the payment of all amounts which may be required to be paid under any guaranty under this subsection. There shall be excluded from the total amounts set forth in subsection (c) the amounts of any mortgages acquired by the Association as a result of its operations under this subsection."

(c) Section 5136 of the Revised Statutes (12 U.S.C. 24) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"Ninth. To issue and sell securities which are guaranteed pursuant to section 306(g) of the National Housing Act."

(d) The first proviso of section 21(a)(1) of the Banking Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C. 378(a)(1)) is amended by inserting ", or issuing securities," immediately following "investment securities".

(e) Section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C. 1464(c)) is amended by adding at the end thereof a new paragraph as follows:

"Any such association may issue and sell securities which are guaranteed pursuant to section 306(g) of the National Housing Act."

SUBORDINATED AND CONVERTIBLE OBLIGATIONS

SEC. 805. Section 304 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding thereto (after subsection (d) as added by section 804 of this Act) the following new subsection:

"(e) For the purposes of this section, the corporation is authorized to issue, upon the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, obligations which are subordinated to any or all other obligations of the corporation, including subsequent obligations. The obligations issued under this subsection shall have such maturities and bear such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the corporation with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury and may be made redeemable at the option of the corporation before maturity in such manner as may be stipulated in such obligations. Any of such obligations may be made convertible into shares of common stock in such manner, at such price or prices, and at such time or times as may be stipulated therein. The total principal amount of such subordinated obligations which may be outstanding at any one time shall not exceed two times the sum of (1) the capital of the corporation represented by its outstanding common stock and (2) its surplus and undistributed earnings of such time. The outstanding total principal amount of such obligations, which are entirely subordinated to the obligations of the corporation issued or to be issued under subsection (b), shall be deemed to be capital of the corporation for the purpose of determining the aggregate amount of obligations issued under subsection (b) which may be outstanding at any one time. Obligations issued by the corporation under this subsection shall, to the same extent as securities which are direct obligations of or obligations guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, be deemed to be exempt securities within the meaning of laws administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The corporation shall insert appropriate language in all of its obligations issued under this subsection clearly indicating that such obligations, together with the interest thereon, are not guaranteed by the United States and do not constitute a debt or obligation of the United States or of any agency or instrumentality thereof other than the corporation. The corporation is authorized to purchase in the open market any of its obligations outstanding under this subsection at any time and at any price."

(n) Section 8(8)(E) of the Federal Credit Union Act is amended by inserting "or the Government National Mortgage Association" immediately following "Federal National Mortgage Association".

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 808. The amendments made by this title shall be effective from and after a date, no more than one hundred and twenty days following the date of enactment of this Act, as established by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Notice of the establishment of such effective date shall be published in the Federal Register at least thirty days prior thereto.

SAVINGS PROVISIONS

SEC. 809. (a) No cause of action by or against the Federal National Mortgage Association existing prior to the effective date established pursuant to section 808 shall abate by reason of the enactment of this title. Any such cause of action may thereafter be asserted by or against the appropriate corporate body named in section 302(a)(2) of the National Housing Act.

(b) No suit, action or other proceeding commenced by or against the Federal National Mortgage Association, or any officer thereof in his official capacity, prior to the effective date established pursuant to section 808 shall abate by reason of the enactment of this title. A court may at any time thereafter during the pendency of any such litigation, on its own motion or that of any party, order that the litigation may be maintained by or against the appropriate corporate body named in section 302(a)(2) of the National Housing Act or the appropriate corresponding officer thereof.

TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 810. (a) On the effective date established pursuant to section 808 of this Act, each share of outstanding nonvoting common stock, with a par value of $100 per share, of the Federal National Mortgage Association shall be changed into and shall become one share of voting common stock, without par value, of such corporation.

(b)(1) The provisions of section 308(b) of the National Housing Act (as added by section 802(y)(7) of this Act) shall be applicable only to the extent that its provisions do not conflict with this subsection.

(2) For a transitional period after the effective date established pursuant to section 808 of this Act, the board of directors of the Federal National Mortgage Association shall consist of nine persons. For a term expiring on the date of the first annual meeting of the corporation's stockholders, all members of the board shall be appointed by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. For a term beginning on such date, seven members of the board shall be appointed by the Secretary, and two members shall be elected by the common stockholders. For subsequent terms beginning prior to the termination of the transitional period, five members shall be appointed by the Secretary, and four members shall be elected by the common stockholders. For each term beginning prior to the termination of the transitional period, the Secretary shall appoint as a member of the board the president of the corporation. During the transitional period, the president of the corporation shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and may be removed from office by the President for good cause.

(3) The transitional period referred to in paragraph (2) shall come to an end at such time as the board of directors shall find, with the approval of the Secretary, that not less than one-third of the corporation's common stock is owned by persons or institutions in the mortgage lending, homebuilding, real estate, or related businesses; but in no event shall it end sooner than May 1, 1970, or later than May 1, 1973.

(c) From the effective date established pursuant to section 808 and until the retirement of the last of the outstanding shares of its preferred stock, the Federal National Mortgage Association shall be deemed to be a wholly owned corporation for the purposes of the Government Corporation Control Act. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, the financial transactions of the Federal National Mortgage Association shall continue to be subject to audit by the General Accounting Office for such period as there may be outstanding obligations of the Federal National Mortgage Association which are guaranteed as to principal or interest by the Government National Mortgage Association.

(d) Those persons who are the officers and employees of the Federal National Mortgage Association immediately prior to the effective date established pursuant to section 808 shall become the officers and employees of the Government National Mortgage Association on such date. The Federal National Mortgage Association and the Government National Mortgage Association shall provide by contract for the conditions and methods under which and by which the Federal National Mortgage Association during the transitional period may employ those individuals who are employees of the Government National Mortgage Association on such effective date; and may provide by contract for the operation by either of such corporations of any of the functions of the other. The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall make every reasonable effort to place in other comparable Federal positions any individuals who are career or career-conditional employees of the Government National Mortgage Association on such effective date and who are subsequently during the transitional period neither employed by the Federal National Mortgage Association nor retained by the Government National Mortgage Association.

TITLE IX—NATIONAL HOUSING PARTNERSHIPS

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

SEC. 901. The Congress finds that the volume of housing being produced for families and individuals of low or moderate income must be increased to meet the national goal of a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family, and declares that it is the policy of the United States to encourage the widest possible participation by private enterprise in the provision of housing for low or moderate income families. The Congress has therefore determined that one or more private organization should be created to encourage maximum participation by private investors in programs and projects to provide low and moderate income housing.

CREATION OF CORPORATIONS

SEC. 902. (a) There is hereby authorized to be created a private corporation for profit (hereinafter in this title referred to as the "corporation"). The corporation will not be an agency or establishment of the United States Government. The corporation shall be subject to the provisions of this title and, to the extent consistent with this title, to the District of Columba Business Corporation Act (D.C. Code, sec. 29–901 et seq.).

(b) Whenever the President finds it in the national interest to do so, he may cause the creation of an additional corporation or additional corporations to carry out the purposes of this title. All the provisions of this title shall thereupon become applicable to each such corporation, and to the limited partnership formed by it pursuant to section 907.

(c) Nothing in this title shall be construed to preclude private persons from creating other corporations and organizing other partnerships, joint ventures, or associations for the purposes set forth in this title as the purposes of the corporation and the partnership described in section 907.

PROCESS OF ORGANIZATION

SEC. 903. (a) The President of the United States shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, incorporators of the corporation, one of whom shall be designated by the President to serve as chairman. The incorporators shall serve as the initial board of directors until the first annual meeting of stockholders or until their successors are elected and have qualified.

(b) The incorporators shall take whatever actions are necessary or appropriate to establish the corporation, including the filing of articles of incorporation as approved by the President.

(c) The incorporators shall also arrange for an initial offering of shares of stock in the corporation and of interests in the partnership described in section 907 of this title. If the incorporation does it advisable in order to carry out the purposes of this title, the initial offering may be made upon terms which require the purchase of other securities of the corporation or of interests in such partnership.

DIRECTORS

SEC. 904. The corporation shall have a board of directors (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "board"), consisting of fifteen members. Three members of the board shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, effective on the date on which the other members are elected, and for terms of three years or until their successors have been appointed and have qualified, except that the first three members of the board so appointed shall continue in office for terms of one, two, and three years, respectively, and any member so appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the director whom he succeeds. Twelve members of the board shall be elected by the stockholders.

FINANCING THE CORPORATION

SEC. 905. The corporation shall have the power to create and issue the number of shares stated in its articles of incorporation. Such shares may be divided into one or more classes, any or all of which classes may consist of shares with par value, or shares without par value, with such designations, preferences, voting powers, and special or relative rights and such limitations, restrictions, or qualifications thereof as shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation may limit or deny the voting power of the shares of any class.

PURPOSES AND POWERS OF THE CORPORATION

SEC. 906. (a) In order to achieve the objectives and carry out the purposes of this title, the corporation is authorized to—

(1) plan, initiate, and carry out, pursuant to Federal programs or otherwise, the building or rehabilitation of housing and related facilities primarily for the benefit of families and individuals of low or moderate income;

(2) buy, own, manage, lease, or otherwise acquire or dispose of property in connection with the developments, projects, or undertakings referred to in paragraph (1); and

(3) provide such funds as may be necessary to accomplish the developments, projects, or undertakings referred to in paragraph (1).

(b) Included in the activities authorized to the corporation for the accomplishment of the purposes indicated in subsection (a) of this section are, among other not specifically named—

(1) to enter into partnerships, limited partnerships, joint ventures, and other associations with individuals, corporations, and private and governmental agencies, organizations, and institutions;

(2) to act as manager or general partner of any such partnership, venture, or association;

(3) to conduct or contract for research and studies related to the development, demonstration, and evaluation of improved techniques and methods of constructing, rehabilitating, and maintaining housing;

(4) to provide technical assistance to nonprofit corporations, limited dividend corporations, and others with respect to the planning, financing, construction, rehabilitation, maintenance, and management of housing for low and moderate income families and individuals;

(5) to make loans or grants including grants of interests in housing and related facilities, to nonprofit corporations, limited dividend corporations, and others, in carrying out its activities under subsection (a) of this section; and

(6) to hire or accept the voluntary services of consultants, experts, advisory boards, and panels to aid the corporation in carrying out the purposes of this title.

(c) To carry out the foregoing purposes and engage in the foregoing activities, the corporation shall have the usual powers conferred upon a stock corporation by the District of Columbia Business Corporation Act.

(d) Nothing in this title shall have the effect of waiving or otherwise affecting the applicability of the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act (40 U.S.C. 267a—276a–5), or any other law requiring compliance with labor standards, in the case of any construction to which such provisions would otherwise apply.

NATIONAL HOUSING PARTNERSHIP

SEC. 907. (a) The corporation is authorized to arrange for the formation, as a separate organization, of a limited partnership (hereinafter in this title referred to as the "partnership") under the District of Columbia Uniform Limited Partnership Act (D.C. Code, sec. 41–401 et seq.) for the purpose of engaging in any of the activities authorized for the corporation under section 906 of this title, and to enter into a partnership agreement governing the affairs of such limited partnership.

(b) The partnership shall be subject to the provisions, to the extent consistent with this title, of (1) the District of Columbia Uniform Limited Partnership Act and (2) those provisions of the District of Columbia Uniform Partnership Act (D.C. Code, sec. 41–301 et seq.) made applicable by section 6(2) of that Act (D.C. Code, sec. 41–305(2)). Notwithstanding any inconsistency between the provisions of such Acts, or of any other law, and the provisions of this section, the partnership organized pursuant to this section shall be deemed to have the legal status of a limited partnership.

(c) The partnership is authorized to enter into partnerships, limited partnerships, or joint ventures organized under applicable State or local law for the purpose of engaging in low and moderate income housing developments, projects, or undertakings in particular localities.

(d) The corporation shall be the general partner in the partnership. The capital of the partnership and the contributions of the partners shall be in such amounts and at such times as are set forth in or pursuant to the partnership agreement.

(e) The partnership agreement shall include provisions designed to assure that (1) the partnership shall participate in low and moderate income housing developments, projects, or undertakings in a manner designed to encourage the participation therein of local interests, and (2) in any such development, project, or undertaking the partnership shall not subscribe to more than 25 per centum (including equity investments made in services or property) of the aggregate initial equity investment unless, in the judgment of the corporation as general partner, the balance of the required equity investment is not readily obtainable from other responsible investors residing or doing business in the local community.

(f) The partnership agreement may without limitation (1) permit each of the stockholders of the corporation to become a member of the partnership as a limited partner, (2) authorize the inclusion of other limited partners in addition to the stockholders of the corporation, (3) provide that the assignee of the partnership interest of a limited partner of the partnership who is also a stockholder of the corporation may not become a substituted limited partner unless he also acquires the assignor's stock of the corporation, and (4) include provisions requiring that the corporation as a general partner approve the substitution or addition of a member of the partnership.

(g) A corporation which is a limited partner in the partnership shall not become liable as a general partner by reason of the fact that (1) such corporation is a holder of shares of voting stock of the corporation constituting not more than 5 per centum of the total number of outstanding shares of such stock and exercises any of the rights (including voting rights) of a holder of such shares, and/or (2) a person who is an officer or director of such corporation (or of another corporation which controls or is subject to the control of, or is under common control with, such corporation) is a director of the corporation and performs the duties of that office. The interest of a limited partner in the partnership shall not be treated as a stock interest in the corporation, notwithstanding that such interest of a limited partner may be proportionate to his stock interest in the corporation.

(h) The certificate of the partnership and any amendment thereof required by the District of Columbia Uniform Limited Partnership Act shall be executed and acknowledged by the corporation as member and by each other member of the partnership or his attorney-in-fact duly authorized by power of attorney in writing. The corporation may execute and acknowledge the certificate and any amendment thereof as attorney-in-fact for any member, member to be substituted or added, or assigning member, by whom the certificate or amendment is required to be executed and acknowledged and who has appointed the corporation as such attorney.

REPORT TO CONGRESS AND RECORDS

SEC. 908. (a) The corporation shall submit an annual report to the President for transmittal to the Congress within six months after the end of its fiscal year. The report shall include a comprehensive and detailed report of the operations, activities, and financial condition of the corporation and the partnership under this title.

(b) The accounts of the corporation and of the partnership shall be audited annually in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards by independent certified public accountants or independent licensed public accountants certified or licensed by a regulatory authority of a State or other political subdivision of the United States.

ANTITRUST LAWS

SEC. 909. Nothing contained herein shall affect the applicability of the Federal antitrust laws to the activities of the corporation and the partnership created under this title and of the persons participating therein or in partnerships, limited partnerships, or joint ventures with either of them.

RIGHT TO REPEAL, ALTER, OR AMEND

SEC. 910. The right to repeal, alter, or amend this title at any time is expressly reserved.

AMENDMENT TO BANKING LAWS

SEC. 911. Paragraph "Seventh" of section 5136 of the Revised Statutes (12 U.S.C. 24) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Notwithstanding any other provision in this paragraph, the association may purchase for its own account shares of stock issued by a corporation authorized to be created pursuant to title IX of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, and may make investments in a partnership, limited partnership, or joint venture formed pursuant to section 907(a) or 907(c) of that Act."

TITLE X—RURAL HOUSING

HOUSING FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME PERSONS AND FAMILIES

SEC. 1001. Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new section:

"LOANS TO PROVIDE OCCUPANT-OWNED, RENTAL, AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME PERSONS AND FAMILIES

"SEC. 521. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 502, 517(a) and 515, loans to persons of low or moderate income under section 502 or 517(a)(1), and loans under section 515 to provide rental or cooperative housing and related facilities for persons and families of low or moderate income or elderly persons and elderly families, shall bear interest at a rate prescribed by the Secretary at not less than a rate determined annually by the Secretary of the Treasury taking into consideration the current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with remaining periods to maturity comparable to the average maturities of such loans, adjusted to the nearest one-eighth of 1 per centum, less not to exceed the difference between the adjusted rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury and 1 per centum per annum: Provided, That such a loan may be made only when the Secretary determines that the needs of the applicant for necessary housing cannot be met with financial assistance from other sources including assistance under section 235 or 236 of the National Housing Act: Provided further, That interest on loans under section 502 or 517(a) to victims of natural disasters shall not exceed the rate which would be applicable to such loans under section 502 without regard to this section.

"(b) Housing and related facilities provided with loans described in subsection (a) shall be located in rural areas; and applicants eligible for such loans under section 502 or 517(a)(1), or for occupancy of housing provided with such loans under section 515, shall include otherwise qualified nonrural residents who will become rural residents.

"(c) There shall be reimbursed to the Rural Housing Insurance Fund by annual appropriations the amounts by which nonprincipal payments made from the fund during each fiscal year to the holders of insured loans described in subsection (a) exceed interest due from the borrowers during each year; and the Secretary from time to time may issue notes to the Secretary of the Treasury under section 517(h) to obtain amounts equal to such unreimbursed excess payments, pending the annual reimbursement by appropriation."

HOUSING FOR RURAL TRAINEES

"SEC. 1002. Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after section 521 (as added by section 1001 of this Act) the following new section:

"HOUSING FOR RURAL TRAINEES

"SEC. 522. (a) Upon the application of any State or political subdivision thereof, or any public or private nonprofit organization, the Secretary is authorized, after consultation with the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and the Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and after the Secretary determines that the housing and related facilities cannot reasonably be provided in any other way, to provide financial and technical assistance for the establishment, in rural areas, of housing and related facilities for trainees and their families who are residents of a rural area and have a rural background, while such trainees are enrolled and participating in training courses designed to improve their employment capability. The selection of training sites and location of housing shall be made with due regard to the economic viability of the area, and only after consideration of a labor area survey and full coordination among all Government agencies having primary responsibility for administering related programs.

"(b) Housing and related facilities assisted under this section shall be safe and sanitary, constructed in the most economical manner, and of modest design, giving due consideration to the purposes to be served and the needs of the occupants, and may, in the discretion of the Secretary, include mobile family quarters. Design and location shall be such as to facilitate, as feasible, the use of such housing and related facilities for other purposes when no longer needed for the primary purpose.

"(c) The applicant shall contribute the necessary land, or funds to acquire such land, from its own resources, including land acquired by donation or from funds repayable under subsection (e) or borrowed from other sources.

"(d) No financial assistance shall be made available under this section unless, to the extent and for the periods required by the Secretary, the applicant agrees that—

"(1) such housing will be maintained at all times in a safe and sanitary condition in accordance with standards prescribed by State or local law, or, in the absence of such standards, with requirements prescribed by the Secretary;

"(2) priority shall be given at all times, in granting occupancy of such housing and facilities, to the trainees and their families described in subsection (a); and

"(3) rentals charged them shall not exceed amounts approved by the Secretary after considering the portion of the actual total family income which the family can afford to pay for rent while meeting its other immediate needs during occupancy.

"(e) The Secretary may make advances pursuant to any contract for financial assistance under this section at such times and in such manner as may be specified in the contract. Such advances for the purchase of land shall be repayable with interest and within a period not to exceed thirty-three years and may be made upon such security, if any, as the Secretary requires. Advances for other purposes may be made repayable with or without interest or nonrepayable, as determined by the Secretary on the basis of the anticipated income and cost of operation of the housing and related facilities and the ability of each applicant to finance such facilities. Any advances shall be limited to cover the capital costs of constructing such facilities, plus interest on borrowings to cover such costs.

"(f) Should housing and related facilities assisted pursuant to a contract under this section be sold to an ineligible transferee or diverted to a use other than its primary purpose within a period specified in the contract, all advances made under such contract shall be repaid to the Secretary, up to the amount of the sales price or the fair value of the property as determined by the Secretary, whichever is higher, with interest from the date of the sale or diversion. If no suitable alternate use of the property is available, as determined by the Secretary, after the purpose of this section can no longer be served, the property shall be returned to its original condition by the recipient of the assistance.

"(g) Interest charged on advances made under this section shall be at a rate, prescribed by the Secretary, which shall be not less than a rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury taking into consideration the current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with remaining periods to maturity comparable to the average maturities of such loans, adjusted to the nearest one-eighth of 1 per centum, less not to exceed the difference between the adjusted rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury and 1 per centum per annum, as determined by the Secretary.

"(h) The Secretary shall prescribe regulations to insure that Federal funds expended under this section are not wasted or dissipated.

"(i) As used in this section (1) the term 'related facilities' shall include any necessary community rooms or buildings, infirmaries, utilities, access roads, water and sewer services, and the minimum fixed or movable equipment determined by the Secretary to be necessary to make the housing reasonably habitable by trainees and their families; and (2) the term 'trainee' means any person receiving training under any federally assisted training program.

"(j) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this section."

APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 1003. Section 513 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended—

(1) by striking out "and (e)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(e)"; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: "; and (f) such sums as may be required by the Secretary to administer the provisions of sections 235 and 236 of the National Housing Act".

PURCHASE OF LAND FOR BUILDING SITES

SEC. 1004. Section 514(f)(2) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" before "(B)", and

(2) by inserting before the semicolon at the end thereof the following: "and (C) land necessary for an adequate site".

MUTUAL AND SELF-HELP HOUSING

SEC. 1005. Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after section 522 (as added by section 1002 of this Act) the following new section:

"MUTUAL AND SELF-HELP HOUSING

"SEC. 523. (a) The purposes of this section are (1) to make financial assistance available on reasonable terms and conditions in rural areas and small towns to needy low-income individuals and their families who, with the benefit of technical assistance and overall guidance and supervision, participate in approved programs of mutual or self-help housing by acquiring and developing necessary land, acquiring building materials, providing their own labor, and working cooperatively with others for the provision of decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings for themselves, their families, and others in the area or town involved, and (2) to facilitate the efforts of both public and private nonprofit organizations providing assistance to such individuals to contribute their technical and supervisory skills toward more effective and comprehensive programs of mutual or self-help housing in rural areas and small towns wherever necessary.

"(b) In order to carry out the purposes of this section, the Secretary of Agriculture (in this section referred to as the 'Secretary') is authorized—

"(1)(A) to make grants to, or contract with, public or private nonprofit corporations, agencies, institutions, organizations, and other associations approved by him, to pay part or all of the cost of developing, conducting, administering, or coordinating effective and comprehensive programs of technical and supervisory assistance which will aid needy low-income individuals and their families in carrying out mutual or self-help housing efforts; and

"(B) to establish the Self-Help Housing Land Development Fund, referred to herein as the Self-Help Fund, to be used by the Secretary as a revolving fund for making loans, on such terms and conditions and in such amounts as he deems necessary, to public or private nonprofit organizations for the acquisition and development of land as building sites to be subdivided and sold to families, nonprofit organizations, and cooperatives eligible for assistance under section 235 or 236 of the National Housing Act or section 521 of this Act. Such a loan, with interest at a rate not to exceed 3 percent per annum, shall be repaid within a period not to exceed two years from the making of the loan, or within such additional period as may be authorized by the Secretary in any case as being necessary to carry out the purposes hereof; and

"(2) To make loans, on such terms and conditions and in such amounts as he deems necessary, to needy low-income individuals participating in programs of mutual or self-help housing approved by him, for the acquisition and development of land and for the purchase of such other building materials as may be necessary in order to enable them, by providing substantially all of their own labor, and by cooperating with others participating in such programs, to carry out to completion the construction of decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings for such individuals and their families, subject to the following limitations:

"(A) there is reasonable assurance of repayment of the loan;

"(B) the amount of the loan, together with other funds which may be available, is adequate to achieve the purpose for which the loan is made;

"(C) the credit assistance is not otherwise available on like terms or conditions from private sources or through other Federal, State, or local programs;

"(D) the loan bears interest at a rate not to exceed 3 per centum per annum on the unpaid balance of principal, plus such additional charge, if any, toward covering other costs of the loan program as the Secretary may determine to be consistent with its purposes; and

"(E) the loan is repayable within not more than thirty-three years.

"(c) In determining whether to extend financial assistance under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (b), the Secretary shall take into consideration, among other factors, the suitability of the area within which construction will be carried out to the type of dwelling which can be provided under mutual or self-help housing programs, the extent to which the assistance will facilitate the provision of more decent, safe, and sanitary housing conditions than presently exist in the area, the extent to which the assistance will be utilized efficiently and expeditiously, the extent to which the assistance will effect an increase in the standard of living of low-income individuals participating in the mutual or self-help housing program, and whether the assistance will fulfill a need in the area which is not otherwise being met through other programs, including those carried out by other Federal, State, or local agencies.

"(d) As used in this section, the term 'construction' includes the erection of new dwellings, and the rehabilitation, alteration, conversion, or improvement of existing structures.

"(e) The Secretary is authorized to establish appropriate criteria and procedures in order to determine the eligibility of applicants for the financial assistance provided under this section, including criteria and procedures with respect to the periodic review of any construction carried out with such financial assistance.

"(f) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated for each fiscal year commencing after June 30, 1968, and ending prior to July 1, 1973, such sums, not in excess of $5,000,000 for any such fiscal year, as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. No grant or loan may be made or contract entered into under the authority of this section after June 30, 1973, except pursuant to a commitment or other obligation entered into pursuant to this section before that date.

"(g) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of subsection (b)(1)(B) not to exceed $1,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $2,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amount so authorized to be appropriated for any fiscal year which is not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year or years. Amounts appropriated under this subsection shall be deposited in the Self-Help Fund, which shall be available without fiscal year limitation for making loans under subsection (b)(1)(B). Instruments and property required by the Secretary in or as a result of making such loans shall be assets of the Self-Help Fund. Sums received from the repayment of such loans shall be deposited in and be a part of the Self-Help Fund."

TITLE XI—URBAN PROPERTY PROTECTION AND REINSURANCE

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1101. This title may be cited as the "Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act of 1968."

FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

SEC. 1102. (a) The Congress finds that (1) the vitality of many American cities is being threatened by the deterioration of their inner city areas; responsible owners of well-maintained residential, business, and other properties in many of these areas are unable to obtain adequate property insurance coverage against fire, crime, and other perils; the lack of such insurance coverage accelerates the deterioration of these areas by discouraging private investment and restricting the availability of credit to repair and improve property therein; and this deterioration poses a serious threat to the national economy; (2) recent riots and other civil commotion in many American cities have brought about abnormally high losses to the private property insurance industry for which adequate reinsurance cannot be obtained at reasonable cost, and the risk of such losses will make most lines of property insurance even more difficult to obtain; (3) the capacity of the private property insurance industry to provide adequate insurance is threatened, and the continuity of such property insurance protection is essential to the extension of credit in these areas; and (4) the national interest demands urgent action by the Congress to assure that essential lines of property insurance, including lines providing protection against riot and civil commotion damage will be available to property owners at reasonable cost.

(b) The purposes of this title are, therefore, to (1) encourage and assist the various State insurance authorities and the property insurance industry to develop and carry out statewide programs which will make necessary property insurance coverage against the fire, crime, and other perils more readily available for residential, business, and other properties meeting reasonable underwriting standards; and (2) provide a Federal program of reinsurance against abnormally high property insurance losses resulting from riots and other civil commotion, placing appropriate financial responsibility upon the States to share in such losses.

AMENDMENT OF THE NATIONAL HOUSING ACT

SEC. 1103. The National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new title:

"TITLE XII—NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

"PROGRAM AUTHORITY

"SEC. 1201. (a) The Secretary is authorized to establish and carry out the programs provided for in parts A, B, and C of this title.

"(b)(1) The powers of the Secretary under this title shall terminate on April 30, 1973, except to the extent necessary—

"(A) to continue reinsurance in accordance with the provisions of section 1223(b) until April 30, 1976;

"(B) to process, verify, and pay claims for reinsured losses and perform other necessary functions in connection therewith; and

"(C) to complete the liquidation and termination of the reinsurance program.

"(2) On April 30, 1976, or as soon thereafter as possible, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress for its approval, a plan for the liquidation and termination of the reinsurance program.

"ADVISORY BOARD; MEETINGS, DUTIES, COMPENSATION, AND EXPENSES

"SEC. 1202. (a) (1) There is established an Advisory Board (hereinafter called the 'Board') consisting of nineteen members appointed by the Secretary. Members of the Board shall be selected from among representatives of the general public, the insurance industry, State and local governments including State insurance authorities, and the Federal Government. Of these members of the Board, not more than six shall be regular full-time employees of the Federal Government, and not less than four shall be representatives of the private insurance industry and not less than four shall be representatives of State insurance authorities.

"(2) The Secretary shall designate a Chairman and a Vice Chairman of the Board.

"(3) Each member shall serve for a term of two years or until his successor has been appointed, except that no person who is appointed while a full-time employee of a State or the Federal Government shall serve in such position after he ceases to be so employed, unless he is reappointed.

"(4) Any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of that term.

"(b) The Chairman shall preside at all meetings, and the Vice Chairman shall preside in the absence or disability of the Chairman. In the absence of both the Chairman and Vice Chairman, the Secretary may appoint any member to act as Chairman pro tempore. The Board shall meet at such times and places as it or the Secretary may fix and determine, but shall hold at least four regularly scheduled meetings a year. Special meetings may be held at the call of the Chairman or any three members of the Board, or at the call of the Secretary.

"(c) The Board shall review general policies and shall advise the Secretary with respect thereto, and perform such other functions as are specified in this title.

"(d) The members of the Board shall not, by reason of such membership, be deemed to be employees of the United States, and such members, except those who are regular full-time employees of the Government, shall receive for their services, as members, the per diem equivalent to the rate for grade GS–18 of the General Schedule under section 5332 of title 5, United States Code, when engaged in the performance of their duties, and each member of the Board shall be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as authorized by section 5703 of such title for persons in the Government service employed intermittently.

"DEFINITIONS

"SEC. 1203. (a) When used in this title, unless the context otherwise requires, the term—

"(1) 'environmental hazard' means any hazardous condition that might give rise to loss under an insurance contract, but which is beyond the control of the property owner;

"(2) 'essential property insurance' means insurance against direct loss to property as defined and limited in standard fire policies and extended coverage endorsement thereon, as approved by the State insurance authority and insurance for such types, classes, and locations of property against the perils of vandalism, malicious mischief, burglary, or theft, as the Secretary by rule shall designate. Such insurance shall not include automobile insurance and shall not include insurance on such types of manufacturing risks as may be excluded by the State insurance authority;

"(3) 'inspection facility', with respect to any State, means any rating bureau or other person designated by the State insurance authority to perform inspections under fair access to insurance requirements plans under part A;

"(4) 'insurer' includes any insurance company or group of companies under common ownership which is authorized to engage in the insurance business under the laws of any State;

"(5) 'pool' means any pool or association of insurance companies in any State which is formed, associated, or otherwise created for the purpose of making property insurance more readily available;

"(6) 'losses resulting from riots or civil disorders' means losses resulting from riots or civil disorders under policies for standard lines of property insurance for which reinsurance is offered under section 1221, as determined under regulations of the Secretary;

"(7) 'property owner', with respect to any real, personal, or mixed real and personal property, means any person having an insurable interest in such property;

"(8) 'person' includes any individual or group of individuals, corporation, partnership, or association, or any other organized group of persons;

"(9) 'reinsured losses' means losses on reinsurance claims and all direct expenses incurred in connection therewith including, but not limited to expenses for processing, verifying, and paying such losses;

"(10) 'standard line of property insurance' includes—

"(A) fire and extended coverage;

"(B) vandalism and malicious mischief;

"(C) other allied lines of fire insurance;

"(D) burglary and theft;

"(E) those portions of multiple peril policies covering perils similar to those provided for in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D);

"(F) inland marine;

"(G) glass;

"(H) boiler and machinery;

"(I) ocean marine;

"(J) aircraft physical damage; and

"(K) such other lines generally offered to the public which include protection against damage from riot or civil commotion as the Secretary by regulation may designate;

"(11) 'State' means the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the territories and possessions, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands;

"(12) 'urban area' includes any municipality or other political subdivision of a State, subject to population or other limitations defined in rules and regulations of the Secretary and such additional areas as may be designated by the State insurance authority; and

"(13) 'year' means a calendar year, fiscal year of a company, or such other period of twelve months as may be designated by the Secretary.

"(b) The Secretary is authorized to define, by rules and regulations, any technical or trade term, insofar as such definition is not inconsistent with the provisions of this title.

"PART A—STATEWIDE PLANS TO ASSURE FAIR ACCESS TO INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS

"FAIR PLANS

"SEC. 1211. (a) Each insurer reinsured under this title shall cooperate with the State insurance authority in each State in which it is to acquire such reinsurance in establishing and carrying out statewide plans to assure fair access to insurance requirements (FAIR plans).

"(b) Such plans must be approved by, and administered under the supervision of, the State insurance authority, or be authorized or required by State law, and shall be designed to make essential property insurance more readily available in, but not necessarily limited to, urban areas. Such plans may vary in detail from State to State because of local conditions, but all plans shall contain provision that—

"(1) no risk shall be written at surcharged rates or be denied insurance coverage for essential property insurance unless there has first been an inspection of the risk, without cost to the owner, by an inspection facility and a determination by the insurer, based on information in the inspection report and other sources, that the risk does not meet reasonable underwriting standards at the applicable premium rate;

"(2) inspections under the plan may be requested by the property owner or his representative, the insurer, or the insurance agent, broker or other producer, and such requests need not be made in writing;

"(3) the absence of a building owner or his representative during an inspection shall not preclude a tenant seeking insurance from obtaining an inspection under the plan;

"(4) following the inspection, a copy of the inspection report shall be promptly sent by the inspection facility to the insurer or insurers, or to an all-industry placement facility referred to under section 1212, as may be designated by the person requesting the inspection;

"(5) after the inspection report is received by an insurer, it shall promptly determine if the risk meets reasonable underwriting standards at the applicable premium rate and shall promptly return to the inspection facility the inspection report and provide an action report setting forth—

"(A) (i) the amount of coverage it agrees to write; and if the insurer agrees to write the coverage with a surcharge (if such a surcharge is authorized by the State insurance authority), the improvements necessary before it will provide coverage at an unsurcharged premium rate; and

"(ii) the amount of coverage it agrees to write if certain improvements specified in the action report are made; or

"(B) the specific reasons it declines to write coverage;

"(6) if the insurer declines the risk, or agrees to write the coverage sought on condition that the property will be improved, it shall also promptly send a copy of both the inspection and action reports to the property owner and the State insurance authority, and at the time the insurer sends such reports to the property owner, it shall also explain his right, under applicable State laws, to appeal the decision of the insurer to the State insurance authority, setting forth the procedures to be followed for such appeal;

"(7) all policies written pursuant to the plan shall be promptly written after inspection or reinspection and shall be separately coded so that appropriate records may be compiled for purposes of performing loss prevention and other studies of the operation of the plan;

"(8) the inspection facility shall submit to the State insurance authority and to the Secretary periodic reports setting forth information, by individual insurers, including the number of risks inspected under the plan, the number of risks accepted, the number of risks conditionally accepted and reinspections made, the number of risks declined, and such other information as the State insurance authority may request;

"(9) notice will be given to any policy-holder a reasonable time prior to the cancellation or nonrenewal of any risk eligible under the plan (except in case of nonpayment of premium or evidence of incendiarism), to allow ample time for an application for new coverage to be made and a new policy to be written under the plan, and the insurer shall, in writing, explain to the policyholder the procedures for obtaining an inspection under the plan in the notice of cancellation or nonrenewal; and

"(10) a continuing public education program will be undertaken by the participating insurers, agents, and brokers to assure that the plan receives adequate public attention.

"ALL-INDUSTRY PLACEMENT FACILITY

"SEC. 1212. Any plan under this part shall include an all-industry placement facility doing business with every insurer participating in the plan in the State, and shall provide that this facility shall perform certain functions including, but not limited, to the following:

"(1) seeking, upon request by or on behalf of any property owner requesting an inspection under the plan, to distribute the risks involved equitably among the insurers with which it is doing business; and

"(2) seeking to place insurance up to the full insurable value of the risk to be insured with one or more insurers with which it is doing business, except to the extent that deductibles, percentage participation clauses, and other underwriting devices are employed to meet special problems of insurability.

"INDUSTRY COOPERATION

"SEC. 1213. (a) Each insurer seeking reinsurance under this title shall file a statement with the State insurance authority in each State in which it is participating in a plan under this part, pledging its full participation and cooperation in carrying out the plan, and shall file a copy of such statement with the Secretary.

"(b) No insurer acquiring reinsurance under this title shall direct any agent or broker or other producer not to solicit business through such a plan, nor shall any agent, broker, or other producer be penalized by such insurer in any way for submitting applications for insurance to an insurer under the plan.

"PLAN EVALUATION

"SEC. 1214. (a) In accordance with such rules and regulations as the Secretary may prescribe, each State insurance authority shall—

"(1) transmit to the Secretary any proposed or adopted plan, or amendments thereto; and

"(2) advise the Secretary, from time to time, concerning the operation of the plan, its effectiveness in providing essential property insurance, and the need to form a pool of insurers or adopt other programs to make essential property insurance more readily available in urban areas of the State.

"(b) The Secretary may, after full consultation with the Board, by rules and regulations, modify the plan criteria set forth under this part, if he finds, on the basis of experience, that such action is necessary or desirable to carry out the purposes of this title. The Secretary may also, with respect to any State, waive compliance with one or more of the plan criteria, upon certification by the State insurance authority that compliance is unnecessary or inadvisable under local conditions or State law.

"PART B—REINSURANCE COVERAGE

"REINSURANCE OF LOSSES FROM RIOTS OR CIVIL DISORDERS

"SEC. 1221. (a)(1) The Secretary is authorized to offer to any insurer or pool, subject to the conditions set forth in section 1223, reinsurance against property losses resulting from riots or civil disorders in any one or more States.

"(2) Reinsurance shall be offered to any such insurer or pool only on all standard lines of property insurance enumerated under subparagraphs (A) through (E) of section 1203(a)(10) together, and any insurer or pool purchasing such reinsurance shall also be eligible to purchase reinsurance on any one or more standard lines of property insurance enumerated under subparagraphs (F) through (J) of section 1203(a)(10) or which may be designated by regulation pursuant to subparagraph (K) of that section.

"(b) Reinsurance coverage under this section may be provided immediately following the enactment of this title to any insurer or pool in any State on a temporary basis, and on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, and coverage under such terms and conditions may be bound with respect to any such insurer or pool by means of a written binder which shall remain in force not more than ninety days and shall expire at the earlier of either—

"(1) the termination of such ninety-day period, or

"(2) the effective date of any governing contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement entered into between the insurer or pool and the Secretary under section 1222 for the purpose of providing reinsurance coverage against losses resulting from riots or civil disorders.

"(c) No reinsurance shall be offered to any insurer or pool in a State after the expiration of the written binder entered into under subsection (b), unless there is in effect in such State a plan as set forth under part A and the insurer or pool is participating in such plan, and unless, in the case of an insurer in a State where a pool has been established pursuant to State law, the insurer is participating in such a pool.

"REINSURANCE AGREEMENTS AND PREMIUMS

"SEC. 1222. (a) During the first year following the date of the enactment of this title, the Secretary is authorized to enter into any contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement with any insurer or pool for reinsurance coverage, in consideration of payment of such premiums, fees, or other charges by insurers or pools which the Secretary, after full consultation with the Board, deems to be adequate to obtain aggregate reinsurance premiums for deposit in the National Insurance Development Fund established under section 1233 in excess of the estimated amount of insured riot losses during the calendar year 1967, on the assumption that a substantial proportion of the property insurance written will be reinsured under this title, and thereafter the Secretary may increase or decrease such premiums for reinsurance if it is found after full consultation with the Board and the National Association of Insurance Commissioners that such action is necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this title.

"(b) Reinsurance offered under this title shall reimburse an insurer or pool for its total proved and approved claims for covered losses resulting from riots or civil disorders during the term of the reinsurance contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement, over and above the amount of the insurer's or pool's retention of such losses as provided in such reinsurance contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement entered into under this section.

"(c) Such contracts, agreements, treaties, or other arrangements may be made without regard to section 3679(a) of the Revised Statutes of the United States (31 U.S.C. 665 (a)), and shall include any terms and conditions which the Secretary deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this title. The premium rates, terms, and conditions of such contracts with insurers or pools, throughout the country, in any one year shall be uniform.

"(d) Any contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement for reinsurance under this section shall be for a term expiring on April 30, 1969, and on April 30 each year thereafter, and shall be entered into within ninety days after the date of the enactment of this title or within ninety days prior to April 30 each year thereafter, or within ninety days after an insurer is authorized to write insurance eligible for reinsurance in a State which it was not authorized to write in the preceding year.

"CONDITIONS OF REINSURANCE

"SEC. 1223. (a) Subject to the provisions of subsection (b), reinsurance shall not be offered by the Secretary in a State or be applicable to insurance policies written in that State by an insurer—

"(1) after one year following the date of the enactment of this title, or, if the appropriate State legislative body has not met in regular session during that year, by the close of its next regular session, in any State which has not adopted appropriate legislation, retroactive to the date of the enactment of this title, under which the State, its political subdivisions, or a governmental corporation or fund established pursuant to State law, will reimburse the Secretary, in an amount up to 5 per centum of the aggregate property insurance premiums earned in that State during the preceding calendar year on those lines of insurance reinsured by the Secretary in that State during the current year, such that the Secretary may be reimbursed for amounts paid by him in respect to reinsured losses that occurred in that State during a calendar year in excess of (A) reinsurance premiums received in that State during the same calendar year plus (B) the excess of (i) the total premiums received by the Secretary for reinsurance in that State during a preceding period measured from the end of the most recent calendar year with respect to which the Secretary was reimbursed for losses under this title over (ii) any amounts paid by the Secretary for reinsured losses that occurred during the same period;

"(2) after thirty days following notification to the insurer that the Secretary finds (after consultation with the State insurance authority) that there has not been adopted by the State, or the property insurance industry in that State, a suitable program or programs, in addition to plans under part A, to make essential property insurance available without regard to environmental hazards, and that such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this title; except that this paragraph shall not become effective until two years after the date of the enactment of this title, or at such earlier date as the Secretary, after consultation with the State insurance authority, may determine;

"(3) after thirty days following notification to the insurer that the Secretary, or the State insurance authority, finds that such insurer is not fully participating—

"(A) in the plan in the State;

"(B) where it exists, in a pool; and

"(C) where it exists, in any other program found by the Secretary to aid in making essential property insurance more readily available in the State:

Provided: That the Secretary shall not make any such finding with respect to any insurer unless (i) prior to making such finding the Secretary has requested and considered the views of the State insurance authority as to whether such finding should be made, or (ii) the Secretary has made such a request in writing to the State insurance authority and such authority has failed to respond thereto within a reasonable period of time after receiving such request;

"(4) following a merger, acquisition, consolidation or reorganization involving one or more insurers having lines of property insurance in the State reinsured under this title and one or more insurers with or without such reinsurance, unless the surviving company—

"(A) meets the criteria of eligibility for reinsurance, other than as provided under section 1222(d); and

"(B) within ten days pays any reinsurance premiums due; or

"(5) upon receipt of notice from the insurer or pool that it desires to cancel its reinsurance agreement with the Secretary in the State.

"(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, reinsurance may be continued for the term of the policies written prior to the date of termination or nonrenewal of reinsurance under this section, for as long as the insurer pays reinsurance premiums annually in such amounts as are determined under section 1222, based on the annual premiums earned on such reinsured policies, and for the purpose of this subsection, the renewal, extension, modification, or other change in a policy, for which any additional premium is charged, shall be deemed to be a policy written on the date such change was made.

"(b)(1) Upon disallowance of any claim under color of reinsurance made available under this title, or upon refusal of the claimant to accept the amount allowed upon any such claim, the claimant may institute an action against the Secretary on such claim in the United States district court for the district in which a major portion (in terms of value) of the claim arose.

"(2) Any such action must be begun within one year after the date upon which the claimant received written notice of disallowance or partial disallowance of the claim, and exclusive jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon United States district courts to hear and determine such actions without regard to the amount in controversy.

"FISCAL INTERMEDIARIES AND SERVICING AGENTS

"SEC. 1232. (a) In order to provide for maximum efficiency in the administration of the reinsurance program under this title, and in order to facilitate the expeditious payment of any funds under such program, the Secretary may enter into contracts with any insurer, pool, or other person, for the purpose of providing for the performance of any or all of the following functions:

"(1) estimating or determining any amounts of payments for reinsurance claims;

"(2) receiving and disbursing and accounting for funds in making payments for reinsurance claims;

"(3) auditing the records of any insurer, pool, or other person to the extent necessary to assure that proper payments are made;

"(4) establishing the basis of liability for reinsurance payments, including the total amount of proved and approved claims which may be payable to any insurer, and the total amount of premiums earned by any insurer in the respective States for reinsured lines of property insurance; and

"(5) otherwise assisting in any manner provided in the contract to further the purposes of this title.

"(b)(1) Any such contract may require the insurer, pool, or other person, or any of its officers or employees certifying payments or disbursing funds pursuant to the contract, or otherwise participating in carrying out the contract, to give surety bond to the United States in such amounts as the Secretary may deem appropriate.

"(2) In the absence of gross negligence or intent to defraud the United States—

"(A) no individual designated pursuant to a contract under this section to certify payments shall be liable with respect to any payment certified by him under this section; and

"(B) no officer of the United States disbursing funds shall be liable with respect to any otherwise proper payment by him if it was based on a voucher signed by an individual designated pursuant to a contract under this section to certify payments.

"NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT FUND

"SEC. 1233. (a) To carry out the programs authorized under this title, the Secretary is authorized to establish a National Insurance Development Fund (hereinafter called the 'fund') which shall be available, without fiscal year limitations—

"(1) to make such payments as may, from time to time, be required under reinsurance contracts under this title;

"(2) to pay such administrative expenses as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this title; and

"(3) to repay to the Secretary of the Treasury such sums, including interest thereon, as may be borrowed from him for purposes of such programs under section 520(b).

"(b) The fund shall be credited with—

"(1) reinsurance premiums, fees, and other charges which may be paid or collected in connection with reinsurance provided under part B;

"(2) interest which may be earned on investments of the fund;

"(3) such amounts as may be advanced to the fund from appropriations in order to maintain the fund in an operative condition adequate to meet its liabilities;

"(4) receipts from any other source which may, from time to time, be credited to the fund; and

"(5) funds borrowed by the Secretary under section 520(b) and deposited in the fund.

"(c) If, after any amounts which may have been advanced to the fund from appropriations have been credited to the appropriation from which advanced (including interest thereon at the rate prescribed under section 520(b)), the Secretary determines that the moneys of the fund are in excess of current needs, he may request the investment of such amounts as he deems advisable by the Secretary of the Treasury in obligations issued or guaranteed by the United States.

"(d) An annual business-type budget for the fund shall be prepared, transmitted to the Congress, considered, and enacted in the manner prescribed by law (sections 102, 103, and 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act (31 U.S.C. 847–849)) for wholly-owned Government corporations.

"RECORDS, ANNUAL STATEMENT, AND AUDITS

"SEC. 1234. (a) Any insurer or pool acquiring reinsurance under this title shall furnish the Secretary with such summaries and analyses of information in its records as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title, in such form as the Secretary, in cooperation with the State insurance authority, shall, by rules and regulations, prescribe. The Secretary shall make use of State insurance authority examination reports and facilities to the maximum extent feasible.

"(b) Any insurer or pool acquiring reinsurance under this title shall file with the Secretary a true and correct copy of any annual statement, or amendment thereof, filed with the State insurance authority of its domiciliary State, at the time it files such statement or amendment with such State insurance authority.

"(c) Any insurer or other person executing any contract, agreement, or other appropriate arrangement with the Secretary under section 1222 or section 1232 shall keep reasonable records which fully disclose the total costs of the programs undertaken or the services being rendered, and such other records as will facilitate an effective audit of liability for reinsurance payments by the Secretary.

"(d) The Secretary and the Comptroller General of the United States, or any of their duly authorized representatives, shall have access for the purpose of investigation, audit, and examination to any books, documents, papers, and records of any insurer or other person that are pertinent to the costs of any program undertaken for, or services rendered to, the Secretary. Such audits shall be conducted to the maximum extent feasible in cooperation with the State insurance authorities and through the use of their examining facilities.

"STUDY OF REINSURANCE AND OTHER PROGRAMS

"SEC. 1235. (a) The Secretary is authorized and directed to conduct a study of reinsurance and other means to help assure—

"(1) an adequate market for burglary and theft and other property insurance in urban areas; and

"(2) adequate availability of surety bonds for construction contractors in urban areas.

"(b) The Secretary shall submit the results of this study, together with appropriate recommendations, to the President and Congress no later than one year following the date of the enactment of this title.

"OTHER STUDIES

"SEC. 1236. (a) The Secretary is authorized to undertake such studies as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title including, but not limited to, inquiries concerning—

"(1) the operation of plans under part A;

"(2) the extent to which essential property insurance is unavailable in urban areas;

"(3) the market for private reinsurance; and

"(4) loss prevention methods and procedures, insurance marketing methods, and underwriting techniques.

"(b) To such extent and under such circumstances as may be practicable and feasible, the Secretary shall conduct any study authorized under this section in cooperation with State insurance authorities and the private insurance industry.

"GENERAL POWERS

"SEC. 1237. In the performance of, and with respect to, the functions, powers, and duties vested in him by this title, the Secretary shall (in addition to any authority otherwise vested in him) have the functions, powers, and duties (including the authority to issue rules and regulations) set forth in section 402, except subsections (c)(2), (d), and (f), of the Housing Act of 1950. Any rules and regulations of the Secretary shall only be issued after full consultation with the Board and after notice and hearing, if granted, as required by the Administrative Procedure Act.

"SERVICES AND FACILITIES OF OTHER AGENCIES—UTILIZATION OF PERSONNEL, SERVICES, FACILITIES, AND INFORMATION

"SEC. 1238. The Secretary may, with the consent of the agency concerned, accept and utilize, on a reimbursable basis, the officers, employees, services, facilities, and information of any agency of the Federal Government, except that any such agency having custody of any data relating to any of the matter within the jurisdiction of the Secretary shall, to the extent permitted by law, upon request of the Secretary, make such data available to the Secretary.

"ADVANCE PAYMENTS

"SEC. 1239. Any payments which are made under the authority of this title may be made, after necessary adjustments on account of previously made underpayments or overpayments in advance or by way of reimbursement. Payments may be made in such installments and on such conditions as the Secretary may determine.

"TAXATION

"SEC. 1240. (a) The National Insurance Development Fund, including its reserves, surplus, and income, shall be exempt from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, or by any State, or any subdivision thereof, except that any real property acquired by the Secretary as a result of reinsurance shall be subject to taxation by any State or political subdivision thereof, to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed.

"(b) Any measures undertaken by any State to meet or to fund its obligations under section 1223(a)(1) shall not be the subject of any retaliatory or fiscal imposition by any other State.

"APPROPRIATIONS

"SEC. 1241. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this title."

FINANCING

SEC. 1104. Section 520(b) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "(1)" after "necessary" in the first sentence, and by striking out the period at the end of such sentence and inserting in lieu thereof ", and (2) to make payments for reinsured losses under title XII of this Act: Provided, however, That borrowings to make payments for reinsured losses under title XII shall be limited to $250,000,000 or such further sum as the Congress, by joint resolution, may from time to time determine."

FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATOR

SEC. 1105. (a) There is hereby established in the Department of Housing and Urban Development the position of Federal Insurance Administrator.

(b) Section 5315 of title 5 United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(91) Federal Insurance Administrator, Department of Housing and Urban Development."

CLARIFYING AMENDMENTS TO ACTS REFERRING TO DISASTERS

SEC. 1106. (a) Section 7(b)(1) of the Small Business Act is amended by inserting ", riots or civil disorders," before "or other catastrophes".

(b) Section 101(c)(2)(E) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by striking out "natural".

(c) Section 111 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out "the Secretary" after "disaster," and inserting in lieu thereof "or which the Secretary has determined is in need of such redevelopment or rehabilitation as a result of a riot or civil disorder, he".

(d) Section 203(h) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "riot or civil disorder," before "or other catastrophe".

(e) No person who has been convicted of committing a felony during and in connection with a riot or civil disorder shall be permitted, for a period of one year after the date of his conviction, to receive any benefit under any law of the United States providing relief for disaster victims.

TITLE XII—DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA INSURANCE PLACEMENT ACT

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1201. This title may be cited as the "District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act".

DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

SEC. 1202. The purposes of this title are—

(1) to assure stability in the property insurance market for property located in the District of Columbia;

(2) to assure the availability of basic property insurance as defined by this title;

(3) to encourage maximum use, in obtaining basic property insurance, of the normal insurance market provided by authorized insurers; and

(4) to provide for the equitable distribution among insurers of the responsibility for insuring qualified property in the District of Columbia for which insurance cannot be obtained through the normal insurance market and to authorize the establishment of a joint underwriting association in the District of Columbia to provide for reinsuring of basic property insurance without regard to environmental hazards.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 1203. As used in this title, unless the context otherwise requires—

(1) The term "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the District of Columbia or his designated agent.

(2) The term "basic property insurance" means (1) insurance against direct loss to property caused by perils as defined and limited in the standard fire policy and extended coverage endorsement thereon, as approved by the Commissioner, and (2) such other insurance (including insurance against the perils of vandalism, malicious mischief, burglary, theft, and robbery) as the Commissioner may designate (under regulations adopted or made under section 1205 of this title) from those lines of property insurance for which reinsurance is available for losses from riots or civil disorders under part B of title XII of the National Housing Act.

(3) The term "environmental hazard" means any hazardous condition that might give rise to loss under an insurance contract, but which is beyond the control of the property owner.

(4) The term "inspection bureau" means any rating bureau or other organization designated by the Commissioner to perform inspections to determine the condition of the properties for which basic property insurance is sought.

(5) The terms "Industry Placement Facility" and "Facility" mean the facility consisting of all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing basic property insurance (including homeowners and commercial multiperil policies) within the District of Columbia to assist agents, brokers, and applicants in securing basic property insurance.

(6) The term "premiums written" means gross direct premiums charged with respect to property in the District of Columbia on all policies of basic property insurance and the basic property insurance premium components of all multiperil policies, less all premiums and dividends returned, paid, or credited to policyholders or the unused or unabsorbed portions of premiums deposits.

(7) The term "property owner" means any person having an insurable interest in real, personal, or mixed real and personal property.

INDUSTRY PLACEMENT FACILITY

SEC. 1204. (a) Within thirty days after the date of the enactment of this title all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, basic property insurance or any component thereof in multiperil policies, shall establish an Industry Placement Facility. The Facility shall formulate and administer a program, subject to disapproval by the Commissioner in whole or in part, to seek the equitable apportionment among such insurers of basic property insurance which may be afforded applicants in the District of Columbia whose property is insurable in accordance with reasonable underwriting standards and who individually or through their insurance agent or broker request the aid of the Facility to procure such insurance. The Facility shall seek to place insurance with one or more participating companies up to the full insurable value of the risk, if requested, except to the extent that deductibles, percentage participation clauses, and other underwriting devices are employed to meet special problems of insurability.

(b) The Facility may, subject to the approval of the Commissioner, provide as part of its program for the equitable distribution of commercial risks and dwelling risks among insurers.

(c) Each insurer licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, basic property insurance or any component thereof in multiperil policies shall participate in the Industry Placement Facility program in accordance with the established rules of the program as a condition of of its authority to transact such kinds of insurance in the District of Columbia, except that, in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the established rules of the program, the Commissioner may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such failure to so comply when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company in the District of Columbia.

FAIR ACCESS TO INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS

SEC. 1205. (a) The Industry Placement Facility shall on its own motion, or within thirty days after a request by the Commissioner, submit to the Commissioner such proposed rules and regulations applicable to insurers, agents, and brokers deemed necessary to assure all property owners fair access to basic property insurance through the normal insurance markets, including rules and regulations concerning—

(1) the manner and scope of inspections of risk by an inspection bureau;

(2) the preparation and filing of inspection reports and reports on actions taken in connection with inspected risks, and summaries thereof;

(3) the operation of the Facility, including rules and regulations concerning—

(A) the basic property insurance coverages to be provided through the Facility;

(B) the reasonable effort to obtain insurance in the normal commercial market required of an applicant before recourse to the Facility; and

(C) the appeals procedure within the Facility for any applicant for insurance regarding any ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of the Facility.

(b) The Commissioner may adopt such of the rules and regulations submitted pursuant to subsection (a) of this section as he approves. If the Commissioner disapproves any proposed rule or regulation submitted, he shall state the reasons for so doing, and he shall require the Facility to submit a revision thereof within such time as he may designate, but no less than ten days. During such designated time, the Commissioner and the Facility shall consult regarding any such disapproved rule or regulation. If the Facility fails to submit a proposed rule or regulation, or revision thereof, within the designated time, or if a revised rule or regulation is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner may make such rules and regulations covering the proposed general subject matter as he shall deem necessary to carry out the purposes of this title. Any rule or regulation adopted or made under this section shall be consistent with the requirements of part A of title XII of the National Housing Act.

JOINT UNDERWRITING ASSOCIATION

SEC. 1206. (a) The Commissioner is authorized to establish by order a joint underwriting association if he finds, after notice and hearing, that such association is necessary to carry out the purposes of this title. Such joint underwriting association shall consist of all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner or any component thereof in multiperil policies.

(b) Every such insurer shall be and remain a member of the association and shall comply with all requirements of membership as a condition of its authority to transact such kinds of insurance in the District of Columbia, except that in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the requirements of membership, the Commissioner may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such failure to so comply when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company in the District of Columbia.

(c)(1) Within sixty days following the effective date of the order of the Commissioner under this section the association shall submit to him a proposed plan of operation, consistent with the provisions of this title, which shall provide for economical, fair, and nondiscriminatory administration of the association and for the prompt and efficient provision of reinsurance, without regard to environmental hazards, for such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner. The plan of operation shall include provisions for—

(A) preliminary assessment of all members for initial expenses necessary to commence operations;

(B) establishment of necessary facilities;

(C) management and operation of the association;

(D) assessment of members to defray losses and expenses;

(E) commission arrangements;

(F) reasonable underwriting standards;

(G) assumption and cession of reinsurance; and

(H) such other matters as the Commissioner may designate.

(2) The plan of operation shall not take effect until approved by the Commissioner. If the Commissioner disapproves the proposed plan of operation (or any part thereof), he shall state the reasons for so doing, and the association shall within thirty days thereafter submit for his review an appropriately revised plan of operation. During such time, the Commissioner and the association shall consult regarding the disapproved plan or part thereof. If the association fails to submit a revised plan of operation, or if the revised plan so submitted is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner shall promulgate a plan of operation.

(3) The association may, on its own initiative, amend such plan, subject to approval by the Commissioner, and shall amend such plan at the direction of the Commissioner if he finds such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(d) All members of the association shall participate in its writings, expenses, profits, and losses, or in such categories thereof as may be separately established by the association, subject to approval by the Commissioner, in the proportion that the premiums written by each such member during the preceding calendar year bear to the aggregate premiums written in the District of Columbia by all members of the association, or in accordance with such other formula as the association may devise with the approval of the Commissioner. Such participation by each insurer in the association shall be determined annually on the basis of such premiums written during the preceding calendar year as disclosed in the annual statements and other reports filed by the insurer with the Commissioner.

(e) The association shall be governed by a board of eleven directors, elected annually by cumulative voting by the members of the association, whose votes in such election shall be weighted in accordance with the proportionate amount of each member's net direct premiums written in the District of Columbia during the preceding calendar year. The first board shall be elected at a meeting of the members or their authorized representatives, which shall be held within thirty days after the effective date of the order under this section establishing the association, at a time and place designated by the Commissioner.

EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER

SEC. 1207. The operation of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, and the joint underwriting association shall at all times be subject to the supervision and regulation of the Commissioner. The Commissioner shall have the power of visitation of and examination into such operations and free access to all the books, records, files, papers, and documents that relate to such operations, may summon and qualify witnesses under oath, and may examine directors, officers, agents, employees, or any other person having knowledge of such operations.

WAIVER OF LIABILITY

SEC. 1208. There shall be no liability on the part of, and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against, insurers, any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, the joint underwriting association, the agents or employees of such bureau, Facility, or association, or any officer or employee of the District of Columbia, for any statements made in good faith by them concerning the insurability of property (A) in any reports or other communications, (B) at the time of the hearings conducted in connection therewith, or (C) in the findings with respect thereto required by the provisions of this title. The reports and communications of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, and the joint underwriting association with respect to individual properties shall not be open to inspection by, or otherwise available to, the public.

ANNUAL REPORTS BY JOINT UNDERWRITING ASSOCIATION

SEC. 1209. The joint underwriting association shall file with the Commissioner, annually on or before the 1st day or March, a statement which shall contain information with respect to its transactions, condition, operations, and affairs during the preceding year. Such statement shall contain such matters and information as are prescribed by the Commissioner and shall be in such form as is approved by him. The Commissioner may at any time require the association to furnish him with additional information with respect to its transactions, condition, or any matter connected therewith which he considers to be material and which will assist him in evaluating the scope, operation, and experience of the association.

APPEALS

SEC. 1210. (a) Any applicant for insurance and any affected insurer may appeal to the Commissioner within ninety days after any final ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, or the joint underwriting association, following exhaustion of remedies available within such bureaus, Facility, or association.

(b) All final orders or decisions of the Commissioner made under this title shall be subject to review by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals under section 11–742 of the District of Columbia Code.

REIMBURSEMENT FOR REINSURANCE PROVIDED UNDER NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

SEC. 1211. (a) In order to carry out the purposes of this title and to make available to insurers who participate hereunder the reinsurance afforded under part B of title XII of the National Housing Act against losses to property resulting from riots or civil disorders, the Commissioner is authorized to assess each insurance company authorized to do business in the District of Columbia an amount, in the proportion that the premiums earned by each such company in the District of Columbia, on lines reinsured in the District of Columbia by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, during the preceding calendar year bear to the aggregate premiums earned on those lines in the District of Columbia by all insurance companies, sufficient to provide a fund to reimburse the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the manner set forth in section 1223(a)(1) of such part B. Such fund may be added to or such fund may be created by moneys appropriated therefor by the Congress.

(b) Insurers shall add to the premium rate an amount, to be approved by the Commissioner, sufficient to recover, within not more than three years, any amounts assessed under subsection (a) of this section during the preceding calendar year. Such amount shall be a separate charge to the insured in addition to the premium to be paid and shall be reflected as such in the policy of insurance. No commission shall be paid thereon to any agent or broker producing or selling the policy of insurance wherein such amount is added:

DELEGATION

SEC. 1212. The Commissioner is authorized to delegate any of the functions vested in him by this title.

JUDICIAL REVIEW

SEC. 1213. Section 11–742(a) of the District of Columbia Code is amended (1) by striking out "and" immediately following paragraph (10); (2) by striking out the period following paragraph (11) and inserting in lieu thereof "; and"; and (3) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(12) final orders and decisions of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia under the provisions of the District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act."

TITLE XIII—NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1301. This title may be cited as the "National Flood Insurance Act of 1968".

FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

SEC. 1302. (a) The Congress finds that (1) from time to time flood disasters have created personal hardships and economic distress which have required unforeseen disaster relief measures and have placed an increasing burden on the Nation's resources; (2) despite the installation of preventive and protective works and the adoption of other public programs designed to reduce losses caused by flood damage, these methods have not been sufficient to protect adequately against growing exposure to future flood losses; (3) as a matter of national policy, a reasonable method of sharing the risk of flood losses is through a program of flood insurance which can complement and encourage preventive and protective measures; and (4) if such a program is initiated and carried out gradually, it can be expanded as knowledge is gained and experience is appraised, thus eventually making flood insurance coverage available on reasonable terms and conditions to persons who have need for such protection.

(b) The Congress also finds that (1) many factors have made it uneconomic for the private insurance industry alone to make flood insurance available to those in need of such protection on reasonable terms and conditions; but (2) a program of flood insurance with large-scale participation of the Federal Government and carried out to the maximum extent practicable by the private insurance industry is feasible and can be initiated.

(c) The Congress further finds that (1) a program of flood insurance can promote the public interest by providing appropriate protection against the perils of flood losses and encouraging sound land use by minimizing exposure of property to flood losses; and (2) the objectives of a flood insurance program should be integrally related to a unified national program for flood plain management and, to this end, it is the sense of Congress that within two years following the effective date of this title the President should transmit to the Congress for its consideration any further proposals necessary for such a unified program, including proposals for the allocation of costs among beneficiaries of flood protection.

(d) It is therefore the purpose of this title to (1) authorize a flood insurance program by means of which flood insurance, over a period of time, can be made available on a nationwide basis through the cooperative efforts of the Federal Government and the private insurance industry, and (2) provide flexibility in the program so that such flood insurance may be based on workable methods of pooling risks, minimizing costs, and distributing burdens equitably among those who will be protected by flood insurance and the general public.

(e) It is the further purpose of this title to (1) encourage State and local governments to make appropriate land use adjustments to constrict the development of land which is exposed to flood damage and minimize damage caused by flood losses, (2) guide the development of proposed future construction, where practicable, away from locations which are threatened by flood hazards, (3) encourage lending and credit institutions, as a matter of national policy, to assist in furthering the objectives of the flood insurance program, (4) assure that any Federal assistance provided under the program will be related closely to all flood-related programs and activities of the Federal Government, and (5) authorize continuing studies of flood hazards in order to provide for a constant reappraisal of the flood insurance program and its effect on land use requirements.

AMENDMENTS TO THE FEDERAL FLOOD INSURANCE ACT OF 1956

SEC. 1303. (a) The second sentence of section 15(e) of the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956 (79 Stat. 1078) is amended—

(1) by striking out "rate" the second time it appears in such sentence, and inserting in lieu thereof "market yield", and

(2) by striking out "as of the last day of", and inserting in lieu thereof "during".

(b) Section 15(e) of such Act is further amended by striking out the last sentence thereof.

(c) Sections 2 through 14, subsections (a) through (d), and (f) and (g) of section 15, and sections 16 through 23 of such Act are hereby repealed.

CHAPTER I—THE NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

BASIC AUTHORITY

SEC. 1304. (a) To carry out the purposes of this title, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to establish and carry out a national flood insurance program which will enable interested persons to purchase insurance against loss resulting from physical damage to or loss of real property or personal property related thereto arising from any flood occurring in the United States.

(b) In carrying out the flood insurance program the Secretary shall, to the maximum extent practicable, encourage and arrange for—

(1) appropriate financial participation and risk sharing in the program by insurance companies and other insurers, and

(2) other appropriate participation, on other than a risk-sharing basis, by insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations, in accordance with the provisions of chapter II.

SCOPE OF PROGRAM AND PRIORITIES

SEC. 1305. (a) In carrying out the flood insurance program the Secretary shall afford a priority to making flood insurance available to cover residential properties which are designed for the occupancy of from one to four families and business properties which are owned or leased and operated by small business concerns.

(b) If on the basis of—

(1) studies and investigations undertaken and carried out and information received or exchanged under section 1307, and

(2) such other information as may be necessary,

the Secretary determines that it would be feasible to extend the flood insurance program to cover other properties, he may take such action under this title as from time to time may be necessary in order to make flood insurance available to cover, on such basis as may be feasible, any types and classes of—

(A) other residential properties,

(B) other busines propertes,

(C) agricultural properties,

(D) properties occupied by private nonprofit organizations, and

(E) properties owned by State and local governments and agencies thereof;

and any such extensions of the program to any types and classes of these properties shall from time to time be prescribed in regulations.

(c) The Secretary shall make flood insurance available in only those States or areas (or subdvisions thereof) which he has determined have—

(1) evidenced a positive interest in securing flood insurance coverage under the flood insurance program, and

(2) given satisfactory assurance that by June 30, 1970, permanent land use and control measures will have been adopted for the State or area (or subdivision) which are consistent with the comprehensve criteria for land management and use developed under section 1361, and that the application and enforcement of such measures will commence as soon as technical information on floodways and on controlling flood elevations is available.

NATURE AND LIMITATIONS OF INSURANCE COVERAGE

SEC. 1306. (a) The Secretary shall from time to time, after consultation with the advisory committee authorized under section 1318, appropriate representatives of the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, and appropriate representatives of the insurance authorities of the respective States, provide by regulation for general terms and conditions of insurability which shall be applicable to properties eligible for flood insurance coverage under section 1305, including—

(1) the types, classes, and locations of any such properties which shall be eligible for flood insurance;

(2) the nature and limits of loss or damage in any areas (or subdivisions thereof) which may be covered by such insurance;

(3) the classification, limitation, and rejection of any risks which may be advisable;

(4) appropriate minimum premiums;

(5) appropriate loss-deductibles; and

(6) any other terms and conditions relating to insurance coverage or exclusion which may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(b) In addition to any other terms and conditions under subsection (a), such regulations shall provide that—

(1) any flood insurance coverage based on chargeable premium rates under section 1308 which are less than the estimated premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) shall not exceed—

(A) in the case of residential properties which are designed for the occupancy of from one to four families—

(i) $17,500 aggregate liability for any dwelling unit, and $30,000 for any single dwelling structure containing more than one dwelling unit, and

(ii) $5,000 aggregate liability per dwelling unit for any contents related to such unit;

(B) in the case of business properties which are owned or leased and operated by small business concerns, an aggregate liability with respect to any single structure, including any contents thereof related to premises of small business occupants (as that term is defined by the Secretary), which shall be equal to (i) $30,000 plus (ii) $5,000 multiplied by the number of such occupants and shall be allocated among such occupants (or among the occupant or occupants and the owner) under regulations prescribed by the Secretary; except that the aggregate liability for the structure itself may in no case exceed $30,000; and

(C) in the case of any other properties which may become eligible for flood insurance coverage under section 1305—

(i) $30,000 aggregate liability for any single structure, and

(ii) $5,000 aggregate liability per dwelling unit for any contents related to such unit in the case of residential properties, or per occupant (as that term is defined by the Secretary) for any contents related to the premises occupied in the case of any other properties; and

(2) any flood insurance coverage which may be made available in excess of any of the limits specified in subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of paragraph (1) (or allocated to any person under subparagraph (B) of such paragraph) shall be based only on chargeable premium rates under section 1308 which are not less than the estimated premium rates under section 1307(a)(1), and the amount of such excess coverage shall not in any case exceed an amount which is equal to the applicable limit so specified (or allocated).

ESTIMATES OF PREMIUM RATES

SEC. 1307. (a) The Secretary is authorized to undertake and carry out such studies and investigations and receive or exchange such information as may be necessary to estimate, and shall from time to time estimate, on an area, subdivision, or other appropriate basis—

(1) the risk premium rates for flood insurance which—

(A) based on consideration of the risk involved and accepted actuarial principles, and

(B) including—

(i) the applicable operating costs and allowances set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311 and reflected in such rates, and

(ii) any administrative expenses (or portion of such expenses) of carrying out the flood insurance program which, in his discretion, should properly be reflected in such rates,

would be required in order to make such insurance available on an actuarial basis for any types and classes of properties for which insurance coverage is available under section 1305(a) (or is recommended to the Congress under section 1305(b));

(2) the rates, if less than the rates estimated under paragraph (1), which would be reasonable, would encourage prospective insureds to purchase flood insurance, and would be consistent with the purposes of this title; and

(3) the extent, if any, to which federally assisted or other flood protection measures initiated after the date of the enactment of this title affect such rates.

(b) In carrying out subsection (a), the Secretary shall, to the maximum extent feasible and on a reimbursement basis, utilize the services of the Department of the Army, the Department of the Interior, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Commerce, and the Tennessee Valley Authority, and, as appropriate, other Federal departments or agencies, and for such purposes may enter into agreements or other appropriate arrangments with any persons.

(c) The Secretary shall give priority to conducting studies and investigations and making estimates under this section in those States or areas (or subdivisions thereof) which he has determined have evidenced a positive interest in securing flood insurance coverage under the flood insurance program.

ESTABLISHMENT OF CHARGEABLE PREMIUM RATES

SEC. 1308. (a) On the basis of estimates made under section 1307 and such other information as may be necessary, the Secretary shall from time to time, after consultation with the advisory committee authorized under section 1318, appropriate representatives of the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, and appropriate representatives of the insurance authorities of the respective States, prescribed by regulation—

(1) chargeable premium rates for any types and classes of properties for which insurance coverage shall be available under section 1305 (at less than the estimated risk premium rates under section 1307(a)(1), where necessary), and

(2) the terms and conditions under which, and the areas (including subdivisions thereof) within which, such rates shall apply.

(b) Such rates shall, insofar as practicable, be—

(1) based on a consideration of the respective risks involved, including differences in risks due to land use measures, floodproofing, flood forecasting, and similar measures,

(2) adequate, on the basis of accepted actuarial principles, to provide reserves for anticipated losses, or, if less than such amount, consistent with the objective of making flood insurance available where necessary at reasonable rates so as to encourage prospective insureds to purchase such insurance and with the purposes of this title, and

(3) stated so as to reflect the basis for such rates, including the differences (if any) between the estimated risk premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) and the estimated rates under section 1307(a)(2).

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the chargeable rate with respect to any property, the construction or substantial improvement of which the Secretary determines has been started after the identification of the area in which such property is located has been published under paragraph (1) of section 1360, shall not be less than the applicable estimated risk premium rate for such area (or subdivision thereof) under section 1307(a)(1).

(d) In the event any chargeable premium rate prescribed under this section—

(1) is a rate which is not less than the applicable estimated risk premium rate under section 1307(a)(1), and

(2) includes any amount for administrative expenses of carrying out the flood insurance program which have been estimated under clause (ii) of section 1307(a)(1)(B), a sum equal to such amount shall be paid to the Secretary, and he shall deposit such sum in the National Flood Insurance Fund established under section 1310.

FINANCING

SEC. 1309. (a) All authority which was vested in the Housing and Home Finance Administrator by virtue of section 15(e) of the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956 (70 Stat. 1084) (pertaining to the issue of notes or other obligations to the Secretary of the Treasury), as amended by subsections (a) and (b) of section 1303 of this Act, shall be available to the Secretary for the purpose of carrying out the flood insurance program under this title; except that the total amount of notes and obligations which may be issued by the Secretary pursuant to such authority shall not exceed $250,000,000, and all authority of the Secretary to issue notes and obligations under said section 15(e) beyond such sum is hereby rescinded.

(b) Any funds borrowed by the Secretary under this authority shall, from time to time, be deposited in the National Flood Insurance Fund established under section 1310.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE FUND

SEC. 1310. (a) To carry out the flood insurance program authorized by this title, the Secretary is authorized to establish in the Treasury of the United States a National Flood Insurance Fund (hereinafter referred to as the "fund") which shall be available, without fiscal year limitation—

(1) for making such payments as may, from time to time, be required under section 1334;

(2) to pay reinsurance claims under the excess loss reinsurance coverage provided under section 1335;

(3) to repay to the Secretary of the Treasury such sums as may be borrowed from him (together with interest) in accordance with the authority provided in section 1309; and

(4) to pay such administrative expenses (or portion of such expenses) of carrying out the flood insurance program as he may deem necessary; and

(5) for the purposes specified in subsection (d) under the conditions provided therein.

(b) The fund shall be credited with—

(1) such funds borrowed in accordance with the authority provided in section 1309 as may from time to time be deposited in the fund;

(2) premiums, fees, or other charges which may be paid or collected in connection with the excess loss reinsurance coverage provided under section 1335;

(3) such amounts as may be advanced to the fund from appropriations in order to maintain the fund in an operative condition adequate to meet its liabilities;

(4) interest which may be earned on investments of the fund pursuant to subsection (c);

(5) such sums as are required to be paid to the Secretary under section 1308(d); and

(6) receipts from any other operations under this title (including premiums under the conditions specified in subsection (d), and salvage proceeds, if any, resulting from reinsurance coverage).

(c) If, after—

(1) all outstanding obligations of the fund have been liquidated, and

(2) any outstanding amounts which may have been advanced to the fund from appropriations authorized under section 1376(a)(2)(B) have been credited to the appropriation from which advanced, with interest accrued at the rate prescribed under section 15(e) of the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956, as in effect immediately prior to the enactment of this title,

the Secretary determines that the moneys of the fund are in excess of current needs, he may request the investment of such amounts as he deems advisable by the Secretary of the Treasury in obligations issued or guaranteed by the United States.

(d) In the event the Secretary makes a determination in accordance with the provisions of section 1340 that operation of the flood insurance program, in whole or in part, should be carried out through the facilities of the Federal Government, the fund shall be available for all purposes incident thereto, including—

(1) cost incurred in the adjustment and payment of any claims for losses, and

(2) payment of applicable operating costs set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311.

for so long as the program is so carried out, and in such event any premiums paid shall be deposited by the Secretary to the credit of the fund.

(e) An annual business-type budget for the fund shall be prepared, transmitted to the Congress, considered, and enacted in the manner prescribed by law (sections 102, 103, and 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act (31 U.S.C. 847–849)) for wholly-owned Government corporations.

OPERATING COSTS AND ALLOWANCES

SEC. 1311. (a) The Secretary shall from time to time negotiate with appropriate representatives of the insurance industry for the purpose of establishing—

(1) a current schedule of operating costs applicable both to risk-sharing insurance companies and other insurers and to insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations participating on other than a risk-sharing basis, and

(2) a current schedule of operating allowances applicable to risk-sharing insurance companies and other insurers, which may be payable in accordance with the provisions of chapter II, and such schedules shall from time to time be prescribed in regulations.

(b) For purposes of subsection (a)—

(1) the term "operating costs" shall (without limiting such term) include—

(A) expense reimbursements covering the direct, actual, and necessary expenses incurred in connection with selling and servicing flood insurance coverage;

(B) reasonable compensation payable for selling and servicing flood insurance coverage, or commissions or service fees paid to producers;

(C) loss adjustment expenses; and

(D) other direct, actual, and necessary expenses which the Secretary finds are incurred in connection with selling or servicing flood insurance coverage; and

(2) the term "operating allowances" shall (without limiting such term) include amounts for profit and contingencies which the Secretary finds reasonable and necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

PAYMENT OF CLAIMS

SEC. 1312. The Secretary is authorized to prescribe regulations establishing the general method or methods by which proved and approved claims for losses may be adjusted and paid for any damage to or loss of property which is covered by flood insurance made available under the provisions of this title.

DISSEMINATION OF FLOOD INSURANCE INFORMATION

SEC. 1313. The Secretary shall from time to time take such action as may be necessary in order to make information and data available to the public, and to any State or local agency or official, with regard to—

(1) the flood insurance program, its coverage and objectives, and

(2) estimated and chargeable flood insurance premium rates, including the basis for and differences between such rates in accordance with the provisions of section 1308.

PROHIBITION AGAINST CERTAIN DUPLICATIONS OF BENEFITS

SEC. 1314. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, no Federal disaster assistance shall be made available to any person—

(1) for the physical loss, destruction, or damage of real or personal property, to the extent that such loss, destruction, or damage is covered by a valid claim which may be adjusted and paid under flood insurance made available under the authority of this title, or

(2) except in the situation provided for under subsection (b), for the physical loss, destruction, or damage of real or personal property, to the extent that such loss, destruction, or damage could have been covered by a valid claim under flood insurance which had been made available under the authority of this title, if—

(A) such loss, destruction, or damage occurred subsequent to one year following the date flood insurance was made available in the area (or subsdivision thereof) in which such property or the major part thereof was located, and

(B) such property was eligible for flood insurance under this title at that date;

and in such circumstances the extent that such loss, destruction, or damage could have been covered shall be presumed (for purposes of this subsection) to be an amount not less than the maximum limit of insurable loss or damage applicable to such property in such area (or subdivision thereof), pursuant to regulations under section 1306, at the time insurance was made available in such area (or subdivision thereof).

(b) In order to assure that the provisions of subsection (a)(2) will not create undue hardship for low-income persons who might otherwise benefit from the provision of Federal disaster assistance, the Secretary shall provide by regulation for the circumstances in which the provisions of subsection (a)(2) shall not be applicable to any such persons.

(c) For purposes of this section, "Federal disaster assistance" shall include any Federal financial assistance which may be made available to any person as a result of—

(1) a major disaster (within the meaning of that term as determined by the President pursuant to the Act entitled "An Act to authorize Federal assistance to State and local governments in major disasters, and for other purposes", as amended (42 U.S.C. 1855–1855g)),

(2) a natural disaster, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture pursuant to section 321 of the Consolidated Farmers Home Administration Act of 1961 (7 U.S.C. 1961), or

(3) a disaster with respect to which loans may be made under section 7(b) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 636(b)).

(d) For purposes of section 10 of the Disaster Relief Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1230), the term "financial assistance" shall be deemed to include any flood insurance which is made available under this title.

STATE AND LOCAL LAND USE CONTROLS

SEC. 1315. After June 30, 1970, no new flood insurance coverage shall be provided under this title in any area (or subdivision thereof) unless an appropriate public body shall have adopted permanent land use and control measures (with effective enforcement provisions) which the Secretary finds are consistent with the comprehensive criteria for land management and use under section 1361.

PROPERTIES IN VIOLATION OF STATE AND LOCAL LAW

SEC. 1316. No new flood insurance coverage shall be provided under this title for any property which the Secretary finds has been declared by a duly constituted State or local zoning authority, or other authorized public body, to be in violation of State or local laws, regulations, or ordinances which are intended to discourage or otherwise restrict land development or occupancy in flood-prone areas.

COORDINATION WITH OTHER PROGRAMS

SEC. 1317. In carrying out this title, the Secretary shall consult with other departments and agencies of the Federal Government, and with interstate, State, and local agencies having responsibilities for flood control, flood forecasting, or flood damage prevention, in order to assure that the programs of such agencies and the flood insurance program authorized under this title are mutually consistent.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

SEC. 1318. (a) The Secretary shall appoint a flood insurance advisory committee, without regard to the provisions of title 5, United States Code, governing appointments in the competitive service, and such committee shall advise the Secretary in the preparation of any regulations prescribed in accordance with this title and with respect to policy matters arising in the administration of this title, and shall perform such other responsibilities as the Secretary may, from time to time, assign to such committee.

(b) Such committee shall consist of not more than fifteen persons and such persons shall be selected from among representatives of—

(1) the insurance industry,
(2) State and local governments,
(3) lending institutions,
(4) the homebuilding industry, and
(5) the general public.

(c) Members of the committee shall, while attending conferences or meetings thereof, be entitled to receive compensation at a rate fixed by the Secretary but not exceeding $100 per day, including traveltime, and while so serving away from their homes or regular places of business they may be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as is authorized under section 5703 of title 5, United States Code, for persons in the government service employed intermittenly.

INITIAL PROGRAM LIMITATION

SEC. 1319. The face amount of flood insurance coverage outstanding and in force at any one time under this title shall not exceed the sum of $2,500,000,000.

REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT

SEC. 1320. The Secretary shall include a report of operations under this title in the annual report to the President for submission to the Congress required by section 8 of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act.

CHAPTER II—ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION OF THE FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 1330. Following such consultation with representatives of the insurance industry as may be necessary, the Secretary shall implement the flood insurance program authorized under chapter I in accordance with the provisions of part A of this chapter and, if a determination is made by him under section 1340, under part B of this chapter.

PART A—INDUSTRY PROGRAM WITH FEDERAL FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

INDUSTRY FLOOD INSURANCE POOL

SEC. 1331. (a) The Secretary is authorized to encourage and otherwise assist any insurance companies and other insurers which meet the requirements prescribed under subsection (b) to form, associate, or otherwise join together in a pool—

(1) in order to provide the flood insurance coverage authorized under chapter I; and

(2) for the purpose of assuming, on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, such financial responsibility as will enable such companies and other insurers, with the Federal financial and other assistance available under this title, to assume a reasonable proportion of responsibility for the adjustment and payment of claims for losses under the flood insurance program.

(b) In order to promote the effective administration of the flood insurance program under this part, and to assure that the objectives of this title are furthered, the Secretary is authorized to prescribe appropriate requirements for insurance companies and other insurers participating in such pool including, but not limited to, minimum requirements for capital or surplus or assets.

AGREEMENTS WITH FLOOD INSURANCE POOL

SEC. 1332. (a) The Secretary is authorized to enter into such agreements with the pool formed or otherwise created under this part as he deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(b) Such agreements shall specify—

(1) the terms and conditions under which risk capital will be available for the adjustment and payment of claims,

(2) the terms and conditions under which the pool (and the companies and other insurers participating therein) shall participate in premiums received and profits or losses realized or sustained,

(3) the maximum amount of profit, established by the Secretary and set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311, which may be realized by such pool (and the companies and other insurers participating therein),

(4) the terms and conditions under which operating costs and allowances set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311 may be paid, and

(5) the terms and conditions under which premium equalization payments under section 1334 will be made and reinsurance claims under section 1335 will be paid.

(c) In addition, such agreements shall contain such provisions as the Secretary finds necessary to assure that—

(1) no insurance company or other insurer which meets the requirements prescribed under section 1331(b), and which has indicated an intention to participate in the flood insurance program on a risk-sharing basis, will be excluded from participating in the pool,

(2) the insurance companies and other insurers participating in the pool will take whatever action may be necessary to provide continuity of flood insurance coverage by the pool, and

(3) any insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations will be permitted to cooperate with the pool as fiscal agents or otherwise, on other than a risk-sharing basis, to the maximum extent practicable.

ADJUSTMENT AND PAYMENT OF CLAIMS AND JUDICIAL REVIEW

SEC. 1333. The insurance companies and other insurers which form, associate, or otherwise join together in the pool under this part may adjust and pay all claims for proved and approved losses covered by flood insurance in accordance with the provisions of this title and, upon the disallowance by any such company or other insurer of any such claim, or upon the refusal of the claimant to accept the amount allowed upon any such claim, the claimant, within one year after the date of mailing of notice of disallowance or partial disallowance of the claim, may institute an action on such claim against such company or other insurer in the United States district court for the district in which the insured property or the major part thereof shall have been situated, and jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon such court to hear and determine such action without regard to the amount in controversy.

PREMIUM EQUALIZATION PAYMENTS

SEC. 1334. (a) The Secretary, on such terms and conditions as he may from time to time prescribe, shall make periodic payments to the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, in recognition of such reductions in chargeable premium rates under section 1308 below estimated premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) as are required in order to make flood insurance available on reasonable terms and conditions

(b) Such payments shall be based only on the aggregate amount of flood insurance retained by the pool after ceding reinsurance in accordance wtih the provisions of section 1335, and shall not exceed an aggregate amount in any payment period equal to the sum of the following:

(1) an amount for losses which bears the same ratio to the amount of all proved and approved claims for losses under this title during any designated period as the amount equal to the difference between—

(A) the sum of all premium payments for flood insurance coverage in force under this title during such designated period which would have been payable during such period if all such coverage were based on estimated risk premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) (excluding any administrative expenses which may be reflected in such rates, as specified in clause (ii) of section 1307(a)(1)(B)), and

(B) the sum of the premium payments actually paid or payable for such insurance under this title during such period, bears to the amount specified in clause (A); and

(2) subject to the terms and conditions specified in the agreements entered into with the pool under section 1332, a proportionate amount for appropriate operating costs and allowances (as set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311) during any designated period which bears the same ratio to the total amount of such operating costs and allowances during such period as the ratio specified in paragraph (1).

(c) Designated periods under this section and the methods for determining the sum of premiums paid or payable during such periods shall be established by the Secretary.

REINSURANCE COVERAGE

SEC. 1335. (a) The Secretary is authorized to take such action as may be necessary in order to make available, to the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, reinsurance for losses (due to claims for proved and approved losses covered by flood insurance) which are in excess of losses assumed by such pool in accordance with the excess loss agreement entered into under subsection (c).

(b) Such reinsurance shall be made available pursuant to contract, agreement, or any other arrangement, in consideration of such payment of a premium, fee, or other charge as the Secretary finds necessary to cover anticipated losses and other costs of providing such reinsurance.

(c) The Secretary is authorized to negotiate an excess loss agreement, from time to time, under which the amount of flood insurance retained by the pool, after ceding reinsurance, shall be adequate to further the purposes of this title, consistent with the objective of maintaining appropriate financial participation and risk sharing to the maximum extent practicable on the part of participating insurance companies and other insurers.

(d) All reinsurance claims for losses in excess of losses assumed by the pool shall be submitted on a portfolio basis by such pool in accordance with terms and conditions established by the Secretary.

PART B—GOVERNMENT PROGRAM WITH INDUSTRY ASSISTANCE

FEDERAL OPERATION OF THE PROGRAM

SEC. 1340. (a) If at any time, after consultation with representatives of the insurance industry, the Secretary determines that operation of the flood insurance program as provided under part A cannot be carried out, or that such operation, in itself, would be assisted materially by the Federal Government's assumption, in whole or in part, of the operational responsibility for flood insurance under this title (on a temporary or other basis) he shall promptly undertake any necessary arrangements to carry out the program of flood insurance authorized under chapter I through the facilities of the Federal Government, utilizing, for purposes of providing flood insurance coverage, either—

(1) insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations, as fiscal agents of the United States.

(2) officers and employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and such other officers and employees of any executive agency (as defined in section 105 of title 5 of the United States Code) as the Secretary and the head of any such agency may, from time to time, agree upon, on a reimbursement or other basis, or

(3) both the alternatives specified in paragraphs (1) and (2).

(b) Upon making the determination referred to in subsection (a), and at least thirty days prior to implementing the program of flood insurance authorized under chapter I through the facilities of the Federal Government, the Secretary shall make a report to the Congress and such report shall—

(1) state the reasons for such determination,

(2) be supported by pertinent findings,

(3) indicate the extent to which it is anticipated that the insurance industry will be utilized in providing flood insurance coverage under the program, and

(4) contain such recommendations as the Secretary deems advisable.

ADJUSTMENT AND PAYMENT OF CLAIMS AND JUDICIAL REVIEW

SEC. 1341. In the event the program is carried out as provided in section 1340, the Secretary shall be authorized to adjust and make payment of any claims for proved and approved losses covered by flood insurance, and upon the disallowance by the Secretary of any such claim, or upon the refusal of the claimant to accept the amount allowed upon any such claim, the claimant, within one year after the date of mailing of notice of disallowance or partial disallowance by the Secretary, may institute an action against the Secretary on such claim in the United States district court for the district in which the insured property or the major part thereof shall have been situated, and jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon such court to hear and determine such action without regard to the amount in controversy.

PART C—PROVISIONS OF GENERAL APPLICABILITY

SERVICES BY INSURANCE INDUSTRY

SEC. 1345. (a) In administering the flood insurance program under this chapter, the Secretary is authorized to enter into any contracts, agreements, or other appropriate arrangements which may, from time to time, be necessary for the purpose of utilizing, on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, the facilities and services of any insurance companies or other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, or insurance adjustment organizations; and such contracts, agreements or arrangements may include provision for payment of applicable operating costs and allowances for such facilities and services as set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311.

(b) Any such contracts, agreements, or other arrangements may be entered into without regard to the provisions of section 3709 of the Revised Statutes (41 U.S.C. 5) or any other provision of law requiring competitive bidding.

USE OF INSURANCE POOL, COMPANIES, OR OTHER PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS FOR CERTAIN PAYMENTS

SEC. 1346. (a) In order to provide for maximum efficiency in the administration of the flood insurance program and in order to facilitate the expeditious payment of any Federal funds under such program, the Secretary may enter into contracts with pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, or any insurance company or other private organization, for the purpose of securing performance by such pool, company, or organization of any or all of the following responsibilities:

(1) estimating and later determining any amounts of payments to be made;

(2) receiving from the Secretary, disbursing, and accounting for funds in making such payments;

(3) making such audits of the records of any insurance company or other insurer, insurance agent or broker, or insurance adjustment organization as may be necessary to assure that proper payments are made; and

(4) otherwise assisting in such manner as the contract may provide to further the purposes of this title.

(b) Any contract with the pool or an insurance company or other private organization under this section may contain such terms and conditions as the Secretary finds necessary or appropriate for carrying out responsibilities under subsection (a), and may provide for payment of any costs which the Secretary determines are incidental to carrying out such responsibilities which are covered by the contract.

(c) Any contract entered into under subsection (a) may be entered into without regard to section 3709 of the Revised Statutes (41 U.S.C. 5) or any other provision of law requiring competitive bidding.

(d) No contract may be entered into under this section unless the Secretary finds that the pool, company, or organization will perform its obligations under the contract efficiently and effectively, and will meet such requirements as to financial responsibility, legal authority, and other matters as he finds pertinent.

(e)(1) Any such contract may require the pool, company, or organization or any of its officers or employees certifying payments or disbursing funds pursuant to the contract, or otherwise participating in carrying out the contract, to give surety bond to the United States in such amount as the Secretary may deem appropriate.

(2) No individual designated pursuant to a contract under this section to certify payments shall, in the absence of gross negligence or intent to defraud the United States, be liable with respect to any payment certified by him under this section.

(3) No officer disbursing funds shall, in the absence of gross negligence or intent to defraud the United States, be liable with respect to any payment by him under this section if it was based upon a voucher signed by an individual designated to certify payments as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(f) Any contract entered into under this section shall be for a term of one year, and may be made automatically renewable from term to term in the absence of notice by either party of an intention to terminate at the end of the current term; except that the Secretary may terminate any such contract at any time (after reasonable notice to the pool, company, or organization involved) if he finds that the pool, company, or organization has failed substantially to carry out the contract, or is carrying out the contract in a manner inconsistent with the efficient and effective administration of the flood insurance program authorized under this title.

SETTLEMENT AND ARBITRATION

SEC. 1347. (a) The Secretary is authorized to make final settlement of any claims or demands which may arise as a result of any financial transactions which he is authorized to carry out under this chapter, and may, to assist him in making any such settlement, refer any disputes relating to such claims or demands to arbitration, with the consent of the parties concerned.

(b) Such arbitration shall be advisory in nature, and any award, decision, or recommendation which may be made shall become final only upon the approval of the Secretary.

RECORDS AND AUDITS

SEC. 1348. (a) The flood insurance pool formed or otherwise created under part A of this chapter, and any insurance company or other private organization executing any contract, agreement, or other appropriate arrangement with the Secretary under part B of this chapter or this part, shall keep such records as the Secretary shall prescribe, including records which fully disclose the total costs of the program undertaken or the services being rendered, and such other records as will facilitate an effective audit.

(b) The Secretary and the Comptroller General of the United States, or any of their duly authorized representatives, shall have access for the purpose of audit and examination to any books, documents, papers, and records of the pool and any such insurance company or other private organization that are pertinent to the costs of the program undertaken or the services being rendered.

CHAPTER III—COORDINATION OF FLOOD INSURANCE WITH LAND-MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS IN FLOOD-PRONE AREAS

IDENTIFICATION OF FLOOD-PRONE AREAS

SEC. 1360. The Secretary is authorized to consult with, receive information from, and enter into any agreements or other arrangements with the Secretaries of the Army, the Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce, the Tennessee Valley Authority, and the heads of other Federal departments or agencies, on a reimbursement basis, or with the head of any State or local agency, or enter into contracts with any persons or private firms, in order that he may—

(1) identify and publish information with respect to all flood plain areas, including coastal areas located in the United States, which have special flood hazards, within five years following the date of the enactment of this Act, and

(2) establish flood-risk zones in all such areas, and make estimates with respect to the rates of probable flood-caused loss for the various flood-risk zones for each of these areas, within fifteen years following such date.

CRITERIA FOR LAND MANAGEMENT AND USE

SEC. 1361. (a) The Secretary is authorized to carry out studies and investigations, utilizing to the maximum extent practicable the existing facilities and services of other Federal departments or agencies, and State and local governmental agencies, and any other organizations, with respect to the adequacy of State and local measures in flood-prone areas as to land management and use, flood control, flood zoning, and flood damage prevention, and may enter into any contracts, agreements, or other appropriate arrangements, to carry out such authority.

(b) Such studies and investigations shall include, but not be limited to, laws, regulations, or ordinances relating to encroachments and obstructions on stream channels and floodways, the orderly development and use of flood plains of rivers or streams, floodway encroachment lines, and flood plain zoning, building codes, building permits, and subdivision or other building restrictions.

(c) On the basis of such studies and investigations, and such other information as he deems necessary, the Secretary shall from time to time develop comprehensive criteria designed to encourage, where necessary, the adoption of permanent State and local measures which, to the maximum extent feasible, will—

(1) constrict the development of land which is exposed to flood damage where appropriate,

(2) guide the development of proposed construction away from locations which are threatened by flood hazards,

(3) assist in reducing damage caused by floods, and

(4) otherwise improve the long-range land management and use of flood-prone areas, and he shall work closely with and provide any necessary technical assistance to State, interstate, and local governmental agencies, to encourage the application of such criteria and the adoption and enforcement of such measures.

PURCHASE OF CERTAIN INSURED PROPERTIES

SEC. 1362. The Secretary may, when he determines that the public interest would be served thereby, enter into negotiations with any owner of real property or interest therein which—

(1) was located in any flood-risk area, as determined by the Secretary,

(2) was covered by flood insurance under the flood insurance program authorized under this title, and

(3) was damaged substantially beyond repair by flood while so covered, and may purchase such property or interests therein, for subsequent transfer, by sale, lease, donation, or otherwise, to any State or local agency which enters into an agreement with the Secretary that such property shall, for a period not less than forty years following transfer, be used for only such purposes as the Secretary may, by regulation, determine to be consistent with sound land management and use in such area.

CHAPTER IV—APPROPRIATIONS AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 1370. As used in this title—

(1) the term "flood" shall have such meaning as may be prescribed in regulations of the Secretary, and may include inundation from rising waters or from the overflow of streams, rivers, or other bodies of water, or from tidal surges, abnormally high tidal water, tidal waves, tsunamis, hurricanes, or other severe storms or deluge;

(2) the terms "United States" (when used in a geographic sense) and "State" includes the several States, the District of Columbia, the territories and possessions, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands;

(3) the terms "insurance company", "other insurer", and "insurance agent or broker" include any organizations and persons authorized to engage in the insurance business under the laws of any State;

(4) the term "insurance adjustment organization" includes any organizations and persons engaged in the business of adjusting loss claims arising under insurance policies issued by any insurance company or other insurer;

(5) the term "person" includes any individual or group of individuals, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, including State and local governments and agencies thereof; and

(6) the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

STUDIES OF OTHER NATURAL DISASTERS

SEC. 1371. (a) The Secretary is authorized to undertake such studies as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the extent to which insurance protection against earthquakes or any other natural disaster perils, other than flood, is not available from public or private sources, and the feasibility of such insurance protection being made available.

(b) Studies under this section shall be carried out, to the maximum extent practicable, with the cooperation of other Federal departments and agencies and State and local agencies, and the Secretary is authorized to consult with, receive information from, and enter into any necessary agreements or other arrangements with such other Federal departments and agencies (on a reimbursement basis) and such State and local agencies.

PAYMENTS

SEC. 1372. Any payments under this title may be made (after necessary adjustment on account of previously made underpayments or overpayments) in advance or by way of reimbursement, and in such installments and on such conditions, as the Secretary may determine.

GOVERNMENT CORPORATION CONTROL ACT

SEC. 1373. The provisions of the Government Corporation Control Act shall apply to the program authorized under this title to the same extent as they apply to wholly owned Government corporations.

FINALITY OF CERTAIN FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS

SEC. 1374. Nothwithstanding the provisions of any other law—

(1) any financial transaction authorized to be carried out under this title, and

(2) any payment authorized to be made or to be received in connection with any such financial transaction, shall be final and conclusive upon all officers of the Government.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

SEC. 1375. Any administrative expenses which may be sustained by the Federal Government in carrying out the flood insurance program authorized under this title may be paid out of appropriated funds.

APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 1376. (a) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may from time to time be necessary to carry out this title, including sums—

(1) to cover administrative expenses authorized under section 1375;

(2) to reimburse the National Flood Insurance Fund established under section 1310 for—

(A) premium equalization payments under section 1334 which have been made from such fund; and

(B) reinsurance claims paid under the excess loss reinsurance coverage provided under section 1335; and

(3) to make such other payments as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(b) All such funds shall be available without fiscal year limitation.

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 1377. This title shall take effect one hundred and twenty days following the date of its enactment, except that the Secretary, on the basis of a finding that conditions exist necessitating the prescribing of an additional period, may prescribe a later effective date which in no event shall be more than one hundred and eighty days following such date of enactment.

TITLE XIV—INTERSTATE LAND SALES

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1401. This title may be cited as the "Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act".

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 1402. For the purposes of this title, the term—

(1) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development;

(2) "person" means an individual, or an unincorporated organization, partnership, association, corporation, trust, or estate;

(3) "subdivision" means any land which is divided or proposed to be divided into fifty or more lots, whether contiguous or not, for the purpose of sale or lease as part of a common promotional plan and where subdivided land is offered for sale or lease by a single developer, or a group of developers acting in concert, and such land is contiguous or is known, designated, or advertised as a common unit or by a common name such land shall be presumed, without regard to the number of lots covered by each individual offering, as being offered for sale or lease as part of a common promotional plan;

(4) "developer" means any person who, directly or indirectly, sells or leases, or offers to sell or lease, or advertises for sale or lease any lots in a subdivision;

(5) "agent" means any person who represents, or acts for or on behalf of, a developer in selling or leasing, or offering to sell or lease, any lot or lots in a subdivision; but shall not include an attorney at law whose representation of another person consists solely of rendering legal services;

(6) "blanket encumbrance" means a trust deed, mortgage, judgment, or any other lien or encumbrance, including an option or contract to sell or a trust agreement, affecting a subdivision or affecting more than one lot offered within a subdivision, except that such term shall not include any lien or other encumbrance arising as the result of the imposition of any tax assessment by any public authority;

(7) "interstate commerce" means trade or commerce among the several States;

(8) "State" includes the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the territories and possessions of the United States;

(9) "purchaser" means an actual or prospective purchaser or lessee of any lot in a subdivision;

(10) "offer" includes any inducement, solicitation, or attempt to encourage a person to acquire a lot in a subdivision.

EXEMPTIONS

SEC. 1403. (a) Unless the method of disposition is adopted for the purpose of evasion of this title, the provisions of this title shall not apply to—

(1) the sale or lease of real estate not pursuant to a common promotional plan to offer or sell fifty or more lots in a subdivision;

(2) the sale or lease of lots in a subdivision, all of which are five acres or more in size;

(3) the sale or lease of any improved land on which there is a residential, commercial, or industrial building, or to the sale or lease of land under a contract obligating the seller to erect such a building thereon within a period of two years;

(4) the sale or lease of real estate under or pursuant to court order;

(5) the sale of evidences of indebtedness secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on real estate;

(6) the sale of securities issued by a real estate investment trust;

(7) the sale or lease of real estate by any government or government agency;

(8) the sale or lease of cemetery lots;

(9) the sale or lease of lots to any person who acquires such lots for the purpose of engaging in the business of constructing residential, commercial, or industrial buildings or for the purpose of resale or lease of such lots to persons engaged in such business; or

(10) the sale or lease of real estate which is free and clear of all liens, encumbrances, and adverse claims if each and every purchaser or his or her spouse has personally inspected the lot which he purchased and if the developer executes a written affirmation to that effect to be made a matter of record in accordance with rules and regulations of the Secretary. As used in this subparagraph, the terms "liens," "encumbrances," and "adverse claims" are not intended to refer to property reservations which land developers commonly convey or dedicate to local bodies or public utilities for the purpose of bringing public services to the land being developed nor to taxes and assessments which, under applicable State or local law, constitute liens on the property before they are due and payable.

(b) The Secretary may from time to time, pursuant to rules and regulations issued by him, exempt from any of the provisions of this title any subdivision or any lots in a subdivision, if he finds that the enforcement of this title with respect to such subdivision or lots is not necessary in the public interest and for the protection of purchasers by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering.

PROHIBITIONS RELATING TO THE SALE OR LEASE OF LOTS IN SUBDIVISIONS

SEC. 1404. (a) It shall be unlawful for any developer or agent, directly or indirectly, to make use of any means or instruments of transportation or communication in interstate commerce, or of the mails—

(1) to sell or lease any lot in any subdivision unless a statement of record with respect to such lot is in effect in accordance with section 1407 and a printed property report, meeting the requirements of section 1408, is furnished to the purchaser in advance of the signing of any contract or agreement for sale or lease by the purchaser; and

(2) in selling or leasing, or offering to sell or lease, any lot in a subdivision—

(A) to employ any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud, or

(B) to obtain money or property by means of a material misrepresentation with respect to any information included in the statement of record or the property report or with respect to any other information pertinent to the lot or the subdivision and upon which the purchaser relies, or

(C) to engage in any transaction, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon a purchaser.

(b) Any contract or agreement for the purchase or leasing of a lot in a subdivision covered by this title, where the property report has not been given to the purchaser in advance or at the time of his signing, shall be voidable at the option of the purchaser. A purchaser may revoke such contract or agreement within forty-eight hours, where he has received the property report less than forty-eight hours before he signed the contract or agreement, and the contract or agreement shall so provide, except that the contract or agreement may stipulate that the foregoing revocation authority shall not apply in the case of a purchaser who (1) has received the property report and inspected the lot to be purchased or leased in advance of signing the contract or agreement, and (2) acknowledges by his signature, that he has made such inspection and has read and understood such report.

REGISTRATION OF SUBDIVISIONS

SEC. 1405. (a) A subdivision may be registered by filing with the Secretary a statement of record, meeting the requirements of this title and such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary in furtherance of the provisions of this title. A statement of record shall be deemed effective only as to the lots specified therein.

(b) At the time of filing a statement of record, or any amendment thereto, the developer shall pay to the Secretary a fee, not in excess of $1,000, in accordance with a schedule to be fixed by the regulations of the Secretary, which fees may be used by the Secretary to cover all or part of the cost of rendering services under this title, and such expenses as are paid from such fees shall be considered non-administrative.

(c) The filing with the Secretary of a statement of record, or of an amendment thereto, shall be deemed to have taken place upon the receipt thereof, accompanied by payment of the fee required by subsection (b).

(d) The information contained in or filed with any statement of record shall be made available to the public under such regulations as the Secretary may prescribe and copies thereof shall be furnished to every applicant at such reasonable charge as the Secretary may prescribe.

INFORMATION REQUIRED IN STATEMENT OF RECORD

SEC. 1406. The statement of record shall contain the information and be accompanied by the documents specified hereinafter in this section—

(1) the name and address of each person having an interest in the lots in the subdivision to be covered by the statement of record and the extent of such interest;

(2) a legal description of, and a statement of the total area included in, the subdivision and a statement of the topography thereof, together with a map showing the division proposed and the dimensions of the lots to be covered by the statement of record and their relation to existing streets and roads;

(3) a statement of the condition of the title to the land comprising the subdivision, including all encumbrances and deed restrictions and covenants applicable thereto;

(4) a statement of the general terms and conditions, including the range of selling prices or rents at which it is proposed to dispose of the lots in the subdivision;

(5) a statement of the present condition of access to the subdivision, the availability of sewage disposal facilities and other public utilities (including water, electricity, gas, and telephone facilities) in the subdivision, the proximity in miles of the subdivision to nearby municipalities, and the nature of any improvements to be installed by the developer and his estimated schedule for completion;

(6) in the case of any subdivision of portion thereof against which there exists a blanket encumbrance, a statement of the consequences for an individual purchaser of a failure, by the person or persons bound, to fulfill obligations under the instrument or instruments creating such encumbrance and the steps, if any, taken to protect the purchaser in such eventuality;

(7) (A) copy of its articles of incorporation, with all amendments thereto, if the developer is a corporation; (B) copies of all instruments by which the trust is created or declared, if the developer is a trust; (C) copies of its articles of partnership or association and all other papers pertaining to its organization, if the developer is a partnership, unincorporated association, joint stock company, or any other form of organization; and (D) if the purported holder of legal title is a person other than developer, copies of the above documents for such person;

(8) copies of the deed or other instrument establishing title to the subdivision in the developer or other person and copies of any instrument creating a lien or encumbrance upon the title of developer or other person, or copies of the opinion or opinions of counsel in respect to the title to the subdivision in the developer or other person, or copies of the title insurance policy guaranteeing such title;

(9) copies of all forms of conveyance to be used in selling or leasing lots to purchasers;

(10) copies of instruments creating easements or other restrictions;

(11) such certified and uncertified financial statements of the developer as the Secretary may require; and

(12) such other information and such other documents and certifications as the Secretary may require as being reasonably necessary or appropriate for the protection of purchasers.

TAKING EFFECT OF STATEMENTS OF RECORD AND AMENDMENTS THERETO

SEC. 1407. (a) Except as hereinafter provided, the effective date of a statement of record, or any amendment thereto, shall be the thirtieth day after the filing thereof or such earlier date as the Secretary may determine, having due regard to the public interest and the protection of purchasers. If any amendment to any such statement is filed prior to the effective date of the statement, the statement shall be deemed to have been filed when such amendment was filed; except that such an amendment filed with the consent of the Secretary, or filed pursuant to an order of the Secretary, shall be treated as being filed as of the date of the filing of the statement of record. When a developer records additional lands to be offered for disposition, he may consolidate the subsequent statement of record with any earlier recording offering subdivided land for disposition under the same promotional plan. At the time of consolidation the developer shall include in the consolidated statement of record any material changes in the information contained in the earlier statement.

(b) If it appears to the Secretary that a statement of record, or any amendment thereto, is on its face incomplete or inaccurate in any material respect, the Secretary shall so advise the developer within a reasonable time after the filing of the statement or the amendment, but prior to the date the statement or amendment would otherwise be effective. Such notification shall serve to suspend the effective date of the statement or the amendment until thirty days after the developer files such additional information as the Secretary shall require. Any developer, upon receipt of such notice, may request a hearing, and such hearing shall be held within twenty days of receipt of such request by the Secretary.

(c) If, at any time subsequent to the effective date of a statement of record, a change shall occur affecting any material fact required to be contained in the statement, the developer shall promptly file an amendment thereto. Upon receipt of any such amendment, the Secretary may, if he determines such action to be necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of purchasers, suspend the statement of record until the amendment becomes effective.

(d) If it appears to the Secretary at any time that a statement of record, which is in effect, includes any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, the Secretary may, after notice, and after opportunity for hearing (at a time fixed by the Secretary) within fifteen days after such notice, issue an order suspending the statement of record. When such statement has been amended in accordance with such order, the Secretary shall so declare and thereupon the order shall cease to be effective.

(e) The Secretary is hereby empowered to make an examination in any case, to determine whether an order should issue under subsection (d). In making such examination, the Secretary or anyone designated by him shall have access to and may demand the production of any books and papers of, and may administer oaths and affirmations to and examine, the developer, any agents, or any other person, in respect of any matter revelant to the examination. If the developer or any agents shall fail to cooperate, or shall obstruct or refuse to permit the making of an examination, such conduct shall be proper ground for the issuance of an order suspending the statement of record.

(f) Any notice required under this section shall be sent to or served on the developer or his authorized agent.

INFORMATION REQUIRED IN PROPERTY REPORT

SEC. 1408. (a) A property report relating to the lots in a subdivision shall contain such of the information contained in the statement of record, and any amendments thereto, as the Secretary may deem necessary, but need not include the documents referred to in paragraphs (7) to (11), inclusive, of section 1406. A property report shall also contain other information as the Secretary may by rules or regulations require as being necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of purchasers.

(b) The property report shall not be used for any promotional purposes before the statement of record becomes effective and then only if it is used in its entirety. No person may advertise or represent that the Secretary approves or recommends the subdivision or the sale or lease of lots therein. No portion of the property report shall be underscored, italicized, or printed in larger or bolder type than the balance of the statement unless the Secretary requires or permits it.

COOPERATION WITH STATE AUTHORITIES

SEC. 1409. (a) In administering this title, the Secretary shall cooperate with State authorities charged with the responsibility of regulating the sale of lots in subdivisions which are also subject to this title and may accept for filing under section 1405 and declare effective as a statement of record, if he finds such action to be appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of purchasers, material filed with and found acceptable by such authorities.

(b) Nothing in this title shall affect the jurisdiction of the real estate commission (or any agency or office performing like functions) of any State over any subdivision or any person.

CIVIL LIABILITIES

SEC. 1410. (a) Where any part of a statement of record, when such part became effective, contained an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact required to be stated therein, any person acquiring a lot in the subdivision covered by such statement of record from the developer or his agent during such period the statement remained uncorrected (unless it is proved that at the time of such acquisition he knew of such untruth or omission) may, either at law or in equity, in any court of competent jurisdiction, sue the developer.

(b) Any developer or agent, who sells or leases a lot in a subdivision—

(1) in violation of section 1404, or

(2) by means of a property report which contained an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact required to be stated therein, may be sued by the purchaser of such lot.

(c) The suit authorized under subsection (a) or (b) may be to recover such damages as shall represent the difference between the amount paid for the lot and the reasonable cost and any improvements thereto, and the lesser of (1) the value thereof as of the time such suit was brought, or (2) the price at which such lot shall have been disposed of in a bona fide market transaction before suit, or (3) the price at which such lot shall have been disposed of after suit in a bona fide market transaction but before judgment.

(d) Every person who becomes liable to make any payment under this section may recover contribution as in cases of contract from any person who, if sued separately, would have been liable to make the same payment.

(e) In no case shall the amount recoverable under this section exceed the sum of the purchase price of the lot, the reasonable cost of improvements, and reasonable court costs.

COURT REVIEW OF ORDERS

SEC. 1411. (a) Any person, aggrieved by an order or determination of the Secretary issued after a hearing, may obtain a review of such order or determination in the court of appeals of the United States, within any circuit wherein such person resides or has his principal place of business, or in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, by filing in such court, within sixty days after the entry of such order or determination, a written petition praying that the order or determination of the Secretary be modified or be set aside in whole or in part. A copy of such petition shall be forthwith transmitted by the clerk of the court to the Secretary, and thereupon the Secretary shall file in the court the record upon which the order or determination complained of was entered, as provided in section 2112 of title 28, United States Code. No objection to an order or determination of the Secretary shall be considered by the court unless such objection shall have been urged before the Secretary. The finding of the Secretary as to the facts, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive. If either party shall apply to the court for leave to adduce additional evidence, and shall show to the satisfaction of the court that such additional evidence is material and that there were reasonable grounds for failure to adduce such evidence in the hearing before the Secretary, the court may order such additional evidence to be taken before the Secretary and to be adduced upon a hearing in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as to the court may seem proper. The Secretary may modify his findings as to the facts by reason of the additional evidence so taken, and shall file such modified or new findings, which, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, and his recommendation, if any, for the modification or setting aside of the original order. Upon the filing of such petition, the jurisdiction of the court shall be exclusive and its judgment and decree, affirming, modifying, or setting aside, in whole or in part, any order of the Secretary, shall be final, subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code.

(b) The commencement of proceedings under subsection (a) shall not, unless specifically ordered by the court, operate as a stay of the Secretary's order.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS

SEC. 1412. No action shall be maintained to enforce any liability created under section 1410 (a) or (b) (2) unless brought within one year after the discovery of the untrue statement or the omission, or after such discovery should have been made by the exercise of reasonable diligence, or, if the action is to enforce a liability created under section 1401(b) (1), unless brought within two years after the violation upon which it is based. In no event shall any such action be brought by a purchaser more than three years after the sale or lease to such purchaser.

CONTRARY STIPULATIONS VOID

SEC. 1413. Any condition, stipulation, or provision binding any person acquiring any lot in a subdivision to waive compliance with any provision of this title or of the rules and regulations of the Secretary shall be void.

ADDITIONAL REMEDIES

SEC. 1414. The rights and remedies provided by this title shall be in addition to any and all other rights and remedies that may exist at law or in equity.

INVESTIGATIONS, INJUNCTIONS, AND PROSECUTION OF OFFENSES

SEC. 1415. (a) Whenever it shall appear to the Secretary that any person is engaged or about to engage in any acts or practices which constitute or will constitute a violation of the provisions of this title, or of any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant thereto, he may, in his discretion, bring an action in any district court of the United States, or the United States District Court for the District of Columbia to enjoin such acts or practices, and, upon a proper showing, a permanent or temporary injunction or restraining order shall be granted without bond. The Secretary may transmit such evidence as may be available concerning such acts or practices to the Attorney General who may, in his discretion, institute the appropriate criminal proceedings under this title.

(b) The Secretary may, in his discretion, make such investigations as he deems necessary to determine whether any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of this title or any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant thereto, and may require or permit any person to file with him a statement in writing, under oath or otherwise as the Secretary shall determine, as to all the facts and circumstances concerning the matter to be investigated. The Secretary is authorized, in his discretion, to publish information concerning any such violations, and to investigate any facts, conditions, practices, or matters which he may deem necessary or proper to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of this title, in the prescribing of rules and regulations thereunder, or in securing information to serve as a basis for recommending further legislation concerning the matters to which this title relates.

(c) For the purpose of any such investigation, or any other proceeding under this title, the Secretary, or any officer designated by him, is empowered to administer oaths and affirmations, subpena witnesses, compel their attendance, take evidence, and require the production of any books, papers, correspondence, memorandums, or other records which the Secretary deems relevant or material to the inquiry. Such attendance of witnesses and the production of any such records may be required from any place in the United States or any State at any designated place of hearing.

(d) In case of contumacy by, or refusal to obey a subpena issued to, any person, the Secretary may invoke the aid of any court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which such investigation or proceeding is carried on, or where such person resides or carries on business, in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers, correspondence, memorandums, and other records and documents. And such court may issue an order requiring such person to appear before the Secretary or any officer designated by the Secretary, there to produce records, if so ordered, or to give testimony touching the matter under investigation or in question; and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. All process in any such case may be served in the judicial district whereof such person is an inhabitant or wherever he may be found.

(e) No person shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing books, papers, correspondence, memorandums and other records and documents before the Secretary, or in obedience to the subpena of the Secretary or any officer designated by him, or in any cause or proceeding instituted by the Secretary, on the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no individual shall be prosecuted or subject to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he is compelled, after having claimed his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except that such individual so testifying shall not be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 1416. (a) The authority and responsibility for administering this title shall be in the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development who may delegate any of his functions, duties, and powers to employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development or to boards of such employees, including functions, duties, and powers with respect to investigating, hearing, determining, ordering, or otherwise acting as to any work, business, or matter under this title. The persons to whom such delegations are made with respect to hearing functions, duties, and powers shall be appointed and shall serve in the Department in compliance with sections 3105, 3344, 5362, and 7521 of title 5 of the United States Code. The Secretary shall by rule prescribe such rights of appeal from the decisions of his hearing examiners to other hearing examiners or to other officers in the Department, to boards of officers or to himself, as shall be appropriate and in accordance with law.

(b) All hearings shall be public and appropriate records thereof shall be kept, and any order issued after such hearing shall be based on the record made in such hearing which shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act.

UNLAWFUL REPRESENTATIONS

SEC. 1417. The fact that a statement of record with respect to a subdivision has been filed or is in effect shall not be deemed a finding by the Secretary that the statement of record is true and accurate on its face, or be held to mean the Secretary has in any way passed upon the merits of, or given approval to, such subdivision. It shall be unlawful to make, or cause to be made, to any prospective purchaser any representation contrary to the foregoing.

PENALTIES

SEC. 1418. Any person who willfully violates any of the provisions of this title or the rules and regulations prescribed pursuant thereto, or any person who willfully, in a statement of record filed under, or in a property report issued pursuant to, this title, makes any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state any material fact required to be stated therein, shall upon conviction be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

RULES, REGULATIONS, AND ORDERS

SEC. 1419. The Secretary shall have authority from time to time to make, issue, amend, and rescind such rules and regulations and such orders as are necessary or appropriate to the exercise of the functions and powers conferred upon him elsewhere in this title. For the purpose of his rules and regulations, the Secretary may classify persons and matters within his jurisdiction and prescribe different requirements for different classes of persons or matters.

JURISDICTION OF OFFENSES AND SUITS

SEC. 1420. (a) The district courts of the United States, the United States courts of any territory, and the United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction of offenses and violations under this title and under the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary pursuant thereto, and, concurrent with State courts, of all suits in equity and actions at law brought to enforce any liability or duty created by this title. Any such suit or action may be brought to enforce any liability or duty created by this title. Any such suit or action may be brought in the district wherein the defendant is found or is an inhabitant or transacts business, or in the district where the offer or sale took place, if the defendant participated therein, and process in such cases may be served in any other district of which the defendant is an inhabitant or wherever the defendant may be found. Judgments and decrees so rendered shall be subject to review as provided in sections 1254 and 1291 of title 28, United States Code. No case arising under this title and brought in any State court of competent jurisdiction shall be removed to any court of the United States, except where the United States or any officer or employee of the United States in his official capacity is a party. No costs shall be assessed for or against the Secretary in any proceeding under this title brought by or against him in the Supreme Court or such other courts.

APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 1421. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this title.

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 1422. This title shall take effect upon the expiration of two hundred and seventy days after the date of its enactment.

TITLE XV—MORTGAGE INSURANCE FOR NONPROFIT HOSPITALS

AMENDMENT TO NATIONAL HOUSING ACT

SEC. 1501. Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof (after the new section added by section 307 of this Act) the following new section:

"MORTGAGE INSURANCE FOR NONPROFIT HOSPITALS

"SEC. 242. (a) The purpose of this section is to assist the provision of urgently needed hospitals for the care and treatment of persons who are acutely ill or who otherwise require medical care and related services of the kind customarily furnished only (or most effectively) by hospitals.

"(b) For the purposes of this section—

"(1) the term 'hospital' means a facility—

"(A) which provides community service for inpatient medical care of the sick or injured (including obstetrical care);

"(B) not more than 50 per centum of the total patient days of which during any year are customarily assignable to the categories of chronic convalescent and rest, drug and alcoholic, epileptic, mentally deficient, mental, nervous and mental, and tuberculosis; and

"(C) which is owned and operated by one or more nonprofit corporations or associations no part of the net earnings of which inures, or may lawfully inure, to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; and

"(2) the terms 'mortgage' and 'mortgagor' shall have the meanings respectively set forth in section 207(a) of this Act.

"(c) The Secretary is authorized to insure any mortgage (including advances on such mortgage during construction) in accordance with the provisions of this section upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe and to make commitments for insurance of such mortgage prior to the date of its execution or disbursement thereon.

"(d) In order to carry out the purpose of this section, the Secretary is authorized to insure any mortgage which covers a new or rehabilitated hospital, including equipment to be used in its operation, subject to the following conditions:

"(1) The mortgage shall be executed by a mortgagor approved by the Secretary. The Secretary may in his discretion require any such mortgagor to be regulated or restricted as to charges and methods of financing, and, in addition thereto, if the mortgagor is a corporate entity, as to capital structure and rate of return. As an aid to the regulation or restriction of any mortgagor with respect to any of the foregoing matters, the Secretary may make such contracts with and acquire for not to exceed $100 such stock or interest in such mortgagor as he may deem necessary. Any stock or interest so purchased shall be paid for out of the General Insurance Fund, and shall be redeemed by the mortgagor at par upon the termination of all obligations of the Secretary under the insurance.

"(2) The mortgage shall involve a principal obligation in an amount not to exceed $25,000,000, and not to exceed 90 per centum of the estimated replacement cost of the property or project, including equipment to be used in the operation of the hospital, when the proposed improvements are completed and the equipment is installed.

"(3) The mortgage shall—

"(A) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary shall prescribe, and

"(B) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charges, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the mortgage market.

"(4) The Secretary shall not insure any mortgage under this section unless he has received, from the State agency designated in accordance with section 604(a)(1) of the Public Health Service Act for the State in which is located the hospital covered by the mortgage, a certification that (A) there is a need for such hospital, and (B) there are in force in such State or the political subdivision of the State in which the proposed hospital would be located reasonable minimum standards of licensure and methods of operation for hospitals. No such mortgage shall be insured under this section unless the Secretary has received such assurance as he may deem satisfactory from the State agency that such standards will be applied and enforced with respect to any hospital located in the State for which mortgage insurance is provided under this section.

"(e) The Secretary may consent to the release of a part or parts of the mortgaged property or project from the lien of any mortgage insured under this section upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe.

"(f) The activities and functions provided for in this section shall be carried out by the agencies involved so as to encourage programs that undertake responsibility to provide comprehensive health care, including outpatient and preventive care, as well as hospitalization, to a defined population.

"(g)(1) Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this title, the Secretary may insure under this section a mortgage which provides permanent financing or refinancing of existing mortgage indebtedness in the case of a hospital whose permanent financing is presently lacking, if the construction of such hospital was completed between January 1, 1966, and the date of the enactment of this Act.

"(2) The aggregate principal balance of all mortgages insured under paragraph (1) and outstanding at any one time shall not exceed $20,000,000.

"(h) The provisions of subsections (d), (e), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), and (n) of section 207 shall apply to mortgages insured under this section and all references therein to section 207 shall be deemed to refer to this section."

LABOR STANDARDS

SEC. 1502. Section 212(a) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting after the fifth sentence the following new sentence: "The provisions of this section shall also apply to the insurance of any mortgage under section 242, except that compliance with such provisions may be waived by the Secretary in cases or classes of cases where laborers or mechanics, not otherwise employed at any time on the project, voluntarily donate their services without compensation for the purpose of lowering the costs of construction and the Secretary determines that any amounts thereby saved are fully credited to the nonprofit corporation or association undertaking the construction; and each laborer or mechanic employed on any facility covered by a mortgage insured under section 242 shall receive compensation at a rate not less than one and one-half times his basic rate of pay for all hours worked in any workweek in excess of eight hours in any workday or forty hours in the workweek, as the case may be."

TITLE XVI—HOUSING GOALS AND ANNUAL HOUSING REPORT

REAFFIRMATION OF GOAL

SEC. 1601. The Congress finds that the supply of the Nation's housing is not increasing rapidly enough to meet the national housing goal, established in the Housing Act of 1949, of the "realization as soon as feasible of the goal of a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family". The Congress reaffirms this national housing goal and determines that it can be substantially achieved within the next decade by the construction or rehabilitation of twenty-six million housing units, six million of these for low and moderate income families.

REPORT OUTLINING PLAN

SEC. 1602. Not later than January 15, 1969, the President shall make a report to the Congress setting forth a plan, to be carried out over a period of ten years (June 30, 1968, to June 30, 1978), for the elimination of all substandard housing and the realization of the goal referred to in section 1601. Such plan shall—

(1) indicate the number of new or rehabilitated housing units which it is anticipated will have to be provided, with or without Government assistance, during each fiscal year of the ten-year period, in order to achieve the objectives of the plan, showing the number of such units which it is anticipated will have to be provided under each of the various Federal programs designed to assist in the provision of housing;

(2) indicate the reduction in the number of occupied substandard housing units which it is anticipated will have to occur during each fiscal year of the ten-year period in order to achieve the objectives of the plan;

(3) provide an estimate of the cost of carrying out the plan for each of the various Federal programs and for each fiscal year during the ten-year period to the extent that such costs will be reflected in the Federal budget;

(4) make recommendations with respect to the legislative and administrative actions necessary or desirable to achieve the objectives of the plan; and

(5) provide such other pertinent data, estimates, and recommendations as the President deems advisable.

Such report shall, in addition, contain a projection of the residential mortgage market needs and prospects during the coming year, including an estimate of the requirements with respect to the availability, need, and flow of mortgage funds (particularly in declining urban and rural areas) during such year, together with such recommendations as may be deemed appropriate for encouraging the availability of such funds.

PERIODIC REPORTS

SEC. 1603. On January 15, 1970, and on each succeeding year through 1979, the President shall submit to the Congress a report which shall—

(1) compare the results achieved during the preceidng fiscal year for the completion of new or rehabilitated housing units and the reduction in occupied substandard housing with the objectives established for such year under the plan;

(2) if the comparison provided under clause (1) shows a failure to achieve the objectives set for such year, indicate (A) the reasons for such failure; (B) the steps being taken to achieve the objectives of the plan during each of the remaining fiscal years of the ten-year period; and (C) any necessary revision in the objectives established under the plan for each such year;

(3) project residential mortgage market needs and prospects for the coming calendar year including an estimate of the requirements with respect to the availability, need, and flow of mortgage funds (particularly in declining urban and rural areas) during such period, in order to achieve the objectives of the plan;

(4) provide an analysis of the monetary and fiscal policies of the Government for the coming calendar year required to achieve the objectives of the plan and the impact upon the domestic economy of achieving the plan's objectives for such period:

(5) make recommendations with respect to any additional legislative or administrative action which is necessary or desirable to achieve the objectives of the plan; and

(6) provide such other pertinent data, estimates, and recommendations as the President deems advisable.

COMMISSION ON MORTGAGE INTEREST RATES

SEC. 1604. Funds appropriated and available for studies of housing markets and credit as authorized by section 301 of the Housing Act of 1948 and section 602(a) of the Housing Act of 1956 shall be available for expenses of the Commission established by section 4(b) of Public Law 90-301, including the report required to be rendered by such Commission.

TITLE XVII—MISCELLANEOUS

MODEL CITIES

SEC. 1701. (a) Section 111(a) of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" the third time it appears; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end thereof ", and not to exceed $12,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969".

(b) Section 111(b) of such Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" the third time it appears; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end thereof ", and not to exceed $12,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969".

(c) Section 111(c) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(c) Any amounts appropriated under this section shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this section but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970."

URBAN RENEWAL DEMONSTRATION GRANT PROGRAM

SEC. 1702. (a) Section 314(a) of the Housing Act of 1954 is amended—

(1) by striking out in the first sentence "to public bodies, including cities and other political subdivision," and inserting in lieu thereof "to public bodies (including cities and other political subdivisions) and nonprofit organizations,";

(2) by inserting after the first sentence the following: "In the case of any such grant to a nonprofit organization, the Secretary shall require that the assisted activities and undertakings are not inconsistent with the program of the local public agency."; and

(3) by striking out in the second sentence "No such grant shall exceed two-thirds of the cost, as determined or estimated by said Secretary, of such activities or undertakings," and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "No such grant shall exceed 90 per centum of the cost, as determined or estimated by the Secretary, of the assisted activities or undertakings,".

(b) Section 314(c) of such Act is amended by striking out "$10,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$20,000,000".

AUTHORIZATION FOR URBAN INFORMATION AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE SERVICES PROGRAM

SEC. 1703. (a) The first sentence of section 906 of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 is amended by striking out "and not to exceed $5,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1968" and inserting in lieu thereof "not to exceed $5,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 1968 and 1969, and not to exceed $15,000,000 for fiscal year 1970".

(b) The second sentence of section 906 of such Act is amended to read as follows: "Any amounts appropriated under this section shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this section but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970."

ADVANCES IN TECHNOLOGY IN HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 1704. (a) Section 1010(d) of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 is amended by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence the following: ", and not to exceed such sums for subsequent fiscal years as may be necessary".

(b) Section 1010(c) of such Act is amended by striking out "two years" in the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "four years".

(c) Section 1010(a) of such Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "and" at the end of paragraph (1);

(2) by striking out the period at the end of paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof "; and"; and

(3) by adding after paragraph (2) a new paragraph as follows:

"(3) require, to the greatest extent feasible, the employment of new and improved technology, techniques, materials, and methods in housing construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance under programs administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development with a view to reducing the cost of such construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance, and stimulating the increased and sustained production of housing under such programs."

COLLEGE HOUSING

SEC. 1705. (a) The heading of section 401 of the Housing Act of 1950 is amended by striking out "LOANS" and inserting in lieu thereof "ASSISTANCE IN THE FORM OF LOANS OR ANNUAL GRANTS".

(b) Section 401(a) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(a) To assist educational institutions in providing housing and other educational facilities for students and faculties, the Secretary may make loans of funds to such insitutions for the construction or purchase of such facilities or may, as an alternative to all or part of the loan (in the case of any such institution), make annual grants to the institution to reduce the cost of its borrowing from other sources for such construction or purchase: Provided, That no such assistance shall be provided unless (1) the educational institution involved is unable to secure the necessary funds for the construction or purchase from other sources upon terms and conditions equally as favorable as the terms and conditions applicable to loans under this title, and (2) the Secretary finds that any such construction will be undertaken in an economical manner, and that any such facilities are not or will not be of elaborate or extravagant design or materials."

(c) Section 401(c) of such Act is amended—

(1) by inserting "(1)" after "(c)";

(2) by striking out "of (1)" and "or (2)" and inserting in lieu thereof "of (A)" and "or (B)", respectively; and

(3) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph;

"(2) Annual grants to an educational institution with respect to any housing or other educational facilities shall be made over a fixed period not exceeding 40 years, and provision for such grants shall be embodied in a contract guaranteeing their payment over such period. Each such grant shall be in an amount equal to the difference between (A) the average annual debt service which would be required to be paid, during the life of the loan, on the amount borrowed from other sources for the construction or purchase of such facilities, and (B) the average annual debt service which the institution would have been required to pay, during the life of the loan, with respect to such amount if the applicable interest rate were the rate specified in paragraph (1): Provided, That the amount on which such grant is based shall be approved by the Secretary but in no event shall exceed the total development cost of the facilities."

(d) Section 401(d) of such Act is amended by inserting "(1)" after "(d)", and by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(2) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary such sums as may be necessary, together with loan principal and interest payments made by educational institutions assisted with loans made hereunder, for payments on notes or other obligations issued by the Secretary under this section."

(e) Section 401(f) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(f)(1) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary such sums as may be necessary for the payment of annual grants to educational institutions in accordance with this section.

"(2) Contracts for annual grants under this section shall not be entered into in an aggregate amount greater than is authorized in appropriation Acts; and in any event the total amount of annual grants which may be paid to educational institutions in any year pursuant to contracts entered into under this section shall not exceed $10,000,000, which amount shall be increased by $10,000,000 on July 1, 1969."

(f) Section 403 of such Act is amended by striking out "the funds provided for in this title in the form of loans" and inserting in lieu thereof "the amount of the funds provided for in this title in the form of loans, and not more than 12½ per centum of the funds provided for in this title for grants,".

(g)(1) Section 401(g) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(g) Except as otherwise provided in the second paragraph of section 404(b), in the case of any loan which is made under this section to a nonprofit student housing cooperative corporation referred to in clause (5) of section 404(b), or which is obtained from other sources by such a corporation and is the subject of a contract for annual grants entered into under this section, the Secretary shall require that the note securing such loan be cosigned by the educational institution (referred to in clause (1) of such section) at which such corporation is located, and that, in the event of the dissolution of such corporation, title to the housing constructed with such loan will vest in such educational institution."

(2) Section 404(a) of such Act is amended by inserting "or existing" immediately after "new".

(3) Clause (3)(B) of section 404(b) of such Act is amended by striking out "of any loan secured under this title" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "of any loan which is made under section 401, or is the subject of a contract for annual grants entered into under section 401,".

(4) Clause (4) of section 404(b) of such Act is amended by striking out "to obtain loans" and inserting in lieu thereof "to obtain loans or grants".

(5) The second paragraph of section 404(b) of such Act is amended by inserting after "clause (5) of this subsection," the following: "and in the case of any loan which is obtained from other sources by such a corporation and is the subject of a contract for annual grants entered into under section 401,".

(6) Section 404(c) of such Act is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: "; except that in the case of the purchase of facilities such term means the cost as approved by the Secretary".

(7) Section 404(h) of such Act is amended by inserting "or existing" immediately after "new".

(h) The last sentence of paragraph "Seventh" of section 5136 of the Revised Statutes (12 U.S.C. 24) (appearing immediately before the sentence added by section 911 of this Act) is amended by inserting after "the Asian Development Bank" the following: ", or obligations issued by any State or political subdivision or any agency of a State or political subdivision for housing, university, or dormitory purposes,".

(2) by inserting in paragraph (2) after "(as defined in subsection (d)(2)," the following: "to any limited profit sponsor approved by the Secretary,"; and

(3) by inserting in paragraph (3) after "Secretary" the following: ", except that in the case of other than a corporation, consumer cooperative, or public body or agency the amount of the loan shall not exceed 90 per centum of the development cost".

FEDERAL-STATE TRAINING PROGRAMS

SEC. 1707. (a) Title VIII of the Housing Act of 1964 is amended—

(1) by inserting after "urban centers," in section 801(b) the following: "and with business firms and associations, labor unions, and other interested associations and organizations"; and

(2) by striking out "technical and professional people" in sections 801(b)(1) and 802(a)(1) and inserting in lieu thereof "technical, professional, and other persons with the capacity to master and employ such skills"; and

(3) by inserting after "which has responsibility for community development" in sections 801(b)(1) and 802(a)(1) the following: ", or by a private nonprofit organization which is conducting or has responsibility for housing and community development programs".

(b) Section 805 of such Act is amended by inserting "Guam, American Samoa, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands," after "the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,".

ADDITIONAL ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 1708(a) The first sentence of section 4(a) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act is amended by striking out "five" and inserting in lieu thereof "six".

(b) Paragraph (87) of section 5315 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by striking out "(4)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(6)".

INTERNATIONAL HOUSING

SEC. 1709. Section 604 of the Housing Act of 1957 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 604. (a) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development may exchange data relating to housing and urban planning and development with other nations and assemble such data from other nations, through participation in international conferences and other means, where such exchange or assembly is deemed by him to be beneficial in carrying out his responsibilities under the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act or other legislation. In carrying out his responsibilities under this subsection the Secretary may—

"(1) pay the expenses of participation in activities conducted under authority of this section including, but not limited to, the compensation, travel expenses, and per diem in lieu of subsistence of persons serving in an advisory capacity while away from their homes or regular places of business in connection with attendance at international meetings and conferences, or other travel for the purpose of exchange or assembly of data relating to housing and urban planning and development; but such travel expenses shall not exceed those authorized for regular officers and employees traveling in connection with said activities; and

"(2) accept from international organizations, foreign countries, and private nonprofit foundations, funds, services, facilities, materials, and other donations to be utilized jointly in carrying out activities under this section.

"(b) International programs and activities carried out by the Secretary under the authority provided in subsection (a) shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of State for the purpose of assuring that such authority shall be exercised in a manner consistent with the foreign policy of the United States."

ELIGIBILITY FOR RENT SUPPLEMENT PAYMENTS

SEC. 1710. Notwithstanding any other provision of law respecting the date after which a mortgage must have been approved for mortgage insurance under section 221(d)(3) of the National Housing Act, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to make and contract to make, rent supplement payments under the provisions of section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 to the owners of the housing projects known as the 114th Street rehabilitation project and the 114th Street rehabilitation project numbered 2, in New York City, New York (project numbers 012-33501 and 012-33512).

CONSOLIDATION OF LOW-RENT PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

SEC. 1711. All projects now operated and maintained by the National Capital Housing Authority pursuant to title I of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act are deemed to be low-rent housing projects and may be consolidated, pursuant to section 15(6) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, into any contract for annual contributions covering projects maintained and operated pursuant to title II of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act.

URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT IN GARDEN CITY, MICHIGAN

SEC. 1712. Notwithstanding the date of commencement of construction of the Florence Primary School in Garden City, Michigan, local expenditures made in connection with such school shall, to the extent otherwise eligible, be counted as a local grant-in-aid toward the Cherry Hill urban renewal project (Mich. R-46) for purposes of title I of the Housing Act of 1949.

URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT IN SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA

SEC. 1713. Notwithstanding the date of commencement of construction of the storm drainage system in the Capital Mall Riverfront urban renewal project (Calif. R-67) in Sacramento, California, local expenditures made in connection with such storm drainage system located in that project shall, to the extent otherwise eligible, be counted as a local grant-in-aid toward that project for purposes of title I of the Housing Act of 1949.

SELF-HELP STUDIES

SEC. 1714. (a) Section 207 of the Housing Act of 1961 is amended by inserting after the words "improved means" the following: ", including the study of self-help in the construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance of housing for low-income persons and families and the methods of selecting, involving, and directing such persons and families in self-help activities,".

(b) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall make a report to the Congress, within one year after the date of enactment of this Act, setting forth the results of the self-help studies and demonstrations carried out under section 207 of the Housing Act of 1961, together with such recommendations as he deems appropriate.

EARTHQUAKE STUDY

SEC. 1715. Section 5 of the Southeast Hurricane Disaster Relief Act of 1965 is amended by striking out "three years after the appropriation of funds for this study" and inserting in lieu thereof "June 30, 1969".

SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

SEC. 1716. (a) Section 5(b) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended to read as follows:

"(b)(1) An association may raise capital in the form of such savings deposits, shares, or other accounts, for fixed, minimum, or indefinite periods of time (all of which are referred to in this section as savings accounts and all of which shall have the same priority upon liquidation) as are authorized by its charter or by regulations of the Board, and may issue such passbooks, time certificates of deposit, or other evidence of savings accounts as are so authorized. Holders of savings accounts and obligors of an association shall, to such extent as may be provided by its charter or by regulations of the Board, be members of the association, and shall have such voting rights and such other rights as are thereby provided. Except as may be otherwise authorized by the association's charter or regulation of the Board in the case of savings accounts for fixed or minimum terms of not less than thirty days, the payment of any savings account shall be subject to the right of the association to require such advance notice, not less than thirty days, as shall be provided for by the charter of the association or the regulations of the Board. The payment of withdrawals from savings accounts in the event an association does not pay all withdrawals in full (subject to the right of the association to require notice) shall be subject to such rules and procedures as may be prescribed by the association's charter or by regulation of the Board, but any association which, except as authorized in writing by the Board, fails to make full payment of any withdrawal when due shall be deemed to be in an unsafe or unsound condition to transact business within the meaning of subsection (d) of this section. Savings accounts shall not be subject to check or to withdrawal or transfer on negotiable or transferable order or authorization to the association, but the Board may by regulation provide for withdrawal or transfer of savings accounts upon nontransferable order or authorization.

"(2) To such extent as the Board may authorize by regulation or advice in writing, an association may borrow, may give security, and may issue such notes, bonds, debentures, or other obligations, or other securities (except capital stock) as the Board may so authorize."

(b) Section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended—

(1) by striking out "shares" in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "savings accounts"; and

(2) by inserting after the first semicolon in the second proviso the following words: "or in time deposits, certificates, or accounts of any bank the deposits of which are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;".

Section 5(c) of such Act is amended by inserting in the second paragraph after property alteration, repair, or improvement" the following: ", including the construction of new structures related to residential use of the property".

(d) Section 5(c) of such Act is amended by adding immediately after the second paragraph thereof the following new paragraph:

"Without regard to any other provision of this subsection, but subject to such prohibitions, limitations, and conditions as the Board may by regulation prescribe, any such association may make and invest in—

"(A) any loan not exceeding $5,000 made for the repair, equipping, alteration, or improvement of any real property, or

"(B) any loan made for the purpose of mobile home financing."

(e) The first sentence of the paragraph which, prior to the amendments made by this Act, was the next to the last paragraph of section 5(c) of such Act, is amended—

(1) by inserting "(1)" immediately before "invest";

(2) by striking out "(1)" before "secured";

(3) by inserting ", now or hereafter in effect," after "National Housing Act"; and

(4) by striking out all that follows "(2)" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "acquire and hold investments in housing project loans, or interests therein, having the benefit of any guaranty under section 221 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as now or hereafter in effect, or loans, or interests therein, having the benefit of any guaranty under section 224 of such Act, or any commitment or agreement with respect to such loans, or interests therein, made pursuant to either of such sections."

(f) Section 5(c) of such Act is amended by adding immediately before the last paragraph thereof the following new paragraph:

"Any such association may invest in loans, or interests in loans, to financial institutions with respect to which the United or any agency or instrumentality thereof has any function of examination or supervision, or to any broker or dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, secured by loans, obligations, or investments in which it has any statutory authority to invest directly."

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK ACT

SEC. 1717. Section 12 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1432), is amended by inserting "(a)" after "SEC. 12.", and by adding at the end thereof a new subsection as follows:

"(b) Subject to such regulations as may be prescribed by the Board, one or more Federal home loans banks may acquire, hold, or dispose of, in whole or in part, or facilitate such acquisition, holding, or disposition by members of any such bank of, housing project loans, or interests therein, having the benefit of any guaranty under section 221 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as now or hereafter in effect, or loans, or interests therein, having the benefit of any guaranty under section 224 of such Act, or any commitment or agreement with respect to such loans, or interests therein, made pursuant to either of such sections."

FEDERAL RESERVE ACT

SEC. 1718. Section 24 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U.S.C. 371), is amended—

(1) by striking out "twenty-four months," wherever it appears in the third paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof "thirty-six months";

(2) by striking out "when the entire amount of such obligation is sold to the association", wherever it appears in the first and second paragraphs, and inserting in lieu thereof "in whole or in part and at any time or times prior to the maturity of such obligation"; and

(3) by striking out the last paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Loans made to any borrower (i) where the association looks for repayment by relying primarily on the borrower's general credit standing and forecast of income, with or without other security, or (ii) where the association relies on other security as collateral for the loans (including but not limited to a guaranty of a third party), and where, in either case described in clause (i) or (ii) above, the association wishes to take a mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument upon real estate (whether or not constituting a first lien) as a precaution against contingencies, such loans shall not be considered as real estate loans within the meaning of this section but shall be classed as ordinary non-real-estate loans."

LOW-RENT PUBLIC HOUSING—CORPORATE STATUS

SEC. 1719. (a) The first sentence of section 3 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by striking "a body corporate of perpetual duration to be known as".

(b) Section 17 of such Act is repealed. The capital stock referred to in such section shall be retired, and sum of $1,000,000 represented by such stock shall be returned to the Treasury of the United States.

(c) Such Act is amended by adding a new section 17 as follows:

"SEC. 17. In the performance of, and with respect to, functions powers, and duties under this Act, the Secretary shall have (in addition to any authority otherwise vested in him) the functions, powers, and duties set forth in subsections (a), (b), and (e) of section 402 of the Housing Act of 1950."

(d) Section 101 of the Government Corporation Control Act is amended by striking out "United States Public Housing Authority and including public housing projects financed through appropriated funds and operations thereof;".

SPECIAL STUDIES OF SAVINGS AND LOAN INDUSTRY

SEC. 1720. That part of chapter IV of the Second Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1966, which relates to expenses necessary for special studies of the savings and loan industry is amended by striking out "1968" and inserting "1969".

SMALL BUSINESS ACT

SEC. 1721. Subsection (a) of section 4 of the Small Business Act is amended by inserting immediately after "the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico," the following: "the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands,".

TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS

SEC. 1722. (a) Section 110(c) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out "paragraphs (7), (8), and (9)" in the second unnumbered paragraph following the numbered paragraphs and inserting in lieu thereof "paragraphs (7), (8), (9), and (10)".

(b) Section 110(d) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out "clauses (2), (3)" and inserting in lieu thereof "clauses (2), (3), (7)".

(c) Section 110(e) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out "and (9)" in clause (i) and inserting in lieu thereof "(9), and (10)".

(d) Section 1101(c)(3) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "from the beginning of amortization of the mortgage" immediately after "twenty-five years".

(e) Section 213(o) of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof four new sentences as follows: "Moneys in the Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund not needed for current operations of the fund shall be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States to the credit of the Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund or invested in bonds or other obligations of, or in bonds or other obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by, the United States. The Secretary may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, purchase in the open market debentures which are the obligations of the Cooperative Management Housing Insurance Fund. Such purchases shall be made at a price which will provide an investment yield of not less than the yield obtainable from other investments authorized by this subsection. Debentures so purchased shall be canceled and not reissued."

(f) Section 810(e) of the National Housing Act is amended—

(1) by striking out "private corporation, association, cooperative society, or trust" in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "mortgagor approved by the Secretary", and

(2) by striking out "corporation, association, cooperative society, or trust" in the third and fourth sentences and inserting in lieu thereof "mortgagor".

(g) Section 220(d)(2)(B) of the National Housing Act is amended by striking out "corporations restricted by" and inserting in lieu thereof "corporations or other legal entities restricted by or under".

And the House agree to the same.

STATEMENT

The managers on the part of the House at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the House to the bill (S. 3497) to assist in the provision of housing for low and moderate income families, and to extend and amend laws relating to housing and urban development, submit the following statement in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the conferees and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The House struck out all of the Senate bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute amendment. The committee of conference has agreed to a substitute for both the House amendment and the Senate bill. Except for technical, clarifying, and conforming changes, the following statement explains the differences between the House amendment and the substitute agreed to in conference.

Employment opportunities

The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment requiring consultation with the Secretary of Labor, and covered "training", "planning", and "operation of housing", in addition to employment in construction and rehabilitation. The Senate bill also contained a provision directing the awarding of contracts to the greatest extent feasible to business concerns in the area of such programs in consultation with the Administrator of the Small Business Administration. The conference report contains the Senate provisions.

Annual report on program administration and management

The House amendment contained a provision requiring annual reports beginning with an interim report on January 15, 1969, to the Banking and Currency Committees of the House and Senate on areas of program administration and management which require improvement. The conference substitute contains the House provision but requires only two reports, the first as early as practicable in calendar year 1969, and the second in calendar year 1970.

TITLE I—LOWER INCOME HOUSING

Homeownership for lower income families

The Senate bill describes the title of section 101 as "Homeownership for Lower Income Families". The section title of the House amendment was "Homeownership for Low and Moderate Income Families". The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

Family income ceiling

The Senate bill limited eligibility for interest rate subsidies to families with incomes less than 70 percent of section 221(d)(3) BMIR program except that 20 percent of the funds could be used for families with incomes exceeding that limit. The House amendment limited initial elgibility and continued assistance to families with incomes less than 130 percent of income levels of continued occupancy in the area which can be established pursuant to the public housing law.

The conference substitute provides the following income limits: For 80 percent of the funds authorized, the income limit is 135 percent of the public housing level in the area for initial occupancy, plus $300 per minor child. For the remainng 20 percent of the funds authorized, the income limit is 90 percent of the maximum levels established in the area under the Below Market Interest Rate program, plus $300 per minor child.

The conference substitute also directs the Secretary to the maximum extent practicable to use the authorized funds for the lowest income families for whom homeownership is practicable.

The conference substitute also requires an annual report by the Secretary to the Banking and Currency Committees of the Senate and House on the income groups being served by the program.

Deduction for children

The Senate bill contained a deduction of $300 per minor child from family income for purposes of determining monthly payment as well as income eligibility. The House amendment allowed a $200 deduction from family income in determining the monthly payment. The conference substitute contains the Senate provision.

Downpayment

The Senate bill contained a provision permitting a $200 downpayment for families whose incomes are below 70 percent of section 221(d)(3) level, and 3 percent downpayment for all others. The House amendment permitted $200 downpayment for displaced families, and 3 percent for others.

The conference substitute provides for a $200 downpayment for families receiving subsidy assistance whose incomes fall below the ceiling of 135 percent of public housing initial occupancy income levels, and a 3-percent downpayment for all others.

Eligibility of standard existing housing

The Senate bill contained a provision which limited eligibility generally to new and rehabilitated housing but made exceptions with respect to standard existing housing as follows:

a. Displaced families.
b. Families with five or more minors.
c. Families occupying public housing.
d. A dwelling unit in a rent supplement project.
e. A dwelling unit in a section 236 project.

However, assistance for standard existing housing including the above categories but not limited to them cannot exceed—

a. 25 percent of funds for fiscal year 1969;
b. 15 percent of funds for fiscal year 1970;
c. 10 percent of funds for fiscal year 1971.

The House amendment placed no statutory restrictions on existing structures, provided they met standards prescribed by Secretary of HUD, or if assistance payments are made on behalf of the previous owner who purchased the unit from a nonprofit organization pursuant to 235(j).

The conference substitute conforms to the Senate provisions except that it retains the provision in the House amendment extending eligibility for existing housing if assistance payments are made on behalf of a family who purchased the unit from a nonprofit organization pursuant to section 235(j) and other standard housing aided under section 235(j).

Preference for benefits

The House amendment contained a provision which would have provided a general preference for displaced families, families with five or more minors and families occupying public housing. The Senate bill did not contain this provision and none is contained in the conference substitute.

Eligibility of cooperative members

The Senate bill contained a provision permitting payments to an otherwise eligible cooperative member who receives membership by transfer from an initial member who received assistance payments under the program. This provision, not contained in the House amendment, is contained in the conference substitute.

Interest subsidy benefits for housing purchased by nonprofit organizations for resale to lower income families under the new section 235(j)

(a) Sponsor.—The Senate bill contained a provision permitting sponsorship by public bodies or agencies as well as by nonprofit organizations. The House amendment limited sponsorship to nonprofit organizations. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

(b) Type of housing.—The Senate bill contained a provision limiting this program to substandard housing in need of rehabilitation. The House amendment made eligible the purchase and resale of existing standard housing as well as a two-family dwelling, one unit of which will be occupied by the purchaser. The conference substitute conforms to the House amendment except that eligibility (in the case of standard housing) is to be confined to the type of neighborhoods in which the present section 221(h) program operates.

(c) Subsidy payment.—The Senate bill contained a provision authorizing payments to lower income families purchasing and occupying units sold by a nonprofit organization. The House amendment authorized payments to low and moderate income families who either purchased the unit from the nonprofit group or purchased by assumption from the previous owner who received assistance payments. The conference substitute conforms to the House amendment but confines eligibility to lower income families.

(d) Price of individual unit sold by nonprofit sponsor.—The Senate bill contained a provision authorizing a fixed price based on the allocable share of the unpaid mortgage plus at least $200 in cash or its equivalent. The House amendment contained a similar provision except it contained no provision for paying the $200 in the equivalent of cash. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

The section 221(h) rehabilitation program for subsequent resale to low income families

(a) Interest rate.—The House amendment contained a provision not in the Senate bill which would authorize the Secretary to set interest rates as low as 1%. The conference substitute adopts the House provision but requires the Secretary to raise the rate as high as 3% if subsequent income review shows an increase in the homeowner's income.

(b) New authority for rehabilitation and refinancing of existing indebtedness.—The House amendment contained a provision not in the Senate bill authorizing the Secretary to insure mortgages for rehabilitation and refinancing under the following conditions:

(1) Maximum mortgage $15,000.

(2) Interest rate between 1 and 3 percent depending on income.

(3) Reasonable downpayment as determined by the Secretary, but at least $200.

(4) Family income cannot exceed local public housing level.

The conference substitute contains the provision in the House amendment except that the refinancing authority which will be available is limited to a period of one year following enactment and requires the Secretary to raise the rate as high as 3 percent if subsequent income review shows an increase in the homeowner's income.

Credit assistance

Both the House and Senate bills authorized FHA mortgage insurance for marginal credit risks who could be qualified for mortgage credit with the aid of counseling. The Senate bill limited such insurance to $200 million outstanding while the House bill imposed a limit of $100 million. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

Special risk insurance fund

The House bill contained a provision, not in the Senate bill, requiring an annual business-type budget for the newly established Special Risk Fund in FHA. While the conference substitute does not include this requirement, the conferees expect the Federal Housing Administration to give particular emphasis to this Fund in its annual reports and maintain its accounts in such a way that experience under this program can be readily evaluated.

Advisory commission on low income housing

The Senate bill contained a provision establishing a National Advisory Commission on Low Income Housing. The House amendment contained no such provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

TITLE II—RENTAL HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

Rental and cooperative housing

(a) Section title.—The Senate bill described the title of section 201 as "Rental and Cooperative Housing for Lower Income Families". The section title of the House amendment was "Rental and Cooperative Housing for Low and Moderate Income Families". The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

(b) Family income ceiling.—The Senate bill limited eligibility to families with incomes less than 70 percent of section 221(d)(3) below market interest rate levels, except that 20 percent of the funds could be used for families with incomes exceeding that limit. The House amendment limited initial eligibility to families with incomes less than 130 percent of income levels for continued occupancy in the area which can be established pursuant to public housing law.

The conference substitute provides the following income limits: For 80 percent of the funds authorized the income limit is 135 percent of the public housing level in the area for initial occupancy, plus $300 per minor child. For the remaining 20 percent of the funds authorized the income limit is 90 percent of the maximum level established under the below market interest rate program in the area, plus $300 per minor child.

The conference substitute also requires an annual report by the Secretary to the Banking and Currency Committees of the Senate and House on how the subsidy program is operated with respect to the income limits provided in the conference substitute.

(c) Deduction for children.—The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment providing a $300 deduction per minor child from family income for purposes of determining monthly payment as well as income eligibility.

The conference substitute contains the Senate language.

Rent supplements; percent of income payable

The House amendment contained a provision not in the Senate bill requiring a payment of 20 percent of income (existing law requires 25 percent of income). The conference substitute retains the 25 percent requirement in existing law but permits a deduction from income of $300 per minor child.

Public housing

(a) Number of units per structure in leased section 223 housing.—The House amendment contained a provision not in the Senate bill which would have limited eligible units in a single structure to the lesser of (a) 10 units or 10 percent, whichever is greater, or (b) 50 percent of the units in the structure. No such provision is contained in the conference substitute.

(b) Tenant services.—The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment which authorized grants to local housing authorities to provide tenant services with an authorized limit on appropriations of $20 million for fiscal year 1969, and $40 million in fiscal year 1970. The conference substitute authorizes $15 million for fiscal year 1969 and $30 million for fiscal year 1970 and lists the types of services to be covered.

The list is that contained in the bill reported by the House Committee on Banking and Currency with two changes. The committee-reported bill stated that "the term 'tenant services' includes (without being limited to) the following services and activities." The parenthetic phrase "without being limited to" has been stricken in the conference substitute. The committee-reported bill also included in the list of eligible activities a reference to "intertenant activities" which has been stricken in the conference substitute.

TITLE III—FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION INSURANCE OPERATIONS

Supplemental loans for multifamily projects

The Senate bill contained a provision applying to a supplemental loan the labor standards provisions "that are applicable to" the section under which the original mortgage was insured. The House amendment applied the labor standards provisions "without regard to" the section under which the original mortgage was insured. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

It is the intention of the conferees that the construction financed by these loans be governed by the same labor standards provisions of section 212 of the National Housing Act that are applicable, at the time the commitment to insure a supplemental loan is issued, to the program under which the mortgage covering the project or facility is insured. This would mean that the owner of an existing FHA multifamily project wishing to obtain a supplemental loan to expand or modernize his project would be governed by the same labor standards provisions that would govern the construction of a new project of the same type.

Term of Federal Housing Administration mortgages for land development

The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment giving the Secretary authority to extend the maturity of land development mortgages beyond 10 years if he determines such an extension warranted by unusual or unforeseen circumstances. The conference substitute contains the Senate provision.

Equipment in nursing homes; mortgage maturity

The House amendment contained a provision limiting the maturity of mortgages covering equipment to the reasonable use expectancy of the equipment. The Senate bill contained no provision and none is contained in the conference report.

Housing in outlying areas

The House amendment contained a provision increasing the maximum mortgage under the section 203(i) program from $12,- 500 to $15,000. The Senate bill contained no provision. The conference substitute retains this provision, with an amendment providing that the maximum mortgage be raised to $13,500.

Notification prerequisite in connection with local government for section 221(d)(3) projects

The House amendment contained a provision requiring the Secretary of HUD to notify a local governing body of a proposed section 221(d)(3) project, requesting a statement of the project's impact on local public services and its relationship to any locally adopted master plans. The Senate bill contained no provision, and no such provision is contained in the conference substitute.

Seasonal homes

The Senate bill authorized FHA to insure mortgages on seasonal homes not exceeding $15,000, and 75 percent of the appraised value, on an acceptable risk basis, taking into consideration the economic potential of the area and the effect the insurance on such mortgages would have on the availability of mortgage credit in the area.

The Senate bill also requires that proper steps be taken to preserve the natural resources of the area. The House amendment contained no provision. The conference report contains the Senate provision.

TITLE IV—NEW COMMUNITIES

Guarantees for financing new community development

The Senate bill contained a provision, not in the House bill, authorizing the Secretary of HUD to guarantee bonds, debentures, notes, and other obligations issued by private new community developers to help finance development of new community projects.

The maximum guarantee could not exceed the lesser of (a) 80 percent of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the property upon completion of the land development, or (b) the sum of 75 percent of the Secretary's estimate of value of land before development and 90 percent of his estimate of actual cost of the land development.

The guarantee could not exceed $50 million for any single new development and $250 million aggregate outstanding principal obligation at any one time.

Fees and charges collected by the Secretary will be deposited in a revolving fund to cover any liabilities under guarantees. In addition, full faith and credit of the United States is pledged to payment of guarantees and debentures and appropriations to cover program operations and nonadministrative expenses and, if necessary, any guarantee payments are authorized.

The provision would require HUD to adopt requirements encouraging small builders to participate in new community projects.

The provision would authorize supplemental grants to States and localities assisting new community development with basic water and sewer and open space projects. The additional grant is limited to 20 percent of cost of the facility and requires, if supplementary grants are used, that a substantial number of housing units for low and moderate income persons must be made available through such development project. (Total Federal grant cannot exceed 80 percent of facility cost.) Appropriations of not to exceed $5 million for supplemental grants for fiscal year 1969 and not to exceed $25 million for fiscal year 1970 would be authorized.

Sections of this title also require cost certifications in connection with a land development project and authorize the General Accounting Office to audit the transactions of developers whose obligations are guaranteed pursuant to this title.

The conference substitute contains the Senate provision with a modification restricting the GAO audits to transactions related to new community undertakings.

TITLE V—URBAN RENEWAL

Extension of rehabilitation grants to property located outside urban renewal and code enforcement areas

The Senate bill contained a provision authorizing grants under section 115 of the Housing Act of 1949 to property located in an area certified by a local governing body as containing a substantial number of structures in need of repairs and improvements; also the locality must have the workable program and the area must be scheduled for rehabilitation or code enforcement within a reasonable time, and repairs to property must be consistent with such plans. The House amendment contained a provision requiring that such property be located in an area certified by a local governing body as containing a substantial number of structures in need of rehabilitation. The conference report contains the Senate provision with a requirement that the area be "definitely planned" for rehabilitation or code enforcement.

The House amendment also contained a provision authorizing grants for property determined to be uninsurable after inspection under the FAIR plan where located in an area which has a substantial number of properties in need of rehabilitation. The Senate bill contains no provision. The conference report retains the House provision, with an amendment providing that such properties will be eligible regardless of location.

Disposition of urban renewal land

The House amendment contained a provision not in the Senate bill authorizing the disposition of urban renewal property at fair value to private developers (in addition to nonprofit groups, limited dividend corporations, and public organizations eligible under existing law). The conference substitute retains the House provision with an amendment directing the Secretary to assure that the benefit of this provision goes to the home buyer rather than to the private developer.

Rehabilitation loan program

Both the House and Senate bills broadened eligibility for rehabilitation loans under section 312 of the Housing Act of 1964 to areas outside urban renewal and code enforcement. The Senate bill required that such areas contain a substantial number of structures in need of rehabilitation; that the areas be scheduled for rehabilitation or code enforcement within a reasonable time; that the rehabilitation be consistent with the plan; that there be a workable program covering the area; and that the property be in violation of local codes. The House bill required that the area contain a substantial number of structures in need of rehabilitation and that the property required substantial rehabilitation. The conference report contains the Senate provision with a requirement that the area be "definitely planned" for rehabilitation or code enforcement.

The House amendment also contained a provision authorizing section 312 loans for property determined to be uninsurable after inspection under the FAIR plan where located in an area which has a substantial number of properties in need of rehabilitation. The Senate bill contained no provision. The conference report retains the House provision, with an amendment providing that such properties will be eligible regardless of location.

The House bill also included an amendment not in the Senate bill limiting section 312 rehabilitation loans to persons whose income is within locally applicable section 221(d)(3) BMIR limits. The conference report retains this provision with an amendment limiting this restriction to residential loans and exempting urban renewal and code enforcement projects now receiving financial assistance under title I of the Housing Act of 1949 which contemplate the use of these loans.

Interim assistance for blighted areas

The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment authorizing the use of up to $20 million a year of the regular urban renewal authorization to assist localities in alleviating harmful conditions in slum and blighted areas where urban renewal or code enforcement activities are planned but some immediate action is needed until those activities can be begun. The conference substitute contains the Senate provision with a reduction in the dollar amount to $15 million.

Low and moderate income housing in residential areas

The Senate bill contained a provision requiring that a majority of housing units in urban renewal areas to be developed for predominately residential uses be for low and moderate income families. The House amendment required that a majority of housing units in each community's urban renewal projects to be developed for predominately residential uses be for low and moderate income families and that at least 20 percent of the total units in such projects in each community be for low income families. The conference substitute contains the House provision with authority for the Secretary to waive the requirement of 20 percent for low income families where he determines that this is not needed. In any case in which the Secretary exercised this waiver authority, he would be required by the conference substitute to report on his action to the Committees on Banking and Currency.

Workable program for Indian tribes

The House amendment contained a provision not in the Senate bill deferring the effective date for meeting the code enforcement requirement of the workable program in the case of Indian tribes until January 1, 1969. The conference substitute contains the House provision but extends the date to January 1, 1970.

Property damage by limestone quarry subsidence

The House amendment contained a provision permitting urban renewal project payment of unreduced value upon acquisition of property damaged by limestone quarry subsidence. There was no similar provision in the Senate bill and none is contained in the conference report.

TITLE VI—URBAN PLANNING AND FACILITIES

Comprehensive planning

The Senate bill contained a provision making eligible for planning grants under section 701 grant program the various regional commissions established under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. The House amendment contained no provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

Consultation with the Secretary of Commerce

The Senate bill contained a provision requiring the Secretary of HUD to consult with the Secretary of Commerce before approval of any planning grant which includes any part of an economic development district, and also permits the Secretary of Commerce to provide technical assistance in the establishment of districts and their planning. The House amendment contains no such language. The conference report contains the Senate language.

Implementation of planning

The House amendment contained a provision which provides that grants to councils of governments may be used for implementation of plans. The Senate bill contained no provision. The conference report contains the House language. The conferees wish to state that none of these grant funds used for the implementation of plans may be used for construction.

Water and sewer program

The House amendment contained a provision increasing the authorization for water and sewer facilities program to $500 million for each of fiscal years 1968 and 1969. The Senate bill provided an additional $115 million for fiscal year 1970. The conference report authorizes an increase to $350 million for fiscal year 1969 and $115 million for 1970.

Repeal of 1966 provision for coordination of Federal aids in metropolitan areas

The House amendment contained a provision repealing section 204 of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 which provides for review by an areawide planning body of applications under certain Federal programs. There is no such provision in the Senate bill and none is contained in the conference substitute.

TITLE VII—URBAN MASS TRANSIT

Extension of emergency program

The Senate bill contained a provision extending the emergency program from November 1, 1968, to July 1, 1970. The House amendment extended the program to October 1, 1969. The conference report contains the Senate language.

TITLE VIII—SECONDARY MORTGAGE MARKET

Debt to capital ratio

The Senate bill contained a provision permitting the Secretary of HUD to fix the debt to capital ratio at a figure higher than the present limit of fifteen times the sum of its capital, surplus, and reserves. The House amendment contained a provision permitting the Board of Directors to set the debt to capial ratio instead of the Secretary of HUD. The conference report contains the Senate language.

GNMA guaranteed securities

The Senate bill contained a provision making it possible for savings and loan associations and banks to issue and sell GNMA guaranteed securities. The House amendment contained no provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

TITLE X—RURAL HOUSING

Labor standards

The House amendment contained a provision requiring labor standards of the Davis-Bacon Act to be applied in all housing constructed for rural trainees where eight or more units are involved. The Senate bill contained no provision and none is contained in the conference report.

TITLE XI—NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Operation of the program

The conference substitute generally conforms to the House provisions for the operation of the National Insurance Development Program. The Senate bill included a provision not included in the House bill for an Executive Director to administer the program. In place of this, the conference substitute provides for a Federal Insurance Administrator at executive level IV, who will be responsible for both this program and the flood insurance program provided for in title XIII of the bill. Also, the House bill provided that the definition of "essential property insurance" would be approved both by the State insurance authority and the Secretary. The conference substitute requires approval by the State insurance authority only.

FAIR plans

Both bills required as a condition of reinsurance that participating companies comply with FAIR plans designed to assure the property owners of fair access to insurance requirements. The conference substitute includes a provision not in the House bill that the FAIR plans must be administered under the supervision of the State insurance authority. Both bills provided that reinsurance will not be available following notification that the Secretary has found that programs other than the FAIR plans are needed but have not been implemented. The conference substitute includes a provision not in the House bill requiring the Secretary to consult with State insurance authorities in making this determination. The conference substitute also provides that the Secretary must request the views of the State insurance authority before denying reinsurance to an insurer on the grounds that he is not fully participating in the FAIR plan pool or other program.

Studies

Both bills authorized various studies in connection with the insurance program. The Senate bill directed that these studies be made in cooperation with State insurance authorities, while the House bill made this optional. The conference substitute directs cooperation with State authorities to the maximum extent feasible.

General powers

The conference substitute includes a provision contained in the Senate bill but not in the House bill, requiring that in issuing rules and regulations the Secretary must consult with the Advisory Board provided for in this title.

Financing

Both the House and Senate bills authorized Treasury borrowing to meet the Federal commitment under this program. The Senate bill placed no limitation on this borrowing, while the House bill limited it to $150 million or such further sums as may be determined by congressional joint resolution. The conference report limits the borrowing to $250 million and such further sums as may be authorized by joint resolution.

Disaster relief

The Senate bill contained provisions not included in the House bill amending section 7(b)(1) of the Small Business Act, section 101(c)(2)(E) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1949, and section 203(h) of the National Housing Act to make clear that their provisions apply in case of riot or civil disorder, and further providing that no person convicted of a felony during the riot or civil disorder shall be permitted to benefit from the disaster relief laws of the United States. The conference substitute included the Senate provisions, but places a 1-year limit on the prohibition on disaster relief to persons convicted of felonies.

Cancellation of insurance

It has been called to the attention of the conference that a number of existing insurance policies covering inner city properties have been canceled since the April, 1968 disorders. Presumably many of these cancellations were due to the unavailability of reinsurance for riot loss. The conference expects that policies canceled for this reason will be reinstated as soon as reinsurance under this title becomes available, without waiting for implementation of the FAIR plans, and that the Secretary shall encourage to the maximum extent feasible the acceptance of requests for reinstatement of such insurance.

TITLE XIII—NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE

Extension of coverage

The Senate bill gave the Secretary of HUD discretionary authority to extend flood insurance coverage to multifamily residential properties, larger business, farm, nonprofit, and public property. The House bill (which authorized initial coverage of smaller businesses) authorized the Secretary to make recommendations to Congress for extended coverage but did not empower the Secretary to act. The conference substitute restores the House provision on initial coverage of smaller businesses and contains the Senate provision giving the Secretary discretionary authority to extend coverage.

Financing

The Senate bill authorized the same general Treasury borrowing authority provided in the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956 (which limits borrowing to $500 million plus such additional sums as the President may authorize). The House bill limited this authority to $150 million and rescinded the unused portion of the Federal Flood Insurance Act authority. The conference substitute limits the borrowing to $250 million and rescinds the balance of the 1956 authority.

National flood insurance fund

The Senate bill authorized the Secretary to establish in the Treasury a fund to pay insurance claims as necessary to make premium equalization payments and to pay administrative expenses. The House provision is similar except that it did not provide for payment of administrative expenses. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate provision.

Federal operation of the program

In the event that the alternative federally operated program were undertaken, the Senate bill authorized the Secretary to operate the program through the facilities of the Federal Government by utilizing personnel of HUD and any other executive agency (and through insurance companies, agents, brokers, and organizations as fiscal agents). The House bill was similar except it had no expressed provision authorizing the use of HUD or other executive agency employees. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate provision.

Effective date

The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House bill making the National Flood Insurance Act effective 120 days after enactment unless the Secretary extends the date to a maximum of 180 days. The conference substitute includes the Senate provision.

TITLE XIV—INTERSTATE LAND SALES

This title includes title XIII of the Senate bill with two amendments. "The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act" requires developers and promoters selling or leasing 50 or more unimproved lots pursuant to a common promotional plan to file a registration statement, called a "statement of record" with the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. The statement of record must disclose all material and legal information relating to the property. The purpose of full disclosure is to deter or prohibit the sale of land by use of the mails or other channels of interstate commerce through misrepresentation of material facts relating to the property. A property report, which would include part of the statement of record, must be submitted to the purchaser who may revoke the contract if it is not submitted. He may also revoke the contract within 48 hours after signing if the report was submitted within 48 hours before the signing. The revocation authority does not apply where the purchaser has received the report and inspected the lot and so acknowledges such by signature.

The conference substitute adopted all the exemptions contained in the Senate bill with one exception: Section 1403(a)(10) provides that, absent any purpose to evade the provisions of the title, the sale or lease of real estate is exempt where the purchaser or his or her spouse has personally inspected the lot purchased. However, to gain the exemption, the real estate must be free and clear of liens, encumbrances, and adverse claims. The latter terms are not intended to include property reservations which land developers commonly convey or dedicate to local agencies or public utilities and do not include taxes and assessments which constitute liens on the property before they are due and payable.

Notwithstanding the specific exemptions contained in section 1403, the conferees agreed that the Secretary has the discretion to exempt sales which would be technically covered but are intrastate or almost entirely intrastate in nature. An example would be where a few out-of-State purchasers buy lots only being offered for sale within the State of the land's location or in nearby communities.

The bill also contains provisions directing the Secretary to cooperate with States which have comparable disclosure and registration laws. The Secretary may accept for filing, the registration statement required by such State law.

Unless the Secretary finds material error in the statement of record the latter becomes effective upon the 30th day following filing. The Secretary is authorized to file suits to enjoin the sale of lots in violation of title XIV; and appropriate relief, including damages, is provided purchasers of lots who are victimized because of fraud or material misrepresentation in the required disclosures.

The conference substitute provides that this title will be effective 270 days after enactment, rather than 180 days after enactment as provided in the Senate bill.

TITLE XV—MORTGAGE INSURANCE FOR NONPROFIT HOSPITALS

Mortgage insurance for existing hospitals

The House amendment contained a provision permitting the insurance of a mortgage to provide permanent financing or refinancing of existing indebtedness for a hospital lacking permanent financing if construction was completed after 1965 and before the date of enactment. The Senate bill did not contain this provision. The conference report retains the House language with an amendment providing that mortgage insurance not exceeding $20 million at any one time will be available for this provision.

Equipment mortgage

The House amendment contained a provision providing that the maturity of a mortgage covering equipment could not exceed a reasonable use expectancy of the equipment. There is no such provision in the Senate bill, and none is contained in the conference report.

TITLE XVI—TEN YEAR HOUSING PROGRAM—HOUSING GOALS AND ANNUAL HOUSING REPORT

Declaration of purpose

The House amendment contained a provision that the Congress finds that the Nation's housing supply is not increasing rapidly enough to meet the national housing goal—the "realization as soon as feasible, of the goal of a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family"; the Congress reaffirms this goal and determines that it should be met within the next decade by the construction or rehabilitation of 26 million housing units including 6 million for low- and moderate-income families. The conference report contains the House language with an amendment that states that this goal should be substantially achieved within the next decade.

Report outlining plan

The Senate bill contained a section adding new provisions to the housing laws requiring the President to submit a report, not later than January 15, 1969, containing a 10-year plan for the national housing needs, along with legislative recommendations for fulfilling these needs. The House amendment contained no provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

Periodic reports

The Senate bill contained a provision requiring annual reports to be made by the President on January 15, 1970, and on each succeeding year through 1978 showing the progress made under the plan and the reasons why, if any, the goals set forth in the plan have not been reached along with the estimates of the need for the following year. The House amendment contained a provision directing the Secretary of HUD to submit annually to the President and the Council of Economic Advisers a report containing an estimate of the number of standard housing units produced in the preceding year, the number of such units produced for low- and moderate-income families, his assessment of whether the 10-year housing goal is being met, his recommendation of the current annual goal, and his recommendations of the legislative and administrative actions required to achieve the 10-year housing goal. The conference report contains the Senate language with an amendment requiring the Secretary of HUD to submit his legislative recommendations and the administrative actions required to achieve the 10-year housing goal. The conference report also contained an amendment providing that funds available for studies of housing markets and credit as authorized by section 301 of the Housing Act 1948 and section 602(a), the Housing Act of 1966, shall be available for expenses of the commission established by Public Law 90–301 including the report required to be rendered by such commission.

TITLE XVII—MISCELLANEOUS

Advances in technology

The Senate bill contained a provision authorizing research contracts for periods of up to 4 years instead of the presently authorized 2-year period. The House bill limited contracts to 3 years. The conference substitute conforms to the Senate bill.

The Senate bill also directed the Secretary to require to the greatest extent feasible employment of new and improved technology in programs administered by HUD. This provision which was not in the House bill is included in the conference substitute.

Housing for the elderly

The House amendment contained a provision amending the Davis-Bacon Act prevailing wage requirements on the direct loan program for housing for the elderly to permit waiver of these requirements only where persons involved donate their services without any compensation. There was no comparable provision in the Senate bill and none is contained in the conference substitute.

The House bill authorized refinancing of FHA section 231 housing for the elderly projects where commitments were issued prior to July 1, 1967, under the section 202 direct loan program for the elderly. There was no comparable provision in the Senate bill and none is contained in the conference substitute.

Savings and loan industry

Investment authority for Federal savings and loans

(a) The House amendment contained a provision authorizing Federal savings and loan associations to invest in loans secured by investments in which the association has statutory authority to invest directly. The Senate bill contained a similar provision authorizing Federal savings and loan associations to invest in loans to federally supervised financial institutions secured by investments in which the association has direct authority to invest. The conference report contains the Senate language with an amendment authorizing such loans to any broker or dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

(b) The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment authorizing federal savings and loan associations to invest up to 1% of assets in AID guaranty loans to developing countries outside of Latin America. The conference substitute contains the Senate provision.

(c) The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment authorizing savings and loan associations to make loans not exceeding $5,000 to finance new structures related to residential uses. Conference substitute contains the Senate provision.

(d) The House amendment contained a provision authorizing loans not exceeding $5,000 for equipping real property. The conference substitute retains this provision but it is the intention of the conferees that the term "equipping" refers to fixtures attached to the realty.

Authority for savings and loans to raise capital

The House amendment contained a provision authorizing federal savings and loan associations to raise capital in the form of savings deposits or other accounts or to borrow or issue bonds or other securities. The conference substitute includes this provision but it is the intention of the conferees that any debentures or other debt instruments issued under this authority should always be subordinated to the withdrawable or face value of savings accounts authorized under section 5(b)(1) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933. Such obligations would not be eligible for insurance, and it is expected that the Board will require sellers of any such instruments to make full disclosure to purchasers consistently with the requirements of Federal securities laws.

Federal Reserve Act

The Senate bill contained a provision:

(1) changing the present 24-month limit on construction loans to 36 months;

(2) permitting national banks to continue to purchase participations in existing mortgages; and

(3) providing that loans by national banks shall not be considered real estate loans where a bank looks primarily for repayment out of income of borrowers or security other than real estate even though a bank take a mortgage on real estate as additional security for loan.

The House amendment contains no provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

Corporate status of low rent public housing

The Senate bill contained a provision not in the House amendment eliminating the present corporate status of HUD's public housing entity and providing for the retirement of that entity's $1 million capital stock. The conference substitute includes the Senate provision.

Special studies of savings and loan industry

The Senate bill contains a provision extending for one year, until 1969, a study of the savings and loan industry authorized by The Second Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1966. The House amendment contained no provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

The Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands

The Senate bill contained a provision including the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands in the definition of the term "United States" thereby extending the provisions of the Small Business Act to such Territory. The House contained no provision. The conference report contains the Senate language.

HOUR OF MEETING ON WEDNESDAY, JULY 24, 1968

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns today it adjourn to meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Oklahoma?

Senate July 25, 1968

10. ROADS. Received the conference report on S. 3418, the proposed Federal Aid Highway Act of 1968 (H. Rept. 1799) (pp. H7596-606, H7483). The bill as reported by the conferees authorizes $33 million for forest highways, and $170 million for forest development roads and trails, for each of the fiscal years 1970 and 1971 (p. H7597). The bill defines a "forest road or trail" as a road or trail wholly or partly within or adjacent to and serving the national forests and other areas administered by the Forest Service. Defines "forest development roads and trails" as those forest roads or trails of primary importance for the protection, administration, and utilization of the national forests and other areas administered by the Forest Service or, where necessary, for the use and development of the resources upon which communities within or adjacent to the national forest and other areas administered by the Forest Service are dependent. Provides that "Construction estimated to cost $15,000 or more per mile or more per project with a length of less than one mile, exclusive of bridges and engineering, shall be advertised and let to contract. If such estimated cost is less than $15,000 per mile or $15,000 per project for projects with a length of less than one mile or if, after proper advertising, no acceptable bid is received or the bids are deemed excessive, the work may be done by the Secretary of Agriculture on his own account." (p. H7598)

For relocation assistance, provides that "Any displaced person who moves or discontinues his business or farm operation who elects to accept the payment authorized...may receive a fixed relocation payment in an amount equal to the average net earnings of the business or farm operation, or $5,000, whichever is the lesser."

Broadens the present law authorizing repair or reconstruction of highways damaged by catastrophe so as to include other than natural (as well as natural) disaster and to permit payment of up to 100% of replacement costs. Requires the Transportation Department to cooperate with Agriculture and other departments concerned in planning projects so as to preserve natural beauty.

11. POSTAL SERVICE. Rep. Berry criticized the probability of the closing of rural post offices. pp. H7594-5

12. TRANSPORTATION. Rep. Schwengel protested the distribution of an "anonymous 'fact sheet' purporting to refute the views of Members of Congress" on the bill to increase the weight and width limitations of trucks on the Interstate Highway System and stated the American Trucking Association later admitted it had "authored and distributed" the sheet (p. H7596). Rep. Schwengel also inserted the sixth chapter of Dr. Fuller's dissertation, "The Effects of Increased Size and Weight Standards on the Public and Social Costs of Motor Carriage." pp. H7608-623

SENATE

13. FISHERIES. The Commerce Committee reported without amendment S. 3866, to extend the Commercial Fisheries Research and Development Act of 1964 (S. Rept. 1457). p. S9356

14. RECREATION. The Commerce Committee reported without amendment H. R. 11026, to amend the act of Sept. 15, 1960, to develop and enhance recreational opportunities and improve the fish and wildlife programs at reservations covered by said act (S. Rept. 1458). p. S9356

15. APPROPRIATIONS. The Appropriations Committee reported with amendments H. R. 17522, making appropriations for the Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce, the Judiciary, and related agencies for fiscal year 1969 (S. Rept. 1459) (p. S9356).

16. MILK. Conferees were appointed on S. 3638, to extend for three years the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture to make indemnity payments to dairy farmers for milk required to be withheld from commercial markets because it contains residues of chemicals registered and approved for use by the Federal Government (pp. S9360-1). House conferees have not been appointed.

17. HOUSING. Agreed to the conference report on S. 3497, the housing bill (pp. S9398-9408). The revised bill provides as follows:

Sec. 101 adds a new Sec. 235 to the National Housing Act to provide Federal assistance for home ownership by lower-income families. Under the new program, HUD could enter into contracts to make periodic payments to lenders who make Federal Housing Administration insured home mortgage loans to eligible lower-income families in order to bring the required monthly payments within their ability to pay. Authority to administer portions of this section will be delegated by HUD to the Department of Agriculture.

Sec. 201 adds a new program of Federal assistance to rental and cooperative housing for lower-income families. This program is authorized in a new sec. 236 of the National Housing Act. The assistance is to be in the form of periodic payments to the mortgagee to reduce the mortgagor's interest cost on a market rate mortgage financing the project. Phases of this program that are mutually agreed upon between the Secretaries of HUD and Agriculture will be administered in rural areas by the Department of Agriculture.

Sec. 601 amends the comprehensive planning provisions of Sec. 701 of the Housing Act of 1954 to provide financial and technical assistance for district planning covering rural and other nonmetropolitan areas. In carrying out this responsibility, the Secretary of HUD is required to consult with the Secretary of Agriculture prior to his approval of any district planning grant under subsections (a)(6) and (g) of Sec. 701 as amended. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to provide technical assistance in connection with the establishment of planning districts by the Secretary of HUD and in the carrying out of planning by such districts.

Title X broadens Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 in the following ways:

(1) A new Sec. 521 authorizes loans in rural areas at reduced interest rates within the payment ability of low and moderate-income persons and families to provide them with occupant-owned, rental, or cooperative housing which cannot be financed under new Secs. 235 and 236 of the National Housing Act. Any interest supplement necessary to market insured loans is to be paid from, and reimbursed by annual appropriations to, the Rural Housing Insurance Fund.

(2) Eligibility for rural housing loans and for occupancy of cooperative and rental housing is broadened to include nonrural residents of low and moderate income employed in rural areas.

(3) A new program for rural trainees is authorized which enables this Department to make available financial and technical assistance for housing, rooms and buildings for training purposes, and related facilities for rural trainees enrolled in Federally assisted training courses. Loans, with or without interest, and nonrepayable advances may be made to States and their political subdivisions, and to public or private nonprofit organizations. The new authority may be used only after consulting with Labor, HEW, HUD, and OEO and after determining that the housing and related facilities cannot reasonably be provided in any other way.

(4) A new program is authorized to enable the Farmers Home Administration to make grants to approved public and private nonprofit organizations to provide technical and supervisory assistance for low-income families in carrying out self-help housing projects. In addition, two-year loans may be made to public or private nonprofit organizations to buy and develop land as building sites that may be sold to families, nonprofit organizations, or cooperatives eligible under new Sec. 521 of the Housing Act of 1949 and new Sec. 235 or 236 of the National Housing Act. Also included is authority to make loans to individuals participating in a mutual self-help program.

(5) The eligible purposes of domestic farm labor housing loans are broadened to include the purchase of necessary land for building sites.

18. OCEANOGRAPHY. Conferees were appointed on H. R. 13781, to amend title II of the Marine Resources and Engineering Development Act of 1966 (p. S9429). House conferees have been appointed.

19. NOMINATION. Confirmed the nomination of Edward C. Sylvester, Jr., of Mich., to be an Assistant Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare. p. S9436

20. EMPLOYMENT. The Armed Services Committee voted to report (but did not actually report) H. R. 1093, providing employment rights and benefits under the Universal Military Training Act to certain former servicemen. p. D739

21. TAXATION. The Finance Committee voted to report (but did not actually report) H. R. 2767, to allow farmers an amortized tax deduction for assessments levied by soil or water conservation districts. p. D740

Sen. Hartke inserted an article supporting his Apr. 2 statement that "tax increases at this time tend more toward killing than curing the patient." p. S9390

22. FOREIGN AID. The "Daily Digest" states the Foreign Relations Committee "ordered favorably reported with amendments H. R. 15263, fiscal 1969 authorizations for the foreign aid program." The "Daily Digest" contains a table giving a breakdown of the committee's action compared to fiscal 1968 figures, fiscal 1969 requests, and House-passed figures. p. D740

Sen. Moss opposed "attempts to cut further the funds which benefit foreign nations." pp. S9389-90

Sen. Morse reversed his position to prevent early consideration of the foreign aid authorization bill. pp. S9397-8

Sen. Proxmire inserted a summary prepared by a former USDA employee whose premise is that "industrialization" is important to developing nations that must offer employment to those displaced by agricultural modernization. pp. S9381-2

23. TRAINING. Received from Civil Service Commission a proposed bill "to amend title 5, United States Code, to repeal the reporting requirement contained in subsection (b) of section 1308" regarding Agency training reports to the President and the Congress; to Post Office and Civil Service Committee. p.S935

24. GRAINS. Sen. Symington inserted a portion of an article which states, "The spread between what we pay for bread and what the farmer gets for his grain is at a new peak of 18.9¢." p. S9381

25. HOLIDAYS. Sen. Smathers commended the Monday-holiday law and inserted an article, "Monday-Holiday Benefits." pp. S9384-5

26. EDUCATION. Sen. Spong called for the Bureau of the Budget to release funds to the Office of Education for obligation to aid the operation of schools in areas with large numbers of Federal employees. p. S9431

27. LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM. Sen. Mansfield announced the intention for the Senate to consider the bill to amend the assault statute when the pending business is disposed of. p. S9428

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

28. TAXATION. Rep. Curtis inserted an article alleging that the deflationary benefits of the recent tax increase will be lost unless price and wage restraint is soon adopted. p. E6927

29. FARM PROGRAM. Rep. Reifel inserted editorials which state that Rep. Harrison has charged that the Johnson Administration is waging an "unpublicized war on agriculture." pp. E6930-2

30. OPINION POLL. Reps. Eshleman, Grover and Harvey inserted newsletters and the results of opinion polls which contained items of interest to this Department pp. E6943, E6949, E6946

31. MEAT INSPECTION; IMPORTS. Rep. Kleppe charged that this Department does not have enough meat inspectors abroad to insure that imported meats comply with the same standards set for domestic meats. pp. E6946-7 even the administration recommendation will be rejected.

Mr. MAGNUSON. Mr. President, will the Senator yield to me for one-half minute?

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. If I have the time, I yield to the Senator from Washington.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. DODD in the chair). The Senator from Washington is recognized.

Mr. MAGNUSON. Mr. President, I have no idea what the Committee on Appropriations will do in connection with this matter.

We should understand that this was a House increase. The Committee on Appropriations is meeting today and is marking up the appropriation for State, Commerce, and Justice. I have no idea what they will put in it.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. Mr. President, the Senator is correct. It was a House figure. However, if the Senate approves this conference report it becomes a Senate figure of $200 million. The conference report should be rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator yield back the remainder of his time?

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. Mr. President, I yield back the remainder of my time.

Mr. HARTKE. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is not a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the conference report. [Putting the question.]

The conference report was agreed to.

Mr. MAGNUSON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the conference report was agreed to.

Mr. MORSE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

INVESTMENT COMPANY AMENDMENTS ACT OF 1968

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the unfinished business be laid before the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be stated by title:

The ASSISTANT LEGISLATIVE CLERK. A bill (S. 3724) to amend the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 to define the equitable standards governing relationships between investment companies and their investment advisers and principal underwriters, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

FOREIGN AID AUTHORIZATIONS

Mr. MORSE. Mr. President, I wish to make a very brief statement in regard to the foreign aid bill. Yesterday I made a statement on the floor of the Senate in which I said because of the status of the foreign aid authorization bill I did not think it should have early consideration on the floor of the Senate, and that I would not enter into any agreement for a limitation of time in regard to the bill.

We had our final session on the foreign aid bill this morning, and I want to say it was greatly improved over its status as of yesterday. It was so much improved that, in my judgment, it would not be fair for the Senator from Oregon, in his relationship with the leadership of the Senate, to seek to prevent early consideration of the bill. Any amendments that any of us wish to offer can be offered on the floor of the Senate once the bill is taken up on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. President, although the bill was not sufficiently improved so that I felt I could vote for it, the cut in military aid was a substantial improvement. I now want the RECORD to show that as far as I am concerned I am ready to have the bill come before the Senate at any time, and the leadership will receive my cooperation in an early consideration of the bill, including a unanimous-consent agreement to limit time for debate on the bill if the unanimous-consent agreement provides sufficient time, as I know it will, for adequate consideration of further amendments that will be offered.

I think we must realize the realities that face Congress. We should dispose of every bit of business we can before there is a temporary recess or adjournment pertaining to the holding of the Republican and Democratic Conventions. We will come back, I understand, after those conventions to consider a great deal of legislation and appropriations, including the foreign aid appropriation, that cannot be disposed of between now and the recess for the conventions.

CONFERENCES ON EDUCATION MEASURES

While I am on my feet, and in connection with a matter related to this subject—and I see the chairman of the Committee on Labor and Public Welfare in the Chamber—the indications are we will not be able to have any conferences on the two major education bills. They are the most detailed and massive of all the education bills we have ever considered. They are vital to passage before adjournment sine die, but there is practically no chance of getting a conference before the political conventions. The reason is that several of the conferees in the House side on the Republican side are leaving Sunday for Miami because they have important positions on convention committees, and they are needed there to make plans for the Republican Convention. Therefore, we have reached an impasse for any conference because the House, as of this morning, had not taken final action on the education bill; conferees had not been appointed on the vocational bill and those on the higher education bill could not be appointed until that bill is passed.

With these Republican leaders leaving Sunday, and we have learned there is no hope of a conference tomorrow, nor could the matter be handled in one day, I am confident that the conference on higher education will not occur until after both conventions.

At the same time, there is no chance for a conference on the vocational education bill.

FOREIGN AID AUTHORIZATION

Therefore, because we have those major pieces of legislation, the Supreme Court matter, gun control legislation, and other vital matters, we cannot possibly get to before the conventions, we could, here in the Senate, get to the foreign aid bill if it is decided to bring it up.

The Senator from Oregon now makes clear once again that I will not be an impediment to my majority leader and the minority leader in the earliest possible consideration of the foreign aid authorization bill now that it has been reported by the Committe on Foreign Relations in much better substantive form than it was in at the close of the markup yesterday, following which I came to the floor of the Senate and expressed my strong disapproval of the bill in that form. It was greatly improved this morning by the action taken.

Therefore, let the RECORD show that I would be willing at any time before or after the conventions to proceed to the consideration of the foreign aid bill and agree to a reasonable unanimous-consent agreement for limitation of time on that bill.

Mr. MANSFIELD. I appreciate the statement just made by the distinguished Senator from Oregon. It will take a little of the load off my shoulders.

Mr. MORSE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that there be printed in the RECORD at the end of my remarks a letter which I have received from Mr. John J. Sheehan, legislative director of the United Steelworkers of America, together with a recent article which Mr. Sheehan enclosed from the newspaper, Steel Labor, headed "Helping Build Latin America's Alliance."

The article describes the work of the American Institute for Free Labor Development and particularly the support which AIFLD receives from the United Steelworkers.

Mr. Sheehan's letter to me was prompted by the recent publication by the Subcommittee on American Republics Affairs of the study "Labor Policies and Programs." This study was prepared by the staff of the Committee on Foreign Relations as a part of the subcommittee's overall survey of the Alliance for Progress. The staff study, together with a report of the Comptroller General which was published at the same time, raises basic questions concerning the role of the AIFLD and U.S. policies toward Latin American labor.

At this time, I want to repeat what I wrote in the foreword to the study—namely, that the study and the General Accounting Office report "are published at this time solely as the basis for discussion and further inquiry. The points of view expressed do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the subcommittee or any member thereof."

I am glad to receive Mr. Sheehan's contribution to the discussion on behalf of the United Steelworkers. The problems of U.S. policies and program concerning Latin American labor will undoubtedly receive further attention from the Subcommittee on American Republics Affairs in the months ahead as the subcommittee pursues its survey of the Alliance for Progress.

There being no objection, the letter and article were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

UNITED STEELWORKERS OF AMERICA,
Washington, D.C., July 19, 1968.

Hon. WAYNE MORSE,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR SENATOR MORSE: The recent study of the staff on Labor Policies and Programs in Latin America casts extreme doubt on AIFLD's union-to-union co-operation. A recent article in our newspaper, Steel Labor, emphasizes the value which we have placed upon the work of AIFLD. If possible, I should like to request that the article be placed in the Congressional Record.

Sincerely,

JOHN J. SHEEHAN,
Legislative Director.

Enclosure.

[From Steel Labor, July, 1968]

HELPING BUILD LATIN AMERICA'S ALLIANCE

From remote jungle settlements and inaccessible mountain villages high in the Andes to the great metropolitan centers of South and Central America and the Caribbean, hundreds of thousands of trade union members are participating in the peaceful revolution known as the Alliance for Progress.

Undoubtedly one of the greatest revolutionary movements of social reform and economic reconstruction in history, the Alliance for Progress has enlisted USWA members among many from North American trade unions in the program to introduce industrial democracy to Latin America. With an often violent tradition of military coups, ruling oligarchy and exploitation by bigger powers, the challenge has been great.

The trade union phase of this democratic revolution is being mobilized openly and frequently with the full support of the governments involved as well with significant support from enlightened local business interests. Signs and banners being publicly displayed today at hundreds of trade union schools, labor seminars and varied social projects benefiting workers throughout Latin America and the Caribbean area identify the rallying point of the inter-American labor movement's participation by its Spanish initials—"IADSL."

The organization thus identified is the American Institute for Free Labor Development, a unique undertaking set up by the AFL–CIO in 1962 which is supported jointly by labor, business and government. The Institute was created by the United States labor movement as a vehicle through which it could lend its support to the objectives of the Alliance for Progress by helping Latin American workers build strong, free and democratic trade unions, so that they will be able to win higher wages, raise their standards of living and participate more fully in the benefits of their countries' development.

AIFLD is unique in many ways. Although only six years old this June, it already has become the largest institution of adult and worker education in Latin America with national institutes in 21 countries and a graduate school in operation the year round at Front Royal, Va. It is one of the largest builders of low-cost workers' housing in the southern half of the hemisphere, having already completed or begun construction on new modern homes for over 65,000 people and with units to house about 11,000 more in various stages of preparation. Its housing operations are only one phase of its varied social projects activities, which involve literally hundreds of projects ranging from the construction and operation of Campesino Service Centers serving thousands of rural workers, to small community service undertakings.

In the field of finance, it helped to establish the first workers' housing bank in Latin America, a multi-million dollar institution which already has become the fastest growing savings and loan association in Peru. AIFLD's strength and effectiveness stems from the fact that it operates on a worker-to-worker basis, seeking to make available the greater resources, experience and leadership skills of the United States labor movement to the workers of Latin America and the Caribbean in their efforts to build their own strong and independent unions. The Institute is engaged in a widely varied program of direct assistance to workers and their organizations, all on a self-help basis.

Where a lack of funds is hampering unions' plans for a headquarters and meeting hall, a clinic or other projects, AIFLD technicians are helping them to work out means for their realization. This may involve aid in establishing a credit union, or a consumers' or producers' cooperative where funds can be saved or earned or even a great workers' housing bank such as one in Peru which already has deposits of millions of dollars and has financed more than 500 housing units for its members. Other AIFLD technicians and graduates of its labor leadership training schools are showing workers how they can help their communities to meet their needs on a self-help basis by enlisting voluntary labor.

Are campesino villages lacking in medical care? AIFLD technicians, working with the Union of Nurses in Honduras, for example, have enlisted the voluntary services of doctors and nurses and donations of medicines from local manufacturers, for regular Sunday visits of medical brigades to these communities. Is a rural town being economically handicapped by its lack of an access road or a bridge? AIFLD representatives have repeatedly enlisted the workmen of such places to contribute the labor and other self-help needed to overcome this handicap.

In every case, the project is sponsored by a local union of workers, and AIFLD supplies the necessary technical know-how and other help needed. The entire program of the Institute rests on the concept that United States workers, having common problems, can best understand and help working people in these other countries. From the beginning, the United Steelworkers of America has lent its full support to the AIFLD and its programs. USWA President I. W. Abel is a member of the Institute's Board of Trustees, and four members of the Steelworkers currently hold responsible posts of leadership on its staff. In addition, USWA International Affairs Director Meyer Bernstein and USWA Legislative Director John Sheehan both regularly serve as guest lecturers at AIFLD's graduate Front Royal Institute.

At the Washington headquarters, Angelo Verdu, formerly a staff representative for the Steelworkers, has been actively directing the Institute's far-flung operations as assistant to the administrator for the last 15 months, and Sam Haddad, former Steelworker organizer and ex-president of Local 4194 in New Castle, Pa., was the Institute's first director of education and now serves as regional director over the northern region and the Caribbean area. In these posts, Verdu and Haddad exercise general administrative authority over most of the Institute's operations.

Two other Steelworkers today are serving in important field assignments. Robert Cazares, from Local 1011, East Chicago, Ind., now is the Institute's education officer in Peru, following previous assignments in El Salvador, Argentina and Costa Rica. Michael Verdu, a former member of the Steelworkers in Salt Lake City, Utah, is presently serving as AIFLD's program officer in the Dominican Republic. Another Steelworker, Raymond Sarocco, staff member from the Chicago area, has been program officer in Sao Paulo, Brazil, until recently when the program was completed.

By the end of 1967, AIFLD had spent approximately $16 million in carrying out all of its various programs, and loans arranged by the Institute to finance its various workers' housing projects in some 14 countries are expected ultimately to involve a total additional investment of $65 million. All of this money has been provided for the free trade unions of Latin America and their members under a direct union-to-union program, with no strings attached.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT ACT—CONFERENCE REPORT

Mr. SPARKMAN. Mr. President, I submit a report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the House to the bill (S. 3497) to assist in the provision of housing for low- and moderate-income families, and to extend and amend laws relating to housing and urban development. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the report.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The report will be read for the information of the Senate.

The assistant legislative clerk read the report.

(For conference report, see House proceedings of July 23, 1968, pp. H7278–H7320, CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the report?

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the report.

PRIVILEGE OF THE FLOOR

Mr. SPARKMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that members of the staff of the Committee on Banking and Currency and the Subcommittee on Housing be allowed the privilege of the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPARKMAN. Mr. President, I submit a report of the committee on conference on the disagreeing vote of the two Houses on S. 3497, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968. I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the report.

Mr. President, I should like to make a statement on the conference report on the housing bill. I do not believe it necessary that my remarks be in great detail because there is a printed report on the desk of each Senator giving full text of the agreed-upon legislation and a statement of managers on the part of the House, explaining the differences between the House bill and the legislation agreed to in conference.

Before I comment on the details, I want to say how pleased I am with the fine job done by the members of the conference committee from both Houses of Congress.

Despite the fact that the bill approved by each House of Congress was basically the same, there were significant differences of a total of 64 items, some of which had many subtopics which had to be resolved by the conferees.

Each year as the Congress takes up housing legislation, we are made more aware of the increasing complexities of housing and urban development legislation. This year, the housing bill was the most comprehensive and far-reaching bill that the Congress has ever considered. The Senate bill contained 15 titles; the House bill contained 14 titles; and the conference committee finally agreed on a bill containing 17 titles.

In resolving the differences, the conference committee worked together with speed, and a spirit of good will and cooperation. However, as conferees usually do, there were compromises between the two sides. On the part of the Senate, we remained adamant on several items, and the same thing was true with the House. All in all, the conferees were satisfied that the final product represented the best interests of all concerned, and I am pleased to report that every member of the conference committee signed the report.

I would like now to comment on some of the significant items which were in conference.

One of the most significant provisions of the bill is the homeownership program for lower-income families which, provides Federal assistance to enable lower-income families to become homeowners. Under this new program, interest subsidy payments would be made to help lower income families meet their monthly housing costs. The primary difference between the Senate and House passed bills involved the eligibility as far as family income was concerned. The House bill limited eligibility to families whose incomes did not exceed 130 percent of the local public housing continued occupancy level. The Senate limited eligibility to families whose incomes did not exceed 70 percent of the level established under the FHA section 221(d) (3) below market interest rate program in a particular locality. Also allowances of $300 were made for each minor child and 20 percent of the funds appropriated would be made available to families whose income were in excess of the basic level mentioned above. The conferees agreed on a compromise which limits eligibility to families with incomes not in excess of 135 percent of public housing admission levels with an allowance of $300 per minor child and authority for 20 percent of the funds to be available for families whose incomes are in excess of the basic level but not exceeding 90 percent of the 221(d) (3) BMIR levels.

Admittedly, this is a complex formula, but the main intent is to limit the benefits of this program to families of the lower income category and, in fact, the law specifies that priority will be given, insofar as practicable, to the lowest income families who can achieve homeownership under the program.

Another item of significant difference between the Senate and House bills involved eligibility of the interest subsidy program to families purchasing existing standard housing. Both Houses agreed that the primary emphasis of the program was to provide subsidy for families purchasing new or rehabilitated housing. The Senate bill permitted a small part of the funds to go to families who would buy existing standard housing; the House bill placed no limit on the amount of funds which could be used for this purpose. The conferees agreed to the Senate version.

Similar issues were faced by the conference committee in resolving the differences under the new rental housing program for lower income families. This program, which provides an interest subsidy to lower income families for rental housing, was made consistent with the corresponding income ceiling provision contained in the new homeownership program. Existing public housing and rent supplement programs were also broadened to make them more flexible and more workable under today's housing conditions.

Under the Federal Housing Administration insurance operations, I should like to mention two significant items. The Senate bill contained an authorization for FHA to insure mortgages for the financing of seasonal homes. The House bill contained no similar provision. During discussion of this item, the Senate conferees pointed out that authority would be limited to certain areas where there was no shortage of mortgage credit for year-round housing and that such housing would contribute to the economic development of the areas. The House conferees accepted the Senate provision.

The other item about which there was a great deal of discussion involved authority of the FHA to deduct discounts in paying insurance claims under certain circumstances. This was an amendment proposed on the Senate floor which I agreed to take to conference with the understanding that I would consult with the mortgage credit and homebuilding industries and Government officials and to determine what difficulties, if any such a provision would impose upon the FHA programs.

Very strong objections were made both by Government officials and by all segments of industry, who claimed that such a provision would place a serious cloud over the FHA program, the result of which would be to reduce the amount of mortgage credit available for this program upon which we are depending so much to carry out our 1968 housing bill. Because of the way the provision would work, there is very little possibility that it would in any way deter the discount practices now current in FHA mortgage lending. The only possible benefit of this provision would be to deter unscrupulous mortgage lenders who might be tempted under current conditions to engage in precipitous foreclosures in order to reap a profit. We were assured by the FHA Commissioner that he already had adequate statutory and administrative procedures to eliminate this kind of unscrupulous practice and that the provision in the Senate bill would not be necessary. In view of these considerations, the Senate conferees had no choice but to recede on this provision.

The Senate bill contained authority for the Housing Department to finance the deveolpment of new communities by the issuance of FHA-insured bonds. The House bill contained no similar provision, and the conferees agreed to accept the Senate provision with some minor amendments.

Under the urban renewal provisions of both bills, the most significant item involved the extent to which the rebuilding of urban renewal areas would be of primary benefit to families of low and moderate income. Both bills required that a majority of housing built in urban renewal projects be for low and moderate income families. However, the House bill contained a further requirement that 20 percent of such housing within any one community should be for families of low income. The conferees agreed with the House provision with an amendment that the 20-percent requirement would not be mandatory in any community if the Secretary of Department of Housing and Urban Development made a finding that such housing was not necessary.

The principal difference in the Senate and House bills relating to the expansion of the Federal National Mortgage Association to establish a new privately oriented facility, was the amount of special assistance authorization. The Senate bill authorized $250 million while the House bill authorized $500 million. The conferees agreed to the provision in the House bill.

Under the 701 urban planning program, both the Senate and House bills contained a provision which permitted the use of this program for the development of rural districts. The primary purpose of this is to encourage the development of small towns and rural areas to provide better living and working conditions, the effect of which will be to take a great deal of pressure off the cities by reducing the constant migration from rural areas to the cities. The differences between the two bills involved the eligibility of certain areas already being given Government support. The conferees in general agreed with the House provision.

On the rural housing program, the principal difference between the two bills involved a self-help provision in the House bill not contained in the Senate bill. Such a provision would authorize financial assistance to enable families to build their own communities and homes with technical assistance provided by the Department of Agriculture. The Senate receded to the House on this provision.

One important provision contained in the House bill but not in the Senate bill authorized a new program of FHA insurance for the construction of nonprofit hospitals. The conference committee agreed to accept the House provision.

Under the urban insurance program, the principal difference between the House and Senate versions involved the establishment of a national insurance development corporation to administer the program which was contained in the Senate bill. The House bill did not include such a provision, but provided that the program would be administered within the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The conferees agreed that the program would be administered within HUD and provided that a Federal Insurance Administrator would be appointed to administer the urban insurance and the flood insurance programs.

Another item of significant difference under the urban insurance program and the flood insurance program was the matter of Treasury support to finance extraordinary losses which may occur. The Senate bill, under the urban insurance program, provided no limitation on the borrowing authority, whereas the House bill placed a $150 million limitation with authority to obtain further sums as may be determined by congressional joint resolution. The conferees agreed on a $250 million limitation on the Treasury borrowing authority with authority to obtain additional sums after agreement by the Congress.

On the same issue involving the flood insurance program, the Senate bill limited the Treasury borrowing authority to the unused balance under the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956. The House bill limited the borrowing authority to $150 million and rescinded the unused borrowing authority under the 1956 act. The conferees agreed to a limit of $250 million and, in addition, rescinded the unused borrowing authority in the 1956 act.

In addition to the conferees agreeing to a national urban insurance program, they agreed to a provision contained in the House bill making the District of Columbia eligible for benefits under the urban insurance program. By this action, the District of Columbia will be able to develop its own FAIR plan and establish a joint underwriting association to facilitate the provision of the basic property insurance program in the District of Columbia.

The Senate bill contained a new interstate land sales program which would provide that the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development develop procedures to register and supervise the sale of undeveloped land engaged in interstate commerce. Thert was no similar provision in the House bill and the conferees agreed to accept the Senate provision.

Both the House and Senate bills contained provisions involving expanded mortgage lending authority by financial institutions. A group of amendments in the Senate bill broadening authority of commercial banks to make mortgage loans was accepted by the House conferees and, correspondingly, several amendments in the House bill involving wider borrowing and lending powers by Federal savings and loan associations were accepted by the Senate conferees. The net effect of these provisions is to encourage both banks and savings and loan associations to increase their activity and provide more mortgage credit to finance the expanded housing needs of our Nation.

One Senate floor amendment which I took to conference with the promise that I would do all I could to get agreement from the House conferees involved Federal assistance for victims of natural disaster. The House conferees remained adamant on these items and the Senate had no choice but to recede.

Another provision in the Senate bill about which the House conferees remained adamant and on which the Senate conferees had to recede was section 1520 of S. 3497. Section 1520 concerned certain notifications which mortgage lenders would be required to give veteran mortgagors and also provided automatic cancellation of the VA guarantee on mortgages for failure to give much notices. This was another floor amendment that we had not had any opportunity to study and one that, after study, showed that it would not accomplish intended purposes and furthermore would place a cloud on VA home loan mortgages. I ask unanimous consent at this point in my remarks to place in the RECORD a letter to the chairman of the Veterans' Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives from the Administrator of the VA concerning this amendment was circulated to House conferees and after they understood the implications of the amendment, they were adamant about including section 1520 in the conference report.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION,
OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS,
Washington, D.C., June 28, 1968.

Hon. OLIN E. TEAGUE,
Chairman, Committee on Veterans' Affairs,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The following comments are submitted in response to your request for a report by the Veterans Administration on a Senate-adopted amendment to S. 3497, 90th Congress, which passed the Senate on May 28, 1968. The bill is designed "to assist in the provision of housing for low and moderate income families, and to extend and amend laws relating to housing and urban deevlopment." The amendment on which you requested a report directly relates to the Veterans Administration home loan program.

The provision, section 1520 of the bill, amends section 1817 of title 38, United States Code, which relates to release of liability of veterans to the VA on a GI home loan when he sells his home. Section 1817 presently provides that upon Application a veteran may be released from liability to the VA if (1) the loan is current, and (2) purchaser of the property qualifies from a credit standpoint and obligates himself to purchase such property and to assume full liability for repayment of the loan balance; and assumes by contract all of the obligations of the veteran under the terms of the instruments creating and securing the loan.

Section 1520 of S. 3497 would add a new subsection to section 1817 of title 38, United States Code, to assure that any veteran who disposes of his home will be informed of the release provisions of the present section 1817. Section 1520 contains three basic provisions. It would require the holder of the security instrument for a GI loan to advise the veteran "before such holder agrees to permit any third person to assume the obligations of the veteran under the terms of such instrument" that he has the right to a release of liability from the Veterans Administration and of the possible consequences of failure to obtain such release. It further provides that if the holder fails to give the veteran the required notification the VA guaranty will be cancelled. Cancellation of the guaranty would have the effect of releasing the veteran from any liability to the Veterans Administration. The notification requirements would apply to loans made, guaranteed, or insured after the enactment of this provision. A third provision of the amendment would require the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs to take whatever action he deems appropriate to enable all veterans to benefit from the notification procedures. This apparently would apply to loans previously made, guaranteed, or insured.

In assessing the impact of enactment of Section 1520 of S. 3497 it should be noted that the prime inducement to private lenders to invest in GI mortgage loans is the protection the VA guaranty affords investors against loss. As a practical matter, investors consider the VA guaranty of up to $12,500 to be the equivalent of a cash downpayment by the borrower. It is this guaranty protection that enables lenders to make 100% GI loans. Automatic loss of the VA guaranty by the holder by reason of failure to notify a veteran seller of his right to obtain a release of liability at a specific point in time introduces a new element of risk into GI loans which, so far as we know, does not exist in respect to any other comparable mortgage investment. Loss of the guaranty in the early years of a GI loan would have the result of leaving financial institutions such as banks and savings and loan associations with ineligible loans on their books as well as subjecting such holders to losses in many cases in the event of default by the borrower and consequent costs of foreclosure, property management, and resale. In our judgment there is the gravest possibility that many lenders would withdraw from participation in the GI loan program if section 1520 were enacted and would invest their available funds in other types of mortgages which do not contain the onerous element of risk imposed by such section.

For the same reasons it is our view that enactment would also adversely affect the marketability of GI loans in the secondary market with resulting reduction in investment funds normally channeled from this source into the GI program. Such loan purchasers who are willing to assume the risk would, prior to purchase, find it necessary to require proof that a property sale had not occurred or that the proposed requirements had been satisfied in the event of a sale. It is highly doubtful that many secondary market outlets would want to assume such burden.

In examining the specific language of section 1520 to determine the exact nature of the duties to be imposed upon the holders of GI loans the key language requiring interpretation is the clause reading "before such holder agrees to permit any third person to assume the obligation of the veteran under the terms of such instrument." It is not clear whether this is intended to apply only to a contractual obligation between the third person and the holder or is intended to include an assumption of the original veteran's liability to both the holder and the Veterans Administration. In addition, it is not clear how the specified language would apply to situations in which the purchaser from the veteran seller acquires the property "subject to" the mortgage indebtedness and does not assume direct personal liability on the debt.

Bearing in mind the apparent objective sought under section 1520 of the bill we can only conclude that the procedure prescribed for notification appears to be based on the assumption that a veteran who proposes to sell his property and allow his VA guaranteed mortgage to continue on the property must obtain the prior agreement of the mortgage holder "to permit any third person to assume the obligations of the veteran."

Neither the governing law nor VA regulations require any such agreement. As a matter of fact, section 1802(c) of chapter 37, title 38, United States Code, provides that nothing in the governing law shall preclude the assignment of any guaranteed loan or the security therefor. Consistent with such provision in the existing law, VA regulations provide, in effect, that a veteran may transfer his property to any person of his choice under any terms agreeable to the parties without the consent of the mortgage holder or this agency. We consider this freedom of alienability to be highly desirable generally, and particularly from the standpoint of the veteran homeowner.

Further, as a practical matter, the holder of the guaranteed mortgage often does not learn of the transfer of title to a purchaser until after the transaction has been completed. Permission for a third person "to assume the obligations of the veteran" at that point in time is not meaningful insofar as notification to the veteran of his right to apply for a release of liability from VA is concerned since no inducement or consideration exists for the new owner to assume the veteran's loan obligations (including his indemnity obligation to VA) once he owns the property. The VA's experience is similar with respect to its portfolio loans. In the light of the foregoing we believe that the proposed requirement for notification to the veteran seller by the holder of a GI loan at the point in time contemplated would not be feasible or productive in many, if not most, instances.

In connection with the problem to which the amendment is directed, it is appropriate to indicate the extent to which the VA goes in informing veterans of their rights to obtain a release of liability from the VA if and when they sell their homes. They are first advised through the issuance to them of VA pamphlets at the time they obtain their Certificate of Eligibility, which ordinarily is the first step taken by a veteran contemplating a GI loan. At the time a loan application is submitted the veteran acknowledges in writing that he understands his rights and obligations if he obtains a GI loan. Again, at the time the VA guarantees the loan a letter and VA pamphlets are sent to the veteran which contain information as to his rights and obligations, including the release of liability procedure. We have also instituted a procedure in cooperation with the Department of Defense whereby the latter has agreed to furnish servicemen who are to be transferred a copy of another VA pamphlet which contains advice concerning release of liability. Lastly, lenders are encouraged to advise veterans of their rights to obtain a release of liability from the VA through the use of this same pamphlet when they receive requests for "pay-off" figures or otherwise become aware that a veteran is contemplating selling his home.

In respect to direct loans, we furnish the veteran with the same information regarding the obligations he will assume, including the release of liability provisions, as is furnished veterans obtaining a guaranteed or insured loan. We also have instructed our field stations to furnish the veteran with information regarding release of liability whenever a request for "pay-off" information is received by us.

In addition to the foregoing, release of liability information is periodically made the subject of press releases and spot announcements in all available public media.

We believe the existing provisions of section 1817, title 38, United States Code, are sufficiently liberal and fair to both veterans and the Government and that veterans are being adequately advised of their right to obtain release from liabilty to the Veterans Administration.

If the amendment became law, it would have no fiscal impact on loans outstanding or on debts already established as a consequence of claims previously paid. It may have some fiscal impact several years in the future. Because of many unknown factors, however, it is not possible to accurately determine to what extent this may be.

Inasmuch as enactment of the proposed amendment is likely to have the effect of discouraging investor participation in the VA Home Loan Guaranty Program and thereby impair the ability of veterans to obtain GI home loan financing, we are unable to recommend favorable consideration of section 1520 of the Senate passed bill.

We are advised by the Bureau of the Budget that there is no objection to the presentation of this report from the standpoint of the Administration's program.

Sincerely,

W. J. DRIVER, Administrator.

Mr. TOWER. Mr. President, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 has traveled a long road prior to the point at which we find it today.

The bill's many innovative provisions represent an extended bipartisan effort since last summer to come to grips with the critical housing needs facing our country today, with a particular emphasis on housing families of low income.

The bill is a large one by any measure. While I am concerned with some of its provisions, both as to scope and potential cost, I have at all times during its formulation been equally concerned over the strong and compelling need made plainly evident to the Committee on Banking and Currency for an aggressive effort toward overcoming the problems of those families who must have assistance if they are to be decently housed.

The bill will create several innovative mechanisms that have the potential of assuring progress in this area. Government assistance will be available to qualified families for both occupant-owned and rental housing.

The national goal of a "decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family" has long been realizable for those of our citizens financially able to fulfill their housing needs. The promise of this bill is the realization of this goal for families in less fortunate financial circumstances.

While the means for progress in this area will be made possible by this bill, in the final analysis, we will have to look to the proper administering of its provisions. If the families who truly need assistance receive the bill's benefits, the deteriorated neighborhoods that these families are trapped in will be benefitted and upgraded at the same time.

This is the goal of this bill as I envision it. The fruition of this goal can be expected if the "declaration of policy" which prefaces the bill is adhered to, for it states that the new programs "are designed to assist families with incomes so low that they could not otherwise decently house themselves." It calls for the "highest priority" for these families.

If the new programs are implemented in this context, as I hope and expect that they will be, then the Government's role in housing will not be misdirected. Program implementation must be prudent in this regard.

We are a Nation whose people have historically housed themselves through their own efforts and initiative. This is the pattern that must be continued. Only where this is not possible should the Government enter the picture.

In spite of the reservations I have about some aspects of the bill, I believe that the good outweighs the evil. I fervently hope that the Senate will act favorably on the conference report, and I urge it to do so.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. Mr. President, will the Senator from Texas yield?

Mr. TOWER. I yield.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. When this bill was before the Senate a proposal was approved by a yea-and-nay vote—unanimously as I recall—which would have stopped the Federal Housing Administration from insuring the so-called point system, by spelling out that the mortgage company would be insured only up to the amount he actually paid for the mortgage. Will the Senator state what happened to that amendment?

Mr. TOWER. That amendment was discussed not once, but on two separate occasions during the course of the deliberations of the conference committee, which lasted over 5 days.

I assure the Senator from Delaware that the distinguished chairman of the committee [Mr. SPARKMAN] and I and other Senators tried to cause the Senate to prevail on this amendment. However, there was considerable fear on the part of the Members of the House that the amendment would have deleterious effect from the standpoint of the conduct of the program.

I think there was quite general agreement that we would like to see the point system ameliorated in some way. Although we lost to the House on this issue, I do feel that there is a favorable climate for the consideration in the future of some means of dealing with the point system.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. I am sorry we lost the amendment. I think this was a means whereby we could have eliminated the system, at least to a substantial degree.

I realize, as I stated at the time the Senate agreed to the amendment, that the administration has been opposed to any correction of this abuse. I have been disappointed that we have been unable even to get the Administrator of the FHA interested in correcting this point system, which in my judgment has been one of the greatest rackets and abuses ever imposed on the individual homebuyer.

As the system operates today the moneylenders make more money on bad credit risks than on good credit risks, which is the most absurd situation I have ever seen, even in Great Society government. Certainly such a practice would not be condoned in private industry.

The point system is only a means of increasing the lender's income or the interest rates; we all realize that. Suppose, for example, that the maximum rate on a mortgage is fixed at 6 percent. The lender feels that he wants 6.25 percent. The additional .25 percent amortized over 40 years would mean a discount of 10 points on the mortgage. The homebuyer is the one who pays that 10 points; there is no question about that.

If the homeowner is a good credit risk and pays his mortgage out over 40 years as contemplated, it means that the lender collects an additional one-quarter percent per year spread out over the 40 years. On the other hand, suppose the purchaser defaults on the mortgage after only 10 years; the lender can amortize his 10 points over the 10 years, and he picks up an additional 1 percent on his money. As one of the lenders told me in conversation, "If I am lucky—and I use the word lucky advisedly—and I happen to take the mortgage of a homebuyer who will default in only 2 years I can get an extra 5 percent, which means a total of 11 percent interest." If the lender is extremely fortunate and gets a real bad credit risk, one that will default in 1 year, he can pick up all the 10 points the first year, or a total of 16 percent interest.

This is the most absurd situation I have ever seen—and to think that this racket is not only condoned but actually defended by the Johnson administration. The law in my State provides that if a banker had loaned money the way FHA is doing today they would have put him in the penitentiary, because we have a law in Delaware that if a bank purports to lend an individual $1,000 and insists on the individual's giving a $1,000 note but only giving him $900 in cash, it is an illegal transaction. Yet this bucket shop racket is condoned by the Federal Housing Administration. I do not understand it. The FHA was established for a noble purpose: to help the individual citizen acquire a home. Yet too often that purpose is frustrated, and the law works for protection of the profits of the builder and the lender.

I know the Senator from Texas was strongly in favor of my proposal and supported it in the Senate. I realize the position he is in as one of the conferees. Just as in my case, he does not always get his way.

But I regret very much, not only as the author of the amendment but from the standpoint of protection for the millions of home buyers who will continue to be hooked as a result of this point system, that the Senate conferees did not succeed in saving that provision for us.

Mr. TOWER. Mr. President, I share the Senator's regret, and give him my assurance that I will continue to work toward the amelioration of the point system, which I am sure none of us is pleased with.

Mr. PROXMIRE. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. TOWER. I yield to the Senator from Wisconsin.

Mr. PROXMIRE. The Senate conferees did try very hard to win approval by the House of Representatives of the amendment offered by the Senator from Delaware to eliminate this vicious windfall practice which he has been hammering away at so long and so faithfully on the floor of the Senate. There is no question but that it is a very bad practice. As the Senator so well states, what it does is encourage investments by unscrupulous persons in loans that they feel, at the time they make the investments, will be in default, and, in fact, to have every reason to encourage the default. Perhaps under some circumstances they might even work actively to secure default, because they do get a windfall when default is achieved.

We were told that administration of such a provision as the Senator from Delaware proposes would be impossible. I propose an amendment in the nature of a compromise, to try at least to eliminate the windfall element over a period of years. But we could not succeed on that; the House of Representatives was absolutely adamant in its position.

I believe the Senator from Delaware deserves support, and I hope he will continue to hammer away on this issue, because he is absolutely right about it. There is no question but that there is a windfall, and I think it should be eliminated.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Delaware. I thank the Senator from Wisconsin.

It is in recognition of the effort which the conferees did make to retain this amendment—and I know they delayed action on the conference report for several days in an effort to achieve agreement to this amendment—that I am not opposing the conference report. I simply regret that the Johnson administration takes the position against this one amendment which would have gone far toward giving the home buyer the protection he deserves.

Mr. President, this is an unsound business principle for any industry. The fire insurance industry, for example, would not operate that way. If one has a piece of property with a building which originally cost $50,000, he may insure it for near that amount. For some reason or other it depreciates in value, and Joe Smith comes along and buys it for $30,000. No insurance company in the world would insure that building for $50,000, or pay him a $20,000 profit should he have a fire the next month.

It is an unwritten rule in all insurance programs that I have ever heard of that they will not under any circumstances insure beyond the cost or the actual value of the property. That is the rule of all insurance companies.

The amendment I sponsored provided that the Government of the United States would not insure a mortgage for one penny more than the lender actually paid for the mortgage.

That is simply a sound business practice, such as would be followed by any private insurance company. Only the Government of the United States or some spendthrift bureaucrat who thinks there is a bottomless pit to the U.S. Treasury would ever condone such an unsound operation. I hope that we can someday get this matter corrected.

The man in this administration who is defending this unsound business practice would never qualify for the job of managing a peanut stand in private industry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the conference report.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. SPARKMAN. I yield.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, I have a few questions to ask the Senator from Alabama. Was the amendment with relation to college housing and the guarantee of the interest rate retained?

Mr. SPARKMAN. I assure the Senator that it was.

Mr. JAVITS. The other matter concerns the new program for homeownership by low-income families. I gather that is retained in the bill with the underwriting of interest at 1 percent.

Mr. SPARKMAN. The Senator is correct.

Mr. JAVITS. It is a very creative bill. A lot more can be done than is being done in respect of housing in the core cities of the country. But I do think that a very important amount of progress is being made here.

The Senator and I have discussed this before when I was a member of the Committee on Banking and Currency. This time, the concentration was upon the new ownership policy, which I think is very commendable and displays real initiative and the techniques such as underwriting the interest rate on which the Senator accommodated me. It was my own contribution on college housing.

I might tell the Senator that we now have such a provision in the bill for teaching facilities in the colleges. We also have such a provision in the hospital modernization bill. It is a very important breakthrough. And the Senate committee gave it the legitimacy which is now carrying it into other fields.

I suggest to the Senator—and of course, I am with him on confirming the report—the possibility of very carefully reviewing the whole renovation question. And whatever may be the arguments of the bulldozer versus the renevator—and that question rages in the city of New York very extensively because the Mayor and the Governor, for example, are not of the same mind on the question—I think that a tremendous amount of the housing stock can be consistently saved, even with neighborhood planning.

We are now installing, for example, in a very congested part of New York, in the Bedford-Stuyvesant Park section, a linear park which would break up the traditional sidewalk concept. I hope the Senator next year could give some consideration to renovation on the neighborhood basis structure. It is clear that in many areas, by a tremendous acceleration of the whole problem of housing for the people of slums and ghettos, additional advantages might be obtained through renovation. A good deal of housing stock in some areas has to come down. There is no way out of that. However, much of the housing stock could be preserved with new techniques and with research. I think many areas can be dealt with so there will not be the traditional box pattern, but the houses will be merged into a good pattern, consistent with renovation.

I hope the Senator will keep that in mind.

Mr. SPARKMAN. Mr. President, I believe the President knows that we have given a great deal of attention to both of these matters. The Senator mentions renovation and rehabilitation, with respect both to individual buildings of neighborhoods and communities. I think we made some headway this year in expanding and making more workable the rehabilitation program particularly.

I assure the Senator that we will continue to give thoughtful consideration to the matter.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, the Senator may remember that we had an amendment agreed to, again when I was a member of the committee. I think it was my amendment. I worked it out with former Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois. The amendment dealt with conditions of code enforcement and code writing. And we conditioned a certain amount of very important assistance to communities in the housing field upon their engaging in the code program.

I think it would be very useful to Congress if, in the exercise of legislative oversight, the staff might work up the information. We deferred its applicability for several years.

Mr. SPARKMAN. Mr. President, I remember quite well. The Senator was a pioneer in advocating that provision. The Department of Housing has met with some difficulty in trying to work out a satisfactory fomula to carry out the intent of the provision that local communities strengthen their local code requirements and actively enforce them. I understand satisfactory progress is being made but some communities are having difficulty meeting the strict requirements of the law which you sponsored.

Mr. JAVITS. It would be very useful if, even on the staff level, we could have a résumé from the committee as to what happened.

Mr. SPARKMAN. We would be very glad to do that. In this connection I would like to remind the Senator that a related provision in the law written about the same time the Senator from New York's provision was approved is also working very well. That provision provides Federal assistance for concentrated code enforcement within specified areas of our cities. I am very proud that the city of Birmingham was the first to go into the program.

Mr. JAVITS. I am very glad to hear that.

Mr. SPARKMAN. We will start to work on your suggestions.

Mr. BYRD of West Virginia. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. SPARKMAN. I yield.

Mr. BYRD of West Virginia. Mr. President, when the bill was under consideration on the floor, I was able to get an amendment agreed to which would allow the local public housing authorities to participate in the bill's low-income homeownership interest-rate provisions. Did that amendment remain intact?

Mr. SPARKMAN. That amendment remained intact in the bill. It is just as the Senator had it agreed to on the Senate floor.

BOLD NEW STEPS IN HOUSING

Mr. MUSKIE. Mr. President, our Nation and our Government have been searching for better homes for our people and a better way of life within our communities for many years.

At no time in our history has the pursuit of that goal been as strong as it has in the years since President Lyndon B. Johnson has been in the White House. Four major housing acts, including such creative new programs—as model cities, rent supplements, and incentive grants for metropolitan development—and the establishment of a Cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Development are witness to the concern of this Administration for better housing and better cities.

However, over the years, our achievements have not been entirely even. While the programs of the FHA and the VA have increased our housing supply enormously and made it possible for middle class America to achieve an unprecedented rate of homeownership, there are today 20 million Americans condemned to intolerable, substandard housing.

And, over the years, we have not kept pace with our growing population and changing problems. Our cities are decaying, our transportation systems are clogged, our facilities are worn and outdated.

Nothing is so clear to me as the fact that changing times, changing problems, changing population demands new approaches, new goals, new solutions. Mr. President, the legislation before us today meets these demands. It involves new concepts, new programs, and the revision of existing programs to meet new problems.

For the first time, Mr. President, we have before us not just a goal but a well defined, workable program to reach that goal within the next 10 years. President Johnson in his message on the cities last February set forth the goal—to build 26 million new homes and apartments in the next 10 years and to abolish the 6 million substandard dwellings where 20 million Americans live.

The Housing and Urban Development Act will move us 3 years toward that goal.

HOMEOWNERSHIP

For the first time, Mr. President, this Act brings homeownership within the reach of millions of lower income Americans. Under title I families whose incomes fall within the range of $3,000 to $6,500 per year would be eligible for a Federal assistance payment that could reduce the cost of their home mortgage to as low as 1 percent. By paying 20 percent of its monthly income toward principal, interest, taxes, insurance and mortgage insurance premium a family could have a decent home of its own.

RENT SUPPLEMENTS

For the first time, Mr. President, an almost identical system would be used to make decent rental housing available to those American families in the same income range who are unable or unwilling to undertake the responsibilities of homeownership and to help the elderly and handicapped in their quest for good housing at a reasonable price.

EXPANDED ROLE FOR PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

For the first time, Mr. President, we will rely primarily upon the talents and energies of private industry in reaching the mammoth construction goals needed to house our people. The national policy on housing set forth in the Taft-Wagner-Ellender Act of 1949 stated that "private enterprise shall be encouraged to serve as large a part of the total—housing—need as it can" and "governmental assistance shall be utilized where feasible to enable private enterprise to serve more of the total need. S. 3497 will make it possible, for the first time, to implement those statements fully.

The housing units produced under these new programs will be constructed by private builders. It will be sponsored and owned by private groups and individuals. The funds will come primarily from the private investment market.

Involvement of private groups achieving greater production of low- and moderate-income housing will also be encouraged by other provisions of S. 3497:

A National Homeownership Foundation will be established and will be authorized to make grants and loans to these groups to help defray organizational and administrative expenses, necessary preconstruction costs and costs of services to families that will be served.

The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development will be authorized to provide substantial technical assistance to groups that wish to sponsor housing under the programs of titles I and II and may make 80 percent interest-free loans to these nonprofit sponsors to cover certain preconstruction costs of these federally assisted programs.

Title VIII of this bill authorizes the creation of a national housing partnership to mobilize private investment and the application of business skills in the job of creating low- and moderate-income housing in large volume.

NEW FHA PROGRAMS

For the first time, Mr. President, the Federal Housing Administration, which has served middle income America so long and so well, will be given some new tools to enable it to aid lower-income Americans in achieving homeownership and to save inner cities from further deterioration. S. 3497 authorizes FHA to insure mortgages for families—who presently are not acceptable risks because of poor credit histories or because of irregular income patterns caused by seasonal employment.

Section 103 of the bill before us allows the Federal Housing Administration to insure mortgages for purchase, repair, and rehabilitation of homes that, because they are located in older, declining areas of a city, might not meet all of the usual insurance requirements. Mr. President, many have leveled charges of "redlining" at the FHA. This section of the bill will give the Administration authority to act to prevent further deterioration of neighborhoods where low- and moderate-income families may find good housing and good lives.

NEW DIRECTIONS IN PUBLIC HOUSING AND URBAN RENEWAL

For the first time, Mr. President, existing programs such as public housing and urban renewal have been substantially revised to meet human needs.

For the first time, Federal funds are authorized to assist local housing authorities in providing desperately needed social services to tenants of low-rent public housing projects.

Many public housing residents are new to the city, unable to cope with its complexities, and unaware of many social aids available.

Many local authorities have attempted to provide aid to tenants in such areas as counseling on housekeeping and diet and money management and have sought to aid tenants in seeking job training and placement, educational opportunities, and health services.

It has been proved that these services can have a substantial effect upon resident's lives. However, it is impossible for local authorities to finance these services adequately. The $20 million authorized for fiscal 1969 and $40 million for fiscal 1970 will do much to humanize the often isolated existence of the public housing resident.

For the first time, other means have been sought to provide something more than a roof and four walls to the public housing resident:

High rise public housing projects for families with children is prohibited in most cases;

The problems of very large families with very low incomes are acknowledged and an additional annual support of $120 is authorized for units where these families live.

Tenants will be able to purchase any low-rent housing unit suitable for individual ownership, rather than only the detached or semidetached units in the present law.

For the first time, a new neighborhood development program will make it possible for a city to speed up the renewal process and show visible accomplishments in short periods of time.

I could go on, Mr. President, for there are other "firsts" in this legislation. However, I believe the most important fact is that we have acknowledged the problems, seen the need to involve all the varied elements of our society in solving them and, through this legislation, provided the tools to begin the job.

In closing, Mr. President, I want to pay tribute to the distinguished chairman of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, the Senator from Alabama [Mr. SPARKMAN], for his leadership in the Senate and in conference in bringing the legislation to such a successful conclusion. In addition, I wish to direct some praise to the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, Dr. Weaver, and to his associates for the imagination, administrative accomplishment, and new directions they have provided in the past several years, all of which has made this legislation possible.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA INSURANCE PLACEMENT ACT

Mr. TYDINGS. Mr. President, immediately following the riots which swept through Washington, Baltimore, and other cities in April, the Subcommittee on Business and Commerce, of which I am chairman, of the Senate District of Columbia Committee conducted a series of hearings regarding the steps that should be taken to rebuild the city and to restore the confidence and the livelihoods of its merchants and residents.

One particularly grave problem was highlighted in these hearings—the problem of obtaining adequate property insurance in the riot-affected areas. Numerous witnesses testified that insurance in center city areas was becoming impossible to obtain, and that cancellations were taking place at an alarming rate. It was clear that unless immediate action were taken to remedy this problem, businesses and homeowners would be forced to leave the center city. They cannot function without insurance. Without insurance, homeowners cannot borrow to improve their properties. New businesses cannot be started and existing ones cannot expand or even survive. Adequate insurance is critical to the success of every private, Federal, and District of Columbia program to revitalize the city and provide more goods, services, jobs, and better housing, and thus to alleviate the conditions which have led to the riots. Thus it was clear that unless means were found to guarantee access to property insurance for the center city, the devastation wreaked by the April riots would become merely a prelude to a more thorough economic devastation of the center city of Washington.

During the course of our hearings, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee was considering, as part of the national housing bill, a proposal to provide Federal reinsurance for risks of loss from riots or civil disorders. It was quite clear that congressional passage of this proposed program was the key to solving this insurance problems, in Washington in Baltimore and in cities throughout the country. For that reason, I strongly supported this proposal in the Senate, and I am delighted that the program is now embodied in the national housing bill, now before the Senate, which the full Congress is about to approve.

When we were conducting our hearings, it was not yet evident that the Congress would approve this Federal reinsurance program. But the need for action was so urgent that we resolved not to wait for ultimate congressional action before the District of Columbia Committee would act to permit the District to participate in the national reinsurance program, if finally approved. Accordingly, while the national bill was pending on the Senate floor, I introduced S. 3556, a bill to establish a basic property insurance placement plan and joint underwriting association to guarantee the availability of basic property insurance in the District of Columbia. Immediate committee action on this bill was a necessary if the District were to be able to take full advantage of the national program this year, and to stem the rising tide of insurance cancellations.

Following conclusion of our hearings, and extensive consultations with residents, merchants and insurers, the Subcommittee on Business and Commerce on July 8 approved a somewhat amended version of S. 3556. These amendments were designed to insure that the program would work equitably and effectively to guarantee fair access for all to property insurance.

On July 10, Congressman PATTEN, of New Jersey, offered S. 3556, as approved by my subcommittee, as an amendment to the national bill then pending on the House floor. The House accepted this amendment, and the District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act was adopted as title XI of the national bill. In conference on the national bill, the Senate conferees accepted the new title XI, and thus the bill which is now pending before the Senate contains, as one of its provisions, the District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act which I originally introduced in the Senate.

By adopting this bill as a separate title of the national bill which establishes the Federal reinsurance program for civil disorder risks, I believe the Congress express is a judgment that this is model enabling legislation which each State should accept. The most important aspect of this model bill is, I believe, the broad authority vested in the District of Columbia government to regulate the terms by which property insurers in this jurisdiction guarantee fair access to insurance. In the course of hearings on S. 3556, spokesmen for the insurance industry offered a counter-proposal—as a so-called model bill—which would have significantly limited the authority of the District government to supervise and to regulate the operation of the industry placement facility and joint underwriting association created by the bill. Although the subcommittee, in considering S. 3556, made a number of changes to guarantee that the insurance industry would be adequately consulted in the formulation of rules and regulations, we firmly rejected proposals to give the industry any manner of veto authority over these rules and regulations. Since the national bill provides a governmental backup to cover the risks of civil disorders, we believe that it was necessary and proper that the local government have ample authority to insure that this Federal backup is not simply a windfall to insurers, and that answers will in fact give full and fair access to insurance to all residents and merchants. The wide authority given to the District of Columbia government in this regard is a vital feature of the bill, and the Congress in enacting the measure as part of the national bill endorses this principle in particular.

SUMMARY OF THE PROGRAM

The District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act of 1968 would help the District of Columbia resolve its insurance problems in two ways. First, it would authorize the Commissioner to develop and adopt plans to assure property owners fair access to basic property insurance and to establish, if necessary, a joint underwriting association. Second, it would make it possible for insurers in the District to participate in the national reinsurance program.

DETAILED ANALYSIS OF THE BILL

SHORT TITLE

The enacting clause provides that the bill may be cited as the "District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act."

DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

Section 2 states that the purposes of the act are to, first, assure stability in the District of Columbia property insurance market; second, assure the availability of basic property insurance; third, encourage the maximum use of the normal insurance market to provide basic property insurance; and fourth, provide for the equitable distribution among insurers of the responsibility for insuring qualified property by authorizing the establishment of a joint underwriting association.

DEFINITIONS

Section 3 defines first, "Commissioner" to mean the Commissioner of the District of Columbia or his designated agent; second, "basic property insurance" to mean fire and extended-coverage insurance and such other property insurance coverages, including, but not limited to, vandalism and malicious mischief, burglary, theft, and robbery for such types, classes, and locations of property, for which national reinsurance for riot or civil disorder loss is available, as may be designated by the Commissioner, except insurance on automobiles; third, "environmental hazard" to mean any insurance hazards beyond the control of a property owner; fourth, "inspection bureau" to mean the rating bureau or other organization designated by the Commissioner to perform inspections required under the act; fifth, "Industry Placement Facility" to mean the facility formed to assist agents, brokers, and applicants in securing basic property insurance; sixth, "premiums written" to mean gross direct premiums changed for basic property insurance with respect to properties in the District of Columbia including the basic property insurance components of multi-peril policies, less all premiums and dividends returned, paid, or credited to policyholders or the unused or unabsorbed portions of premium deposits; and, seventh, "property owner" to mean any person having an insurable interest in real, personal, or mixed real and personal property.

It should be noted that the Commissioner has discretion as to the types of coverages to include in the definition of "basic property insurance" in addition to fire and extended coverage. We recognize that there are specialized underwriting problems connected with certain coverages. It cannot be emphasized too strongly, however, that the primary purpose of this bill is to permit the Commissioner to take the necessary steps to assure all responsible property owners in the District of Columbia fair access to property insurance. Therefore, it is expected the Commissioner will include as many optional lines in the term "basic property insurance" as he can, consistent with the needs of property owners and the specialized problems involved. It is also expected the Commissioner will use the flexibility in the definition to specify the types, classes, and locations of property for which additional coverages are to be provided to move forward rapidly in providing coverages to property owners where these specialized problems are less severe.

INDUSTRY PLACEMENT FACILITY

Section 4(a) requires all property insurers in the District of Columbia to establish an Industry Placement Facility within 30 days after the effective date of the act. This facility is to fomulate and administer a program to provide for the equitable apportionment among insurers of applications for basic property insurance on risks which meet reasonable underwriting standards. This program is to be subject to disapproval by the Commissioner and the legislation gives the widest possible latitude for the formulation of the most effective and equitable program. On the request of an agent, broker, or property owner the facility is to seek to place with one or more of its members an application for insurance up to the full insurable value of the risk, subject only to deductibles, percentage participation clauses, and other underwriting devices as are necessary to meet special problems of insurability.

We believe it is important to give all responsible owners the opportunity to insure their property for its full insurable value. Otherwise, property owners may be left exposed to considerable loss. Indeed, an owner with a substantial mortgage may stand to lose his entire equity in his property. Further, the inability to obtain insurance to value may prevent some persons from being able to obtain needed credit to purchase or improve property, precisely the conditions this bill is designed to eliminate.

Section 4(b) of the bill was added to make clear that the facility may, subject to the approval of the Commissioner, provide for the equitable distribution of commercial risks and dwelling risks among its members.

Section 4(c) requires each insurer to participate in the Industry Placement Facility in accordance with its established rules as a condition of its authority to transact business in the District of Columbia. In lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the rules of the facility, the Commissioner may fine a company not more than $200 for each violation of such rules if such action would best serve the public interest. We amended this section to make clear that it does not permit the Commissioner to merely fine a company that fails to become a participant in the facility. Such a company is to be ineligible to do basic property insurance business in the District of Columbia until such time as it becomes a participant.

FAIR ACCESS TO INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS

Section 5(a) requires the Industry Placement Facility on its own motion, or within 30 days after a request by the Commissioner, to submit to the Commissioner such proposed rules and regulations applicable to insurers, agents, and brokers, deemed necessary to assure all property owners in the District of Columbia fair access to basic property insurance. These rules and regulations could, among other matters, cover first, the manner and scope of inspections of risk; second, the preparation and filing of inspection reports and reports of actions taken in connection with inspected risks; and, third, the operation of an Industry Placement Facility.

We amended this section to make clear that the rules and regulations with respect to the Industry Placement Facility could, among other matters, cover first, the basic property insurance coverages of such facility; second, the reasonable effort to obtain insurance in the normal commercial market required by an applicant before recourse to the facility; and, third, the appeals procedure within the facility for any applicant for insurance regarding any ruling, action, or decision by on behalf of the facility. This amendment is not intended to restrict the rulemaking authority of the Commissioner.

Subparagraph (a) makes clear that the Commissioner may adopt rules with respect to the types of basic property insurance coverage to be placed by the facility which differ from types of basic property insurance coverages subject to other programs adopted by the Commissioner. Subparagraph (b) makes clear that the Commissioner may adopt rules permitting the facility to specify that a property owner who applies for insurance may be required to attempt to obtain insurance through an agent or through a broker before the facility is required to use its resources to locate insurance for the owner. The facility, however, would not be permitted to require an agent or broker to attempt to place an application for insurance with an insurer, since to do so in the face of the agent or broker's judgment with respect to the acceptability of the risk to insurers he represents would only invite delay in obtaining insurance for the applicant. Subparagraph (c) makes clear that the Commissioner may adopt rules permitting the facility to review the decisions by its employees before such decisions are appealed to the Commissioner under section 10. This review is to be accomplished promptly and should not be permitted to materially delay an appeal to the Commissioner.

Section 5(b) provides that the Commissioner may adopt such of the proposed rules submitted by the facility as he approves. If the Commissioner disapproves any proposed rule, he shall state his reasons and shall require, in consultation with him, the facility to submit to him a revision of the rule. The revision must be submitted within 10 days or within such greater period of time as may be designated by the Commissioner. If the facility fails to submit a proposed rule, or a revision thereof, within the designated time, or if a revised rule is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner may adopt rules covering the same general subject matter as he may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of the act.

As introduced, the bill would have authorized the Commissioner to adopt rules and regulations without discussion with the industry. By providing the facility with the option to prepare drafts of any rules deemed appropriate by the Commissioner the industry will be given an opportunity to present its views to him. We do not expect that this procedure will significantly delay the adoption of appropriate rules.

The rulemaking authority provided by this section will permit the Commissioner to adopt the provisions of the FAIR plan—for fair access to insurance requirements plan—as set forth in the report of the President's National Advisory Panel on Insurance in Riot-Affected Areas and in the national reinsurance legislation. Basically, the FAIR plan is designed to assure that no property owner is denied basic property insurance by an insurer, agent, or broker without a careful inspection of his property by an impartial and disinterested expert and a full evaluation of the risk by insurers to determine whether it meets reasonable underwriting standards at an unsurcharged premium rate. If it does not, the owner informed of the specific defects in his property which must be improved to bring the property up to insurable condition at an unsurcharged rate. The Commissioner could also adopt additional requirements that may be necessary or desirable to help responsible District property owners obtain basic property insurance as promptly and at a low a cost as possible, consistent with the condition of the property to be insured.

An essential feature of the FAIR plan is the requirement that insurers must give their policyholders sufficient notice prior to cancellation or nonrenewal to allow the policyholder to seek a new policy under the plan or through the Industry Placement Facility. We expect the Commissioner to include such a provision in any plan adopted under the section to assure responsible District property owners continuity of basic property insurance coverage.

JOINT UNDERWRITING ASSOCIATION

Section 6(a) authorizes the Commissioner to establish by order a joint underwriting association if he finds, after notice and opportunity for hearing, that the association is necessary to carry out the purposes of the act. Such hearing may be based on oral or written testimony, or both. The association is to consist of all District insurers writing basic property insurance on a direct basis and would provide reinsurance for its members.

Section 6(b) requires insurers to comply with all the requirements of membership in the association as a condition of authority to transact business in the District. In lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of a company for failure to comply with any of the requirements of membership, the Commissioner is authorized to fine a company not more than $200 if he believes such action would best serve the public interest. We amended this section to make clear, however, that the section does not permit the Commissioner to merely fine a company which fails to become a member of the association. Such a company could not conduct basic property insurance business in the District of Columbia until it becomes a member of the association.

Section 6(c)(1) requires the association to submit a proposed plan of operations to the Commissioner within 60 days after the Commissioner orders the formation of the association. The plan is to provide for the economical, fair, and nondiscriminatory operation of the association and for the prompt and efficient provision, without regard to environmental hazards, of reinsurance on such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner.

Section 6(c)(2) provides that the plan of operation of the association is subject to approval by the Commissioner. If the Commissioner disapproves all or any part of the proposed plan of operation, he shall state his reasons and consult with the association, which is given another 30 days to devise an acceptable plan. If it does not, the Commissioner is authorized to promulgate a plan of operation.

Section 6(c)(3) provides that the association may amend the plan of operation on its own initiative, subject to approval by the Commissioner. The association, however, must amend the plan at the direction of the Commissioner if he finds such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of the act.

Section 6(d) provides that all members of the association are to participate in its writings, expenses, profits and losses, or in such categories thereof as may be separately established by the association, in accordance with such formula as may be devised by the association. The categories and formulas established by the association are subject to approval by the Commissioner.

Section 6(e) provides that the association is to be governed by a board of 11 directors, elected annually, by cumulative voting of the members of the association. The votes of each member of the association are to be weighed in accordance with the proportionate amount of each member's net direct premiums written in the District of Columbia during the preceding calendar year. The first board is to be elected within 30 days after the Commissioner's order at a meeting of the members at a time and place designated by the Commissioner.

The purpose of the association is to allow an insurer to reinsure a risk which meets reasonable underwriting standards as established by the Commissioner but which does not meet the underwriting standards of the insurer, for example, because of environmental hazards. In this way, the risk of loss on property which meets reasonable underwriting standards will be borne by all District insurers through the reinsurance mechanism rather than by an individual insurer. It is expected that the Commissioner, in evaluating the plan of operation, will make every effort to assure that it will not operate to inordinately encourage or discourage companies to reinsure policies rather than retaining the risk themselves.

We expect the Commissioner to make a careful and continuing evaluation of the results of the Industry Placement Facility and other measures designed to improve the availability of basic property insurance immediately after their adoption to be in a position to determine promptly whether a joint underwriting association is necessary to make basic property insurance available to all responsible owners in the District of Columbia, up to the full insurance value of property which meets reasonable underwriting standards, subject to deductibles and other appropriate underwriting devices.

It should be noted that the association may be ordered to be formed by the Commissioner to provide any or all types of coverages included in the definition of "basic property insurance." This flexibility will allow the Commissioner to move forward rapidly, where necessary, to utilize the association in order to provide those types of coverages which individual insurers find difficult to provide without association reinsurance because of specialized problems of insurability and therefore are not reasonably susceptible to sale on a wide basis through the Industry Placement Facility or other programs designed to place insurance with individual insurers.

EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER

Section 7 provides that the inspection bureau, Industry Placement Facility, and any joint underwriting association are to be subject to supervision, regulation, and examination by the Commissioner. Further, it authorizes the Commissioner to summon and qualify witnesses under oath with respect to the operation of such facilities.

WAIVER OF LIABILITY

Section 8 provides that no cause of action shall arise against insurers, the inspection bureau, Industry Placement Facility, or any joint underwriting association or their agents or employees, or any officer or employee of the District of Columbia, as the result of any statements made by them in good faith concerning the insurability of property. Reports and communications with respect to individual properties are not to be available for public inspections.

This provision will allow persons involved in inspecting or evaluating a risk to speak freely and honestly about the nature and condition of the risk without fear of subsequent legal action.

ANNUAL REPORT BY ASSOCIATION

Section 9 requires the joint underwriting association to file an annual report with the Commissioner containing information with respect to its transactions, condition, operations, and affairs during the preceding year and such other information in such form as the Commissioner may prescribe. The Commissioner may also require the association to furnish him with such information from time to time as he may require to evaluate the scope, operation, and experience of the association.

APPEALS

Section 10(a) permits any applicant for insurance or any affected insurer to appeal to the Commissioner any ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of the inspection bureau, Industry Placement Facility, or joint underwriting association after exhaustion of remedies available within the bureau, facility, or association. It is expected that the Commissioner will dispose of all appeals on an expedited basis.

Section 10(b) provides that all final orders or decisions of the Commissioner made pursuant to the bill are reviewable by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

REIMBURSEMENT OF FEDERAL INSURANCE FUND

Section 11(a) authorizes the Commissioner to assess each insurer authorized to do business in the District of Columbia an amount sufficient to provide a fund to reimburse the Federal reinsurance fund, as required by the national bill. The assessment would be based on the proportion of the premiums earned in the District of Columbia during the preceding year on lines of insurance reinsured by the Corporation during the current year whether or not the particular company was reinsured by the Corporation. Such fund could be added to or created by appropriations.

Under the national reinsurance program, each State, including the District of Columbia, has the responsibility of assuming a portion of the losses reinsured under the program in the State, in excess of the amount of premiums paid by the insurance industry for reinsurance in the particular State. The amount to be assumed by the State is to be not more than 5 percent of the premiums earned in the State by all insurers there on those lines of insurance reinsured under the national program. If the District does not assume this portion of reinsured losses within 1 year after the enactment of the national reinsurance program insurers in the District would be ineligible for national reinsurance.

Section 11(b) requires insurers to add to the premium rate on insurance coverages for which the assessment is made an amount, to be approved by the Commissioner, sufficient to recover within not more than 3 years, any amounts assessed under subsection (a) during the preceding calendar year. The amount added to the premium rate for this purpose is to be stated as a separate charge made in addition to the premium and no commission of any form is to be paid or allowed on the separate charge to any agent or broker producing or selling the policy of insurance.

DELEGATION

Section 12 authorizes the Commissioner to delegate any or all the functions vested in him by the bill. The Commissioner has informed us that he intends to delegate these functions to the Superintendent of Insurance.

JUDICIAL REVIEW

Section 13 would amend section 11–742 (a) of the District of Columbia Code to make all final orders and decisions of the Commissioner under the act reviewable by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Mr. McGEE. Mr. President, we all know that the Nation's cities are facing unprecedented problems today. The need for improving living conditions in the inner city has been forcefully demonstrated in a number of our metropolitan centers during the past 16 months.

The crying need for adequate and suitable housing for America's lower income families is not of recent origin. It has been developing for a number of years with an increasing tempo of urgency. But not until the unfortunate events of the past year and a half have we as a nation come to realize the desperate plight of so many of our disadvantaged citizens.

The primary purpose of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 is for the short range, to alleviate this situation and for the long range, the elimination of our housing problems. The act constitutes a giant step toward insuring that America will not only be able to preserve its reputation of having the best housed people on earth but will even further embellish its No. 1 ranking.

Specifically, it will help us achieve the goal of 26 million new homes and apartments in the next 10 years. Six million of these are earmarked as replacements for substandard units which now house more than 20 million people.

And to meet immediate needs, 300,000 units that will provide decent housing for more than 1 million people who require Government aid, are slated to be started in the year ahead.

The act also provides further authorization for the model cities program, which is designed to substantially improve or eradicate slum conditions in many of our cities.

One of the most important provisions will make practically every family's cherished goal of owning a home of its own a practical reality. Families earning as little as $3,000 a year will be able to afford homeownership with the mortgage subsidies under this plan.

The act also provides for Government rental assistance to be expanded by a mortgage interest rate subsidy to organizations providing new or rehabilitated apartment units for lower income families. Families living in subsidized units would have to pay at least 25 percent of their income as rent. It is estimated that this new subsidized plan will assist about 700,000 apartment units to be built or rehabilitated over the next 3 years.

It also recognizes the chaotic condition that resulted in the business communities directly affected by riots by establishing a new National Insurance Dedevelopment Corporation which would reinsure policies for property damage in ghetto areas.

One of the more important provisions of the new act that is expected to have a strong impact on the ghetto areas enables the Federal Housing Administration to insure mortgages for buyers who cannot meet ordinary credit standards, and it could make insured loans available in deteriorating neighborhoods in an effort to upgrade them.

Another significant part provides for the ownership of the Federal National Mortgage Association's Secondary Market Operations to be transferred fully to private hands. The $155 million of Fannie Mae preferred stock held by the Treasury would be retired. The 8,500 holder of common stock who provide $145 million of the corporation's capital then would have sole equity in the Association's $6.5 billion mortgage portfolio.

A new agency, the Government National Mortgage Association—GNMA or Ginny Mae—would be established to continue administering the "special assistance" programs.

Therefore, in view of these meaningful, well-thought-out provisions designed to carry America's vital housing program forward for the next decade it is my judgment that this is without question the most comprehensive and best housing act we have ever had.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the conference report.

The report was agreed to.

FLOOD INSURANCE ACT

Mr. DODD. Mr. President, I am most gratified that the conference report on the housing bill which was agreed to by the Senate today contained the Flood Insurance Act which has been pending in conference for some time now.

Adequate Government backing of flood insurance is something which we have long needed and which I am pleased to see is finally about to become a reality.

I have long been interested in the problems of the insurance industry and its policyholders but my interest in disaster insurance is particularly strong and goes back many years.

Twelve years ago as a Congressman in the House of Representatives I introduced a bill which established insurance and loan programs to provide protection against all kinds of natural catastrophies.

These programs were to be financed entirely by the Federal Government, but they would have been administered, at least partially, by the private insurance companies.

The bill which we have before us today is less comprehensive in scope than the one which I introduced in the House. However, the present bill has been refined and improved; and it is designed to deal only with damage by water, which is probably the most prevalent form of natural disaster.

The bill which I introduced in 1956 provided insurance against floods, hurricanes, earthquakes, tornadoes, dust-storms, snowslides, and many other types of natural disasters.

It called for a Federal corporation which would provide direct insurance as well as reinsurance contracts for private insurance companies and it provided non-interest-bearing loans for disaster victims.

My bill authorized combinations of insurance and loans in such combinations that would be deemed appropriate by the Federal corporation to meet certain disasters.

As the present bill does to a great degree, my bill also demanded that private insurance companies be used as agents wherever possible and authorized that the corporation provide only that insurance which private insurance companies could not provide.

We were successful in our efforts to enact natural disaster insurance legislation in 1956, and I was fortunate in getting the loan features of my bill, known as the Dodd plan incorporated into the final act. But because of appropriation and implementation failures the act, much to my dismay, never achieved its potential.

I am confident that the bill now before us will not have the same difficulties because it is a substantial improvement over the 1956 act and is sufficiently fortified against the obstacles which that act encountered.

There is no question that floods present the greatest risk to the property owners of this country as a group. Destruction wrought by water is usually more extensive and more complete than other forms of property damage.

A flood can sweep away whole neighborhoods and spread its ugly destruction over entire communities, towns, and cities as far as the eye can see.

Moreover, a homeowner who has had his house taken from him in this fashion is often faced with burdens even greater than the replacement of the domicile which he has lost.

In many cases, homes destroyed by water are heavily mortgaged, and the individual who has lost his home must not only somehow provide for a new one, but he must also continue to make payments on a house which no longer exists.

This is enough the break the spirit of even the strongest of men.

Unfortunately, the private insurance industry has not been able to cope with the tremendous risk which flood insurance presents.

Because damage by floods is so extensive it has been impossible for insurance companies to make any sensible statistical evaluation of the risk presented to them by the possibility of serious floods.

The resources of the private insurance industry have never been sufficient to enable them to offer flood coverage on their own. They simply do not possess the financial capacity to assume the entire burden of this "unspreadable" risk.

The flood insurance provisions of this bill offer a truly sensible solution to this long-standing problem in that they establish a joint effort of Government and industry working together to set up and administer a marvelous new system of flood insurance.

This system has some very creative and practical features. It contains a new and sophisticated system of rate determination. This particular system is extremely flexible and if properly implemented and administered, it could provide the Government with sufficient funds to adequately back the program and yet not result in exorbitant rates to the individual homeowners.

Another unusually appealing feature of these flood insurance provisions is the establishment of a long-range program of regulation of land use.

This program is designed to provide that the property in certain areas with high flood risk will become over the years less prone to flood damage.

Theoretically, land in these areas will be developed in such a way that its usefulness cannot be severely damaged by flood.

As this happens, the premium rate necessary to cover the full costs of providing insurance coverage in the area will decrease so that it is closer to the reasonable amount which can be paid by any customer.

As a result, because the risk of flood damage in these areas will be lower, the private insurance companies will be able to bear most of the burden of the risk themselves, and the Government's expenditures in the program will drop off.

I am hopeful that the insurance industry will fully cooperate with the Government in forming the insurance pool called for by the bill and that the many details of setting this program up can be quickly worked out so that the homeowners of this country may once and for all have flood insurance protection for their homes.

The absence of this protection has long been the cause of great hardship to the victims of natural disasters.

Too many inland homeowners have watched in grief as their uninsured home were washed away by roaring rivers, swollen by torrential rains or by the heavy snows of a cold winter.

Too many coastal homeowners have had their life's investment destroyed by storm-driven ocean waters.

Too many towns and cities have seen their entire community become a disaster area as a result of destructive floods.

Let us hope that this measure finally agreed to by the Senate today will at last put an end to this serious problem.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

Mr. McINTYRE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate go into executive session for the purpose of considering a nomination which was reported earlier today from the Committee on the Judiciary.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE

The legislative clerk read the nomination of Hugh H. Bownes to be U.S. district judge for the district of New Hampshire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the nomination is confirmed.

Mr. McINTYRE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the President be immediately notified of the confirmation of the nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Mr. McINTYRE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate resume the consideration of legislative business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

INVESTMENT COMPANY AMENDMENTS ACT OF 1968

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 3724) to amend the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 to define the equitable standards governing relationships between investment companies and their investment advisers and principal underwriters, and for other purposes.

Mr. SPARKMAN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HOLLINGS in the chair). Without objection, it is so ordered.

ORDER FOR ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, quite late, I hope, this afternoon or evening, the Senate stand in adjournment until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS DURING SENATE SESSION TOMORROW

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that all committees be authorized to meet during the session of the Senate tomorrow, except the Committee on Labor and Public Welfare.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

INVESTMENT COMPANY AMENDMENTS ACT OF 1968

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 3724) to amend the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 to define the equitable standards governing relationships between investment companies and their investment advisers and principal underwriters, and for other purposes.

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, for proposed legislation to receive the support of those who have not been involved in its development, several things seem to be very important these days. First, it must be presented in such a way that it can be referred to as protecting consumers, especially those with lower incomes. Second, it must be billed as nothing radical, but rather a moderate or even a conservative measure which can be claimed to be the minimum needed to begin to deal with existing problems that suddenly are claimed to be serious. Third, if one can also say that the bill only requires that the industry be regulated to produce reasonable management fees and reasonable sales charges and that these will be decided by a disinterested or impartial governmental agency, it would appear that there would be no basis for opposition.

This is just what is claimed for the proposed legislation before the Senate today, which would make grave new inroads of Government intrusion into the management of private business institutions. Proponents, while not discussing this fact, have never denied it, nor can they deny that this bill does in fact provide for new and greater Federal control over a long-established industry which already has ease of entry, many competing firms, and vigorous price competition among these firms.

Contrary to what proponents would like Members of this body to believe, this bill is dealing with an extremely technical problem. There is nothing simple about the regulation of mutual funds. Even the 1940 Investment Company Act, which it is now claimed does not deal with the industry of today, was characterized by the Securities and Exchange Commission as a "complex and elaborate piece of legislation, calling for a great relations with the U. S., for the period beginning with the import quota year following severance of the relations and continuing through 2 import quota years after relations are resumed (p. H7627). This bill will now be sent to the President.

5. DAIRY. Conferees were appointed on S. 3638, to extend for 3 years the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture to make indemnity payments to dairy farmers for milk required to be withheld from commercial markets because it contains residues of chemicals registered and approved for use by the Federal Government (p. H7627). Senate conferees have been appointed. The "Daily Digest" states that conferees have agreed to file a report (p. D748).

6. HOUSING. Agreed, 227-135, to the conference report on S. 3497, the housing bill (pp. H7657-67, ~~H7685~~). For provisions see Digest 130. This bill will now be sent to the President.

7. ROADS. Agreed to the conference report on S. 3418, the road authorization bill (pp. H7768-77). Rejected, 166-167, a motion by Rep. Stratton to recommit the conference report (pp. H7676-77).

8. BUILDINGS. Agreed to the conference report on S. 222, to insure that public buildings financed with Federal funds are so designed and constructed as to be accessible to the physically handicapped. The conferees agreed that "the basic import of this legislation shall be confined to publicly owned buildings including public housing, or buildings accessible to the public." pp. H7680-81

9. RECREATION. A subcommittee of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee approved for full committee action H. R. 15245 and S. 444, to establish the Flaming Gorge National Recreation Area in Utah and Wyo. p. D748

10. GRAIN INSPECTION; FLOOD CONTROL. Conferees agreed to file reports on H. R. 15794, to provide for U. S. standards and a national inspection system for grain, and S. 3710, omnibus rivers and harbors flood control bill. p. D748

11. FOREIGN AID. Rep. Michel criticized the "follies" of our foreign aid program and asked, "How many ungrateful foreign countries are our taxpayers going to be asked to support while our cities crumble?" pp. H7629-30

12. FEDERAL AID; REORGANIZATION. Rep. Roth spoke in support of two bills, to issue and maintain an up-to-date catalog on Federal assistance programs, and the proposed Executive Reorganization and Management Improvement Act. pp. H7685-6

13. FARM PROGRAM. Rep. Olsen stated "the basic principles in the 1965 farm act are tried and tested...and have worked well." He urged a 4-year extension of the program. p. H7692

14. LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM. Rep. Albert announced the following program for the week of July 29, Military construction appropriations, food stamp bill, FHA loans bill, and bill to prevent importation of endangered wildlife. p. H7687 hospitalized. He has since been removed from the active force because of his physical condition. I cannot say there is a connection between that circumstance and the beating which he once took.

In each of these instances where police brutality was charged, when I had an opportunity to see what went on, I know those charges were foundationless.

As a matter of fact, I am amazed at the quality of our Metropolitan Policemen and their dedication to trying to help the circumstances which create problems for them. We should consider the number of thousands of hours that Metropolitan Policemen spend in directing the Police Boys' Clubs and in working with these youngsters. If we take a look at those officers who spend their own vacation time in taking youngsters to camp and fishing and boating with them and in other various activities, one has to draw the conclusion that the great body of these men at least are doing a great deal more to try to prevent delinquency and crime than most of those agencies which are paid for that purpose specifically. This work is all done on their extra time, and their own time, by the police involved in this situation.

I have been amazed that these officers can act with as much restraint—and any Member of the House may find this for himself—because there are certain areas in this city where an officer or a pair of officers cannot walk or ride down the street without receiving the harshest kind of vituperative comments from those who line the streets. On occasion, the officers are even spat upon.

I think they have exercised a great deal of restraint.

We have to make the decision whether we enforce the law or whether we turn our back on crime and the criminal. There comes a point in almost every day in the duty hours of the policeman when he is faced with the decision: Do I enforce the law here or do I retreat? I think one gets a little different picture of the situation if he goes with the officer or with these officers into the darkest streets and alleys and homes of the community, knowing the officer is a few yards from a person he has been called upon to arrest or apprehend, and knowing that the individual is armed in some way, and knowing the kind of attitude that prevails in most of these areas.

It is not only those who are harassed who need consideration. I can say flatly, having had considerable experience with the Metropolitan Police force, that this is a force of which every Member of this House and this city can be proud.

Mr. WHITENER. Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the requisite number of words.

I should like to ask the chairman or the ranking member of the subcommittee about a situation here in the Nation's Capital.

A few days ago it was my responsibility to handle a piece of legislation on the floor of the House which would have provided for the removal of rubble and debris from private property at Government expense as a result of the April riots. That bill was defeated, much to my disappointment. I noted in the press a few days later that the Department of Housing and Urban Development had written a check to the District government to do exactly what the House of Representatives had refused to allow. Now, let me say again I was disappointed with the position that the House took on the bill that we had before us, but once that position was taken it should have been binding on the District officials and on other agencies of the Government.

Is this going on in other areas to any appreciable extent here in the District of Columbia?

Mr. NATCHER. Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WHITENER. I yield to the gentleman from Kentucky.

Mr. NATCHER. I should like to say to my distinguished friend, so far as I know personally this is the only incident which has been brought to our attention during the past 12 months. I also read the article that the Department of Housing and Urban Development did approve a grant, I believe of a little over $200,000, to be used for the purpose the gentleman just mentioned. I want the gentleman to know that I concur with what he has said. If the House turns it down I do not think any department of Government has a right to issue a grant or to allocate funds for a purpose such as the gentleman has called to the attention of the House. I agree with the gentleman.

Mr. WHITENER. It would seem to me, if we are to preserve the representative system in Government, that once the Congress or either body in the Congress has made a decision on a policy matter, even though that decision is not desirable to certain Government agencies—as the one made in this case was not satisfactory to me—the agencies should be bound by it. I felt bound by it. If our system is to prevail we must have a little better appreciation on the part of these executive agencies of our constitutional system.

Mr. NATCHER. Mr. Chairman I certainly concur with the gentleman's statement.

Mr. WHITENER. Mr. Chairman, I yield back the remainder of my time.

Mr. NATCHER. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee do now rise and report the bill back to the House with the recommendation that the bill do pass.

The motion was agreed to.

Accordingly the Committee rose; and the Speaker having resumed the chair, Mr. PRICE of Illinois, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union, reported that that Committee, having had under consideration the bill (H.R. 18706) making appropriations for the government of the District of Columbia and other activities chargeable in whole or in part against the revenues of said District for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and for other purposes, had directed him to report the bill back to the House with the recommendation that the bill do pass.

Mr. NATCHER. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question on the bill to final passage.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed, and a motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE TO EXTEND

Mr. NATCHER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to extend their remarks on the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Kentucky?

There was no objection.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON S. 3497, HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 1968

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I call up the conference report on the bill (S. 3497) to assist in the provision of housing for low and moderate income families, and to extend and amend laws relating to housing and urban development, and ask unanimous consent that the statement of the managers on the part of the House be read in lieu of the report.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the statement.

(For conference report and statement, see proceedings of the House of July 23, 1968.)

Mr. PATMAN (during the reading). Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent, in view of the fact that the conference report on this bill was printed in the RECORD on July 23, Tuesday, at pages H7278 to H7324, that further reading be dispensed with.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, and I hope I shall not have to object, I assume the gentleman will take adequate time to explain the changes that were made in the bill.

Mr. PATMAN. Yes, sir. Within the limitations allowed for debate.

Mr. GROSS. And yield for some questions.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

CALL OF THE HOUSE

Mr. TALCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER. Evidently a quorum is not present.

Mr. ALBERT. Mr. Speaker, I move a call of the House.

A call of the House was ordered.

The Clerk called the roll, and the following Members failed to answer to their names:

[Roll No. 286]

Anderson, Tenn.	Fulton, Tenn.	Landrum
Ashley	Gallagher	Long, La.
Blanton	Green, Oreg.	McEwen
Bolling	Gubser	Mathias, Calif.
Carter	Gurney	Moore
Celler	Halleck	O'Hara, Ill.
Clark	Hanna	Podell
Cowger	Hansen, Idaho	Rarick
Cunningham	Hawkins	Resnick
Dent	Hays	Rhodes, Pa.
Diggs	Hébert	Rivers
Dole	Herlong	Snyder

Edwards, La.	Holland	Sullivan
Eilberg	Jacobs	Teague, Tex.
Evins, Tenn.	Johnson, Pa.	Tuck
Fino	Karsten	Wiggins
Flood	Kirwan
	Kupferman

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ALBERT). On this rollcall, 379 Members have answered to their names, a quorum.

By unanimous consent, further proceedings under the call were dispensed with.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON S. 3497, HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 1968

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Texas is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report on S. 3497, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, which is now before the House, authorizes several important new programs and makes numerous amendments to existing law. Naturally, in an omnibus proposal of this scope a great number of differences between the two houses can be expected. About 159 items were considered during the 5 days of conference. Many of these were minor or technical, others represented different, but not conflicting approaches. As the statement of managers indicates, we were able to maintain a substantial proportion of the significant House positions. The House receded on 57 items and the Senate receded on 102 items.

Titles I and II of the conference report contain the heart of our housing assistance for lower income families—through homeownership and rental housing. One of the most important and controversial items considered for the new homeownership and rental assistance program is what maximum income limit would be established for eligibility under these programs. Both bodies have tried to assure, through statutory restrictions, that assistance is directed to the neediest families. The House guidelines are substantially incorporated in the report, with modifications which I believe perfect the intent of the House.

The House formula restricted eligibility to families whose incomes were not in excess of 130 percent of the limits for continued occupancy in public housing dwellings. The conference report modifies this formula by generally lowering the basic income limits that will apply to the use of 80 percent of the funds. The formula worked out by your conferees is based on 135 percent of the much lower income limits for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings and makes an allowance of $300 for each minor child. Many Members have indicated, however, that in their districts because of very high construction costs and other factors a restrictive income formula that is generally valid would be unfair. The bill as passed by the Senate contained an exception to permit up to 20 percent of the contract funds to go to families whose incomes exceeded the formula limits. The conference report adopts this exception, but with an important change to insure that assistance is still directed to the lowest possible income levels. This change is to place an income ceiling on use of this 20-percent exception which did not appear in the Senate bill. Under the conference version, the maximum ceiling under this exception would be 90 percent of the limits for occupancy in a 221(d)(3) below-market interest rate project, with a $300 allowance for each minor child. Also, the conference report adds a requirement that a preference must be given to families with the lowest possible incomes who can afford the housing.

We were able to keep four out of five public housing provisions appearing in the House but not in the Senate bill. The Senate conferees insisted, however, on retaining the provision on tenant services which was not included in the House-passed bill. We did obtain agreement on a 25-percent reduction in the appropriation authorization for this program.

Title III of the conference report makes various amendments to Federal Housing Administration programs. A number of relatively minor differences were resolved, some in favor of the House provisions and others in favor of the Senate provisions.

Title IV of the conference report authorizes Federal guaranties of bonds to finance new community development. While there had been no similar provision in the House bill, the subject had been discussed in the committee and the Subcommittee on Housing heard testimony on new communities earlier this year. The Senate was adamant on its provision which holds promise for relieving population pressures on the big cities in the long run.

Title V of the conference report makes various amendments to the urban renewal program. Most of the differences were resolved in favor of the House provisions. With minor modifications, all the House provisions relating to the rehabilitation loan program were agreed upon. These include generally limiting rehabilitation loans to borrowers whose incomes are within 221(d)(3) BMIR limits, authorizing annual appropriations of $150 million through June 30, 1973, and extending loans to properties which are determined to be uninsurable after an inspection under the national insurance development program.

Title V also includes a significant House provision requiring that a majority of the housing units provided in each community's new residential urban renewal areas be for low- and moderate-income families, with at least 20 percent for low-income families. However, the conferees agreed to permit the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to waive the latter figure to the extent that such housing is not needed. In order that this discretion is not abused, however, a report to the Banking and Currency Committees on each waiver is required. The Senate conferees, however, insisted on their provision to permit grant authority for interim assistance for blighted areas, but we were able to reduce the authorization from $20 million to $15 million.

There were not many substantial differences in titles VI, VII, VIII, IX, and X of the bill and all but a few of the House differences were retained. For the very important water and sewer grant program, we were able to achieve a net increase in authorization of $265 million, as opposed to an increase of only $115 million in the Senate bill. We also retained the new self-help housing provisions for rural areas which were in the House bill but not the Senate bill.

Mr. Speaker, I would like now to move on to the insurance programs in the conference report. We were very successful here in having the House approaches accepted. With respect to the administration of the riot reinsurance program, the Senate version placed it in a new corporation within HUD, while the House version placed all the authority with the Secretary. The latter approach is adopted by the conference report. In addition, the conferees thought it desirable to establish an insurance administrator within the Department, at executive level IV, who would administer both this program and the flood insurance program under the supervision of the Secretary. This is in lieu of an executive director, at the same level, for just the riot reinsurance program provided in the Senate bill.

We were also able to obtain agreement on the House approach to financing payments on insurance claims for both programs. For the riot reinsurance program, the Senate version provided no limit on borrowing authority, while the House version placed a limit of $150 million with any further sums to be determined by joint resolution. The conference report adopts a specific limit, but increased it to $250 million. For the flood insurance program, the Senate version provided borrowing authority of $500 million plus such additional sums as the President might authorize, while the House version placed a limit of $150 million. Again, the conference report adopts a limit of $250 million.

Mr. Speaker, I have one final matter in connection with title XI, the new urban insurance program. Last month, it was brought to my attention that during the Senate District Committee hearings, the insurance industry proposed a model insurance code. This code was supposed to be the kind of proposal that the insurance industry had in mind for the FAIR plans. I was quite disturbed at the insurance industry's proposal because I did not feel that it offered to the residents of our inner city areas the kind of insurance guarantees that we are trying to provide them through this bill. Therefore, on June 28, 1968, I wrote to the Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development outlining my objections to this proposed model code and inquiring as to the Secretary's view as to whether or not he felt that this code was the type of proposal he would approve as an adequate FAIR plan.

Fortunately, Secretary Weaver replied that the code is "inconsistent with the criteria set forth in the proposed Federal legislation and unresponsive to its objectives."

Mr. Speaker, as part of the legislative history on this historic housing legislation, I include my correspondence with the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development on this subject.

The conference report also contains a provision from the Senate bill designed to protect prospective home buyers from fraud or misrepresentation in the case of interstate land sales where the buyer may not be able to inspect the property personally.

Mr. Speaker, there are other changes made in conference and they are described in the statement of the managers. We believe they are reasonable and can be justified.

The conference report is a great achievement of the 90th Congress and a clear indication of our determination to overcome the blight of rural and urban areas. I urge every Member of the House to support it.

JUNE 28, 1968.

Secretary ROBERT C. WEAVER,
Department of Housing and Urban Development, Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: The purpose of this letter is to solicit your comments with respect to a rather serious development on the Urban Insurance Bill. It appears there are grave differences between Congressional intent on the FAIR Plan proposal and a recent insurance company proposal for a "model" FAIR plan, a copy of which is enclosed. This proposal came to light during the Senate District Committee's hearings on the D.C. FAIR Plan bill when industry witnesses proposed the model plan. It was also discussed at a recent meeting of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners held in Portland, Oregon, last week. Although the NAIC rejected the plan, many commissioners thought it acceptable.

You or your staff may recall that early in the legislative stage a "waiver" amendment was proposed by your Department and accepted by the Congressional sponsors. This amendment emanated from discussions between HUD, the industry and state commissioner representatives and provided that the Secretary may modify or waive one or more FAIR plan criteria where the purpose of the act would be better served or where compliance is unnecessary or inadvisable under local conditions or State law. (See 1214(a)7).

My fear is that some misguided or uninformed State commissioner may request such a modification or waiver in order to effectuate this industry "model" code which flouts the concept and intent of the Bill.

A few features of the industry "model" bill are illustrative. It is particularly puzzling, for example, why the industry should now seek to attempt to impose limits on the amount of insurance it will place through the Industry Placement Facility, when the industry assured the Housing Subcommittee it would attempt to use this facility to broaden the market for insurance and when such a proposal is in contradiction to the specific provisions of H.R. 17989.

It is also puzzling why the industry should propose that property owners be required to make their own diligent—and presumably fruitless—search for insurance before obtaining an inspection of their property, when H.R. 17989 specifically provides that no owner is to be denied property insurance without an inspection. This particular industry proposal seems to be even more restrictive than the present urban area plans which the Hughes Panel found wanting, and seems to indicate that the industry will be less willing to provide insurance in the urban core with federal backup than without it. Similarly, the industry seems intent on limiting the operation of FAIR Plans and other programs to urban renewal areas, when even now many urban area plans cover an entire city, and in spite of the fact the Subcommittee rejected this proposal by the industry.

Further, and perhaps most important, it is surprising to see the industry proposing a self-regulatory program at the State level when in its testimony before the Congress it strongly urged the federal legislation provide for greater State regulation, not industry self-regulation. In fact the industry's "model" legislation seems designed to limit the State insurance authority to performing a merely passive role of approving or disapproving whatever programs the industry might like to provide.

The insurance industry has assured the Committee that it stands ready to carry out faithfully the recommendations of the Hughes Panel and the provisions of the Federal legislation. I supported the legislation on this understanding, and on the understanding that industry performance would be subject to close supervision by State insurance regulators who would have authority to initiate and impose whatever additional requirements were necessary to meet particular local conditions.

Your views on this subject at this juncture would be of immeasurable assistance in clarifying the intent to afford to inner city residents and businessmen the fullest opportunity to purchase essential property insurance. I think it important that we have your views prior to the House debate in order to avoid confusion and possible opposition.

The favor of an early reply will be appreciated.

Very truly yours,

WRIGHT PATMAN,
Chairman.

THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT,
Washington, D.C., July 8, 1968.

Subject: Urban Insurance Bill—Title X, H.R. 17989.

Hon. WRIGHT PATMAN,
Chairman, Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: This is in reply to your letter of June 28, 1968, requesting our views concerning a recent insurance industry FAIR Plan proposal which was submitted to the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia in connection with its consideration of S. 3556, the proposed "District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act." Your letter identifies several of the instances where the industry proposal deviates from the minimum criteria specified in the proposed Federal legislation, and expresses special concern about the limited role of the State insurance commissioner under the industry proposal. You also indicate that you are fearful that the "waiver" provision in section 1214(b) of the Federal bill might be used to effectuate the industry proposal.

This Department shares your concern about the inadequacies of the so-called "FAIR Plan" proposed by the insurance industry in connection with the pending District of Columbia legislation. This proposal is inconsistent with the criteria set forth in the proposed Federal legislation and unresponsive to its objectives. Such a plan would clearly fail to satisfy the requirements for the provision of Federal reinsurance under section 1221 of the proposed legislation. It should be noted in this connection, that this Department has supported S. 3556, the proposed "District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act," as it was introduced by Senator Tydings. I'm sure you agree that S. 3556 is in accord with the requirements of the Federal legislation in all respects, including the requirement for close State supervision.

In the event that title X of H.R. 17989 is enacted, you may be assured that this Department will administer its provisions in a manner that is fully consistent with the spirit and intent of the legislation. Only those States with FAIR Plans which satisfy the statutory criteria will be provided Federal reinsurance coverage. Active participation and supervision of the plan by the State insurance authority will be an essential element in any plan. This Department is especially mindful of its obligation to administer the FAIR Plan program so as to assure the availability of property insurance to residents and busineses in our urban areas. In no event would we permit the waiver provision of section 1214(b) to be used to dilute the effectiveness of the FAIR Plan requirement.

As you may know, a detailed analysis of the deficiencies contained in the insurance industry proposal for the District of Columbia, prepared by a former staff member of the Hughes Panel, has been furnished to the insurance industry. We understand that the insurance industry is in the process of modifying its model plan in light of that analysis. We are also advised that industry representatives are working with staff members of the Senate District Committee in developing an insurance program for the District of Columbia, based on S. 3556, which will satisfy the requirements of the Federal legislation and meet the needs of the industry.

Sincerely yours,

ROBERT C. WEAVER.

Mr. Speaker, at this point I would like to yield to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. WIDNALL], the ranking minority member, 30 minutes for purposes of debate.

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of S. 3497 as amended by the House. To say that this is the biggest housing bill that has ever been before us is redundant. It has 17 titles and perhaps 200 sections and subsections. I know of no other bill of this size and breadth.

There is much in this bill that is easy to support, particularly homeownership for lower income families. A year ago, Senator PERCY in the other body with 36 cosponsors and I, in the House, joined by 112 Republican Members, presented the National Homeownership Foundation program. The administration did not take kindly to the idea, and attacked our proposal most vigorously, to use their own phrase. Remembering how they once attacked a minority proposal for rent certificates, and how they have since used it with growing approval, I was not surprised—even a little flattered—when they embraced our philosophy of homeownership and made it the lead title in their giant housing bill that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BARRETT] has now piloted so well through the Congress.

In addition to homeownership, there are other titles which, sponsored by the minority, I am sure should be persuasive to this side of the aisle. I refer to the insurance titles, particularly that dealing with flood insurance, which at my instance, was added in the full Banking and Currency Committee executive hearings; to title XV, FHA Insurance for Hospital Construction, which was co-sponsored by the distinguished minority leader, the gentleman from Michigan; the urban mass transportation title; the title setting up national housing goals and providing for annual reports as to how well they are being reached; a new setup for FNMA that takes the first step toward returning it to private control where it should be. There are also a number of improving amendments which I or other Republicans sponsored, dealing with such matters as increased authorizations for water and sewer grants, a most vital program; improvements in the handling of administration of the rent certificate-leased housing program, of the 312 rehabilitation program, instituting needed business-type budgets in FHA, and other matters.

Mr. Speaker, the conferees retained in the bill the House amendment which I authored in committee, and which was greatly improved from the contributions of Congressmen REUSS and BROCK, relating to low- and moderate-income housing within residential urban renewal projects. The amendment directs that a majority of the units in a community's residential urban renewal projects must be for low and moderate income families, with a 20-percent floor for low-income units. The only modification made in conference was to allow the Secretary some discretion on the 20-percent figure. Conferees had the one project community in mind, and the report makes clear that the Secretary is to file with Congress a report on each exception allowed.

In connection with section 412, it should be noted that existing moderate-income housing programs under State sponsorship, as in New York and New Jersey, will continue to qualify for inclusion in the aggregate number of units figure for units serving low and moderate income families, just as they qualified under the old section 105(f) which I authored in 1966. These programs are of considerable value in high cost metropolitan areas in conjunction with urban renewal.

The conference also retained, with two modifications, the income limitations placed on the 312 low-interest rehabilitation loan program. When I authored that program in 1964, it required applicants to show that they could not obtain loans from other sources on reasonable terms and conditions. The wording was changed by the other body in 1965 to read "comparable" instead of "reasonable," and as a result anyone of any income level could be assisted. This year the new change is for the better. Now that the Congress has authorized mortgages down to 1 percent interest, I would hope that the Department of Housing and Urban Development would make use of the flexibility built into the rehabilitation loan program in 1964 which allows interest rates below 3 percent at the discretion of the Secretary. Again, this would be an added tool in high cost areas, to aid those with lower incomes.

The reason the House conferees did not immediately sign the report of the managers after the conclusion of the conference was that we were greatly disturbed by the impact of the eligibility income limits which the conference set in title I of the bill, where we are attempting to establish homeownership for lower income families. These figures run to almost $11,000 in New York City, just below $10,000 in Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, Boston, Newark, and Milwaukee to cite a few examples. They are not as generous in Philadelphia and other places, but still well above the $6,000 figure cited so often in testimony by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development as the top range in which the new program would operate. Yet HUD has made representations to the effect that it must have these higher income limits to make the program work. At any rate with income limits like these, it hardly appears to be a program for lower income families.

I still support passage of the legislation, reassured by the statement in the conference report in relation to this problem which "directs the Secretary to the maximum extent practicable to use the authorized funds for the lowest income families for whom homeownership is practicable." Given that guidance I have high hopes that the goals of the original Percy-Widnall proposals will be gained.

With that in mind, and giving my personal assurance that I will do everything possible within reason to attain these goals, Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support the legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. WILLIAMS].

Mr. WILLIAMS of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that I agree with the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey when he states that there is much in this bill that is good. This is the reason that I voted for the original bill.

However, you will recall that we had a recommittal motion, and on that recommittal motion by an overwhelming vote we took out tenant services and interim aid to blighted areas, both of which are new programs and in my opinion of very questionable value.

Now, the conference put back in this bill for tenant services a total of $45 million for the next 2 years. The original figure was $60 million.

Under the tenant services are such things as counseling on household management, housekeeping, budgeting, money management and child care.

I want to tell the Members that almost every State welfare department, almost every municipal welfare department, and all Community Chest and United Front oriented organizations are supporting this sort of counseling all over this country right now for poor families.

Also in the other matter of interim assistance for blighted areas this was taken out of the House bill altogether, a brandnew program. This was put back in and, rather than the original $20 million, $15 million was put in.

Let me read to the Members just some of the things that this interim aid for blighted areas is to be used to repair: Streets, sidewalks, parks, playgrounds, public utilities, and public buildings.

And it goes on to include improvement of garbage and trash collection, street cleaning, and similar activities.

Every one of these activities today is a direct responsibility of local government.

If we are going to put $15 million in here, you are going to have the mayor of virtually every major city down here to get a grant for street cleaning or garbage or trash collection or fixing up their sidewalks and streets; $15 million will prove to be only a drop in the bucket.

Once these two programs get started, you can rest assured these appropriations will continue to increase rapidly every year.

On this interim aid for blighted areas for streets, sidewalks, and trash and garbage collection and street cleaning, if we start appropriating money for Federal grants for such purposes all we will be doing is paying a premium to poor and inefficient local government for their failure to do their job.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the defeat of this conference report.

Mr. BROWN of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WILLIAMS of Pennsylvania. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. BROWN of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, as a conferee on the House bill, I found it difficult to sustain the conference position insofar as tenant services and interim services are concerned.

I was one of those who opposed the motion to recommit—the motion to recommit having consisted of the interim services and tenant services provisions.

The House having worked its will in the motion to recommit, I felt as a conferee I was obligated to support the position of the House with respect to these two matters.

I am sorry that the other conferees on the part of the House did not feel so committed.

I may not concur with the rationale that the gentleman in the well has stated with respect to these two matters but I certainly concur with his position that the House position should have been sustained in conference.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Pennsylvania. I simply want to say this to you—if the other managers on the part of the House did not sustain the position of the House after the overwhelming recommittal vote which removed these two sections from the original bill, in my opinion, they were not doing the job as it should have been done.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WILLIAMS of Pennsylvania. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. GROSS. I want to join the gentleman in his protest to the adoption of this conference report because of the action of the conference committee in reinserting in the bill $45 million for tenant services and intertenant activities, as it is called.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. ROGERS.]

(Mr. ROGERS of Colorado asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROGERS of Colorado. Mr. Speaker, President Johnson, reporting to us on the state of the Union at the opening of this session, said:

> Surely a nation that can go to the moon can place a decent home within the reach of its families . . . We must make it possible for thousands of families to become homeowners, not rent-payers.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 opens new avenues for achieving homeownership for our lower income constituents, allowing them to cease being rentpayers and to invest that money in their own future.

As you know, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 contains many innovations that carry us forward in our pursuit of the national housing goal, "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family."

This bill enables a homeowner to apply his labor on that home as equity on it. It offers a man who is renting the chance to buy his home. Those who already own homes will be able to make necessary repairs and improvements. Owners and tenants of homes uninsurable because of physical hazards would become eligible for rehabilitation loans. Enactment of this bill affords the man who wants to help himself the opportunity to do so.

This legislation not only brings us closer to the national housing goal, but also contributes to the solution of other urban problems facing us. Low income residents in the area of a housing project will have the opportunity of employment on the project. Our older, declining areas will be revitalized, the tax base of local governments will be increased, individual living conditions will improve, tax-eaters will become taxpayers and the living environment of our cities will be enhanced.

The enactment of S. 3497 will prove to our needy constituents that this Congress is interested in them and willing to take the steps necessary to afford them the opportunities heretofore out of their reach.

At one time the moon was out of reach. This is no longer true. Now, with this bill, a decent home will be within the reach of every American family.

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. BROCK].

(Mr. BROCK asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BROCK. Mr. Speaker, I guess I should take this time to congratulate the majority conferees for a remarkably effective hatchet job on the amendments that was passed by this body. Virtually every one of them was stricken. I want to draw your attention to just a couple which are of concern, at least to me.

In the debate I pointed out that one area involved granting mortgage assistance to nursing homes and hospitals for the purchase of equipment. I pointed out that in most cases the equipment has a shorter life than the hospital, or the building itself, and I suggested that it might be worthy of your consideration that we have separate maturities, because the equipment was not a satisfactory guarantee for the mortgage after it had exhausted its useful life.

That amendment was agreed to by the House majority and the minority leaders, and yet we see the conference rejecting an obviously intelligent approach to financing. I cannot imagine why.

But I look through the conference report and I note repeated examples of this. In most instances you bought the Senate provisions, with very few exceptions—excepting the Anderson amendment. Even there you raised it to 135 percent. Then you still exclude 20 percent from that. So Mr. Weaver can continue his assistance programs to moderate and upper income families in order that, statistically, he can come back to the Ameriacn people and say, "Look what a good job I have done despite the obvious inadequacies and failures of a miserably mismanaged program." And the House plays the game—allows him to continue this sort of thing.

The minority in its effort to amend this bill made an effort to be responsible. We made an effort to improve the bill, particularly on the motion to recommit. We could have offered a motion to recommit striking the whole billion dollars for these demonstration cities, and with the mood of the House on that particular day I believe that we would have passed that motion. But, no, we limited ourselves to a sincere effort to improve. We expected some support of the House position from the Members of the House who attended the conference. This we did not receive, except from a few Members of the minority.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BROCK. I yield to the gentleman from Virginia.

Mr. SCOTT. Could the gentleman tell me just how, moneywise in total funds, this report differs from the bill as it passed the House? Is it more overall money, or how does it compare?

Mr. BROCK. It is considerably more, but I cannot give the gentleman an honest figure, because I do not have it, and I am not sure that it is available. I will state that it is in excess of $400 million.

Mr. Speaker, I ask the defeat of this conference report.

Mr. LLOYD. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BROCK. I yield to the gentleman from Utah.

Mr. LLOYD. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I note in the conference report under title IV, Guarantees for Financing New Community Land Development, which begins on page 42, there is authorization for the sum of $250 million, and that is on page 45.

Mr. BROCK. That is correct.

Mr. LLOYD. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know whether that is also a new title that was not included in the House bill as it was passed?

Mr. BROCK. Yes, it is entirely new.

Mr. LLOYD. Mr. Speaker, perhaps we will have an explanation as this debate continues as to the action of the conferees in accepting that new title.

Mr. Speaker, this conference report brings to us legislation which is far different than the legislation passed by this House. I am particularly concerned about title IV, which authorizes a completely new program of guarantees in the financing of new towns. This provision was stricken in the House Banking and Currency Committee and attempts to restore it on the House floor were defeated. As originally conceived by the administration, there was an authorization in excess of half-a-billion dollars. As now accepted by the conferees the figure has been reduced to $250 million but it is obvious that we are incurring vast new debts in a time when we can least afford this blow at our fiscal ability.

In addition the conferees have accepted the reinstatement of the tenant services provision with a price tag of $20 million. I feel very sure that the American taxpayer would look upon us today almost unbelievably as it occurred to him that we were authorizing this type of new expenditure.

I voted for this legislation when it was before the House with these and other newly added provisions deleted. There are many provisions of this bill which should be enacted, and I am confident that if we refuse to accept this conference report today we will receive back a bill which we can again approve. In its present form, however, I must register my strong protest and negative vote.

Mr. BROCK. They simply washed out the action of the House in striking provisions like that.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. ASHLEY].

Mr. ASHLEY. Mr. Speaker, in response to the question the gentleman just propounded as to how the new community section found its way into the conference report, of course it is entirely true that the House bill did not contain this provision. It is just as true and just as apparent that the other body, after due consideration in committee and on the floor, wrote it into their Senate bill. In conference the matter was discussed and deliberated at considerable length, and, upon the basis of the merits of the argument, the House conferees acceded to the Senate conferees. There is nothing very new, startling, or alarming about this procedure.

Mr. BROCK. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ASHLEY. I yield to the gentleman from Tennessee.

Mr. BROCK. Mr. Speaker, on some 40 to 50 areas of substantive disagreement, can the gentleman name me more than two in which the House did not accept the Senate version?

Mr. ASHLEY. That is indeed possible. The House receded on 57.

Mr. BROCK. Fifty-seven. I was understating the case. I am sorry. The Senate receded on language, we receded on substance.

Mr. ASHLEY. And the Senate receded on 102 items.

Mr. BROWN of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ASHLEY. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. BROWN of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I commend the gentleman from Tennessee, however, for his efforts in the House in restoring the 25 percent of income figure to the rent supplement program. In the House the percentage had been reduced to 20 percent. In conference we were able to accept the Senate provision which put it back up to 25 percent.

Mr. BROCK. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ANDERSON].

(Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I want to take this brief opportunity to commend the House conferees for insisting on an income formula for eligibility for the new housing programs which bear a striking resemblance to the formula which I had the privilege of offering to the House and which was approved by a substantial majority.

However, more significant than the formula itself is the decision by the Congress in approving this conference report to withdraw—or perhaps "retreat" is a better word—from the middle- or moderate-income orientation which has characterized the section 221(d)(3) program.

In 1961 Congress enacted the section 221(d)(3) program as one for moderate-income families, families ranging far beyond the national median income. It was a program which held out a false hope to more than 70 percent of American families that they too were entitled to some housing subsidy.

The new programs in the housing bill are substitutes for section 221(d)(3). The record is clear that their enactment means a phasing out of the 221(d)(3) program. However, what is more significant is that the beneficiaries of the two new programs are to be within income ranges substantially below those for the section 221(d)(3) program. In other words, this conference report is a move away from the moderate-income subsidy concept and toward helping those families of lower income.

I have taken a random sampling of 18 cities and note that the conference report reduces the income ceilings from that recommended by the administration by as much as $2,950 in Washington, D.C. In most other ctiies the reduction varies from $1,100 to $2,600, and in only one instance was the reduction less than $500, and this was in my home community of Rockford—a reduction of $40. I find it difficult to believe that this change in the formula would, for example, involve a reduction in income level eligibility in Milwaukee of $1,180, in Cleveland of $2,060, in St. Louis of $1,150, and in Rockford of only $40. Certainly, this bookkeeping could not be the result of any special consideration which the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development entertains for me and my congressional district.

Perhaps the Secretary is trying to tell me that public housing in Rockford, Ill., unike most other cities, does not serve the poor and therefore the formula in the conference report is almost equal to the section 221(d)(3) limits. If this be the case then the Secretary, rather than needling me with this anamoly, should concern himself with the poor in Rockford and discover why the income limits for admission and continued occupancy in public housing in Rockford are higher than other cities of comparable size in Illinois and throughout the country.

I believe the Department of Housing and Urban Development should make available the income limits for admission to public housing and section 221(d)(3) projects before or during congressional committee consideration of housing legislation. For example, the new limits for section 221(d)(3) were made available upon the eve of conference consideration of the housing bill. On Thursday, July 18, I requested by telephone, of the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Housing Assistance and Renewal, a copy of the new limits for admission to public housing. I thought perhaps that these admission ceilings had been raised and that I was using obsolete figures bearing a 1966 date. Instead of complying with my request, a messenger from the Department gave me a comparison of the income limits based on the various proposed formulae under consideration by the conferees. Fortunately, I have a rudimentary knowledge of algebra and was able to compute the income admission figures which I desired. But I though it highly significant that HUD did not have available for a Member of Congress the current admission figures for public housing at a time when the Congress was considering housing legislation geared to public housing admission levels.

I believe that the Secretary owes a greater obligation to the Congress than he displayed in his approach to congressional consideration of this bill. After all, it was the Secretary himself who, in his testimony before the House Housing Subcommittee—pages 184 and 185 of the hearings—said that in defining "low and moderate income families"—the beneficiaries of these new programs, he was talking about a range, and I quote—"from $3,000 to $5,000 or $6,000 a year." Subsequently, he admitted that the upper level would be around $7,000.

Even the tables submitted for the record revealed examples of $3,000 to $6,000 a year. However, I cannot reconcile this apparent dedication to the poor with the efforts of the administration to raise these income levels to section 221(d)(3) limits which are predominantly in the $7,000 and $8,000 brackets.

I hope that the Secretary in his implementation of these new programs will make meaningful his own assurances that the beneficiaries of these programs will be in the $3,000 to $7,000 income range.

I congratulate the conferees for their rejection of the administration's request, and for their decision to redirect housing subsidies to families of lower income.

Mr. BROCK. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. I am glad to yield to the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. BROCK].

Mr. BROCK. I want to endorse the gentleman's remarks, and to compliment him for them.

I also want to point out to the Members of the House, had it not been for the efforts of the gentleman from Illinois we would not have income limitations in this bill. We would not have this program focused on the low-income families otherwise, because the Department of Housing and Urban Development simply refused to do it.

I compliment the gentleman for helping to provide better legislation. He has made a major and significant improvement.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. I appreciate very much the gracious remarks of the gentleman from Tennessee.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to include with my remarks a table of income eligibility levels which shows the differences between the limitations that existed under the formula which I proposed in my amendment and the formula now brought back in the form of this conference report.

Very quickly I point out that under the original amendment the income eligibility level was $9,867, for example, for the city of Chicago, and under the conference report provisions it would be $9,810.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MATSUNAGA). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

The table is as follows:

INCOME ELIGIBILITY LEVELS (FAMILY OF 5)

City and State	90 percent of 221(d)(3)	70 percent of 221(d)(3)	90 percent of 221(d)(3) plus 3 minors	Full 221(d)(3)	Public housing admission limits	135 percent of public housing admission limits	135 percent of public housing admission limits plus 3 minors	130 percent of public housing continued occupancy

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. BLACKBURN].

Mr. BLACKBURN. Mr. Speaker, I voted for the bill when we voted on it previously, when it was under consideration by the House. I must confess at this juncture I am going to be compelled to vote against it.

I want to make an observation regarding these numbers which are thrown around about our conceding on 57 points and the Senate conceding on 102 points. Those do not mean a thing to me.

Apparently most of the concessions dealt with the definition terms. The concessions by the Senate dealt with definition terms, but on the "gut" concessions, as to those dealing with authorizations which can go on for the next 50 or 100 years, we conceded.

We conceded on the development of a new program involving $15 million a year for an indefinite period. Apparently it is now limited to 3 years, but we know how these programs go on.

Once they get started they never get off. We can see a new community action program has started off with a $200 million authorization, and heaven knows how many years this sort of program can go on.

Mr. Speaker, I support those who would vote against this conference report.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would ask if the gentleman from New Jersey will use his time, because we have only one other speaker.

Mr. WIDNALL. That may be so, but you have 20 minutes of time left.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I insist.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from New Jersey care to yield time to anyone?

Does the gentleman from Texas?

Mr. PATMAN. After the minority finishes their time.

Mr. COLLIER. Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman withhold his point of order for a moment?

Mr. COLLIER. I will withhold my point of order, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Kansas [Mr. WINN].

Mr. WINN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding to me.

I only wish to point out that I deeply regret that in title V, under urban renewal, the conference committee did not see fit to retain the House amendment which permitted urban renewal project payment of unreduced value upon the acquisition of property where damage has occurred by limestone quarry subsidence as was passed in the same instance for coal mines in the 89th Congress.

The report says on page 157 that there was no similar provision in the Senate bill, and obviously none is contained in the conference report. I only hope that in the future the conference committee might be able to retain such amendments and without getting public letters from HUD against such constructive amendments.

I would hope the people of the Hilltop area of Kansas City, Kans., will not only continue to be patient with the slow wheels of Federal legislation, but would also look to the State and city for immediate relief.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. REUSS].

Mr. REUSS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished chairman, and I now yield for a question from the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. MACHEN].

Mr. MACHEN. I thank the gentleman for yielding. I was disappointed in reading this conference committee report to find that my amendment accepted by the House dealing with a mandatory provision requiring the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to notify local political subdivisions in certifying financing under 221(d)(3) was eliminated; and thus not be able to ascertain that local services such as schools, roads, and recreational areas were adequate to serve such proposed projects. Even though they say that the program might begin to be phased out, why could not this amendment have been accepted?

Mr. REUSS. I will be glad to explain to the gentleman. The other body's confereees were adamant on this point because of their feeling that the House language was insufficiently flexible. Your House conferees did stand fast but were ultimately not able to prevail. However, it is the intention of the conferees, despite the absence from the legislation of this provision that the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development would be expected as a matter of good administration in each case under 221(d)(3) to ascertain and verify that local public services, such as schools, utilities, and so on, would be available so that the project's impact would not be an improper one, and further that it be congruent with the locally adopted master plan. So we would expect that the Secretary in the exercise of good administration would achieve substantially what the gentleman from Maryland had in mind when he introduced his amendment.

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished minority leader, the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. GERALD R. FORD].

(Mr. GERALD R. FORD asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, when this measure was before the House I supported it. I recognized even in its final House version that it was not perfect legislation. However, it was materially improved by the Anderson amendment which placed income limitations upon a very vital and, in my opinion, a very good program so that that particular portion of the bill now ends up as a program to help the poor. The House committee bill, until improved by the Anderson amendment, was too broad in that it would have provided substantial subsidy for middle-income housing.

Mr. Speaker, I was glad to support the measure in the House because of the motion to recommit which eliminated the interim services and the tenant services provision.

Also, I thought that the insurance provisions for riot and flood insurance had been carefully worked out and would provide a reasonable limitation on the Federal Government obligation and at the same time get both programs underway.

I was also glad to have included the provision involving FHA financing for hospitals, which is a breakthrough, I think, in a very important area.

I must say, however, that I am disappointed in the action of the conferees in capitulating on the interim services and on the tenant services provisions of the bill. The will of the House was not really respected in those areas, and in addition the flood and riot insurance limitations were increased, I think, unnecessarily.

Furthermore, the new-town program which was not recommended by the House committee and not included in the House version now appears in the conference report. I am opposed to that program.

Mr. Speaker, I must agree with the gentleman from Georgia who put it quite bluntly that the House conferees, although they receded in a fewer number of areas, receded in those areas which were of substance and they prevailed for the House in those areas which were really not very meaningful.

Mr. Speaker, if this conference report is approved, and I suspect it will be under these parliamentary circumstances, I think we should put on notice those who did capitulate on the interim services and the tenant services that when the appropriation bill for the funding of those programs comes to the floor of the House for consideration we will do everything we possibly can to prevent any funding whatsoever for those programs. Mr. Speaker, I say this because I do not think those programs under our current fiscal situation ought to be included in this bill or in any subsequent appropriation bill. We will also oppose the funding of other programs not included in the House version. This is the only way under this parliamentary situation that we can continue to indicate our opposition to these unwarranted programs. This is a responsible position for those who supported the House bill but who oppose certain provisions in the conference report.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. ASHLEY], a member of the committee, in order that he may respond to questions propounded by the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. TAFT] concerning new communities.

(Mr. ASHLEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TAFT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ASHLEY. I shall be pleased to yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

(Mr. TAFT asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TAFT. I thank the gentleman for yielding to me at this time for the purpose of propounding certain questions with reference to the conference report.

Mr. Speaker, the reason that I am here is because I feel there are questions to be asked about the new communities program that have never been discussed in the House of Representatives committee report or on the floor of the House which I think ought to be brought up at this time.

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me upon a quick review of the program that there is a real danger here that while the bill is directed toward the development of areas trying to help those who need housing in this country, it may be a means of providing an excuse of running away from solving the problem of housing, particularly with reference to the problems we have in the large cities of our country and in the congested areas of our country.

I notice in the description of title IV that it seems to go only to guarantees as to land values concerning which it would be only a small part in the investment in any new towns. It seems to me, therefore, that the developers of these towns are going to tend to go again, as they have in many of the housing programs, toward moderately high income levels, and there may necessarily be a de facto segregation involved in the new community concept.

I would like to know what assurances there are that this will not occur, and what justification there is for going ahead with a program that, rather than solving the problem of the ghettos where they need to be solved, is taking them out of there into the newly developed areas away from the problems that exist.

Mr. ASHLEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TAFT. I yield to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. ASHLEY. Mr. Speaker, the whole approach, let me say to my colleague from Ohio, with regard to the new communities setup is based upon recognition of the fact that there are great difficulties with regard to the central city housing, so that we have greater and greater densities and more and more human beings being concentrated within the same given section in every large city in the United States.

The only hope that we have of solving our housing problems is, first of all, to renovate and make more livable the shelters within our central cities on the one hand, and at the same time to find new locations, new towns, existing towns, perhaps, in some instances, but new towns in others, that can serve as a relocation center for these desperately increasing densities within our cities at this time.

Mr. TAFT. May I say to the gentleman, that if from these apparently dense areas in the cities the people are going to move into the new towns, is there financing in this bill or contemplated to make it possible for those in the lowest economic strata who, unfortunately, find themselves in these conditions, to move to the new towns.

Mr. ASHLEY. That is exactly what we are saying.

Mr. TAFT. How is that going to be implemented, is what I would like to find out.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. MATSUNAGA). The time of the gentleman from Ohio has again expired.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 additional minute to the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. ASHLEY. I will point out to the gentleman from Ohio that on page 43 of the conference report it is made clear that in approval for the guaranteeing of these debentures by FHA that it must include a proper balance in the new communities of housing for families of low and moderate incomes.

Mr. TAFT. What is the proper balance? Is this 20 percent? 30 percent? Why should we help those who do not need help at all when we can help those who need help 100 percent, not 30 or 40 or 50 percent?

Mr. ASHLEY. I do not quite understand the point the gentleman is driving at.

What the conference report makes absolutely clear is that we are not going to be creating new lily-white suburbs at all, but that the condition of approval is that families of lower income, to use the phrase of the gentleman from Illinois, must be taken into consideration at the same time.

The SPEAKER pre tempore. The time of the gentleman has again expired.

Mrs. SULLIVAN. Mr. Speaker, I want to express my support for the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968. This is without doubt the most significant housing legislation the Congress has passed in many years. Its many significant provisions, if adequate appropriations are provided, will make it possible to make a real start toward the elimination of substandard housing and living conditions in America.

I am particularly pleased by the heavy emphasis this legislation places on providing homeownership for families of low and moderate income. I strongly believe that no American family should be denied the right to the security, independence, privacy, and pride which homeownership can provide. The circumstance of low income should not be permitted to frustrate legitimate aspirations of responsible people to own their own homes.

I know from personal experience that there are thousands of responsible lower income families who can and will achieve homeownership if the opportunity is provided to them. I know that the responsibilities and opportunities of homeownership can give hope and purpose to these families. Not only will homeownership strengthen these low income families, it will add stability to the fabric of our urban society.

Two years ago, I introduced an amendment to the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1966 to authorize FHA insured below market interest rate loans to assist nonprofit groups to rehabilitate slum dwellings and then to sell them to low-income families, with the below market interest rate loan going to the families to make it possible for them to own the rehabilitated dwellings. This amendment was passed by the Congress and became the section 221(h) homeownership program.

This was the first program ever passed by the Congress to make low interest rate loans available to assist low income families to become homeowners. This program received unusually quick and widespread response from private nonprofit groups all over the country. The group which pioneered in this significant and worthwhile development, and the one which received the first commitment for mortgage financing under section 221(h), was the Bicentennial Civic Improvement Association in my own city of St. Louis. Now there are 192 homeownership projects in 60 cities being financed under section 221(h).

I feel sure the legislation now under consideration, building on the successful experience under section 221(h), will make it possible for thousands of American families of low income to realize their dreams of homeownership.

Mr. Speaker, I must forgo a vote on this conference report this afternoon in order to catch a plane for St. Louis where I have a business engagement of long standing. Were I here, I would vote "yea" for the passage of this legislation.

Mr. BARRETT. Mr. Speaker, our action today on the housing bill is one of the most important actions to be taken in the 90th Congress and approval of the report will mark this Congress as one of historic importance in our efforts to eliminate slums, improve our cities, and help low-income families to obtain decent housing. Among the many new approaches to our housing and other urban problems, the greatest breakthrough in my judgment, is the aid that this bill offers for homeownership. Past housing legislation has provided vitally important assistance through public housing and through assistance for nonprofit rental housing, but our first step toward making homeownership possible for lower income families was pioneered by our distinguished colleague the gentlewoman from Missouri [Mrs. SULLIVAN], through low-interest loans to low-income families to enable them to afford homeownership. The conference report now before the House provides a greatly expanded approach to homeownership through interest subsidies which can reduce the effective rate to as low as 1 percent. These subsidies will help as many as one-half million families to become homeowners over the 2-year period covered by the bill.

A similar interest subsidy approach is also provided for rental and cooperative housing and again can reduce the cost of financing such housing to as low as 1 percent. Because the interest subsidy approach has a minimal impact on the Federal budget, since the financing is provided by private lenders, we can greatly accelerate our production of new housing to meet the needs of lower income families.

President Johnson has announced a 10-year goal of eliminating substandard housing and this goal is reaffirmed in the conference report. To do this will require a major increase in both new construction and the rate at which we are rehabiltating our existing housing supply.

The 3-year program provided in this bill will set us on course to meet that objective. In addition to the interest subsidy programs it would authorize increased funds for urban renewal together with the requirement that a majority of the housing units built in residential projects must be for low- and moderate-income families.

The conference report also authorizes the appropriation of an additional $1 billion for the model cities program which holds great promise for not only physically restoring blighted areas of our cities but also offers the people who live there a wide range of assistance. Further aid for rehabilitating our present housing supply would be provided through improvements to the present loan and grant programs. This legislation would make them available in areas not now covered and the rehabilitation grant to a homeowner would be increased from the present limit of $1,500 to $3,000.

Mr. Speaker, the conferees have worked long and hard on this legislation and I believe have made decisions which should be very favorably received in the House. All of the conferees were cooperative and constructive and I particularly want to thank the distinguished ranking minority member on our committee, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. WIDNALL], and his colleagues, the gentlewoman from New Jersey [Mrs. DWYER] and the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. GARRY BROWN, for their effort in fashioning the original legislation and this conference report.

Mr. Speaker, the desperate needs of our cities have resulted in turmoil throughout the country and it is imperative that we answer these pleas with the kind of solid and substantial assistance this bill will provide. The housing bill was approved by the House earlier this month by a very substantial majority and I hope that the margin of approval of the conference report will be even larger.

Mr. ST GERMAIN. Mr. Speaker, the conference report on the Housing and Urban Development bill, now before the House, would authorize many important new programs as well as improving our existing programs. I want to cite one new program which I believe to be of particular importance and which I have been closely associated with. This is the title which at long last will create a workable program of flood insurance. Tremendous destruction has been wrought in our country every year by flooding and the losses are appallingly high. In fact, they are so high that the private insurance industry has been unable to provide protection to property owners from this hazard. As long ago as 1956, a flood insurance program was enacted but it did not prove workable and has never gone into effect. Now in this bill we have worked out these problems and will create a program which has wholehearted endorsement by the insurance industry.

The question is not whether or not to accept this new insurance program or to avoid cost to the Government altogether since disaster relief entails a heavy cost. In my judgment, this is a much better approach to the problem because it assures the property owner of a prompt and known payment when disaster strikes. Also the bill is designed to encourage wiser use of land in flood-prone areas through protective zoning. I would like to point out that there is no conflict between this insurance program and the need for flood control works since it is still our aim to avoid the destruction of floods and there will be no letup in Federal aid for this purpose.

I share with a number of Members of this body a first-hand experience in the anguish and despair caused by disastrous flooding. As recently as March of this year flooding along the Blackstone River Valley caused more than $1 million in property losses for residents of the First Congressional District of Rhode Island which I represent.

In other years this district has also suffered severe and uninsured flood losses. In 1955, in my hometown of Woonsocket, Hurricane Diane caused flooding up to the level of the street lights in some areas. This one storm caused more than $38 million in property losses for the State of Rhode Island. I know the vital need for flood insurance and I support this program to make it available.

Under this cooperative Government-private industry approach the resources of the insurance companies, agents and brokers would be utilized to sell and service flood insurance coverage for homes and small businesses. In order to make coverage economically feasible for owners of existing properties which are located in identified flood-prone areas, the program permits insurance to be made at reasonable rates which in most cases would be lower than actuarial rates.

Under this legislation the Federal Government would provide for full industry participation in the flood insurance program on a feasible risk-sharing basis by providing for premium equalization payments reflecting the difference between actuarial and reasonable rates for existing properties and by assuming liability for a share of any catastrophic flood losses incurred under flood insurance policies.

Ratemaking data for flood insurance have already been collected for 42 areas and, as soon as the program goes into effect, additional areas will be studied as quickly as possible. Coverage will be made available in each area as soon as feasible after the necessary flood data have been collected. I understand that following enactment of this legislation the Department of Housing and Urban Development will undertake these studies in a number of additional areas so that flood insurance will be available at the earliest practicable date.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to mention another part of the bill in which I have a strong interest. The conference report will improve the benefits of the rehabilitation loan and grant programs by making them available in areas not now eligible. Also, the maximum rehabilitation grant to homeowners is doubled in this legislation from the present $1,500 to $3,000. These provisions will go far to help us make the best use of our existing housing supply to meet our housing needs.

Mr. Speaker, I have mentioned only two facets of the conference report which contains many more needed and constructive provisions. Taken as a whole, this bill will make a major contribution toward improving our cities and providing decent housing for all Americans. I strongly urge its adoption.

Mr. KARTH. Mr. Speaker, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 caps the administration's broad effort to build a better America. It is indeed the "charter of renewed hope for the American city" which President Johnson called his urban program when it went up to Congress.

In detailing that program, the President said:

> If our cities are to be saved from the blight of obsolescence and despair, we must now firmly set the course that America will travel. There is no time to lose.

The housing bill provides the assistance our cities need for their task of rebuilding, replenishing, and revitalizing the Nation's housing and public facilities. It establishes a top priority on help for the poor through expanded job opportunities as well as improved housing.

The bill furthers this administration's pledge to end the paradox of squalor in the midst of affluence. The administration has acted on that pledge by—

Its pursuit and persistence in getting medical care for everybody over 65;

Advocating and getting needed aid for schooling of children from poor families;

Declaring war on poverty and developing a broad-gauged program for attacking it;

Giving the Nation a fundamental package of protective legislation so that all Americans could enjoy equally the full range of their civil rights;

Persisting until we now have a fair housing law;

Bringing private enterprise, with its powerful resources, into the development of housing for markets unreached before; and Bringing opportunity for homeownership to our low-income families.

This bill, with its explicit goals of conserving and expanding the housing supply for low- and moderate-income families, encouraging new enterprise that produces jobs and houses, and giving quick, tangible, visible help to areas with the most critical and urgent needs—puts a new face on our national programs and helps to build an urban world sufficient to the needs of all Americans.

Mr. WOLFF. Mr. Speaker, the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 is another strong link in the chain which has been forged by the administration of President Johnson to improve the human and physical conditions in our cities.

In recent years, this administration has led the way in providing the means with which to cope with the problems of the cities and the suburbs and their people.

The remarkable record of achievement includes among others:

The Civil Rights Acts of the past 4 years which will result in the elimination of discrimination in job opportunities, in public accommodations, housing and voting.

The provision of job training for several million disadvantaged men and women to make them able to support themselves in dignity and self-respect.

The various education acts which extend the opportunities for millions of children throughout the Nation.

The provision of health care to the elderly and to the poor through medicare and medicaid.

The various measures designed to combat the perils of pollution of the air and of the water.

The Economic Opportunity Acts which helped many millions of Americans to begin their climb out of abject poverty and despair.

The various housing measures which during the past 4 years resulted in the establishment of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, in the creation of the rent supplements program to increase the supply of housing for needy families, in the inauguration of the model cities program, the innovative program which focuses the entire complement of programs onto a poor neighborhood to restore it to a livable community.

The bill before us today adds another large measure of help—a large measure of opportunity for people to help themselves and others—to make our cities and suburbs better places in which to live, in which to work, in which to rear a family.

In general this Housing and Urban Development Act will increase the number of units which can be started under the low-rent public housing program for those who need Federal assistance to obtain decent housing.

This act will continue the effort to restore the core of our center cities and to improve the lives of those who live there through the model cities program.

This act will bring the talents and energies of private enterprise to the task of housing low-income families through the creation of an effective partnership between the Government and business.

This act will augment the existing urban renewal program and provide a new approach to the program to help cities restore and renew dying portions of the community.

The act will help cities develop modern and efficient mass transit systems and services.

The act provides for a program of helping to develop new communities to accommodate urban growth and to improve the planning for the orderly development of public facilities.

All in all, this omnibus housing bill provides the vehicle by which cities and suburbs can help themselves meet many of the current problems and by which millions of Americans can be helped to become homeowners or tenants in decent housing.

While we might have been able to do more in this area; we certainly cannot do less. I am happy to vote for the enactment of this bill.

Mr. ROONEY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I speak in support of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, a bill which provides badly needed homes for millions of America's ill housed. This bill not only enables families to own homes and rent apartments that they would otherwise be unable to afford, but it also provides for building of new housing as well as renovating existing structures. Furthermore, our cities are to be revitalized through various programs ranging from mass transportation to providing essential public facilities. These are essential if our cities are to continue to be viable places for our people to live.

The most essential features are those which deal with new ways to meet the housing needs of today's lower income families. The Federal Government would in effect, subsidize their mortgages by paying interest supplements to the mortgagors. Furthermore, already existing programs such as the turnkey and rent supplement programs are being expanded to meet the ever-increasing demands for better and more readily available housing. The rent supplement program is of special interest—it encourages privately built, financed, and owned housing. Strongly endorsed by private industry, it is already well underway. However, the program has been grossly underfunded. If it is to provide the additional 375,000 rent units proposed for the next 5-year period, additional funds of $40 million for 1970 and amounts of $100 million in each fiscal year of 1970 and 1971 must be made available.

Like rent supplements, the model cities program is well underway, but in order to achieve the goals that have been set for the program and maintain our commitment to the cities involved, additional sums of money must be available. This is a highly innovative program covering the broad social, economic, and physical problems of our cities. It also provides for a concentrated approach to these problems. It offers the communities, an opportunity to establish their own priorities, provide their own solutions, and develop new methods of approaching the problems facing them. By 1970 we will have 130 to 140 communities involved in the program. The communities involved range from whole towns to specific areas of larger cities. One billion dollars is required for supplemental grants for 1970 and for 1971. As of today, only the planning stage has been funded. If we are to insure the cooperation and support of these communities we must reassure them of our continuing commitment by funding the rest of the program.

I urge your support of this bill which is essential not only to the future growth of our cities, but more importantly to the physical and social well-being of millions of American families.

GENERAL LEAVE TO EXTEND

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to extend their remarks on this conference report on S. 3497 and include any relevant extraneous matter.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question on the conference report.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the conference report.

Mr. WIDNALL. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 227, nays 135, not voting 70, as follows:

FURTHER MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A further message from the Senate by Mr. Arrington, one of its clerks, announced that the Senate had passed without amendment a joint resolution of the House of the following title:

H.J. Res. 1420. Joint resolution making continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1969, and for other purposes.

The message also announced that the Senate agrees to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 16913) entitled "An act making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture and related agencies for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and for other purposes."

The message also announced that the Senate agrees to the amendments of the House to the amendments of the Senate numbered 14, 19, 24, 25, and 40 to the foregoing.

POPULAR ELECTION OF GOVERNOR OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

Mr. ASPINALL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's desk the bill (S. 450) to provide for the popular election of the Governor of the Virgin Islands, and for other purposes, with a Senate amendment to the House amendment thereto, and concur in the Senate amendment to the House amendment.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The Clerk read the Senate amendment to the House amendment, as follows:

Page 13, of the House engrossed amendment, strike out lines 18 to 22, inclusive, and insert:

"The following provisions of and amendments to the Constitution of the United States are hereby extended to the Virgin Islands to the extent that they have not been previously extended to that territory and shall have the same force and effect there as in the United States or in any State of the United States: article I, section 9, clauses 2 and 3; article IV, section 1 and section 2, clause 1; the first to ninth amendments inclusive; the thirteenth amendment; the second sentence of section 1 of the fourteenth amendment; and the fifteenth and nineteenth amendments: Provided, however, That all offenses shall continue to be prosecuted in the district court by information as heretofore, except such as may be required by local law to be prosecuted by indictment by grand jury.

"All laws enacted by Congress with respect to the Virgin Islands and all laws enacted by the territorial legislature of the Virgin Islands which are inconsistent with the provisions of this subsection are repealed to the extent of such inconsistency."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

Mr. MORTON. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, and I will not object, but I would like to take this time to ask the distinguished chairman of the full Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs if the amendment that was added to this bill in the Senate is germane to the bill as passed by the House?

Mr. ASPINALL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MORTON. I yield to the gentleman from Colorado.

Mr. ASPINALL. Mr. Speaker, S. 450 provides for the popular election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of the Virgin Islands, revises the present law relating to the appointment, tenure, and duties of the Government comptroller, and for other purposes.

This legislation also passed the House on June 17, 1968, with an amendment striking all after the enacting clause and inserting the House amendment. The other body has agreed to the House amendment with an amendment which extends to the Virgin Islands certain provisions of the U.S. Constitution not now applicable in the Virgin Islands.

These provisions are similar to those just enumerated in the bill providing for the popular election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of Guam, with the exception that all offenses in the Virgin Islands shall continue to be prosecuted in the district court by information, except where required by local law to be prosecuted by indictment of the grand jury.

Mr. Speaker, the amendment adopted by the other body improves the legislation and resolves technical questions raised by the House language.

I ask unanimous consent that the House agree to the amendment of the other body.

Mr. MORTON. Is this a modification of the amendment that was offered by the gentlewoman from Hawaii [Mrs. MINK] dealing with the constitutional rights of the people in the islands?

Mr. ASPINALL. If the gentleman will yield further, the gentleman is correct, and the words are satisfactory to the sponsor, Mrs. MINK.

Mr. MORTON. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

Mr. CAREY. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, and I shall not object, I just wish to take this brief moment to commend the ranking minority member of the subcommittee which produced this legislation permitting election of the Governorship in the Virgin Islands and soon in Guam—also to point out that I believe all Americans should take note of this hour in which, from one end of our country to the other, that people can participate to a greater degree in the electoral process.

We owe this to the bipartisan nature of the sponsorship of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection.

(Mr. ASPINALL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

The Senate amendment to the House amendment was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

CORRECTION OF VOTE

Mr. SAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, on rollcall No. 287 I am recorded as not voting. I was present and voted "yea." I ask unanimous consent that the permanent RECORD be corrected accordingly.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON S. 3418, FEDERAL-AID HIGHWAY ACT OF 1968

Mr. FALLON. Mr. Speaker, I call up the conference report on the bill (S. 3418) to authorize appropriations for the fiscal years 1970 and 1971 for the construction of certain highways in accordance with title 23 of the United States Code, and for other purposes, and ask unanimous consent that the statement of the managers on the part of the House be read in lieu of the report.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Maryland?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the statement.

(For conference report and statement, see proceedings of the House of July 25, 1968.)

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Maryland is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. FALLON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may require.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report which is before the House at the present time is on a bill which the subcommittee on roads of the Committee on Public Works has worked for many months and which was brought to the floor of the House and passed unanimously without a record vote.

The conferees on the part of the House have been with the conferees from the other body for 2 weeks and I think we have brought out one of the finest road construction programs that we have ever been able to present.

Mr. Speaker, I commend the conferees on the minority side, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. CRAMER], the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. HARSHA], and the gentleman from California [Mr. DON H. CLAUSEN], as well as the chairman of our subcommittee, the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. KLUCZYNSKI], the gentleman from Texas [Mr. WRIGHT], and the gentleman from Oklahoma [Mr. EDMONDSON].

Mr. Speaker, I believe we are presenting to you a bill that is not only a workable bill but one which will go a long way toward relieving the congestion in traffic that exists today and promote safety on the highways as well as helping to build up the economy of this country, which is so important and vital to the future of America.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to present to this Congress the unanimous conference report on behalf of the members of the House conferees on S. 3418, the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968. This legislation continues our great Federal aid highway program, and is, in my opinion, the most important piece of legislation covering the highway program to be reported to this body since the passage of the historic 1956 act. After 2 weeks of meetings with the Senate conferees and after great give and take, I believe the conferees on the part of the House have upheld the House position and are bringing to the House today a fine highway program for the benefit of all Americans. The legislation before you continues the authorization for the Interstate System through and including 1974. It increases the authorization for the ABC program, one of our most needed highway programs for the fiscal years 1970 and 1971 to $1.1 billion. It continues in existence at a proper fiscal level the many other necessary highway programs covered by title 23 of the United States Code. It continues on a proper financial level, due to the existing circumstances of the economy, the highway beautification program, with an overall appropriation of $25 million for the fiscal year 1970. It brings into being two needed programs for the development and increased efficiency of our urban highways, the so-called Topics program and the fringe parking program. I would emphasize once again the importance of the safety program, and there is proper funding in that program for that legislation. We also think we have taken care of the problems relating to parklands, the District of Columbia highway program, and other features such as bridge inspection, prevailing rate of wage, the Davis-Bacon section, advance acquisition of rights-of-way. One of the most important programs contained in this legislation is a meaningful relocation program, one that is essential for proper highway development and one which will take care of individuals, businesses, or organizations which are forced to relocate because of highway construction. Proper compensation is afforded to these groups under the terms of the relocation section in this report.

This is a fine conference report. This is good legislation and I recommend its adoption by the House.

Under leave to extend my remarks, I include for the benefit of the Members a breakdown by State of the apportionment each State will receive under S. 3418 covering the interstate program, the ABC program, the Topics program, and the additional special funding for the primary and secondary highways in rural areas:

Public Law 90-448
90th Congress, S. 3497
August 1, 1968

An Act

82 STAT. 476

To assist in the provision of housing for low and moderate income families, and to extend and amend laws relating to housing and urban development.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled. That this Act may be cited as the "Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968". Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968.

DECLARATION OF POLICY

SEC. 2. The Congress affirms the national goal, as set forth in section 2 of the Housing Act of 1949, of "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family". 63 Stat. 413. 42 USC 1441.

The Congress finds that this goal has not been fully realized for many of the Nation's lower income families; that this is a matter of grave national concern; and that there exist in the public and private sectors of the economy the resources and capabilities necessary to the full realization of this goal.

The Congress declares that in the administration of those housing programs authorized by this Act which are designed to assist families with incomes so low that they could not otherwise decently house themselves, and of other Government programs designed to assist in the provision of housing for such families, the highest priority and emphasis should be given to meeting the housing needs of those families for which the national goal has not become a reality; and in the carrying out of such programs there should be the fullest practicable utilization of the resources and capabilities of private enterprise and of individual self-help techniques.

JOBS IN HOUSING; EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR LOWER INCOME PERSONS IN CONNECTION WITH ASSISTED PROJECTS

SEC. 3. In the administration of the programs authorized by sections 235 and 236 of the National Housing Act, the below-market interest rate program under section 221(d)(3) of such Act, the low-rent public housing program under the United States Housing Act of 1937, and the rent supplement program under section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall— Post, pp. 477, 498. 75 Stat. 150. 12 USC 1715l. 50 Stat. 888. 42 USC 1430. 79 Stat. 451. 12 USC 1749aa note.

(1) require, in consultation with the Secretary of Labor, that to the greatest extent feasible opportunities for training and employment arising in connection with the planning, construction, rehabilitation, and operation of housing assisted under such programs be given to lower income persons residing in the area of such housing; and

(2) require, in consultation with the Administrator of the Small Business Administration, that to the greatest extent feasible contracts for work to be performed pursuant to such programs shall, where appropriate, be awarded to business concerns, including but not limited to individuals or firms doing business in the fields of design, architecture, building construction, rehabilitation, maintenance, or repair, located in or owned in substantial part by persons residing in the area of such housing.

IMPROVED ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN IN GOVERNMENT HOUSING PROGRAMS

SEC. 4. The Congress finds that Federal aids to housing have not contributed fully to improvement in architectural standards. This objective has been contemplated in Federal housing legislation since the establishment of mortgage insurance through the Federal Housing Administration.

The Congress commends the Department of Housing and Urban Development for its recent efforts to improve architectural standards through competitive design awards and in other ways but at the same time recognizes that this important objective requires high priority if Federal aid is to make its full communitywide contribution toward improving our urban environment.

The Congress further finds that even within the necessary budget limitations on housing for low and moderate income families architectural design could be improved not only to make the housing more attractive, but to make it better suited to the needs of occupants.

The Congress declares that in the administration of housing programs which assist in the provision of housing for low and moderate income families, emphasis should be given to encouraging good design as an essential component of such housing and to developing housing which will be of such quality as to reflect its important relationship to the architectural standards of the neighborhood and community in which it is situated, consistent with prudent budgeting.

ANNUAL REPORT ON AREAS OF PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION AND MANAGEMENT WHICH REQUIRE IMPROVEMENT

Report to congressional committees.

SEC. 5. The Secretary shall, as early as practicable in the calendar year 1969 and in the calendar year 1970, make a report to the respective Committees on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives and the Senate identifying specific areas of program administration and management which require improvement, describing actions taken and proposed for the purpose of making such improvements, and recommending such legislation as may be necessary to accomplish such improvements. Each such report shall include, but not be limited to, the following areas of program administration and management: uniformity and standardization in program requirements, simplification of program procedures, ways and means of expediting consideration of proposed projects and applications for assistance, the provision of more useful and specific assistance to communities, organizations and individuals seeking to utilize the Department's programs, and ways and means of combining or otherwise adapting the Department's programs to increase their usefulness in meeting the individual needs of applicants.

TITLE I—LOWER INCOME HOUSING

HOMEOWNERSHIP FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

52 Stat. 9, 12 USC 1707-1715y.

SEC. 101. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new section:

"HOMEOWNERSHIP FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

"SEC. 235. (a) For the purpose of assisting lower income families in acquiring homeownership or in acquiring membership in a cooperative association operating a housing project, the Secretary is authorized to make, and to contract to make, periodic assistance payments on behalf of such homeowners and cooperative members. The assistance shall be accomplished through payments to mortgagees holding mortgages meeting the special requirements specified in this section.

"(b) To qualify for assistance payments, the homeowner or the cooperative member shall be of lower income and satisfy eligibility requirements prescribed by the Secretary, and—

"(1) the homeowner shall be a mortgagor under a mortgage which meets the requirements of and is insured under subsection (i) or (j)(4) of this section: Provided, That a mortgage meeting the requirements of subsection (i)(3)(A) of this section but insured under section 237 may qualify for assistance payments if such mortgage was executed by a mortgagor who is determined not to be an acceptable credit risk for mortgage insurance purposes (but otherwise eligible) under subsection (j)(4) of this section or under section 221(d)(2) or 234(c) and accepted as a reasonably satisfactory credit risk under section 237; or

Post, p. 485.

12 USC 1715l.

"(2) the cooperative association of which the family is a member shall operate a housing project the construction or substantial rehabilitation of which has been financed with a mortgage insured under section 213 and which has been completed within two years prior to the filing of the application for assistance payments and the dwelling unit has had no previous occupant other than the family: Provided, That if the initial cooperative member receiving assistance payments transfers his membership and occupancy rights to another person who satisfies the eligibility requirements prescribed by the Secretary, such new cooperative member may qualify for assistance payments upon the filing of an application with respect to the dwelling unit involved to be occupied by him: Provided further, That assistance payments may be made with respect to a dwelling unit in an existing cooperative project which meets such standards as the Secretary may prescribe, if the family qualifies as a displaced family as defined in section 221(f), or a family which includes five or more minor persons, or a family occupying low-rent public housing: Provided further, That the amount of the mortgage attributable to the dwelling unit shall involve a principal obligation not in excess of $15,000 ($17,500 in any geographical area where the Secretary authorizes an increase on the basis of a finding that cost levels so require), except that with respect to any family with five or more persons the foregoing limits shall be $17,500 and $20,000, respectively.

12 USC 1715y.
64 Stat. 54.
12 USC 1715e.
68 Stat. 599; 80 Stat. 1317.

"(c) The assistance payments to a mortgagee by the Secretary on behalf of a mortgagor shall be made during such time as the mortgagor shall continue to occupy the property which secures the mortgage: Provided, That assistance payments may be made on behalf of a homeowner who assumes a mortgage insured under subsection (j)(4) with respect to which assistance payments have been made on behalf of the previous owner, if the homeowner is approved by the Secretary as eligible for receiving such assistance. The payment shall be in an amount not exceeding the lesser of—

"(1) the balance of the monthly payment for principal, interest, taxes, insurance, and mortgage insurance premium due under the mortgage remaining unpaid after applying 20 per centum of the mortgagor's income; or

"(2) the difference between the amount of the monthly payment for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest which the mortgagor would be obligated to pay if the mortgage were to bear interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum.

"(d) Assistance payments to a mortgagee by the Secretary on behalf of a family holding membership in a cooperative association operating a housing project shall be made only during such time as the family is an occupant of such project and shall be in amounts computed on the basis of the formula set forth in subsection (c) applying the cooperative member's proportionate share of the obligations under the project mortgage to the items specified in the formula.

"(e) The Secretary may include in the payment to the mortgagee such amount, in addition to the amount computed under subsection (c), (d), or (j)(7), as he deems appropriate to reimburse the mortgagee for its expenses in handling the mortgage.

"(f) Procedures shall be adopted by the Secretary for recertifications of the mortgagor's (or cooperative member's) income at intervals of two years (or at shorter intervals where the Secretary deems it desirable) for the purpose of adjusting the amount of such assistance payments within the limits of the formula described in subsection (c).

"(g) The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as he deems necessary to assure that the sales price of, or other consideration paid in connection with, the purchase by a homeowner of the property with respect to which assistance payments are to be made is not increased above the appraised value on which the maximum mortgage which the Secretary will insure is computed.

Appropriation.

"(h)(1) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, including such sums as may be necessary to make the assistance payments under contracts entered into under this section. The aggregate amount of contracts to make such payments shall not exceed amounts approved in appropriation Acts, and payments pursuant to such contracts shall not exceed $75,000,000 per annum prior to July 1, 1969, which maximum dollar amount shall be increased by $100,000,000 on July 1, 1969, and by $125,000,000 on July 1, 1970.

"(2) Not more than 20 per centum of the total amount of assistance payments authorized to be contracted to be made pursuant to appropriation Acts shall be contracted to be made on behalf of families whose incomes at the time of their initial occupancy exceed 135 per centum of the maximum income limits which can be established in the area, pursuant to the limitations prescribed in sections 2(2) and 15(7)(b)(ii) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings, but the incomes of such families at the time of their initial occupancy shall in no case exceed 90 per centum of the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with mortgages insured under section 221(d)(3) which bear interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of section 221(d)(5). The limitations prescribed in this paragraph shall be administered by the Secretary so as to accord a preference to those families whose incomes are within the lowest practicable limits for achieving homeownership with assistance under this section.

Report to congressional committees.

The Secretary shall report annually to the respective Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives with respect to the income levels of families on behalf of which assistance payments have been made under this section.

"(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (b)(2) and (i)(3)(A) with respect to the prior construction or rehabilitation of a dwelling, or of the project in which there is a dwelling unit, for which assistance payments may be made, and notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (j)(1) authorizing the purchase of housing which is neither deteriorating nor substandard, not more than—

"(A) 25 per centum of the total amount of contracts for assistance payments authorized by appropriation Acts to be made prior to July 1, 1969,

"(B) 15 per centum of the total additional amount of contracts for assistance payments authorized by appropriation Acts to be made prior to July 1, 1970, and may be made with respect to existing dwellings, or dwelling units in existing projects.

"(C) 10 per centum of the total additional amount of contracts for assistance payments authorized by appropriations Acts to be made prior to July 1, 1971,

"(i)(1) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure a mortgage executed by a mortgagor who meets the eligibility requirements for assistance payments prescribed by the Secretary under subsection (b). Commitments for the insurance of such mortgages may be issued by the Secretary prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(2) To be eligible for insurance under this subsection, a mortgage shall meet the requirements of section 221(d)(2) or 234(c), except as such requirements are modified by this subsection. 68 Stat. 599. 12 USC 1715l.

"(3) A mortgage to be insured under this subsection shall— 75 Stat. 160. 12 USC 1715y.

"(A) involve a single-family dwelling which has been approved by the Secretary prior to the beginning of construction or substantial rehabilitation, or a two-family dwelling one of the units of which is to be occupied by the owner if the dwelling is purchased with the assistance of a nonprofit organization and is approved by the Secretary prior to the beginning of substantial rehabilitation, or a one-family unit in a condominium project (together with an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities serving the project) which is released from a multifamily project, the construction or substantial rehabilitation of which has been completed within two years prior to the filing of the application for assistance payments with respect to such family unit and the unit has had no previous occupant other than the mortgagor: Provided, That the mortgage may involve an existing dwelling or a family unit in an existing condominium project which meets such standards as the Secretary may prescribe, if the mortgagor qualifies as a displaced family as defined in section 221(f), or a family which includes five or more minor persons, or a family occupying low-rent public housing: Provided further, That the mortgage may involve an existing dwelling or a family unit in an existing condominium project if assistance payments have been made on behalf of the previous owner of the dwelling or family unit with respect to a mortgage insured under subsection (j)(4): Provided further, That the mortgage may involve a dwelling unit in an existing project covered by a mortgage insured under section 236 or in an existing project receiving the benefits of financial assistance under section 101 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965; 68 Stat. 599; 80 Stat. 1317. Post, p. 498. 79 Stat. 451. 12 USC 1701s.

"(B) where it is to cover a one-family unit in a condominium project, have a principal obligation not exceeding $15,000 ($17,500 in any geographical area where the Secretary authorizes an increase on the basis of a finding that cost levels so require), except that with respect to any family with five or more persons the foregoing limits shall be $17,500 and $20,000, respectively; and

"(C) be executed by a mortgagor who shall have paid (i) in the case of any family whose income is not in excess of 135 per centum of the maximum income limits which can be established in the area, pursuant to the limitations prescribed in sections 2(2) and 15(7)(b)(ii) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings, at least $200, or (ii) in the case of any other family, at least 3 per centum (or such larger amount as the Secretary may require) of the Secretary's estimate of the cost of acquisition, which amount (in cash or its equivalent) in either instance may be applied for the payment of settlement costs and initial payments for taxes, hazard insurance, mortgage insurance premiums, and other prepaid expenses.

79 Stat. 457.
42 USC 1402.
63 Stat. 422.

"(j)(1) In addition to mortgages insured under the provisions of subsection (i), the Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure a mortgage (including advances under such mortgage during rehabilitation) which is executed by a nonprofit organization or public body or agency to finance the purchase of housing, and the rehabilitation of such housing if it is deteriorating or substandard, for subsequent resale to lower income home purchasers who meet the eligibility requirements for assistance payments prescribed by the Secretary under subsection (b). Commitments for the insurance of such mortgages may be issued by the Secretary prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(2) To be eligible for insurance under paragraph (1) of this subsection, a mortgage shall—

"(A) be executed by a private nonprofit organization or public body or agency, approved by the Secretary, for the purpose of financing the purchase (with the intention of subsequent resale), and rehabilitation where the housing involved is deteriorating or substandard, of property comprising one or more tracts or parcels, whether or not contiguous, consisting of (i) four or more single-family dwellings of detached, semidetached, or row construction, or (ii) four or more one-family units in a structure or structures for which a plan of family unit ownership approved by the Secretary is established; except that in a case not involving the rehabilitation of deteriorating or substandard housing the property purchased may consist of one or more such dwellings or units;

"(B) be in a principal amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property at the time of its purchase under the mortgage plus the estimated cost of any rehabilitation;

"(C) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charge, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the mortgage market;

"(D) provide for complete amortization (subject to paragraph (4)(E)) by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary may prescribe; and

"(E) provide for the release of individual single-family dwellings from the lien of the mortgage upon their sale in accordance with paragraph (4).

"(3) No mortgage shall be insured under paragraph (1) unless the mortgagor shall have demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Secretary that (A) the property involved is located in a neighborhood which is sufficiently stable and contains sufficient public facilities and amenities to support long-term values, or (B) the purchase or rehabilitation of such property plus the mortgagor's related activities and the activities of other owners of housing in the neighborhood, together with actions to be taken by public authorities, will be of such scope and quality as to give reasonable promise that a stable environment will be created in the neighborhood.

"(4)(A) No mortgage shall be insured under paragraph (1) unless the mortgagor enters into an agreement, satisfactory to the Secretary, that it will offer to sell the dwellings involved, after purchase and upon completion of any rehabilitation, to lower income individuals or families meeting the eligibility requirements established by the Secretary under subsection (b).

"(B) The Secretary is authorized to insure under this paragraph mortgages executed to finance the sale of individual dwellings to lower income purchasers as provided in subparagraph (A). Any such mortgage shall—

"(i) be in a principal amount not in excess of that portion of the unpaid principal balance of the blanket mortgage covering the property which is allocable to the individual dwelling involved;

"(ii) bear interest at the same rate as the blanket mortgage; and

"(iii) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within a term equal to the remaining term (determined without regard to subparagraph (E)) of such blanket mortgage.

"(C) The price for which any individual dwelling is sold under this paragraph shall be in an amount equal to that portion of the unpaid principal balance of the blanket mortgage covering the property which is allocable to the dwelling plus such additional amount, not less than $200 (which may be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs and may be paid in cash or its equivalent), as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable.

"(D) Upon the sale under this paragraph of any individual dwelling, such dwelling shall be released from the lien of the blanket mortgage. Until all of the individual dwellings in the property covered by the blanket mortgage have been sold, the mortgagor shall hold and operate the dwellings remaining unsold at any given time, in such manner and under such terms as the Secretary may prescribe, as though they constituted rental units.

"(E) Upon the sale under this paragraph of all the individual dwellings in the property covered by the blanket mortgage and the release of all individual dwellings from the lien of the blanket mortgage, the insurance of the blanket mortgage shall be terminated and no adjusted premium charge shall be charged by the Secretary upon such termination.

"(5) Where the Secretary has approved a plan of family unit ownership the terms 'single-family dwelling', 'single-family dwellings', 'individual dwelling', and 'individual dwellings' shall mean a family unit or family units, together with the undivided interest (or interests) in the common areas and facilities. Definitions.

"(6) For purposes of this subsection, the terms 'single-family dwelling' and 'single-family dwellings' (except for purposes of paragraph (5)) shall include a two-family dwelling which has been approved by the Secretary if one of the units is to be occupied by the owner.

"(7) In addition to the assistance payments authorized under subsection (b), the Secretary may make such payments to a mortgagee on behalf of a nonprofit organization or public body or agency which is a mortgagor under the provisions of paragraph (1) in an amount not exceeding the difference between the monthly payment for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest such mortgagor would be obligated to pay if the mortgage were to bear interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum.

"(8) A mortgage covering property which is not deteriorating or substandard may be insured under this subsection only if it is situated in an area in which mortgages may be insured under section 221(h). Infra.

"(k) The Secretary shall from time to time allocate and transfer to the Secretary of Agriculture, for use (in accordance with the terms and conditions of this section) in rural areas and small towns, a reasonable portion of the total authority to contract to make assistance payments as approved in appropriation Acts under subsection (h)(1).

"(l) In determining the income of any person for the purposes of this section, there shall be deducted an amount equal to $300 for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of such person and living with such family, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of such person or his family."

75 Stat. 149; 80 Stat. 1268. 12 USC 1715l. (b)(1) Section 221(d)(2)(A) of the National Housing Act is amended—

(A) by striking out "not to exceed (i) $12,500" and inserting in lieu thereof "not to exceed (i) $15,000 (or $17,500, if the mortgagor's family includes five or more persons)"; and

(B) by striking out "not to exceed $15,000" in the second proviso and inserting in lieu thereof "not to exceed $17,500 (or $20,000 if the mortgagor's family includes five or more persons)".

(2) Section 221(d)(2)(B) of such Act is amended—

(A) by inserting ", in cash or its equivalent" before the semicolon after "acquisition cost" in the first proviso; and

(B) by inserting before the semicolon after "appraised value" at the end thereof the following: ": Provided further, That, if the mortgagor is the owner and an occupant of the property, such mortgagor shall to the maximum extent feasible be given the opportunity to contribute the value of his labor as equity in such dwelling".

80 Stat. 1269. (c)(1) Section 221(h)(5)(B)(ii) of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"(ii) bear interest at the same rate as the principal mortgage or such lower rate, not less than 1 per centum, as the Secretary may prescribe if in his judgment the purchaser's income is sufficiently low to justify the lower rate, and provide for complete amortization within a term equal to the remaining term (determined without regard to subparagraph (E)) of such principal mortgage: Provided, That, if the rate of interest initially prescribed is less than the rate borne by the principal mortgage and the purchaser's income (as determined on the basis of periodic review) subsequently rises, the rate of interest so prescribed shall be increased (but not above the rate borne by such principal mortgage), under regulations of the Secretary, to the extent appropriate to reflect the increase in such income, and the mortgage shall so provide."

"(2) Section 221(h)(4) of such Act is amended by striking out "$20,000,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$50,000,000".

(3) Section 221(h) of such Act is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(6) In addition to the mortgages that may be insured under paragraphs (1) and (5), the Secretary is authorized to insure under this subsection at any time within one year after the date of the enactment of this paragraph, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, mortgages which are executed by individuals or families that meet the income criteria prescribed in paragraph (5)(A) and are executed for the purpose of financing the rehabilitation or improvement of single-family dwellings of detached, semidetached, or row construction that are owned and occupied in each instance by a mortgagor who has purchased the dwelling from a nonprofit organization of the type described in this subsection. To be eligible for such insurance, a mortgage shall—

"(A) be in a principal amount not exceeding the lesser of $15,000 or the sum of the estimated cost of repair and rehabilitation and the Secretary's estimate of the value of the property before repair and rehabilitation, except that in no case involving refinancing shall such mortgage exceed such estimated cost of repair and rehabilitation and the amount (as determined by the Secretary) required to refinance existing indebtedness secured by the property;

"(B) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charge, if any) at 3 per centum per annum or such lower rate, not less than 1 per centum, as the Secretary may prescribe if in his judgment the mortgagor's income is sufficiently low to justify the lower rate: Provided, That, if the rate of interest initially prescribed is less than 3 per centum per annum and the mortgagor's income (as determined on the basis of periodic review) subsequently rises, the rate shall be increased (but not above 3 per centum), under regulations of the Secretary, to the extent appropriate to reflect the increase in such income, and the mortgage shall so provide;

"(C) involve a mortgagor that shall have paid on account of the property at the time of the rehabilitation such amount (which shall not be less than $200 in cash or its equivalent, but which may be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs) as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable and appropriate under the circumstances; and

"(D) contain a provision that, if the low-income mortgagor does not continue to occupy the property, the interest rate shall increase to the highest rate permissible under this section and the regulations of the Secretary effective at the time the commitment was issued for insurance of the mortgage; except that the increase in interest rate shall not be applicable if the property is sold and the purchaser is (i) a nonprofit organization which has been engaged in purchasing and rehabilitating deteriorating and substandard housing with financing under a mortgage insured under paragraph (1) of this subsection, (ii) a public housing agency having jurisdiction under the United States Housing Act of 1937 over the area where the dwelling is located, or (iii) a low-income purchaser approved for the purposes of this paragraph by the Secretary."

CREDIT ASSISTANCE

SEC. 102. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 236 (as added by section 201 of this Act) the following new section:

12 USC 1707-1715y.

"SPECIAL MORTGAGE INSURANCE ASSISTANCE

"SEC. 237. (a) The purpose of this section is to help provide adequate housing for families of low and moderate income, including those who, for reasons of credit history, irregular income patterns caused by seasonal employment, or other factors, are unable to meet the credit requirements of the Secretary for the purchase of a single-family home financed by a mortgage insured under section 203, 220, 221, 234, or 235(j)(4), but who, through the incentive of homeownership and counseling assistance, appear to be able to achieve homeownership.

"(b) The Secretary is authorized upon application by the mortgagee to insure under this section any mortgage meeting the requirements of this section.

"(c) To be eligible for insurance under this section, a mortgage shall—

"(1) meet the requirements of section 203 (except subsection (m)), 220(d)(3)(A), 221(d)(2), 221(h)(5), 221(i), 234(c), or 235(j)(4), except as such requirements are modified by this section;

12 USC 1709, 1715k, 1715l, 1715y.

"(2) involve a principal obligation (including such initial service charges, and such appraisal, inspection, and other fees, as the Secretary shall approve) in an amount not to exceed $15,000: Provided, That the Secretary may increase the amount to not exceed $17,500 in any geographical area where he finds that cost levels so require: Provided further, That no mortgage meeting the requirements of section 203(h) or 203(i) shall be eligible for insurance under this section if its principal obligation is in excess of the maximum limits prescribed in such section;

"(3) be executed by a mortgagor who the Secretary has determined, after a full and complete study of the case, would not be an acceptable credit risk for mortgage insurance purposes under sections 203, 220, 221, 234, or 235(j)(4), because of his credit standing, debt obligations, total annual income, or income characteristics, but who the Secretary is satisfied would be a reasonably satisfactory credit risk, consistent with the objectives stated in subsection (a), if he were to receive budget, debt management, and related counseling: Provided, That, in determining whether the mortgagor is a reasonably satisfactory credit risk, the Secretary shall review the credit history of the applicant giving special consideration to those delinquent accounts which were ultimately paid by the applicant and to extenuating factors which may have caused credit accounts of the applicant to become delinquent; and the Secretary shall also give special consideration to income characteristics of applicants whose total income over the two years prior to their applications has remained at levels of eligibility (as required under paragraph (4) of this subsection), but who,

because of the character of their seasonal employment or for other reasons, have not maintained continuous employment under one employer during that time; and

"(4) require monthly payments which, in combination with local real estate taxes on the property involved, do not exceed 25 per centum of the applicant's income, based on his average monthly income during the year prior to his application or the average monthly income during the three years prior to his application, whichever is higher.

"(d) The Secretary shall give preference in approving mortgage insurance applications under this section to families living in public housing units, especially those families required to leave public housing because their incomes have risen beyond the maximum prescribed income limits, and families eligible for residence in public housing who have been displaced from federally assisted urban renewal areas. Application preferences.

"(e) The Secretary is authorized to provide, or contract with public or private organizations to provide, such budget, debt management, and related counseling services to mortgagors whose mortgages are insured under this section as he determines to be necessary to meet the objectives of this section. The Secretary may also provide such counseling to otherwise eligible families who lack sufficient funds to supply a down payment to help them to save an amount necessary for that purpose. Counseling services.

"(f) The aggregate principal balance of all mortgages insured under this section and outstanding at one time shall not exceed $200,000,000.

"(g) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of subsection (e) of this section." Appropriation.

(b) Section 226 of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "235(i), 237," after "234,". 68 Stat. 607. 12 USC 1715q.

RELAXATION OF MORTGAGE INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS IN CERTAIN URBAN NEIGHBORHOODS

SEC. 103. (a) Section 223 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof a new subsection as follows: 68 Stat. 605. 12 USC 1715n.

"(e) Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this title except section 212, and without regard to limitations upon eligibility contained in any section of this title, the Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure under any section of this title a mortgage executed in connection with the repair, rehabilitation, construction, or purchase of property located in an older, declining urban area in which the conditions are such that one or more of the eligibility requirements applicable to the section of this title under which insurance is sought could not be met, if the Secretary finds that (1) the area is reasonably viable, giving consideration to the need for providing adequate housing for families of low and moderate income in such area, and (2) the property is an acceptable risk in view of such consideration. The insurance of a mortgage pursuant to this subsection shall be the obligation of the Special Risk Insurance Fund." 12 USC 1715c.

(b) Section 203(l) of such Act is repealed. Repeal. 80 Stat. 1266. 12 USC 1709.

SPECIAL RISK INSURANCE FUND

SEC. 104. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 237 (as added by section 102 of this Act) the following new section: 12 USC 1707-1715y.

"PAYMENT OF INSURANCE—SPECIAL RISK INSURANCE FUND

"SEC. 238. (a)(1) Any mortgagee under a mortgage insured under section 235(i), 235(j)(4), or 237 shall be entitled to receive the benefits of the insurance as provided in section 204(a) with respect to mortgages insured under section 203. The provisions of subsections (b), (c), (d), (g), (j), and (k) of section 204 shall be applicable to mortgages insured under section 235(i), 235(j)(4), or 237, except that all references therein to the 'Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund' shall be construed to refer to the 'Special Risk Insurance Fund', and all references therein to section 203 shall be construed to refer to section 235(i), 235(j)(4), or 237, as may be appropriate.

"(3) In lieu of the amount of insurance benefits computed pursuant to paragraph (1) or (2) of this subsection the Secretary, in his discretion and in accordance with such regulations as he may prescribe, may (with respect to any mortgage loan acquired by him) compute and pay insurance benefits to the mortgagee in a total amount equal to the unpaid principal balance of the loan plus any accrued interest and any advances approved by the Secretary and made previously by the mortgagee under the provisions of the mortgage.

"(b) There is hereby created a Special Risk Insurance Fund (hereinafter referred to as the 'fund') which shall be used by the Secretary as a revolving fund for carrying out the mortgage insurance obligations of sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237, and the Secretary is hereby authorized to advance to the fund the sum of $5,000,000 from the General Insurance Fund established pursuant to the provisions of section 519. Such advance shall be repayable at such times and at such rates of interest as the Secretary deems appropriate. Premium charges, adjusted premium charges, inspection and other fees, service charges, and any other income received by the Secretary under sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237, together with all earnings on the assets of the fund, shall be credited to the fund. All payments made pursuant to claims of mortgagees with respect to mortgages insured under sections 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237 or pursuant to section 223(e), cash adjustments, the principal of and interest paid on debentures which are the obligation of the fund, expenses incurred in connection with or as a consequence of the acquisition and disposal of property acquired under such sections, and all administrative expenses in connection with the mortgage insurance operations under such sections shall be paid out of the fund. There is authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be needed from time to time to cover losses sustained by the fund in carrying out the mortgage insurance obligations of sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236, and 237. Moneys in the fund not needed for current operations of the fund shall be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States to the credit of the fund or invested in bonds or other obligations of, or in bonds or other obligations guaranteed by, the United States. The Secretary, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may purchase in the open

(c) Section 519(e) of such Act is amended by inserting after "section 213(k)" the following: ", or the provisions of sections 223(e), 233(a)(2), 235, 236 and 237". 79 Stat. 472. 12 USC 1735c.

CONDOMINIUM AND COOPERATIVE OWNERSHIP FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 105. (a) Section 221 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof two new subsections as follows: 68 Stat. 599. 12 USC 1715l.

"(i)(1) The Secretary is authorized, with respect to any project involving a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5), to permit a conversion of the ownership of such project to a plan of family unit ownership. Under such plan, each family unit shall be eligible for individual ownership and provision shall be included for the sale of the family units, together with an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities which serve the project, to low or moderate income purchasers. The Secretary shall obtain such agreements as he determines to be necessary to assure continued maintenance of the common areas and facilities. Upon such sale, the family unit and the undivided interest in the common areas shall be released from the lien of the project mortgage.

"(2)(A) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure under this subsection mortgages financing the purchase of individual family units under the plan prescribed in paragraph (1). Commitments may be issued by the Secretary for the insurance of such mortgages prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe. To be eligible for such insurance, the mortgage shall—

"(i) be executed by a mortgagor having an income within the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at the below-market rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5);

"(ii) involve a principal obligation (including such initial service charges, and such appraisal, inspection, and other fees, as the Secretary shall approve) in an amount not to exceed the Secretary's estimate of the appraised value of the family unit, including the mortgagor's interest in the common areas and facilities, as of the date the mortgage is accepted for insurance;

"(iii) bear interest at a rate determined by the Secretary (which may vary in accordance with the regulations of the Secretary promulgated pursuant to the last sentence of paragraph (4) of this subsection) but not less than the below-market rate in effect under the proviso of subsection (d)(5) at the date of the commitment for insurance; and

"(iv) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary may prescribe, but not to exceed the lesser of forty years from the beginning of amortization of the mortgage or three-quarters of the Secretary's estimate of the remaining economic life of the building improvements.

"(B) The price for which the individual family unit is sold to the low or moderate income purchaser shall not exceed the appraised value of the property, as determined under subparagraph (A)(ii), except that the purchaser shall be required to pay on account of the property at the time of purchase at least such amount, in cash or its equivalent (which shall be not less than 3 per centum of such price, but which may be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs), as the Secretary may determine to be reasonable and appropriate.

"(3) Upon the sale of all of the family units covered by the project mortgage, and the release of all of the family units (including the undivided interest allocable to each unit in the common areas and facilities) from the lien of the project mortgage, the insurance of the project mortgage shall be terminated and no adjusted premium charge shall be collected by the Secretary upon such termination.

Interest rate, increase.

"(4) Any mortgage covering an individual family unit insured under this subsection shall contain a provision that, if the original mortgagor does not continue to occupy the property, the interest rate shall increase to the highest rate permissible under this section and the regulations of the Secretary effective at the time the commitment was issued for the insurance of the project mortgage; except that the requirement for an increase in interest rate shall not be applicable if the property is sold and the purchaser is (i) a nonprofit purchaser approved by the Secretary, or (ii) a low or moderate income purchaser who has an income within the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at the below-market rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5). The mortgage shall also contain a provision that, if the Secretary determines that the annual income of the original mortgagor (or a purchaser described in clause (ii) of the preceding sentence) has increased to an amount enabling payment of a greater rate of interest, the interest rate of the individual mortgage may be increased up to the highest rate permissible under the regulations of the Secretary for mortgages insured under this section, effective at the time the commitment was issued for the insurance of the mortgage.

"(5) For the purpose of this subsection—

"Mortgage."

"(i) the term 'mortgage', when used in relation to a mortgage insured under paragraph (2) of this subsection, includes a first mortgage given to secure the unpaid purchase price of a fee interest in, or a long-term lease-hold interest in, a one-family unit in a multifamily project and an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities which serve the project; and

"Common areas and facilities."

"(ii) the term 'common areas and facilities' includes the land and such commercial, community, and other facilities as are approved by the Secretary.

Cooperative ownership, conversion.

"(j)(1) The Secretary is authorized, with respect to any rental project involving a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5), to permit a conversion of the ownership of such project to a cooperative approved by the Secretary. Membership in such cooperative shall be made available only to those families having an income within the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with a mortgage insured under subsection (d)(3) which bears interest at such below-market rate: Provided, That families residing in the rental project at the time of its conversion to a cooperative who do not meet such income limits may be permitted to become members in the cooperative under such special terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(2) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure under this subsection cooperative mortgages financing the purchase of projects meeting the requirements of paragraph (1). Commitments may be issued by the Secretary for the insurance of such mortgages prior to the date of their execution or disbursement thereon, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe. To be eligible for such insurance, the mortgage shall— Cooperative mortgages, insurance.

"(i) involve a principal obligation (including such initial service charges and appraisal, inspection, and other fees as the Secretary shall approve) in an amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property for continued use as a cooperative, which value shall be based upon a mortgage amount on which the debt service can be met from the income of the property when operated on a nonprofit basis, after the payment of all operating expenses, taxes, and required reserves;

"(ii) bear interest at the below-market rate prescribed in the proviso of subsection (d)(5); and

"(iii) provide for complete amortization within such term as the Secretary may prescribe."

(b) Section 221 (g)(1) of such Act is amended by striking out "or paragraph (5) of subsection (h) of this section" and inserting in lieu thereof "paragraph (5) of subsection (h) of this section, or paragraph (2) of subsection (i) of this section". 68 Stat. 599. 12 USC 1715l.

(c) Section 221(g)(2) of such Act is amended by striking out "or paragraph (1) of subsection (h)" and inserting in lieu thereof "paragraph (1) of subsection (h) of this section, or paragraph (2) of subsection (j).".

(d) Section 221(f) of such Act is amended by inserting after "subsection (h)" in the third sentence of the second paragraph the following: ", (i), or (j)".

ASSISTANCE TO NONPROFIT SPONSORS OF LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING

SEC. 106. (a) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to provide, or contract with public or private organizations to provide, information, advice, and technical assistance with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation by nonprofit organizations of housing for low or moderate income families. Assistance by the Secretary may include—

(1) the assembly, correlation, publication, and dissemination of information with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation of low and moderate income housing, and

(2) the provision of advice and technical assistance with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation of low and moderate income housing.

(b)(1) The Secretary is authorized to make loans to nonprofit organizations for the necessary expenses, prior to construction, in planning, and obtaining financing for, the rehabilitation or construction of housing for low or moderate income families under any federally assisted program. Such loans shall be made without interest and shall not exceed 80 per centum of the reasonable costs expected to be incurred in planning, and in obtaining financing for, such housing prior to the availability of financing, including, but not limited to, preliminary surveys and analyses of market needs, preliminary site engineering and architectual fees, site acquisition, application and mortgage commitment fees, and construction loan fees and discounts. The Secretary shall require repayment of loans made under this subsection, under Loans.

such terms and conditions as he may require, upon completion of the project or sooner, and may cancel any part or all of a loan if he determines that it cannot be recovered from the proceeds of any permanent loan made to finance the rehabilitation or construction of the housing.

(2) The Secretary shall determine prior to the making of any loan that the nonprofit organization meets such requirements with respect to financial responsibility and stability as he may prescribe.

Appropriation.

(3) There are authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of this subsection not to exceed $7,500,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $10,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amounts so appropriated shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this paragraph but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year.

Low and Moderate Income Sponsor Fund.

(4) All funds appropriated for the purposes of this subsection shall be deposited in a fund which shall be known as the Low and Moderate Income Sponsor Fund, and which shall be available without fiscal year limitation and be administered by the Secretary as a revolving fund for carrying out the purposes of this subsection. Sums received in repayment of loans made under this subsection shall be deposited in such fund.

NATIONAL HOMEOWNERSHIP FOUNDATION

SEC. 107. (a)(1) There is hereby created a body corporate to be known as the "National Homeownership Foundation" (hereinafter referred to as the "Foundation") to carry out a continuing program of encouraging private and public organizations at the national, community, and neighborhood levels to provide increased homeownership and housing opportunities in urban and rural areas for lower income families through such means as—

(A) encouraging the investment in, and sponsoring of, housing for lower income families;

(B) encouraging the establishment of programs of assistance and counseling to lower income families to enable them better to achieve and afford adequate housing;

(C) providing a broad range of technical assistance through publications and advisory services to public and private organizations which are carrying out, or are desirous of carrying out, programs to expand homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families; and

(D) providing grants and loans to public and private organizations carrying out homeownership and housing opportunity programs for lower income families to help cover some of the expenses of such programs.

(2) The Foundation shall be deemed to be a corporation without members organized and established under the provisions of the District of Columbia Nonprofit Corporation Act, with all the rights, powers, and responsibilities thereof except as limited by this section and any amendments thereto. This section shall constitute the articles of incorporation and charter of the Foundation, which shall not be an agency or instrumentality of the United States Government. The Congress expressly reserves the exclusive right to alter or amend this charter. The Foundation shall have succession until dissolved by Act of Congress. The Foundation shall maintain its principal office in the District of Columbia.

(5) The Board shall adopt bylaws for the Foundation which shall be made available for public inspection upon request.

Functions.

(c)(1) The Foundation shall assist public and private organizations, at their request, in initiating, developing, and conducting programs to expand homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families. To provide such assistance and to carry out the purposes of this section, the Foundation is authorized to—

(A) carry out a continuing program of encouraging private and public organizations at the national, community, and neighborhood levels in the establishment of such programs;

(B) assist in the formation of organizations the purpose of which is the development and carrying out of such programs, including the establishment of local development funds for financing housing for lower income families through the pooling of moneys from private sources;

(C) identify and arrange for the technical and managerial assistance and personnel needed for the successful operation of such programs by public and private organizations;

(D) assist public and private organizations in obtaining the mortgage financing, insurance, and other requirements or aids necessary for conducting programs of housing construction, rehabilitation, or improvement for lower income families;

(E) arrange for, or provide on a limited basis, training for persons in the skills needed in administering programs of homeownership and housing opportunity for lower income families;

(F) encourage research and innovation, and collect and make available such information as may be desirable to further the purposes of this section, including but not limited to such activities as the sponsoring of seminars, conferences, and meetings and the establishment of a continuing information program to acquaint lower income families with the means they can use to improve the quality of their housing and the homeownership and housing opportunities available to them;

(G) assist private and public organizations in establishing, in connection with their homeownership and housing opportunity programs for lower income families, counseling and similar activities designed to advise lower income families of the means available to better themselves economically through job training and manpower development programs; and

(H) perform other similar services in order to further the purposes of this section.

Fees.

(2) The Foundation may, if it deems it appropriate, charge a reasonable fee for any assistance or service provided under this subsection.

Grant and loan authority.

(d)(1) In order to assist public and private organizations which are carrying out homeownership and housing opportunity programs for lower income families to fill unmet needs, initiate exceptional programs, and experiment with new approaches and programs, the Foundation is authorized, subject to such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, to make grants and loans to such organizations to help defray the following expenses:

(A) organizational and administrative expenses incurred in commencing the operation of a program, or in expanding an existing program, to the extent that the activities are related to providing homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families;

(B) necessary preconstruction costs incurred for architectural assistance, land options, application fees, and similar items; and

(C) the cost of carrying out programs providing counseling or similar services to lower income families for whom housing is being provided, in order to enable those families better to achieve and afford adequate housing, in such matters as home management, budget management, and home maintenance.

(2) In order to be eligible for a grant or loan under this subsection, the organization seeking such assistance shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Foundation that the funds requested are not otherwise available from Federal sources: Provided, That a grant or loan under this subsection may be provided to help cover that portion of the cost of an eligible activity not covered by Federal funds.

(3) The Foundation shall encourage cooperation between public and private organizations carrying out programs of homeownership and housing opportunity for lower income families and the neighborhoods and communities affected by such programs. To help assure such cooperation and in order to coordinate, to the maximum extent feasible, any construction or rehabilitation activities with the development goals of the neighborhood or community affected, no application for a loan or grant under this subsection shall be considered unless such application has been submitted to the governing body of the community affected, or to such other entity of local government as may be designated by the governing body, for such recommendations as the local governing body or its designee may desire to make. Any recommendations so made shall be given careful consideration by the Foundation before taking final action on any such application. If, upon the expiration of thirty days after any such application has been submitted to such governing body or its designee, such body or designee fails to provide such recommendations, the application may be considered without the benefit of such recommendations.

(e) The Foundation shall coordinate its activities and consult with the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other Federal departments and agencies engaged in providing homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families.

Report to President and Congress. Contents.

(f)(1) Not later than one hundred and twenty days after the close of each fiscal year, the Foundation shall prepare and submit to the President and to the Congress a full report of its activities during such year. Such report shall include an account of the Foundation's experiences with the efforts of private and public organizations to expand homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families, together with such recommendations as it deems appropriate.

(2) Whenever in its judgment the general unavailability of mortgage funds is sufficiently serious to deter the Foundation from carrying out its objective of expanding homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families, the Foundation shall, in its annual report or in a separate report to the President and the Congress, state its findings and make such recommendations for alternate means of financing housing for such families as it deems appropriate.

GAO audit. Access to records, etc.

(g)(1) The financial transactions of the Foundation shall be audited by the General Accounting Office in accordance with the principles and procedures applicable to commercial corporate transactions and under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Comptroller General of the United States. The representatives of the General Accounting Office shall have access to all books, accounts, financial records, reports, files, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to or in use by the Foundation and necessary to facilitate the audit, and they shall be afforded full facilities for verifying transactions with the balances or securities held by depositories, fiscal agents, and custodians. The audit shall cover the fiscal year corresponding to that of the United States Government.

Report to Congress and President.

(2) A report of each such audit shall be made by the Comptroller General to the Congress not later than January 15 following the close of the fiscal year for which the audit was made. The report shall set forth the scope of the audit and shall include a statement of assets and liabilities, capital, and surplus or deficit; a statement of sources and application of funds; and such comments and information as may be deemed necessary to keep the Congress informed of the operations and financial condition of the Foundation, together with such recommendations with respect thereto as the Comptroller General may deem advisable. The report shall also show specifically any program, expenditure, or other financial transaction or undertaking, observed in the course of the audit, which, in the opinion of the Comptroller General, has been carried on or made without authority of law. A copy of each report shall be furnished to the President and to the Foundation at the time submitted to the Congress.

(h) Funds of the Foundation shall be deposited, to the extent practicable, in accounts with financial institutions which are actively engaged in making loans or are otherwise carrying on activities in furtherance of homeownership and housing opportunities for lower income families.

Appropriation.

(i) There is authorized to be appropriated to the Foundation not to exceed $10,000,000 to carry out the purposes of this section. Appropriations made hereunder shall remain available until expended.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 108. (a) In order to encourage the use of new housing technologies in providing decent, safe, and sanitary housing for lower income families; to encourage large-scale experimentation in the use of such technologies; to provide a basis for comparison of such technologies with existing housing technologies in providing such housing; and to evaluate the effect of local housing codes and zoning regulations on the large-scale use of new housing technologies in the provision of such housing, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (hereinafter referred to as the "Secretary") shall institute a program under which qualified organizations, public and private, will submit plans for the development of housing for lower income families, using new and advanced technologies, on Federal land which has been made available by the Secretary for the purposes of this section, or on other land where (1) local building regulations permit the construction of experimental housing, or (2) State or local law permits variances from building regulations in the construction of experimental housing for the purpose of testing and developing new building technologies.

Approval of plans. Considerations.

(b) The Secretary shall approve not more than five plans utilizing new housing technologies which are submitted to him pursuant to the program referred to in subsection (a) and which he determines are most promising in furtherance of the purposes of this section. In making such determination the Secretary shall consider—

(1) the potential of the technology employed for producing housing for lower income families on a large scale at a moderate cost;

(2) the extent to which the plan envisages environmental quality;

(3) the possibility of mass production of the technology; and

(4) the financial soundness of the organization submitting the plan, and the ability of such organization, alone or in combination with other organizations, to produce at least one thousand dwelling units a year utilizing the technology proposed.

(c) In approving projects for mortgage insurance under section 233 (a)(2) of the National Housing Act (as added by subsection (f) of this section), the Secretary shall seek to achieve the construction of at least one thousand dwelling units a year over a five-year period for each of the various types of technologies proposed in approved plans under subsection (b). The Secretary shall evaluate each project with respect to which assistance is extended pursuant to this section with a view to determining (1) the detailed cost breakdown per dwelling unit, (2) the environmental quality achieved in each such unit, and (3) the effect which local housing codes and zoning regulations have, or would have if applicable, on the cost per dwelling unit.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, any land which is excess property within the meaning of such Act and which is determined by the Secretary to be suitable in furtherance of the purposes of this section may be transferred to the Secretary upon his request.

Surplus property.
63 Stat. 377.
40 USC 471 note.

(e) The Secretary shall, at the earliest practicable date, report his findings with respect to projects assisted pursuant to this section (including evaluations of each such project in accordance with subsection (c)), together with such recommendations for additional legislation as he determines to be necessary or desirable to expand the available supply of decent, safe, and sanitary housing for lower income families through the use of technologies the efficacy of which has been demonstrated under this section.

Report of findings.
Legislative recommendations.

(f)(1) Section 233(a) of the National Housing Act is amended—

75 Stat. 158.
12 USC 1715x.

(A) by inserting "(1)" after "(a)",

(B) by redesignating clauses (1), (2), and (3) as clauses (A), (B), and (C), respectively, and

(C) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(2) The Secretary is further authorized to insure and to make commitments to insure, under this section, mortgages (including advances on mortgages during construction) secured by properties in projects to be carried out in accordance with plans approved by the Secretary under section 108 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968.".

Ante, p. 495.

(2) Section 233(c) of such Act is amended by inserting at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Any authority which the Secretary may exercise in connection with a mortgage, or property covered by a mortgage, insured under any other section of this title (including payments to reduce rentals for, or to facilitate homeownership by, lower income families) may be exercised in connection with a mortgage, or property covered by a mortgage, meeting the requirements of such other section (except as specified in subsection (b)), which is insured under this section to the same extent and in the same manner as if the mortgage insured under this section was insured under such other section."

INSURANCE PROTECTION FOR HOMEOWNERS

SEC. 109. (a) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized, in cooperation with the private insurance industry, to develop a plan for the establishment at the earliest practicable date of an insurance program to help homeowners in meeting mortgage payments in times of personal economic adversity. Such insurance program shall be designed to protect mortgagors against foreclosure due to curtailment of income resulting from factors beyond their effective control, including such factors as death, disability, illness, and unemployment. Such insurance program shall also be designed to be actuarially sound through the use of premiums, fees, extended or increased payment schedules, or other similar methods, in conjunction with such Federal participation as may be necessary.

Report to Congress. Legislative recommendations.

(b) Within six months following the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall report to the Congress on his actions under this section, and shall recommend to the Congress such legislation as he deems appropriate to authorize him to enter into agreements with any insurance company, or any corporation or joint enterprise formed to provide home mortgage insurance protection, for the purpose of reinsuring insurance reserve funds, subsidizing premium payments on behalf of lower income mortgagors, or otherwise making possible the insurance protection of homeowners in accordance with subsection (a). In preparing such recommendations the Secretary shall consult with other agencies or instrumentalities of the United States which insure or guarantee home mortgages in order that such legislation as may be recommended affords equal benefits to mortgagors participating in their programs.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMISSION ON LOW INCOME HOUSING

SEC. 110. (a) (1) There is hereby established the National Advisory Commission on Low Income Housing (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission"). The Commission shall be composed of twenty-one members as follows:

Membership.

(A) Four members appointed by the President of the Senate, two from the majority party and two from the minority party;

(B) Four members appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, two from the majority party and two from the minority party; and

(C) Thirteen members appointed by the President, not more than three of whom shall be from the Federal Government, and of whom four shall be representative of persons eligible for low income housing. Appointment shall be made by the President, whenever practicable, after consultation with the ranking majority and minority members of the Housing Subcommittees of the Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives.

(2) Any vacancy in the Commission shall not affect its powers, but shall be filled in the same manner in which the original appointment was made.

(3) Eleven members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum, but a lesser number may conduct hearings.

(4) The members of the Commission shall elect a Chairman and a Vice Chairman from the membership of the Commission.

Commission functions.

(b) (1) The Commission shall undertake a comprehensive study and investigation, to further the policy set forth in section 2 of this Act, of practicable and effective ways of bringing decent, safe, and sanitary housing within the reach of low income families. Such study shall evaluate existing housing programs designed to assist such families, and explore new ways by which public and private resources may be more effectively utilized in meeting the housing needs of such families. In the carrying out of such study, the Commission may, where necessary or desirable, utilize the services of private research organizations, and shall, insofar as is practicable, seek to coordinate its investigation with studies undertaken, or being undertaken by the Banking and Currency Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Report to President and Congress.

(2) The Commission shall be organized and begin its functions at the earliest possible date, and shall submit to the President and to the Congress an interim report with respect to its findings and recommendations not later than July 1, 1969. A final report of its findings and recommendations shall be submitted to the President and the Congress not later than July 1, 1970.

(c) (1) The Commission or, on the authorization of the Commission, any subcommittee or members thereof, may, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this section, hold such hearings, take such testimony, and sit and act at such times and places as the Commission deems advisable. Any member authorized by the Commission may administer oaths or affirmations to witnesses appearing before the Commission or any subcommittee or members thereof. Hearings, etc.

(2) Each department, agency, and instrumentality of the executive branch of the Government is authorized and directed to furnish to the Commission, upon request made by the Chairman or Vice Chairman, such information as the Commission deems necessary to carry out its functions under this section.

(3) Subject to such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the Commission, the Chairman, without regard to the provisions of title 5, United States Code, governing appointments in the competitive service, and without regard to the provisions of chapter 51 and subchapter III of chapter 53 of such title relating to classification and General Schedule pay rates, shall have the power— 80 Stat. 408, 443, 467. 5 USC 2101, 5101, 5331. 33 F.R. 8641.

(1) to appoint and fix the compensation of such staff personnel as he deems necessary, and

(2) to procure temporary and intermittent services to the same extent as is authorized by section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, but at rates not to exceed $50 a day for individuals. Experts and consultants. 80 Stat. 416.

(d) (1) Any member of the Commission who is appointed from the executive or legislative branch of the Government shall serve without compensation in addition to that received in his regular employment, but shall be entitled to reimbursement for travel, subsistence, and other necessary expenses incurred by him in the performance of duties vested in the Commission.

(2) Members of the Commission, other than those referred to in paragraph (1), shall receive compensation at the rate of $75 per day for each day they are engaged in the performance of their duties as members of the Commission and shall be entitled to reimbursement for travel, subsistence, and other necessary expenses incurred by them in the performance of their duties as members of the Commission. Compensation, travel expenses.

(e) There are authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary to carry out this section. Appropriation.

(f) The Commission shall cease to exist thirty days after the submission of its final report. Termination.

TITLE II—RENTAL HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

Part A—Private Housing

RENTAL AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

SEC. 201. (a) Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding after section 235 (as added by section 101 of this Act) the following new section: 12 USC 1707-1715y.

"RENTAL AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

"SEC. 236. (a) For the purpose of reducing rentals for lower income families, the Secretary is authorized to make, and to contract to make, periodic interest reduction payments on behalf of the owner of a rental housing project designed for occupancy by lower income families, which shall be accomplished through payments to morgagees holding mortgages meeting the special requirements specified in this section.

"(b) Interest reduction payments with respect to a project shall only be made during such time as the project is operated as a rental housing project and is subject to a mortgage which meets the requirements of, and is insured under, subsection (j) of this section: Provided, That interest reduction payments may be made with respect to a rental or cooperative housing project owned by a private nonprofit corporation or other private nonprofit entity, a limited dividend corporation or other limited dividend entity, or a cooperative housing corporation, which is financed under a State or local program providing assistance through loans, loan insurance, or tax abatements, and which prior to completion of construction or rehabilitation is approved for receiving the benefits of this section.

"(c) The interest reduction payments to a mortgagee by the Secretary on behalf of a project owner shall be in an amount not exceeding the difference between the monthly payment for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the project owner as a mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage and the monthly payment for principal and interest such project owner would be obligated to pay if the mortgage were to bear interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum.

Mortgage handling expenses.

"(d) The Secretary may include in the payment to the mortgagee such amount, in addition to the amount computed under subsection (c), as he deems appropriate to reimburse the mortgagee for its expenses in handling the mortgage.

"(e) As a condition for receiving the benefits of interest reduction payments, the project owner shall operate the project in accordance with such requirements with respect to tenant eligibility and rents as the Secretary may prescribe. Procedures shall be adopted by the Secretary for review of tenant incomes at intervals of two years (or at shorter intervals where the Secretary deems it desirable).

"(f) For each dwelling unit there shall be established with the approval of the Secretary (1) a basic rental charge determined on the basis of operating the project with payments of principal and interest due under a mortgage bearing interest at the rate of 1 per centum per annum; and (2) a fair market rental charge determined on the basis of operating the project with payments of principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium which the mortgagor is obligated to pay under the mortgage covering the project. The rental for each dwelling unit shall be at the basic rental charge or such greater amount, not exceeding the fair market rental charge, as represents 25 per centum of the tenant's income.

Excess rental charges. Collection and deposit.

"(g) The project owner shall, as required by the Secretary, accumulate, safeguard, and periodically pay to the Secretary all rental charges collected in excess of the basic rental charges. Such excess charges shall be deposited by the Secretary in a fund which may be used by him as a revolving fund for the purpose of making interest reduction payments with respect to any rental housing project receiving assistance under this section, subject to limits approved in appropriation Acts pursuant to subsection (i). Moneys in such fund not needed for current operations may be invested in bonds or other obligations of the United States or in bonds or other obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States.

Investment of monies.

"(h) In addition to establishing the requirements specified in subsection (e), the Secretary is authorized to make such rules and regulations, to enter into such agreements, and to adopt such procedures as he may deem necessary or desirable to carry out the provisions of this section.

"(i)(1) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, including such sums as may be necessary to make interest reduction payments under contracts entered into under this section. The aggregate amount of contracts to make such payments shall not exceed amounts approved in appropriation Acts, and payments pursuant to such contracts shall not exceed $75,000,000 per annum prior to July 1, 1969, which maximum dollar amount shall be increased by $100,000,000 on July 1, 1969, and by $125,000,000 on July 1, 1970. Appropriation.

"(2) Not more than 20 per centum of the total amount of interest reduction payments authorized to be contracted to be made pursuant to appropriation Acts shall be contracted to be made with respect to families, occupying rental housing projects assisted under this section, whose incomes at the time of the initial renting of the projects exceed 135 per centum of the maximum income limits which can be established in the area, pursuant to the limitations prescribed in sections 2(2) and 15(7)(b)(ii) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings, but the income of such families at the time of the initial renting of the projects shall in no case exceed 90 per centum of the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with mortgages insured under section 221(d)(3) which bear interest at the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of section 221(d)(5). The limitations prescribed in this paragraph shall be administered by the Secretary so as to accord a preference to those families whose incomes are within the lowest practicable limits for obtaining rental accommodations in projects assisted under this section. The Secretary shall report annually to the respective Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives with respect to the income levels of families living in projects assisted under this section.

79 Stat. 457.
42 USC 1402.
63 Stat. 422.
42 USC 1415.
75 Stat. 150.
12 USC 1715l.
75 Stat. 152;
79 Stat. 454.
Report to congressional committees.

"(j)(1) The Secretary is authorized, upon application by the mortgagee, to insure a mortgage (including advances on such mortgage during construction) which meets the requirements of this subsection. Commitments for the insurance of such mortgages may be issued by the Secretary prior to the date of their execution or disbursment thereon, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe.

"(2) As used in this subsection— Definitions.

"(A) the terms 'family' and 'families' shall have the same meaning as in section 221; 68 Stat. 599.

"(B) the term 'elderly or handicapped families' shall have the same meaning as in section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959; and 73 Stat. 667.

"(C) the terms 'mortgage', 'mortgagee', and 'mortgagor' shall have the same meaning as in section 201. 12 USC 1701q.
48 Stat. 1247.
12 USC 1707.

"(3) To be eligible for insurance under this subsection, a mortgage shall meet the requirements specified in subsections (d)(1) and (d)(3) of section 221, except as such requirements are modified by this subsection. In the case of a project financed with a mortgage insured under this subsection which involves a mortgagor other than a cooperative or a private nonprofit corporation or association and which is sold to a cooperative or a nonprofit corporation or association, the Secretary is further authorized to insure under this subsection a mortgage given by such purchaser in an amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property at the time of purchase, which value shall be based upon a mortgage amount on which the debt service can be met from the income of the property when operated on a nonprofit basis, after payment of all operating expenses, taxes, and required reserves.

"(4) A mortgage to be insured under this subsection shall—

"(A) be executed by a private mortgagor eligible under subsection (d)(3) or (e) of section 221;

75 Stat. 150; 78 Stat. 778. 12 USC 1715l.

"(B) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charges, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the mortgage market; and

"(C) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary may prescribe.

"(5) The property or project shall—

"(A) comply with such standards and conditions as the Secretary may prescribe to establish the acceptability of the property for mortgage insurance and may include such nondwelling facilities as the Secretary deems adequate and appropriate to serve the occupants and the surrounding neighborhood: Provided, That the project shall be predominantly residential and any nondwelling facility included in the mortgage shall be found by the Secretary to contribute to the economic feasibility of the project, and the Secretary shall give due consideration to the possible effect of the project on other business enterprises in the community: Provided further, That, in the case of a project designed primarily for occupancy by elderly or handicapped families, the project may include related facilities for use by elderly or handicapped families, including cafeterias or dining halls, community rooms, workshops, infirmaries, or other inpatient or outpatient health facilities, and other essential service facilities;

"(B) include five or more dwelling units; and

"(C) be designed primarily for use as a rental project to be occupied by lower income families or by elderly or handicapped families: Provided, That lower income persons who are less than sixty-two years of age shall be eligible for occupancy in such a project, but not more than 10 per centum of the dwelling units in any such project shall be available for occupancy by such persons.

"(6) With the approval of the Secretary, the mortgagor may sell the individual dwelling units to lower income or elderly or handicapped purchasers. The Secretary may consent to the release of the mortgagor from his liability under the mortgage and the credit instrument secured thereby, or consent to the release of parts of the mortgaged property from the lien of the mortgage, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, and the mortgage may provide for such release.

"Tenant."

"(k) As used in this section the term 'tenant' includes a member of a cooperative; the term 'rental housing project' includes a cooperative housing project; and the terms 'rental' and 'rental charge' mean, with respect to members of a cooperative, the charges under the occupancy agreements between such members and the cooperative.

"(l) The Secretary shall from time to time allocate and transfer to the Secretary of Agriculture, for use (in accordance with the terms and conditions of this section) in rural areas and small towns, a reasonable portion of the total authority to contract to make periodic interest reduction payments as approved in appropriation Acts under subsection (i).

"(m) In determining the income of any person for the purposes of this section, there shall be deducted an amount equal to $300 for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of such person and living with such family, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of such person or his family."

12 USC 1715o.

(b)(1) Section 212(a) of the National Housing Act is amended by striking out "or 232" in the first sentence of the second paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof ", 232, or 236".

(2) Section 227(a) of such Act is amended by striking out "or (viii) under section 234(d)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(viii) under section 234(d), or (ix) under section 236". 12 USC 1715r.

(c) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, to transfer to section 236(j) of the National Housing Act the insurance of a mortgage which has not be finally endorsed for insurance under section 221(d)(3) of such Act and which has been approved for the below-market interest rate prescribed in the proviso of section 221(d)(5) of such Act. Ante, p. 500. 75 Stat. 150. 12 USC 1715l. 75 Stat. 152; 79 Stat. 454.

(d) The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, to insure under section 236(j) of the National Housing Act a mortgage meeting the requirements of such section which is given to refinance a mortgage loan made under section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959: Provided, That the application for such insurance is filed with the Secretary on or before the date of project completion, or within such reasonable time thereafter as the Secretary may permit. 73 Stat. 667. 12 USC 1701q.

(e)(1) Section 101(d) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "In determining the income of any tenant for the purposes of this section, there shall be deducted an amount equal to $300 for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of such tenant and living with such tenant, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of such tenant." 79 Stat. 452. 12 USC 1701s.

(2) Section 101(g) of such Act is amended by striking out "or section 231(c)(3)" and inserting in lieu thereof ", section 231(c)(3), or section 236".

(3) Section 101(j)(1) of such Act is amended—

(A) by striking out "and" at the end of subparagraph (B);

(B) by striking out the period at the end of subparagraph (C) and inserting in lieu thereof "; and"; and

(C) by inserting after subparagraph (C) a new subparagraph as follows:

"(D) a private nonprofit corporation or other private nonprofit legal entity, a limited dividend corporation or other limited divided legal entity, or a cooperative housing corporation, which is assisted under section 236 of the National Housing Act and which has been approved for receiving the benefits of this section: Provided, That payments shall not be made with respect to more than 20 per centum of the dwelling units in any property so financed."

(f) Section 207 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 is amended— 81 Stat. 261. 40 USC app. 207.

(1) by inserting in the heading "AND SECTION 236" immediately after "SECTION 221";

(2) by inserting "or section 236" after "section 221" each place it appears;

(3) by inserting "or 'section 236'" after "'section 221'" in subsection (a); and

(4) by inserting ", Government National Mortgage Association," immediately after "Federal Housing Administration" in subsection (c).

SEASONAL HOMES

SEC. 318. Section 203 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection: 52 Stat. 10; 80 Stat. 1266.

"(m) The Secretary is authorized to insure under this section any mortgage meeting the requirements of subsection (b) of this section, except as modified by this subsection. To be eligible, the mortgage shall involve a principal obligation not in excess of $15,000 and not in excess of 75 per centum of the appraised value of the property, as of the date the mortgage is accepted for insurance. The mortgage shall cover a dwelling for single-family occupancy which is approved for mortgage insurance prior to the beginning of construction. The dwelling need not be designed for year-round occupancy, but it shall (1) meet standards prescribed by the Secretary, and (2) be located in an area where the Secretary finds it is not practicable to obtain conformity with many of the requirements essential to the insuring of mortgages on housing in built-up urban areas. The development of the property with respect to which the mortgage is executed shall be consistent with the conservation of water and other natural resources of the area, and such property shall be an acceptable risk, giving consideration to the economic potential of the area in which the dwelling is located and the contribution that the housing will make toward improving the area. The Secretary may suspend the issuance of commitments under this subsection for the insurance of mortgages secured by properties situated in any area, whenever he determines that (i) there is a serious and unusual shortage of mortgage funds for residential construction in such area, (ii) such insurance would affect materially and adversely the availability of mortgage funds for residential construction in such area, and (iii) such suspension would not have an adverse impact upon the balanced economic development of the area."

TITLE IV—GUARANTEES FOR FINANCING NEW COMMUNITY LAND DEVELOPMENT

CITATION

Citation of title.

SEC. 401. This title may be referred to as the "New Communities Act of 1968".

PURPOSE

SEC. 402. It is the purpose of this title, by facilitating the enlistment of private capital in new community development, to encourage the development of new communities that—

(1) contribute to the general betterment of living conditions through the improved quality of community development made possible by a consistent design for the provision of homes, commercial and industrial facilities, public and community facilities, and open spaces;

(2) make substantial contributions to the sound and economic growth of the areas in which they are located;

(3) provide needed additions to the general housing supply;

(4) provide opportunities for innovation in housing and community development technology and in land use planning;

(5) enlarge housing and employment opportunities by increasing the range of housing choice and providing new investment opportunities for industry and commerce;

(6) encourage the maintenance and growth of a diversified local homebuilding industry; and

(7) include, to the greatest extent feasible, the employment of new and improved technology, techniques, materials, and methods in housing construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance under programs administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development with a view to reducing the cost of such construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance, and stimulating the increased and sustained production of housing under such programs.

GUARANTEE AUTHORITY

SEC. 403. To carry out the purposes of this title the Secretary is authorized to guarantee, and enter into commitments to guarantee, the bonds, debentures, notes, and other obligations issued by new community developers to help finance new community development projects. The Secretary may make such guarantees and enter into such commitments, subject to the limitations contained in sections 404 and 405, upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, taking into account (1) the large initial capital investment required to finance sound new communities, (2) the extended period before initial returns on this type of investment can be expected, (3) the irregular pattern of cash returns characteristic of such investment, and (4) the financial and security interests of the United States in connection with guarantees made under this title.

ELIGIBLE NEW COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 404. No guarantee or commitment to guarantee may be made under this title unless the Secretary has determined that—

(1) the proposed new community (A) will be economically feasible in terms of economic base or potential for growth, and (B) will contribute to the orderly growth and development of the area of which it is a part;

(2) there is a practicable plan (including appropriate time schedules) for financing the land acquisition and land development costs of the proposed new community and for improving and marketing the land which, giving due consideration to the public purposes of this title and the special problems involved in financing new communities, represents an acceptable financial risk to the United States;

(3) there is a sound internal development plan for the new community which (A) has received all governmental approvals required by State or local law or by the Secretary; and (B) is acceptable to the Secretary as providing reasonable assurance that the development will contribute to good living conditions in the area being developed, will be characterized by sound land use patterns, will include a proper balance of housing for families of low and moderate income, and will include or be served by such shopping, school, recreational, transportation, and other facilities as the Secretary deems satisfactory; and

(4) the internal development plan is consistent with a comprehensive plan which covers, or with comprehensive planning being carried on for, the area in which the land is situated, and which meets criteria established by the Secretary for such comprehensive plans or planning.

ELIGIBLE OBLIGATIONS

SEC. 405. (a) Any bond, debenture, note or other obligation guaranteed under this title shall—

(1) be issued by a new community developer, other than a public body, approved by the Secretary on the basis of financial, technical and administrative ability which demonstrates his capacity to carry out the proposed project;

(2) be issued to and held by investors approved by, or meeting requirements prescribed by, the Secretary, or if an offering to the public is contemplated, be underwritten upon terms and conditions approved by the Secretary;

(3) be issued to finance a program of land development (including acquisition or use of land) approved by the Secretary: Provided, That the Secretary shall, through cost certification procedures, escrow or trusteeship requirements, or other means, insure that all proceeds from the sale of obligations guaranteed under this title are expended pursuant to such program;

(4) involve a principal obligation in an amount not to exceed the lesser of (A) 80 per centum of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the property upon completion of the land development or (B) the sum of 75 per centum of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the land before development and 90 per centum of his estimate of the actual cost of the land development;

(5) bear interest at a rate satisfactory to the Secretary, such interest to be exclusive of any service charges and fees that may be approved by the Secretary;

(6) contain repayment and maturity provisions satisfactory to the Secretary; and

(7) contain provisions which the Secretary shall prescribe with respect to the protection of the security interests of the United States (including subrogation provisions), liens and releases of liens, payment of taxes, and such other matters as the Secretary may, in his discretion, prescribe.

(b) The outstanding principal obligations guaranteed under this title with respect to a single new community development project shall at no time exceed $50,000,000.

FEES AND CHARGES

SEC. 406. The Secretary is authorized to establish and collect fees for guarantees made under this title and may make such charges as he considers reasonable for the analysis of development and financing plans and for appraisals and inspections related to new community development projects. On or before January 1, 1970, the Secretary shall make a report to the Congress concerning the fees and other charges under this title that he estimates will be adequate to provide income sufficient for a self-supporting program.

Report to Congress.

GUARANTEE FUND

SEC. 407. (a) To provide for the payment of any liabilities incurred as a result of guarantees made under this title, the Secretary is authorized to establish a revolving fund which shall be comprised of (1) receipts from fees and charges; (2) recoveries under security or subrogation rights or other rights, and any other receipts obtained in connection with such guarantees; and (3) such sums, which are hereby authorized to be appropriated, as may be required for program operations and nonadministrative expenses and to make any and all payments guaranteed under this title.

(b) The full faith and credit of the United States is pledged to the payment of all guarantees made under this title with respect to both principal and interest, including (1) interest, as may be provided for in the guarantee, accruing between the date of default under a guaranteed obligation and the payment in full of the guarantee, and (2) principal and interest due under any debentures issued by the Secretary toward payment of guarantees made under this title.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of law relating to the acquisition, handling, improvement, or disposal of real and other property by the United States, the Secretary shall have power, for the protection of the interests of the guarantee fund authorized under this section, to pay out of such fund all expenses or charges in connection with the acquisition, handling, improvement, or disposal of any property acquired by him under this title; and notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary shall also have power to pursue to final collection by way of compromise or otherwise all claims acquired by him in connection with any security, subrogation, or other rights obtained by him in carrying out this title.

(d) The aggregate of the outstanding principal obligations guaranteed under this title shall at no time exceed $250,000,000.

INCONTESTABILITY

SEC. 408. Any guarantee made by the Secretary under this title shall be conclusive evidence of the eligibility of the obligations for such guarantee, and the validity of any guarantee so made shall be incontestable in the hands of a qualified holder of the guaranteed obligation except for fraud or material misrepresentation on the part of such holder.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF SMALL BUILDERS

SEC. 409. The Secretary shall adopt such requirements as he deems necessary to assure that new community construction assisted under this title will encourage the maintenance of a diversified local home-building industry and broad participation by builders, particularly small builders.

LABOR

SEC. 410. All laborers and mechanics employed by contractors or subcontractors in land development assisted under section 403 shall be paid wages at rates not less than those prevailing on similar construction in the locality as determined by the Secretary of Labor in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act, as amended (40 U.S.C. 276a—276a–5). No assistance shall be extended under section 403 for land development without first obtaining adequate assurance that these labor standards will be maintained upon the construction work involved in such development. The Secretary of Labor shall have, with respect to the labor standards specified in this section, the authority and functions set forth in Reorganization Plan Numbered 14 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1267), and section 2 of the Act of June 13, 1934 (40 U.S.C. 276c). 49 Stat. 1011; 78 Stat. 238. 63 Stat. 108.

REAL PROPERTY TAXATION

SEC. 411. Nothing in this title shall be construed to exempt any real property that may be acquired and held by the Secretary as a result of the exercise of lien or subrogation rights from real property taxation to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed.

SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS

SEC. 412. (a) The Secretary is authorized to make supplementary grants to State and local public bodies and agencies carrying out new community assistance projects, as defined in section 415(c), if the Secretary determines that such grants are necessary or desirable for carrying out a new community development project approved for assistance under section 403, and that a substantial number of housing units for low and moderate income persons is to be made available through such development project.

(b) In no case shall any grant under this section exceed 20 per centum of the cost of the new community assistance project for which the grant is made; and in no case shall the total Federal contributions to the cost of such project be more than 80 per centum. Federal contribution.

(c) In carrying out his authority under this section the Secretary shall consult with the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to new community assistance projects assisted by that Department, and he shall, for the purpose of subsection (b), accept that Department's certifications as to the cost of such projects.

Appropriations.

(d) There are authorized to be appropriated for grants under this section not to exceed $5,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $25,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amounts so appropriated shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this subsection but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970.

GENERAL PROVISIONS AND RULES AND REGULATIONS

SEC. 413. In the performance of, and with respect to, the functions, powers, and duties vested in him by this title, the Secretary shall (in addition to any authority otherwise vested in him) have the functions, powers, and duties (including the authority to issue rules and regulations) set forth in section 402, except subsections (c)(2), (d), and (f), of the Housing Act of 1950: Provided, That subsection (a)(1) of section 402 shall not apply with respect to functions, powers, and duties under section 412 of this title.

64 Stat. 78; 73 Stat. 681. 12 USC 1749a.

AUDIT BY GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

SEC. 414. Insofar as they relate to any grants or guarantees made pursuant to this title, the financial transactions of recipients of Federal grants or of developers whose obligations are guaranteed by the United States pursuant to this title may be audited by the General Accounting Office under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Comptroller General of the United States. The representatives of the General Accounting Office shall have access to all books, account, records, reports, files, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to or in use by such developers or recipients of grants pertaining to such financial transactions and necessary to facilitate the audit.

GAO access to records, etc.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 415. As used in this title—

(a) The term "land development" means the process of grading land, making, installing, or constructing water lines and water supply installations, sewer lines and sewage disposal installations, steam, gas, and electric lines and installations, roads, streets, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, storm drainage facilities, and other installations or work, whether on or off the site, which the Secretary deems necessary or desirable to prepare land for residential, commercial, industrial, or other uses, or to provide facilities for public or common use. The term "land development" shall not include any building unless it is (1) a building which is needed in connection with a water supply or sewage disposal installation or a steam, gas, or electric line or installation, or (2) a building, other than a school, which is to be owned and maintained jointly by the residents of the new community or is to be transferred to public ownership, but not prior to its completion.

(b) The term "actual costs" means the costs (exclusive of rebates or discounts) incurred by a new community developer in carrying out the land development assisted under this title. These costs may include amounts paid for labor, materials, construction contracts, land planning, engineers' and architects' fees, surveys, taxes, and interest during development, organizational and legal expenses, such allocation of general overhead expenses as are acceptable to the Secretary, and other items of expense incidental to development which may be approved by the Secretary. If the Secretary determines that there is an identity of interest between the new community developer and a contractor, there may be included as a part of actual costs an allowance for the contractor's profit in an amount deemed reasonable by the Secretary.

(c) The term "new community assistance projects" means projects assisted by grants made under section 702 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, section 306(a)(2) of the Consolidated Farmers' Home Administration Act, or title VII of the Housing Act of 1961. 79 Stat. 490. 42 USC 3102. 79 Stat. 931. 7 USC 1926.

CONFORMING AMENDMENTS

SEC. 416. (a) Section 202(b)(4) of the Housing Amendments of 1955 is amended by adding before the period at the end of the second sentence "or under title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968". 75 Stat. 183; 79 Stat. 494. 42 USC 1500-1500e. 75 Stat. 174; 80 Stat. 1273.

(b) The first paragraph of section 24 of the Federal Reserve Act is amended by striking out all that follows "national banking association" in the fourth sentence and adding "may make loans or purchase obligations for land development which are secured by mortgages insured under title X of the National Housing Act or guaranteed under title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968.". 42 USC 1492. 69 Stat. 633. 12 USC 371. 79 Stat. 461. 12 USC 1749aa.

(c) The paragraph which, prior to the amendments made by this Act, was the next to last paragraph of section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Without regard to any other provision of this subsection, an association may invest in loans or obligations, or interests therein, as to which the association has the benefit of any guaranty under title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as now or hereafter in effect, or of a commitment or agreement therefor, and such investments shall not be included in any percentage of assets or other percentage referred to in this subsection." 79 Stat. 465. 12 USC 1464.

TITLE V—URBAN RENEWAL

NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

SEC. 501. (a) Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after the title heading the following new subheading: 63 Stat. 414; 79 Stat. 457, 477. 42 USC 1450-1468.

"PART A—URBAN RENEWAL PROJECTS, DEMOLITION PROGRAMS, AND CODE ENFORCEMENT PROGRAMS"

(b) Title I of such Act is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following new part:

"PART B—NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

"PURPOSE AND AUTHORITY

"SEC. 131. (a) To facilitate more rapid renewal and development of urban areas on an effective scale, and to encourage more efficient and flexible utilization of public and private development opportunities by local communities in such areas, the Secretary is authorized to make financial assistance available under this title to local public agencies for undertakings and activities which are carried out under a neighborhood development program approved by him pursuant to this part.

"(b) A neighborhood development program shall consist of urban renewal project undertakings and activities in one or more urban renewal areas which are planned and carried out on the basis of annual increments in accordance with the provisions of this title for planning and carrying out urban renewal projects, except as modified by the provisions of this part.

"(c) No application for financial assistance in planning and carrying out a neighborhood development program shall be approved by the Secretary unless—

"(1) the governing body of the locality has, by resolution or ordinance, approved the proposed program and the annual increment covered by the application and authorized the filing of the application for financial assistance; and

"(2) the Secretary has concluded that there is the necessary capacity to carry out the undertakings and activities included under the program.

"FINANCIAL PROVISIONS

"SEC. 132. (a) Upon the approval of a neighborhood development program by the Secretary, the cost of any undertakings and activities authorized as part of the program shall be financed in accordance with the loan, capital grant, and project cost provisions of part A, except that—

42 USC 1450-1468.

"(1) net project cost may be calculated on the basis of costs incurred and proceeds derived for the account of the program during a specified twelve-month period, and may be recalculated for succeeding periods of twelve months to reflect additional costs and additional proceeds since the date of the last computation or recomputation; and

"(2) if property has been acquired but not disposed of prior to the computation or recomputation of net project cost, temporary loans made or secured under this title to finance undertakings or activities included in the program may remain outstanding until the property has been disposed of and the proceeds thereof together with additional funds becoming available to the program, are sufficient to permit repayment of the loans.

"(b) In the event that gross project cost as computed for a specified twelve-month period is exceeded, with respect to that period, by the sum of (1) the sales price of land or other property sold, and (2) the imputed capital value of land or other property leased or retained by the local public agency in accordance with the provisions of the urban renewal plan, the local public agency shall pay to the Secretary two-thirds of the excess (or three-fourths in the case of a program on a three-fourths grant basis), which amount shall be available to the Secretary for grant payments under section 103.

63 Stat. 416; 73 Stat. 672. 42 USC 1453.

"LOCAL GRANTS-IN-AID

"SEC. 133. (a) For the purpose of determining the eligibility of local grants-in-aid in connection with undertakings and activities carried out under a neighborhood development program, the three-year period referred to in the second paragraph of section 110(d) shall be deemed to be a period of three years prior to the authorization by the Secretary of the first contract for financial assistance under the program which includes the urban renewal area which is benefited by the public improvement or facility for which credit is claimed; and the seven-year period referred to in clause (1) of section 112(b) shall be deemed to be a period of seven years prior to the date of authorization by the Secretary of the first contract for financial assistance under the program which includes the urban renewal area which is benefited by the expenditures for which credit is claimed.

73 Stat. 675. 42 USC 1460.

75 Stat. 169. 42 USC 1463.

"(b) No portion of the cost of a public improvement or public facility (to the extent otherwise eligible) may be included as a local grant-in-aid in computing the gross project cost of an approved program for any twelve-month period—

"(1) prior to commencement of construction of the improvement or facility, or

"(2) in excess of the amount actually expended or obligated by contract.

"(c) The provisions of section 104 with respect to the pooling of local grants-in-aid among the various projects undertaken by a local public agency shall not be applicable with respect to any excess local grants-in-aid resulting from the urban renewal projects contained in a neighborhood development program. 70 Stat. 1101. 42 USC 1454.

"GENERAL PROVISIONS

"SEC. 134. (a) For purposes of this part—

"(1) the workable program requirement in section 101(c) shall apply to the authorization, rather than the execution, of any contract for loans or capital grants; 68 Stat. 623. 42 USC 1451.

"(2) capital grants on a three-fourths basis may only be made under section 103(a)(2)(B); 79 Stat. 479.

"(3) the relocation requirements specified in section 105(c) shall apply to each annual increment of an approved program; 42 USC 1453. 79 Stat. 475.

"(4) section 106(g) (relating to transient housing) shall apply to activities undertaken under approved programs, except that the determination as to need for transient housing shall be made with respect to any sale or lease of land for construction of such housing prior to such sale or lease; and 42 USC 1455. 73 Stat. 674. 42 USC 1456.

"(5) the requirement concerning demolition and removal of buildings and improvements stated in clause (A) of the sentence following paragraph (10) of section 110(c) shall apply to each annual increment of an approved program. 70 Stat. 1097; 78 Stat. 787; 79 Stat. 476. 42 USC 1460.

"(b) The approval by the Secretary of financial assistance for one or more annual increments of a neighborhood development program shall not be considered as obligating him to provide financial assistance for any subsequent annual increments.

"(c) The urban renewal plan referred to in section 110(b) may cover one or more of the urban renewal areas covered by a neighborhood development program and such plan may be modified from time to time to cover additional urban renewal areas added to the program. The Secretary may establish such requirements as he deems appropriate prescribing the scope and content of such plan, taking into consideration, among other matters, the degree of detail needed in the plan to properly and expeditiously carry out the activities and undertakings proposed in any annual increment of a neighborhood development program." 71 Stat. 301.

(c) Notwithstanding any requirement or condition to the contrary in section 6 or 20(i) of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Act of 1945 or in any other provision of law, the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency may plan and undertake neighborhood development programs under part B of title I of the Housing Act of 1949 (as added by this section), subject to all of the provisions of such Act of 1945 to the extent not inconsistent with such part B, and any such program shall be regarded as complying with the requirements of such sections 6 and 20(i) and of such other provision of law if it meets the applicable requirements established under such part B. 60 Stat. 794; 63 Stat. 441; 68 Stat. 630. D.C. Code 5-705, 5-717a.

INCREASED AUTHORIZATION

63 Stat. 416; 79 Stat. 475. 42 USC 1453.

SEC. 502. (a) Section 103(b) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out everything in the first sentence after "exceed" and inserting in lieu thereof "$7,600,000,000, which amount shall be increased by $1,400,000,000 on July 1, 1969".

80 Stat. 1260.

(b) Section 103(b) of such Act is further amended by striking out "$250,000,000" in the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "$600,000,000".

REHABILITATION GRANTS

SEC. 503. (a) The second sentence of section 115(a) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out the words "a structure" and "such structure" and inserting in lieu thereof "real property" and "such real property", respectively.

79 Stat. 457. 42 USC 1466.

(b) Section 115(b) of such Act is amended by striking out "$1,500" and inserting in lieu thereof "$3,000".

(c) Section 115(a) of such Act is amended by inserting "(1)" after "(a)", and by adding at the end thereof a new paragraph as follows:

"(2) In addition to the authority conferred by paragraph (1), and notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the Secretary is authorized, through the utilization of local public agencies where feasible, to make grants (payable from any grant funds provided under section 103(b)) to an individual or family, as described in subsection (b), to cover the cost of repairs and improvements necessary to make real property owned and occupied by such individual or family conform to public standards for decent, safe, and sanitary housing. No grants shall be made under this paragraph in the case of any property, unless (A) such property is in an area within a locality (other than an urban renewal or code enforcement area) which the governing body of the locality has determined, and so certifies to the Secretary, contains a substantial number of structures in need of such repairs and improvements, (B) there is in effect for the locality a workable program meeting the requirements of section 101(c), and (C) the area is definitely planned for rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement within a reasonable time, and such repairs and improvements to such property are consistent with the plan for rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement."

68 Stat. 623. 42 USC 1451.

(d) Section 115 of such Act is further amended—

(1) by redesignating subsection (b) as subsection (c) and inserting after subsection (a) a new subsection (b) as follows:

"(b) The Secretary is authorized to make grants (payable from any grant funds provided under section 103(b)), through the utilization of local public and private agencies where feasible, to an individual or family, as described in subsection (c), who owns and occupies real property which has been determined to be uninsurable because of physical hazards after an inspection pursuant to a statewide property insurance plan approved by the Secretary under title XII of the National Housing Act. Such grants may only be made to rehabilitate such property to the extent which the Secretary determines to be necessary to make it meet reasonable underwriting standards imposed by such plan."; and

Post, p. 556.

(2) by striking out "subsection (b)" in subsection (a) and inserting in lieu thereof "subsection (c)".

REHABILITATION IN URBAN RENEWAL AREAS

70 Stat. 1097; 78 Stat. 788. 42 USC 1460.

SEC. 504. Section 110(c)(8) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out (1) "guidance purposes, and", and (2) the proviso at the end thereof.

DISPOSITION OF PROPERTY FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING

SEC. 505. Section 107(a) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended— 78 Stat. 786. 42 USC 1457.

(1) by inserting after "public body or agency," the following: "or other approved purchaser or lessee,";

(2) by inserting ", section 221(h)(1), section 235(j)(1), or section 236" after "or (d)(4)";

(3) by inserting "or lessee" after "a purchaser" and after "such purchaser", and "or lease" after "purchase";

(4) by striking out "rental or cooperative";

(5) by striking out "moderate" and inserting in lieu thereof "low or moderate"; and

(6) by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: ": Provided, That when property is made available under clause (1) to an approved purchaser or lessee other than a limited dividend corporation, nonprofit corporation or association, cooperative, or public body or agency, the Secretary shall assure that the benefits of this subsection will go to the occupant of the property rather than to such purchaser or lessee".

GRANTS FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME HOUSING IN OPEN LAND PROJECTS

SEC. 506. Section 103(a)(1) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: ", except that he may contract for a grant in an amount not to exceed two-thirds of the difference between the proceeds from any land disposed of pursuant to section 107 and the fair value of the land without regard to such section". 63 Stat. 416; 75 Stat. 165. 42 USC 1453.

URBAN RENEWAL LOAN CONTRACTS

SEC. 507. (a) Section 102(c) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended— 63 Stat. 414. 42 USC 1452.

(1) by striking out "at interest rates lower than provided in the loan contract" in the first sentence; and

(2) by inserting before the period at the end of the first sentence the following: ": Provided, That, if at any time during the undertaking of the project, the interest rate on such a loan from a source other than the Federal Government is greater than the rate at which funds could be made available under the Federal loan contract, the Secretary may make a supplemental grant to the local public agency in the amount of the difference between the interest cost from such sources and the interest cost at the contract rate, and no part of the amount of any such grant shall be required to be contributed as a part of the local grant-in-aid".

(b) Loan contracts outstanding on the date of enactment of this section may be amended to incorporate the provisions authorized by the amendment contained in subsection (a) without regard to the proviso in section 110(g) of the Housing Act of 1949. 68 Stat. 626. 42 USC 1460.

PROJECT COMPLETION PRIOR TO DISPOSITION OF CERTAIN PROPERTY

SEC. 508. (a) Section 106 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection: 63 Stat. 417. 42 USC 1456.

"(i) Upon a determination by the Secretary that (1) not more than 5 per centum of the total area of land acquired as part of an urban renewal project remains to be disposed of, (2) the local public agency does not expect to be able, due to circumstances beyond its control, to dispose of such land in the near future, (3) all other project activities are completed, and (4) the local public agency has agreed to dispose of or retain such land for uses in accordance with the urban renewal plan, the urban renewal project may be deemed completed, and the net project cost may be computed and the capital grant paid."

68 Stat. 626.
42 USC 1460.

(b) Section 110(f) of such Act is amended by inserting before the period at the end thereof the following: "or for subsequent disposition or retention as provided under section 106(i)".

requirements of section 101(c) of the Housing Act of 1949, (iii) the property is residential and owner-occupied, (iv) the property is in need of rehabilitation and is in violation of the local minimum housing or similar code, and (v) the area is definitely planned for rehabilitation or concentrated code enforcement within a reasonable time, and the rehabilitation of such property is consistent with the plan for rehabilitation or code enforcement;

"(2) the applicant is unable to secure the necessary funds from other sources upon comparable terms and conditions; and

"(3) the loan is an acceptable risk taking into consideration the need for the rehabilitation, the security available for the loan, and the ability of the applicant to repay the loan."

(d) Section 312 of such Act is further amended—

(1) by inserting "or" after the semicolon at the end of paragraph (1)(B) in subsection (a) (as amended by subsection (c) of this section), and by inserting after such paragraph (1)(B) the following new subparagraph:

"(C)(i) the property has been determined to be uninsurable because of physical hazards after an inspection pursuant to a statewide property insurance plan approved by the Secretary

Post, p. 556.

under title XII of the National Housing Act, and (ii) the loan is made to the owner or tenant of the property to finance rehabilitation which the Secretary determines to be necessary to make the property meet reasonable underwriting standards: "; and

(2) by striking out "or" after "applicable codes" in subsection (b)(1) and inserting in lieu thereof a comma, and by inserting after "urban renewal plan" in such subsection ", or a statewide property insurance plan".

(e) Section 312(a) of such Act (as amended by the preceding provisions of this section) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "Notwithstanding the preceding provisions of this subsection, no loan with respect to residential property shall be made under this section to any person whose annual income, as determined pursuant to criteria and procedures established by the Secretary, exceeds the limits prescribed by the Secretary for occupants of projects financed with below-market interest rate mortgages insured (in the area involved) under section 221(d)(3) of the National Housing Act: Provided, That the provisions of this sentence shall not apply to property in the area of an urban renewal project or a code enforcement project for which the city or other local public body or agency is receiving financial assistance under title I of the Housing Act of 1949 if, prior to the date of enactment of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, such local public body or agency specifically developed plans for such project in reliance upon the availability of loans under this section."

INTERIM ASSISTANCE FOR BLIGHTED AREAS

42 USC 1450-1468.

SEC. 514. Title I of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after section 117 a new section as follows:

"INTERIM ASSISTANCE FOR BLIGHTED AREAS

"SEC. 118. Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the Secretary is authorized to enter into contracts (in an aggregate amount not to exceed $15,000,000 in any fiscal year) to make, and to make, grants as provided in this section (payable from any grant funds provided under section 103(b)) to cities, other municipalities, and counties for the purpose of assisting such localities in carrying our programs to alleviate harmful conditions in slum and blighted areas which are planned for substantial clearance, rehabilitation, or federally assisted code enforcement in the near future but in which some immediate public action is needed until clearance, rehabilitation, or code enforcement activities can be undertaken. Such grants shall not exceed two-thirds (or three-fourths in the case of any city, other municipality, or county having a population of fifty thousand or less according to the most recent decennial census) of the cost of planning and carrying out programs which may include (1) the repair of streets, sidewalks, parks, playgrounds, publicly owned utilities, and public buildings to meet needs consistent with the short-term continued use of the area prior to the undertaking of the contemplated clearance or upgrading activities, (2) the improvement of private properties to the extent needed to eliminate the most immediate dangers to public health and safety, (3) the demolition of structures determined to be structurally unsound or unfit for human habitation and which constitute a public nuisance and serious hazard to the public health and safety, (4) the establishment of temporary public playgrounds on vacant land within the area, and (5) the improvement of garbage and trash collection, street cleaning, and similar activities. The Secretary shall encourage, wherever feasible, the employment of otherwise unemployed or underemployed residents of the area in carrying out the activities and undertakings assisted under this section. The provisions of sections 101(c), 106, and 114 shall be applicable to activities and undertakings assisted under this section to the same extent as if such activities and undertakings were being carried out in an urban renewal area as part of an urban renewal project."

SEC. 515. Section 117 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by inserting the following before the period at the end thereof: ": Provided, That the Secretary may, in addition to authorizing a local public agency to make grants as prescribed in section 115, make such grants through the utilization of local private nonprofit agencies".

42 USC 1466.

RELOCATION PAYMENTS

SEC. 516. Section 114(c) of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended— 78 Stat. 788. 42 USC 1465.

(1) by striking out the first sentence of paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "In addition to any amount under paragraph (1), a local public agency may pay to or on behalf of any displaced family, displaced individual sixty-two years of age or over, or displaced handicapped individual, monthly payments over a period not to exceed twenty-four months in an amount not to exceed $500 in the first twelve months and $500 in the second twelve months to assist such displaced family or individual to secure a decent, safe, and sanitary dwelling.";

(2) by striking out "relocation adjustment" in the second sentence of paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof "additional";

(3) by striking out the second proviso in paragraph (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: ": Provided further, That additional payments under this paragraph may be paid on a lump sum or other than monthly basis in cases in which the small size of the payments that would otherwise be required do not warrant a number of separate payments or in other cases in which other than monthly payments are determined warranted by the Secretary: And provided further, That no payment received under this paragraph shall be considered as income for the purpose of determining the eligibility or the extent of eligibility of any person for assistance under the Social Security Act or any other Federal Act"; and 49 Stat. 620. 42 USC 1305.

(4) by inserting a new paragraph (3) as follows:

"(3) In addition to any amount under paragraph (1), a local public agency may make a payment to a displaced family or individual, who does not receive the additional payment authorized under paragraph (2) and who is the owner of real property which is acquired for a project assisted under this title and which is improved by a single- or two-family dwelling occupied by the owner for a period of not less than one year prior to the initiation of negotiations for the acquisition of such property. Such payment, not to exceed $5,000, shall be an amount which, when added to the acquisition payment, equals the average price required for a decent, safe, and sanitary dwelling of modest standards adequate in size to accommodate the displaced owner, reasonably accessible to public services and places of employment and available on the private market: Provided, That such payment may be made only to a displaced owner who purchases and occupies a dwelling within one year subsequent to the date on which he is required to move from the dwelling acquired for the project: Provided further, That no such payment may be made if the owner-occupant receives a payment required by the State law of eminent domain which is determined by the Secretary to have substantially the same purpose and effect as this paragraph and to be part of the cost of the project for which Federal financial assistance is available."

TITLE VI—URBAN PLANNING AND FACILITIES

COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING

SEC. 601. Section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954 is amended to read as follows: 73 Stat. 678. 40 USC 461.

"COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING

"SEC. 701. (a) In order to assist State and local governments in solving planning problems, including those resulting from the increasing concentration of population in metropolitan and other urban areas and the out-migration from and lack of coordinated development of resources and services in rural areas; to facilitate comprehensive planning for urban and rural development, including coordinated transportation systems, on a continuing basis by such governments; and to encourage such governments to establish and improve planning staffs and techniques on an areawide basis, and to engage private consultants where their professional services are deemed appropriate by the assisted governments, the Secretary is authorized to make planning grants to—

"(1) State planning agencies for the provision of planning assistance to (A) cities and other municipalities having a population of less than 50,000 according to the latest decennial census, and counties without regard to population: Provided, That grants shall be made under this paragraph for planning assistance to counties having a population of 50,000 or more, according to the latest decennial census, which are within metropolitan areas, only if (i) the Secretary finds that planning and plans for such county will be coordinated with the program of comprehensive planning, if any, which is being carried out for the metropolitan area of which the county is a part, and (ii) the aggregate amount of the grants made subject to this proviso does not exceed 15 per centum of the aggregate amount appropriated, after September 2, 1964, for the purposes of this section, (B) any group of adjacent communities, either incorporated or unincorporated, having a total population of less than 50,000 according to the latest decennial census and having common or related urban planning problems, (C) cities, other municipalities, and counties referred to in paragraph (3) of this subsection, and areas referred to in paragraph (4) of this subsection, and (D) Indian reservations;

"(2) State, metropolitan, and regional planning agencies for metropolitan or regional planning, and to cities, within metropolitan areas, for planning which is part of comprehensive metropolitan planning and which shall supplement and be coordinated with State, metropolitan, and regional planning;

"(3)(A) economic development districts designated by the Secretary of Commerce under title IV of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, and

79 Stat. 560.
42 USC 3161-3171 and note.

"(B) cities, other municipalities, and counties which (i) are situated in redevelopment areas or economic development districts designated by the Secretary of Commerce under title IV of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965, or (ii) have suffered substantial damage as a result of catastrophe which the President, pursuant to section 2(a) of the Act entitled 'An Act to authorize Federal assistance to States and local governments in major disasters, and for other purposes', approved September 30, 1950, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1855a), has determined to be a major disaster;

64 Stat. 1109.

"(4) official governmental planning agencies for areas where rapid urbanization has resulted or is expected to result from the establishment or rapid and substantial expansion of a Federal installation, or for areas where rapid urbanization is expected to result on land developed or to be developed as a new community approved under section 1004 of the National Housing Act or title IV of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968;

80 Stat. 1271.
12 USC 1749cc-1.
Ante, p. 513.

"(5) States for State and interstate comprehensive planning and for research and coordination activity related thereto, including technical and other assistance for the establishment and operation of intrastate and interstate planning agencies;

"(6) State planning agencies for assistance to district planning, or planning for areas within districts, carried on by or for district planning agencies;

"(7) metropolitan and regional planning agencies, with the approval of the State planning agency or (in States where no such planning agency exists) of the Governor of the State, for the provision of planning assistance within the metropolitan area or region to cities, other municipalities, counties, groups of adjacent communities, or Indian reservations described in clauses (A), (B), (C), and (D) of paragraph (1) of this subsection;

"(8) official governmental planning agencies for any area where there has occurred a substantial reduction in employment opportunities as the result of (A) the closing (in whole or in part) of a Federal installation, or (B) a decline in the volume of Government orders for the procurement of articles or materials produced or manufactured in such area;

"(9) tribal planning councils or other tribal bodies designated by the Secretary of the Interior for planning for an Indian reservation;

"(10) the various regional commissions established by the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 or under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 for comprehensive planning for the regions established under such Acts (or State agencies or instrumentalities participating in such planning); and

79 Stat. 5.
40 USC app. 1.
79 Stat. 552.
42 USC 3121 note.

"(11) local development districts, certified under section 301 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965, for comprehensive planning for their entire areas, or for metropolitan planning, urban planning, county planning, or small municipality planning within such areas in the Appalachian region, and for planning for Appalachian regional programs.

Planning assisted under this section shall, to the maximum extent feasible, cover entire areas having common or related development problems. The Secretary shall encourage cooperation in preparing and carrying out plans among all interested municipalities, political subdivisions, public agencies, and other parties in order to achieve coordinated development of entire areas. To the maximum extent feasible, pertinent plans and studies already made for areas shall be utilized so as to avoid unnecessary repetition of effort and expense. Planning which may be assisted under this section includes the preparation of comprehensive transportation surveys, studies, and plans to aid in solving problems of traffic congestion, facilitating the circulation of people and goods in metropolitan and other areas and reducing transportation needs. Planning carried out with assistance under this section shall also include a housing element as part of the preparation of comprehensive land use plans, and this consideration of the housing needs and land use requirements for housing in each comprehensive plan shall take into account all available evidence of the assumptions and statistical bases upon which the projection of zoning, community facilities, and population growth is based, so that the housing needs of both the region and the local communities studied in the planning will be adequately covered in terms of existing and prospective in-migrant population growth. Funds available under this section shall be in addition to and may be used jointly with funds available for planning surveys and investigations under other federally aided programs, and nothing contained in this section shall be construed as affecting the authority of the Secretary of Transportation under section 307 of title 23, United States Code.

72 Stat. 913.

"(b) A planning grant made under subsection (a) shall not exceed two-thirds of the estimated cost of the work for which the grant is made: Provided, That such a grant may be made for up to 75 per centum of such estimated cost when made for planning primarily for (1) redevelopment areas, local development districts, or economic development districts, or portions thereof, described in paragraph (3) (A) and (B) (i) and paragraph (11) of subsection (a), (2) areas described in subsection (a) (8), and (3) the various regions, as described in subsection (a) (10). All grants made under this section shall be subject to terms and conditions prescribed by the Secretary. No portion of any grant made under this section shall be used for the preparation of plans for specific public works. The Secretary is authorized, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3648 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, to make advance or progress payments on account of any grant made under this section. There are authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of this section not to exceed $265,000,000 prior to July 1, 1969, and not to exceed $390,000,000 prior to July 1, 1970. Of the amount available prior to July 1, 1969, $20,000,000 may be used only for district planning grants under subsection (a) (6), which amount shall be increased by $10,000,000 on July 1, 1969. Any amounts appropriated under this section shall remain available until expended: Provided, That, of any funds appropriated under this section, not to exceed an aggregate of $10,000,000 plus 5 per centum of the funds so appropriated may be used by the Secretary for studies, research, and demonstration projects, undertaken independently or by contract, for the development and improvement of techniques and methods for comprehensive planning and for the advancement of the purposes of this section, and for grants to assist in the conduct of studies and research relating to needed revisions in State statutes which create, govern, or control local governments and local governmental operations.

31 USC 529.
Appropriation.

"(c) The Secretary is authorized, in areas embracing several municipalities or other political subdivisions, to encourage planning on a unified regional, district, or metropolitan basis and to provide technical assistance for such planning and the solution of problems relating thereto.

"(d) It is the further intent of this section to encourage comprehensive planning, including transportation planning, for States, cities, counties, metropolitan areas, districts, regions, and Indian reservations and the establishment and development of the organizational units needed therefor. In extending financial assistance under this section, the Secretary may require such assurances as he deems adequate that the appropriate State and local agencies are making reasonable progress in the development of the elements of comprehensive planning. The Secretary is authorized to provide technical assistance to State and local governments and their agencies and instrumentalities, and to Indian tribal bodies, undertaking such planning and, by contract or otherwise, to make studies and publish information on related problems.

Consultation with other Government officials.

"(e) In the exercise of his responsibilities under this section, the Secretary shall consult with those officials of the Federal Government responsible for the administration of programs of Federal assistance to the States and municipalities for various categories of public facilities and other comprehensively planned activities. He shall, particularly, consult with the Secretary of Agriculture prior to his approval of any district planning grants under subsections (a) (6) and (g), and with the Secretary of Commerce prior to his approval of any planning grants which include any part of an economic development district as defined and designated under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Commerce, as appropriate, may provide technical assistance, with or without reimbursement, in connection with the establishment of districts by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and the carrying out of planning by such districts. 79 Stat. 552. 42 USC 3121 note.

"(f) The consent of the Congress is hereby given to any two or more States to enter into agreements or compacts, not in conflict with any law of the United States, for cooperative effort and mutual assistance in the comprehensive planning for the growth and development of interstate, metropolitan, or other urban areas, and to establish such agencies, joint or otherwise, as they may deem desirable for making effective such agreements and compacts. Interstate compacts.

"(g) In addition to the planning grants authorized by subsection (a), the Secretary is further authorized to make grants to organizations composed of public officials representative of the political jurisdictions within the metropolitan area, region, or district for the purpose of assisting such organizations to undertake studies, collect data, develop metropolitan, regional, and district plans and programs, and engage in such other activities, including implementation of such plans, as the Secretary finds necessary or desirable for the solution of the metropolitan, regional, or district problems in such areas, regions, or districts. To the maximum extent feasible, all grants under this subsection shall be for activities relating to all the developmental aspects of the total metropolitan area, region, or district including, but not limited to, land use, transportation, housing, economic development, natural resources development, community facilities, and the general improvement of living environments. A grant under this subsection shall not exceed two-thirds of the estimated cost of the work for which the grant is made.

"(h) In addition to the other grants authorized by this section, the Secretary is authorized to make grants to assist any city, other municipality, or county in making a survey of the structures and sites in such locality which are determined by its appropriate authorities to be of historic or architectural value. Any such survey shall be designed to identify the historic structures and sites in the locality, determine the cost of their rehabilitation or restoration, and provide such other information as may be necessary or appropriate to serve as a foundation for a balanced and effective program of historic preservation in such locality. The aspects of any such survey which relate to the identification of historic and architectural values shall be conducted in accordance with criteria found by the Secretary to be comparable to those used in establishing the national register maintained by the Secretary of the Interior under other provisions of law; and the results of each such survey shall be made available to the Secretary of the Interior. A grant under this subsection shall not exceed two-thirds of the cost of the survey for which it is made, and shall be made to the appropriate agency or entity specified in paragraphs (1) through (11) of subsection (a) or, if there is no such agency or entity which is qualified and willing to receive the grant and provide for its utilization in accordance with this subsection, directly to the city, other municipality, or county involved. Historical sites and structures, study. 80 Stat. 915. 16 USC 470-470m.

"(i) As used in this section—

"(1) The term 'metropolitan area' means a standard metropolitan statistical area, as established by the Bureau of the Budget, subject, however, to such modifications or extensions as the Secretary deems to be appropriate for the purposes of this section.

"(2) The term 'region' includes (A) all or part of the area of jurisdiction of one or more units of general local government, and (B) one or more metropolitan areas.

"(3) The term 'district' includes all or part of the area of jurisdiction of (A) one or more counties, and (B) one or more other units of general local government, but does not include any portion of a metropolitan area.

"(4) The term 'comprehensive planning' includes the following:

"(A) preparation, as a guide for governmental policies and action, of general plans with respect to (i) the pattern and intensity of land use, (ii) the provision of public facilities (including transportation facilities) and other government services, and (iii) the effective development and utilization of human and natural resources;

"(B) long-range physical and fiscal plans for such action;

"(C) programing of capital improvements and other major expenditures, based on a determination of relative urgency, together with definite financing plans for such expenditures in the earlier years of the program;

"(D) coordination of all related plans and activities of the State and local governments and agencies concerned; and

"(E) preparation of regulatory and administrative measures in support of the foregoing.

Comprehensive planning for the purpose of districts shall not include planning for or assistance to establishments in relocating from one area to another or assist subcontractors whose purpose is to divest, or whose economic success is dependent upon divesting, other contractors or subcontractors of contracts theretofore customarily performed by them: Provided, That this limitation shall not be construed to prohibit assistance for the expansion of an existing business entity through the establishment of a new branch, affiliate, or subsidiary of such entity, if the Secretary finds that the establishment of such branch, affiliate, or subsidiary will not result in an increase in unemployment in the area of original location or in any other area where such entity conducts business operations, unless the Secretary has reason to believe that such branch, affiliate, or subsidiary is being established with the intention of closing down the operations of the existing business entity in the area of its original location or in any other area where it conducts such operations.

"(5) The term 'State planning agencies' includes official State planning agencies and (in States where no such planning agency exists) agencies or instrumentalities of State government designated by the Governor of the State and acceptable to the Secretary.

"(6) The terms 'metropolitan planning agencies', 'regional planning agencies', and 'district planning agencies' mean official metropolitan, regional, and district planning agencies, or other agencies and instrumentalities designated by the Governor (or Governors in the case of interstate planning), and acceptable to the Secretary, empowered under State or local law or interstate compact to perform metropolitan, regional, or district planning, respectively: Provided, That such agencies and instrumentalities shall, to the greatest practicable extent, be composed of or responsible to the elected officials of the unit or units of general local government for whose jurisdictions they are empowered to engage in planning."

PLANNED AREAWIDE DEVELOPMENT

SEC. 602. (a) The heading of title II of the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act of 1966 is amended to read as follows: "TITLE II—PLANNED AREAWIDE DEVELOPMENT".

80 Stat. 1261.
42 USC 3331.

(b) Section 201 of such Act is amended to read as follows:

"FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

"SEC. 201. (a) The Congress hereby finds that the welfare of the Nation and of its people is directly dependent upon the sound and orderly development and the effective organization and functioning of our State and local governments.

"It further finds that it is essential that our State and local governments prepare, keep current, and carry out comprehensive plans and programs for their orderly physical development with a view to meeting efficiently all their economic and social needs.

"It further finds that our State and local governments are especially handicapped in this task by the complexity and scope of governmental services required, the multiplicity of political jurisdictions and agencies involved, and the inadequacy of the operational and administrative arrangements available for cooperation among them.

"It further finds that present requirements for areawide planning and programing in connection with various Federal programs have materially assisted in the solution of areawide problems, but that greater coordination of Federal programs and additional participation and cooperation are needed from the States and localities in perfecting and carrying out such efforts.

"(b) It is the purpose of this title to provide through greater coordination of Federal programs, and through supplementary grants for certain federally assisted development projects, additional encouragement and assistance to States and localities for making comprehensive areawide planning and programing effective."

(c) Section 202 of such Act is amended by striking out "metropolitan" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide". 80 Stat. 1261. 42 USC 3332.

(d)(1) Section 205 of such Act is amended by striking out "metropolitan development" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide development". 42 USC 3335.

(2) Such section is further amended by striking out "metropolitan areas" and "metropolitan area" and inserting in lieu thereof "areas" and "area", respectively.

(3) Such section is further amended by striking out "metropolitanwide" each place it appears, and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide".

(4) Such section is further amended by striking out "metropolitan planning" each place it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "areawide planning".

(5) Such section is further amended by inserting "where appropriate," after "(B)" in subsection (c)(1).

(6) Such section is further amended by striking out "within the metropolitanwide area" in subsection (f).

(e)(1) Paragraphs (1) and (2) of section 208 of such Act are amended by striking out "Metropolitan" and inserting in lieu thereof "Areawide". 42 USC 3338.

(2) Paragraph (7) of such section is amended—

(A) by striking out "or metropolitan or regional" and inserting in lieu thereof ", metropolitan, regional, or district"; and

(B) by striking out "metropolitan" in the parenthetical phrase.

(f) Section 206(b) of such Act is amended by striking out the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Any amounts appropriated under this section shall remain available until expended, and any amounts authorized for any fiscal year under this section but not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970." 42 USC 3336.

ADVANCE ACQUISITION OF LAND

SEC. 603. (a) Section 701 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by striking out "in connection with the future construction of public works and facilities" in clause (3) and inserting in lieu thereof "in the future for public purposes".

79 Stat. 489.
42 USC 3101.

(b) Section 704 of such Act is amended to read as follows:

42 USC 3104.

"ADVANCE ACQUISITION OF LAND

"SEC. 704. (a) In order to encourage and assist the timely acquisition of land planned to be utilized in the future for public purposes, the Secretary is authorized to make grants to States and local public bodies and agencies to assist in financing the acquisition of a fee simple estate or other interest in such land.

"(b) The amount of any grant made under this section shall not exceed the aggregate amount of reasonable interest charges on the loans or other financial obligations incurred to finance the acquisition of such land for a period not in excess of the lesser of (1) five years from the date of acquisition of such land or (2) the period of time between the date on which the land was acquired and the date its use began for the purpose for which it was acquired: Provided, That where all or any portion of the cost of such land is not financed through borrowings, the amount of the grant shall be computed on the basis of the aggregate amount of reasonable interest charges that the Secretary determines would have been required.

"(c) No grant shall be made under this section unless the Secretary determines that the land will be utilized for a public purpose within a reasonable period of time and that such utilization will contribute to economy, efficiency, and the comprehensively planned development of the area. The Secretary shall in all cases require that land acquired with the assistance of a grant under this section be utilized for a public purpose within five years after the date on which a contract to make such grant is entered into, unless the Secretary (1) determines that due to unusual circumstances a longer period of time is necessary and in the public interest, and (2) reports such determination promptly to the Committees on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Report to congressional committees.

"(d) No land acquired with assistance under this section shall, without approval of the Secretary, be diverted from the purpose originally approved. The Secretary shall approve no such diversion unless he finds that the diversion is in accord with the then applicable comprehensive plan for the area. In cases of a diversion of land to other than a public purpose, the Secretary may require repayment of the grant, or substitution of land of approximately equal fair market value, whichever he deems appropriate. An interim use of the land for a public or private purpose in accordance with standards prescribed by the Secretary, or approved by him, shall not constitute a diversion within the meaning of this subsection.

"(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no project for which land is acquired with assistance under this section shall, solely as a result of such advance acquisition, be considered ineligible for the purpose of any other Federal loan or grant program, and the amount of the purchase price paid for the land by the recipient of a grant under this section may be considered an eligible cost for the purpose of such other Federal loan or grant program."

"(d) To provide a greater degree of liquidity to the mortgage investment market and an additional means of financing its operations under this section, the corporation is authorized to set aside any mortgages held by it under this section, and, upon approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue and sell securities based upon the mortgages so set aside. Securities issued under this subsection may be in the form of debt obligations or trust certificates of beneficial interest, or both. Securities issued under this subsection shall have such maturities and bear such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the corporation with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Securities issued by the corporation under this subsection shall, to the same extent as securities which are direct obligations of or obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States, be deemed to be exempt securities within the meaning of laws administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Mortgages set aside pursuant to this subsection shall at all times be adequate to enable the corporation to make timely principal and interest payments on the securities issued and sold pursuant to this subsection."

(b) Section 306 of such Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection: 12 USC 1721.

"(g) The Association is authorized, upon such terms and conditions as it may deem appropriate, to guarantee the timely payment of principal of and interest on such trust certificates or other securities as shall (1) be issued by the corporation under section 304(d), or by any other issuer approved for the purposes of this subsection by the Association, and (2) be based on and backed by a trust or pool composed of mortgages which are insured under the National Housing Act or title V of the Housing Act of 1949, or which are insured or guaranteed under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 or chapter 37 of title 38, United States Code. The Association shall collect from the issuer a reasonable fee for any guaranty under this subsection and shall make such charges as it may determine to be reasonable for the analysis of any trust or other security arrangement proposed by the issuer. In the event the issuer is unable to make any payment of principal of or interest on any security guaranteed under this subsection, the Association shall make such payment as and when due in cash, and thereupon shall be subrogated fully to the rights satisfied by such payment. Any Federal, State, or other law to the contrary notwithstanding, the Association is hereby empowered, in connection with any guaranty under this subsection, whether before or after any default, to provide by contract with the issuer for the extinguishment, upon default by the issuer, of any redemption, equitable, legal, or other right, title, or interest of the issuer in any mortgage or mortgages constituting the trust or pool against which the guaranteed securities are issued; and with respect to any issue of guaranteed securities, in the event of default and pursuant otherwise to the terms of the contract, the mortgages that constitute such trust or pool shall become the absolute property of the Association subject only to the unsatisfied rights of the holders of the securities based on and backed by such trust or pool. The full faith and credit of the United States is pledged to the payment of all amounts which may be required to be paid under any guaranty under this subsection. There shall be excluded from the total amounts set forth in subsection (c) the amounts of any mortgages acquired by the Association as a result of its operations under this subsection."

(c) Section 5136 of the Revised Statutes (12 U.S.C. 24) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"Ninth. To issue and sell securities which are guaranteed pursuant to section 306(g) of the National Housing Act."

(d) The first proviso of section 21(a)(1) of the Banking Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C. 378(a)(1)) is amended by inserting ", or issuing securities," immediately following "investment securities".

(e) Section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C. 1464(c)) is amended by adding at the end thereof a new paragraph as follows:

"Any such association may issue and sell securities which are guaranteed pursuant to section 306(g) of the National Housing Act."

SUBORDINATED AND CONVERTIBLE OBLIGATIONS

SEC. 805. Section 304 of the National Housing Act is amended by adding thereto (after subsection (d) as added by section 804 of this Act) the following new subsection:

"(e) For the purposes of this section, the corporation is authorized to issue, upon the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, obligations which are subordinated to any or all other obligations of the corporation, including subsequent obligations. The obligations issued under this subsection shall have such maturities and bear such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the corporation with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury and may be made redeemable at the option of the corporation before maturity in such manner as may be stipulated in such obligations. Any of such obligations may be made convertible into shares of common stock in such manner, at such price or prices, and at such time or times as may be stipulated therein. The total principal amount of such subordinated obligations which may be outstanding at any one time shall not exceed two times the sum of (1) the capital of the corporation represented by its outstanding common stock and (2) its surplus and undistributed earnings at such time. The outstanding total principal amount of such obligations, which are entirely subordinated to the obligations of the corporation issued or to be issued under subsection (b), shall be deemed to be capital of the corporation for the purpose of determining the aggregate amount of obligations issued under subsection (b) which may be outstanding at any one time. Obligations issued by the corporation under this subsection shall, to the same extent as securities which are direct obligations of or obligations guaranteed as to principal or interest by the United States, be deemed to be exempt securities within the meaning of laws administered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The corporation shall insert appropriate language in all of its obligations issued under this subsection clearly indicating that such obligations, together with the interest thereon, are not guaranteed by the United States and do not constitute a debt or obligation of the United States or of any agency or instrumentality thereof other than the corporation. The corporation is authorized to purchase in the open market any of its obligations outstanding under this subsection at any time and at any price."

Notice of the establishment of such effective date shall be published in the Federal Register at least thirty days prior thereto.

Publication in Federal Register.

SAVINGS PROVISIONS

SEC. 809. (a) No cause of action by or against the Federal National Mortgage Association existing prior to the effective date established pursuant to section 808 shall abate by reason of the enactment of this title. Any such cause of action may thereafter be asserted by or against the appropriate corporate body named in section 302(a)(2) of the National Housing Act.

Ante, p. 536.

(b) No suit, action, or other proceeding commenced by or against the Federal National Mortgage Association, or any officer thereof in his official capacity, prior to the effective date established pursuant to section 808 shall abate by reason of the enactment of this title. A court may at any time thereafter during the pendency of any such litigation, on its own motion or that of any party, order that the litigation may be maintained by or against the appropriate corporate body named in section 302(a)(2) of the National Housing Act or the appropriate corresponding officer thereof.

TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 810. (a) On the effective date established pursuant to section 808 of this Act, each share of outstanding nonvoting common stock, with a par value of $100 per share, of the Federal National Mortgage

Association shall be changed into and shall become one share of voting common stock, without par value, of such corporation.

(b)(1) The provisions of section 308(b) of the National Housing Act (as added by section 802(y)(7) of this Act) shall be applicable only to the extent that its provisions do not conflict with this subsection. Ante, p. 539.

(2) For a transitional period after the effective date established pursuant to section 808 of this Act, the board of directors of the Federal National Mortgage Association shall consist of nine persons. For a term expiring on the date of the first annual meeting of the corporation's stockholders, all members of the board shall be appointed by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. For a term beginning on such date, seven members of the board shall be appointed by the Secretary, and two members shall be elected by the common stockholders. For subsequent terms beginning prior to the termination of the transitional period, five members shall be appointed by the Secretary, and four members shall be elected by the common stockholders. For each term beginning prior to the termination of the transitional period, the Secretary shall appoint as a member of the board the president of the corporation. During the transitional period, the president of the corporation shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and may be removed from office by the President for good cause. FNMA. Board of Directors. Transitional period.

(3) The transitional period referred to in paragraph (2) shall come to an end at such time as the board of directors shall find, with the approval of the Secretary, that not less than one-third of the corporation's common stock is owned by persons or institutions in the mortgage lending, homebuilding, real estate, or related businesses; but in no event shall it end sooner than May 1, 1970, or later than May 1, 1973.

(c) From the effective date established pursuant to section 808 and until the retirement of the last of the outstanding shares of its preferred stock, the Federal National Mortgage Association shall be deemed to be a wholly owned corporation for the purposes of the Government Corporation Control Act. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, the financial transactions of the Federal National Mortgage Association shall continue to be subject to audit by the General Accounting Office for such period as there may be outstanding obligations of the Federal National Mortgage Association which are guaranteed as to principal or interest by the Government National Mortgage Association. 59 Stat. 597. 31 USC 841 note. GAO audit.

(d) Those persons who are the officers and employees of the Federal National Mortgage Association immediately prior to the effective date established pursuant to section 808 shall become the officers and employees of the Government National Mortgage Association on such date. The Federal National Mortgage Association and the Government National Mortgage Association shall provide by contract for the conditions and methods under which and by which the Federal National Mortgage Association during the transitional period may employ those individuals who are employees of the Government National Mortgage Association on such effective date; and may provide by contract for the operation by either of such corporations of any of the functions of the other. The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall make every reasonable effort to place in other comparable Federal positions any individuals who are career or career-conditional employees of the Government National Mortgage Association on such effective date and who are subsequently during the transitional period neither employed by the Federal National Mortgage Association nor retained by the Government National Mortgage Association.

TITLE IX—NATIONAL HOUSING PARTNERSHIPS

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

SEC. 901. The Congress finds that the volume of housing being produced for families and individuals of low or moderate income must be increased to meet the national goal of a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family, and declares that it is the policy of the United States to encourage the widest possible participation by private enterprise in the provision of housing for low or moderate income families. The Congress has therefore determined that one or more private organizations should be created to encourage maximum participation by private investors in programs and projects to provide low and moderate income housing.

CREATION OF CORPORATIONS

SEC. 902. (a) There is hereby authorized to be created a private corporation for profit (hereinafter in this title referred to as the "corporation"). The corporation will not be an agency or establishment of the United States Government. The corporation shall be subject to the provisions of this title and, to the extent consistent with this title, to the District of Columbia Business Corporation Act (D.C. Code, sec. 29–901 et seq.).

68 Stat. 179.

(b) Whenever the President finds it in the national interest to do so, he may cause the creation of an additional corporation or additional corporations to carry out the purposes of this title. All the provisions of this title shall thereupon become applicable to each such corporation, and to the limited partnership formed by it pursuant to section 907.

(c) Nothing in this title shall be construed to preclude private persons from creating other corporations and organizing other partnerships, joint ventures, or associations for the purposes set forth in this title as the purposes of the corporation and the partnership described in section 907.

PROCESS OF ORGANIZATION

SEC. 903. (a) The President of the United States shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, incorporators of the corporation, one of whom shall be designated by the President to serve as chairman. The incorporators shall serve as the initial board of directors until the first annual meeting of stockholders or until their successors are elected and have qualified.

(b) The incorporators shall take whatever actions are necessary or appropriate to establish the corporation, including the filing of articles of incorporation as approved by the President.

(c) The incorporators shall also arrange for an initial offering of shares of stock in the corporation and of interests in the partnership described in section 907 of this title. If the incorporators deem it advisable in order to carry out the purposes of this title, the initial offering may be made upon terms which require the purchase of other securities of the corporation or of interests in such partnership.

DIRECTORS

SEC. 904. The corporation shall have a board of directors (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "board"), consisting of fifteen members. Three members of the board shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, effective on the date on which the other members are elected, and for terms of three years or until their successors have been appointed and have qualified, except that the first three members of the board so appointed shall continue in office for terms of one, two, and three years, respectively, and any member so appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the director whom he succeeds. Twelve members of the board shall be elected by the stockholders.

FINANCING THE CORPORATION

SEC. 905. The corporation shall have the power to create and issue the number of shares stated in its articles of incorporation. Such shares may be divided into one or more classes, any or all of which classes may consist of shares with par value or shares without par value, with such designations, preferences, voting powers, and special or relative rights and such limitations, restrictions, or qualifications thereof as shall be stated in the articles of incorporation. The articles of incorporation may limit or deny the voting power of the shares of any class.

PURPOSES AND POWERS OF THE CORPORATION

SEC. 906. (a) In order to achieve the objectives and carry out the purposes of this title, the corporation is authorized to—

(1) plan, initiate, and carry out, pursuant to Federal programs or otherwise, the building or rehabilitation of housing and related facilities primarily for the benefit of families and individuals of low or moderate income;

(2) buy, own, manage, lease, or otherwise acquire or dispose of property in connection with the developments, projects, or undertakings referred to in paragraph (1); and

(3) provide such funds as may be necessary to accomplish the developments, projects, or undertakings referred to in paragraph (1).

(b) Included in the activities authorized to the corporation for the accomplishment of the purposes indicated in subsection (a) of this section are, among others not specifically named—

(1) to enter into partnerships, limited partnerships, joint ventures, and other associations with individuals, corporations, and private and governmental agencies, organizations, and institutions;

(2) to act as manager or general partner of any such partnership, venture, or association;

(3) to conduct or contract for research and studies related to the development, demonstration, and evaluation of improved techniques and methods of constructing, rehabilitating, and maintaining housing; Research contracts.

(4) to provide technical assistance to nonprofit corporations, limited dividend corporations, and others with respect to the planning, financing, construction, rehabilitation, maintenance, and management of housing for low and moderate income families and individuals;

(5) to make loans or grants including grants of interests in housing and related facilities, to nonprofit corporations, limited dividend corporations, and others, in carrying out its activities under subsection (a) of this section; and Loans or grants.

(6) to hire or accept the voluntary services of consultants, experts, advisory boards, and panels to aid the corporation in carrying out the purposes of this title.

(c) To carry out the foregoing purposes and engage in the foregoing activities, the corporation shall have the usual powers conferred upon a stock corporation by the District of Columbia Business Corporation Act.

(d) Nothing in this title shall have the effect of waiving or otherwise affecting the applicability of the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act (40 U.S.C. 267a—276a–5), or any other law requiring compliance with labor standards, in the case of any construction to which such provisions would otherwise apply.

49 Stat. 1011; 78 Stat. 238.

NATIONAL HOUSING PARTNERSHIP

SEC. 907. (a) The corporation is authorized to arrange for the formation, as a separate organization, of a limited partnership (hereinafter in this title referred to as the "partnership") under the District of Columbia Uniform Limited Partnership Act (D.C. Code, sec. 41–401 et seq.) for the purpose of engaging in any of the activities authorized for the corporation under section 906 of this title, and to enter into a partnership agreement governing the affairs of such limited partnership.

76 Stat. 655.

(b) The partnership shall be subject to the provisions, to the extent consistent with this title, of (1) the District of Columbia Uniform Limited Partnership Act and (2) those provisions of the District of Columbia Uniform Partnership Act (D.C. Code, sec. 41–301 et seq.) made applicable by section 6(2) of that Act (D.C. Code, sec. 41–305(2)). Notwithstanding any inconsistency between the provisions of such Acts, or of any other law, and the provisions of this section, the partnership organized pursuant to this section shall be deemed to have the legal status of a limited partnership.

76 Stat. 636.

(c) The partnership is authorized to enter into partnerships, limited partnerships, or joint ventures organized under applicable State or local law for the purpose of engaging in low and moderate income housing developments, projects, or undertakings in particular localities.

(d) The corporation shall be the general partner in the partnership. The capital of the partnership and the contributions of the partners shall be in such amounts and at such times as are set forth in or pursuant to the partnership agreement.

(e) The partnership agreement shall include provisions designed to assure that (1) the partnership shall participate in low and moderate income housing developments, projects, or undertakings in a manner designed to encourage the participation therein of local interests, and (2) in any such development, project, or undertaking the partnership shall not subscribe to more than 25 per centum (including equity investments made in services or property) of the aggregate initial equity investment unless, in the judgment of the corporation as general partner, the balance of the required equity investment is not readily obtainable from other responsible investors residing or doing business in the local community.

(f) The partnership agreement may without limitation (1) permit each of the stockholders of the corporation to become a member of the partnership as a limited partner, (2) authorize the inclusion of other limited partners in addition to the stockholders of the corporation, (3) provide that the assignee of the partnership interest of a limited partner of the partnership who is also a stockholder of the corporation may not become a substituted limited partner unless he also acquires the assignor's stock of the corporation, and (4) include provisions requiring that the corporation as a general partner approve the substitution or addition of a member of the partnership.

(g) A corporation which is a limited partner in the partnership shall not become liable as a general partner by reason of the fact that

(1) such corporation is a holder of shares of voting stock of the corporation constituting not more than 5 per centum of the total number of outstanding shares of such stock and exercises any of the rights (including voting rights) of a holder of such shares, and/or (2) a person who is an officer or director of such corporation (or of another corporation which controls or is subject to the control of, or is under common control with, such corporation) is a director of the corporation and performs the duties of that office. The interest of a limited partner in the partnership shall not be treated as a stock interest in the corporation, notwithstanding that such interest of a limited partner may be proportionate to his stock interest in the corporation.

(h) The certificate of the partnership and any amendment thereof required by the District of Columbia Uniform Limited Partnership Act shall be executed and acknowledged by the corporation as member and by each other member of the partnership or his attorney-in-fact duly authorized by power of attorney in writing. The corporation may execute and acknowledge the certificate and any amendment thereof as attorney-in-fact for any member, member to be substituted or added, or assigning member, by whom the certificate or amendment is required to be executed and acknowledged and who has appointed the corporation as such attorney.

76 Stat. 655. D.C. Code 41-401.

REPORT TO CONGRESS AND RECORDS

SEC. 908. (a) The corporation shall submit an annual report to the President for transmittal to the Congress within six months after the end of its fiscal year. The report shall include a comprehensive and detailed report of the operations, activities, and financial condition of the corporation and the partnership under this title.

(b) The accounts of the corporation and of the partnership shall be audited annually in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards by independent certified public accountants or independent licensed public accountants certified or licensed by a regulatory authority of a State or other political subdivision of the United States.

ANTITRUST LAWS

SEC. 909. Nothing contained herein shall affect the applicability of the Federal antitrust laws to the activities of the corporation and the partnership created under this title and of the persons participating therein or in partnerships, limited partnerships, or joint ventures with either of them.

38 Stat. 730. 15 USC 12.

RIGHT TO REPEAL, ALTER, OR AMEND

SEC. 910. The right to repeal, alter, or amend this title at any time is expressly reserved.

AMENDMENT TO BANKING LAWS

SEC. 911. Paragraph "Seventh" of section 5136 of the Revised Statutes (12 U.S.C. 24) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Notwithstanding any other provision in this paragraph, the association may purchase for its own account shares of stock issued by a corporation authorized to be created pursuant to title IX of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, and may make investments in a partnership, limited partnership, or joint venture formed pursuant to section 907(a) or 907(c) of that Act."

TITLE X—RURAL HOUSING

HOUSING FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME PERSONS AND FAMILIES

63 Stat. 432. 42 USC 1471-1490.

SEC. 1001. Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new section:

"LOANS TO PROVIDE OCCUPANT-OWNED, RENTAL, AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING FOR LOW AND MODERATE INCOME PERSONS AND FAMILIES

42 USC 1472, 1487, 1485.

"SEC. 521. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 502, 517 (a) and 515, loans to persons of low or moderate income under section 502 or 517(a)(1), and loans under section 515 to provide rental or cooperative housing and related facilities for persons and families of low or moderate income or elderly persons and elderly families, shall bear interest at a rate prescribed by the Secretary at not less than a rate determined annually by the Secretary of the Treasury taking into consideration the current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with remaining periods to maturity comparable to the average maturities of such loans, adjusted to the nearest one-eighth of 1 per centum, less not to exceed the difference between the adjusted rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury and 1 per centum per annum: Provided, That such a loan may be made only when the Secretary determines that the needs of the applicant for necessary housing cannot be met with financial assistance from other sources including assistance under section 235 or 236 of the National Housing Act: Provided further, That interest on loans under section 502 or 517(a) to victims of natural disaster shall not exceed the rate which would be applicable to such loans under section 502 without regard to this section.

Ante, pp. 477, 498.

"(b) Housing and related facilities provided with loans described in subsection (a) shall be located in rural areas; and applicants eligible for such loans under section 502 or 517(a)(1), or for occupancy of housing provided with such loans under section 515, shall include otherwise qualified nonrural residents who will become rural residents.

63 Stat. 433. 42 USC 1472, 1487, 1485.

"(c) There shall be reimbursed to the Rural Housing Insurance Fund by annual appropriations the amounts by which nonprincipal payments made from the fund during each fiscal year to the holders of insured loans described in subsection (a) exceed interest due from the borrowers during each year; and the Secretary from time to time may issue notes to the Secretary of the Treasury under section 517(h) to obtain amounts equal to such unreimbursed excess payments, pending the annual reimbursement by appropriation."

HOUSING FOR RURAL TRAINEES

63 Stat. 432. 42 USC 1471-1490.

SEC. 1002. Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after section 521 (as added by section 1001 of this Act) the following new section:

"HOUSING FOR RURAL TRAINEES

"SEC. 522. (a) Upon the application of any State or political subdivision thereof, or any public or private nonprofit organization, the Secretary is authorized, after consultation with the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and the Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and after the Secretary determines that the housing and related facilities cannot reasonably be provided in any other way, to provide financial and technical assistance for the establishment, in rural areas, of housing and related facilities for trainees and their families who are residents of a rural area and have a rural background, while such trainees are enrolled and participating in training courses designed to improve their employment capability. The selection of training sites and location of housing shall be made with due regard to the economic viability of the area, and only after consideration of a labor area survey and full coordination among all Government agencies having primary responsibility for administering related programs.

"(b) Housing and related facilities assisted under this section shall be safe and sanitary, constructed in the most economical manner, and of modest design, giving due consideration to the purposes to be served and the needs of the occupants, and may, in the discretion of the Secretary, include mobile family quarters. Design and location shall be such as to facilitate, as feasible, the use of such housing and related facilities for other purposes when no longer needed for the primary purpose.

"(c) The applicant shall contribute the necessary land, or funds to acquire such land, from its own resources, including land acquired by donation or from funds repayable under subsection (e) or borrowed from other sources.

"(d) No financial assistance shall be made available under this section unless, to the extent and for the periods required by the Secretary, the applicant agrees that—

"(1) such housing will be maintained at all times in a safe and sanitary condition in accordance with standards prescribed by State or local law, or, in the absence of such standards, with requirements prescribed by the Secretary;

"(2) priority shall be given at all times, in granting occupancy of such housing and facilities, to the trainees and their families described in subsection (a); and

"(3) rentals charged them shall not exceed amounts approved by the Secretary after considering the portion of the actual total family income which the family can afford to pay for rent while meeting its other immediate needs during occupancy.

"(e) The Secretary may make advances pursuant to any contract for financial assistance under this section at such times and in such manner as may be specified in the contract. Such advances for the purchase of land shall be repayable with interest and within a period not to exceed thirty-three years and may be made upon such security, if any, as the Secretary requires. Advances for other purposes may be made repayable with or without interest or nonrepayable, as determined by the Secretary on the basis of the anticipated income and cost of operation of the housing and related facilities and the ability of each applicant to finance such facilities. Any advances shall be limited to cover the capital costs of constructing such facilities, plus interest on borrowings to cover such costs.

"(f) Should housing and related facilities assisted pursuant to a contract under this section be sold to an ineligible transferee or diverted to a use other than its primary purpose within a period specified in the contract, all advances made under such contract shall be repaid to the Secretary, up to the amount of the sales price or the fair value of the property as determined by the Secretary, whichever is higher, with interest from the date of the sale or diversion. If no suitable alternate use of the property is available, as determined by the Secretary, after the purpose of this section can no longer be served, the property shall be returned to its original condition by the recipient of the assistance.

"(g) Interest charged on advances made under this section shall be at a rate, prescribed by the Secretary, which shall be not less than a rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury taking into consideration the current average market yield on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with remaining periods to maturity comparable to the average maturities of such loans, adjusted to the nearest one-eighth of 1 per centum, less not to exceed the difference between the adjusted rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury and 1 per centum per annum, as determined by the Secretary.

"(h) The Secretary shall prescribe regulations to insure that Federal funds expended under this section are not wasted or dissipated.

"Related facilities." "(i) As used in this section (1) the term 'related facilities' shall include any necessary community rooms or buildings, infirmaries, utilities, access roads, water and sewer services, and the minimum fixed or movable equipment determined by the Secretary to be necessary to make the housing reasonably habitable by trainees and their families; and (2) the term 'trainee' means any person receiving training under any federally assisted training program.

"Trainee."

Appropriation. "(j) There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this section."

(2) by inserting before the semicolon at the end thereof the following: "and (C) land necessary for an adequate site".

MUTUAL AND SELF-HELP HOUSING

42 USC 1471-1490.

SEC. 1005. Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by adding after section 522 (as added by section 1002 of this Act) the following new section:

"MUTUAL AND SELF-HELP HOUSING

"SEC. 523. (a) The purposes of this section are (1) to make financial assistance available on reasonable terms and conditions in rural areas and small towns to needy low-income individuals and their families who, with the benefit of technical assistance and overall guidance and supervision, participate in approved programs of mutual or self-help housing by acquiring and developing necessary land, acquiring building materials, providing their own labor, and working cooperatively with others for the provision of decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings for themselves, their families, and others in the area or town involved, and (2) to facilitate the efforts of both public and private nonprofit organizations providing assistance to such individuals to contribute their technical and supervisory skills toward more effective and comprehensive programs of mutual or self-help housing in rural areas and small towns wherever necessary.

"(b) In order to carry out the purposes of this section, the Secretary of Agriculture (in this section referred to as the 'Secretary') is authorized—

"(1)(A) to make grants to, or contract with, public or private nonprofit corporations, agencies, institutions, organizations, and other associations approved by him, to pay part or all of the costs of developing, conducting, administering, or coordinating effective and comprehensive programs of technical and supervisory assistance which will aid needy low-income individuals and their families in carrying out mutual or self-help housing efforts; and Contract authority.

"(B) to establish the Self-Help Housing Land Development Fund, referred to herein as the Self-Help Fund, to be used by the Secretary as a revolving fund for making loans, on such terms and conditions and in such amounts as he deems necessary, to public or private nonprofit organizations for the acquisition and deve'opment of land as building sites to be subdivided and sold to families, nonprofit organizations, and cooperatives eligible for assistance under section 235 or 236 of the National Housing Act or section 521 of this Act. Such a loan, with interest at a rate not to exceed 3 percent per annum, shall be repaid within a period not to exceed two years from the making of the loan, or within such additional period as may be authorized by the Secretary in any case as being necessary to carry out the purposes hereof; and Self-Help Fund. Ante, pp. 477, 498. Ante, p. 551.

"(2) to make loans, on such terms and conditions and in such amounts as he deems necessary, to needy low-income individuals participating in programs of mutual or self-help housing approved by him, for the acquisition and development of land and for the purchase of such other building materials as may be necessary in order to enable them, by providing substantially all of their own labor, and by cooperating with others participating in such programs, to carry out to completion the construction of decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings for such individuals and their families, subject to the following limitations: Loans.

"(A) there is reasonable assurance of repayment of the loan;

"(B) the amount of the loan, together with other funds which may be available, is adequate to achieve the purpose for which the loan is made;

"(C) the credit assistance is not otherwise available on like terms or conditions from private sources or through other Federal, State, or local programs;

"(D) the loan bears interest at a rate not to exceed 3 per centum per annum on the unpaid balance of principal, plus such additional charge, if any, toward covering other costs of the loan program as the Secretary may determine to be consistent with its purposes; and

"(E) the loan is repayable within not more than thirty-three years.

"(c) In determining whether to extend financial assistance under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (b), the Secretary shall take into consideration, among other factors, the suitability of the area within which construction will be carried out to the type of dwelling which can be provided under mutual or self-help housing programs, the extent to which the assistance will facilitate the provision of more decent, safe, and sanitary housing conditions than presently exist in the area, the extent to which the assistance will be utilized efficiently and expeditiously, the extent to which the assistance will effect an increase in the standard of living of low-income individuals participating in the mutual or self-help housing program, and whether the Considerations.

assistance will fulfill a need in the area which is not otherwise being met through other programs, including those carried out by other Federal, State, or local agencies.

"Construction." "(d) As used in this section, the term 'construction' includes the erection of new dwellings, and the rehabilitation, alteration, conversion, or improvement of existing structures.

Eligibility of applicants, criteria. "(e) The Secretary is authorized to establish appropriate criteria and procedures in order to determine the eligibility of applicants for the financial assistance provided under this section, including criteria and procedures with respect to the periodic review of any construction carried out with such financial assistance.

Appropriation. "(f) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated for each fiscal year commencing after June 30, 1968, and ending prior to July 1, 1973, such sums, not in excess of $5,000,000 for any such fiscal year, as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. No grant or loan may be made or contract entered into under the authority of this section after June 30, 1973, except pursuant to a commitment or other obligation entered into pursuant to this section before that date.

"(g) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated for the purposes of subsection (b)(1)(B) not to exceed $1,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, and not to exceed $2,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. Any amount so authorized to be appropriated for any fiscal year which is not appropriated may be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year or years. Amounts appropriated under this subsection shall be deposited in the Self-Help Fund, which shall be available without fiscal year limitation for making loans under subsection (b)(1)(B). Instruments and property acquired by the Secretary in or as a result of making such loans shall be assets of the Self-Help Fund. Sums received from the repayment of such loans shall be deposited in and be a part of the Self-Help Fund."

TITLE XI—URBAN PROPERTY PROTECTION AND REINSURANCE

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1101. This title may be cited as the "Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act of 1968."

FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

SEC. 1102. (a) The Congress finds that (1) the vitality of many American cities is being threatened by the deterioration of their inner city areas; responsible owners of well-maintained residential, business, and other properties in many of these areas are unable to obtain adequate property insurance coverage against fire, crime, and other perils; the lack of such insurance coverage accelerates the deterioration of these areas by discouraging private investment and restricting the availability of credit to repair and improve property therein; and this deterioration poses a serious threat to the national economy; (2) recent riots and other civil commotion in many American cities have brought about abnormally high losses to the private property insurance industry for which adequate reinsurance cannot be obtained at reasonable cost, and the risk of such losses will make most lines of property insurance even more difficult to obtain; (3) the capacity of the private property insurance industry to provide adequate insurance is threatened, and the continuity of such property insurance protection is essential to the extension of credit in these areas; and (4) the national interest demands urgent action by the Congress to assure that essential lines of property insurance, including lines providing protection against riot and civil commotion damage will be available to property owners at reasonable cost.

(b) The purposes of this title are, therefore, to (1) encourage and assist the various State insurance authorities and the property insurance industry to develop and carry out statewide programs which will make necessary property insurance coverage against the fire, crime, and other perils more readily available for residential, business, and other properties meeting reasonable underwriting standards; and (2) provide a Federal program of reinsurance against abnormally high property insurance losses resulting from riots and other civil commotion, placing appropriate financial responsibility upon the States to share in such losses.

AMENDMENT OF THE NATIONAL HOUSING ACT

SEC. 1103. The National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new title:

"TITLE XII—NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

"PROGRAM AUTHORITY

"SEC. 1201. (a) The Secretary is authorized to establish and carry out the programs provided for in parts A, B, and C of this title. Post, pp. 558, 560, 563.

"(b) (1) The powers of the Secretary under this title shall terminate on April 30, 1973, except to the extent necessary—

"(A) to continue reinsurance in accordance with the provisions of section 1223(b) until April 30, 1976;

"(B) to process, verify, and pay claims for reinsured losses and perform other necessary functions in connection therewith; and

"(C) to complete the liquidation and termination of the reinsurance program.

"(2) On April 30, 1976, or as soon thereafter as possible, the Secretary shall submit to the Congress, for its approval, a plan for the liquidation and termination of the reinsurance program. Report to Congress.

"ADVISORY BOARD; MEETINGS, DUTIES, COMPENSATION, AND EXPENSES

"SEC. 1202. (a) (1) There is established an Advisory Board (hereinafter called the 'Board') consisting of nineteen members appointed by the Secretary. Members of the Board shall be selected from among representatives of the general public, the insurance industry, State and local governments including State insurance authorities, and the Federal Government. Of these members of the Board, not more than six shall be regular full-time employees of the Federal Government, and not less than four shall be representatives of the private insurance industry and not less than four shall be representatives of State insurance authorities.

"(2) The Secretary shall designate a Chairman and a Vice Chairman of the Board.

"(3) Each member shall serve for a term of two years or until his successor has been appointed, except that no person who is appointed while a full-time employee of a State or the Federal Government shall serve in such position after he ceases to be so employed, unless he is reappointed.

"(4) Any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of that term.

"(b) The Chairman shall preside at all meetings, and the Vice Chairman shall preside in the absence or disability of the Chairman. In the absence of both the Chairman and Vice Chairman, the Secretary may appoint any member to act as Chairman pro tempore. The Board shall meet at such times and places as it or the Secretary may fix and determine, but shall hold at least four regularly scheduled meetings a year. Special meetings may be held at the call of the Chairman or any three members of the Board, or at the call of the Secretary.

"(c) The Board shall review general policies and shall advise the Secretary with respect thereto, and perform such other functions as are specified in this title.

"(d) The members of the Board shall not, by reason of such membership, be deemed to be employees of the United States, and such members, except those who are regular full-time employees of the Government, shall receive for their services, as members, the per diem equivalent to the rate for grade GS–18 of the General Schedule under section 5332 of title 5, United States Code, when engaged in the performance of their duties, and each member of the Board shall be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as authorized by section 5703 of such title for persons in the Government service employed intermittently.

33 F.R. 3641.

80 Stat. 499.

"DEFINITIONS

"SEC. 1203. (a) When used in this title, unless the context otherwise requires, the term—

"(1) 'environmental hazard' means any hazardous condition that might give rise to loss under an insurance contract, but which is beyond the control of the property owner;

"(2) 'essential property insurance' means insurance against direct loss to property as defined and limited in standard fire policies and extended coverage endorsement thereon, as approved by the State insurance authority, and insurance for such types, classes, and locations of property against the perils of vandalism, malicious mischief, burglary, or theft, as the Secretary by rule shall designate. Such insurance shall not include automobile insurance and shall not include insurance on such types of manufacturing risks as may be excluded by the State insurance authority;

"(3) 'inspection facility', with respect to any State, means any rating bureau or other person designated by the State insurance authority to perform inspections under fair access to insurance requirements plans under part A;

"(4) 'insurer' includes any insurance company or group of companies under common ownership which is authorized to engage in the insurance business under the laws of any State;

"(5) 'pool' means any pool or association of insurance companies in any State which is formed, associated, or otherwise created for the purpose of making property insurance more readily available;

"(6) 'losses resulting from riots or civil disorders' means losses resulting from riots or civil disorders under policies for standard lines of property insurance for which reinsurance is offered under section 1221, as determined under regulations of the Secretary;

"(7) 'property owner', with respect to any real, personal, or mixed real and personal property, means any person having an insurable interest in such property;

"(8) 'person' includes any individual or group of individuals, corporation, partnership, or association, or any other organized group of persons;

"(9) 'reinsured losses' means losses on reinsurance claims and all direct expenses incurred in connection therewith including, but not limited to, expenses for processing, verifying, and paying such losses;

"(10) 'standard line of property insurance' includes—

"(A) fire and extended coverage;

"(B) vandalism and malicious mischief;

"(C) other allied lines of fire insurance;

"(D) burglary and theft;

"(E) those portions of multiple peril policies covering perils similar to those provided for in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), and (D);

"(F) inland marine;

"(G) glass;

"(H) boiler and machinery;

"(I) ocean marine;

"(J) aircraft physical damage; and

"(K) such other lines generally offered to the public which include protection against damage from riot or civil commotion as the Secretary by regulation may designate;

"(11) 'State' means the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the territories and possessions, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands;

"(12) 'urban area' includes any municipality or other political subdivision of a State, subject to population or other limitations defined in rules and regulations of the Secretary and such additional areas as may be designated by the State insurance authority; and

"(13) 'year' means a calendar year, fiscal year of a company, or such other period of twelve months as may be designated by the Secretary.

"(b) The Secretary is authorized to define, by rules and regulations, any technical or trade term, insofar as such definition is not inconsistent with the provisions of this title.

"Part A—Statewide Plans To Assure Fair Access to Insurance Requirements

"fair plans

"Sec. 1211. (a) Each insurer reinsured under this title shall cooperate with the State insurance authority in each State in which it is to acquire such reinsurance in establishing and carrying out statewide plans to assure fair access to insurance requirements (FAIR plans).

"(b) Such plans must be approved by, and administered under the supervision of, the State insurance authority, or be authorized or required by State law, and shall be designed to make essential property insurance more readily available in, but not necessarily limited to, urban areas. Such plans may vary in detail from State to State because of local conditions, but all plans shall contain provisions that—

"(1) no risk shall be written at surcharged rates or be denied insurance coverage for essential property insurance unless there has first been an inspection of the risk, without cost to the owner, by an inspection facility and a determination by the insurer, based on information in the inspection report and other sources, that the risk does not meet reasonable underwriting standards at the applicable premium rate;

"(2) inspections under the plan may be requested by the property owner or his representative, the insurer, or the insurance agent, broker or other producer, and such requests need not be made in writing;

"(3) the absence of a building owner or his representative during an inspection shall not preclude a tenant seeking insurance from obtaining an inspection under the plan;

"(4) following the inspection, a copy of the inspection report shall be promptly sent by the inspection facility to the insurer or insurers, or to an all-industry placement facility referred to under section 1212, as may be designated by the person requesting the inspection;

"(5) after the inspection report is received by an insurer, it shall promptly determine if the risk meets reasonable underwriting standards at the applicable premium rate, and shall promptly return to the inspection facility the inspection report and provide an action report setting forth—

"(A)(i) the amount of coverage it agrees to write; and if the insurer agrees to write the coverage with a surcharge (if such a surcharge is authorized by the State insurance authority), the improvements necessary before it will provide coverage at an unsurcharged premium rate; and

"(ii) the amount of coverage it agrees to write if certain improvements specified in the action report are made; or

"(B) the specific reasons it declines to write coverage;

"(6) if the insurer declines the risk, or agrees to write the coverage sought on condition that the property will be improved, it shall also promptly send a copy of both the inspection and action reports to the property owner and the State insurance authority, and at the time the insurer sends such reports to the property owner, it shall also explain his right, under applicable State laws, to appeal the decision of the insurer to the State insurance authority, setting forth the procedures to be followed for such appeal;

"(7) all policies written pursuant to the plan shall be promptly written after inspection or reinspection and shall be separately coded so that appropriate records may be compiled for purposes of performing loss prevention and other studies of the operation of the plan;

"(8) the inspection facility shall submit to the State insurance authority and to the Secretary periodic reports setting forth information, by individual insurers, including the number of risks inspected under the plan, the number of risks accepted, the number of risks conditionally accepted and reinspections made, the number of risks declined, and such other information as the State insurance authority may request;

"(9) notice will be given to any policyholder a reasonable time prior to the cancellation or nonrenewal of any risk eligible under the plan (except in case of nonpayment of premium or evidence of incendiarism), to allow ample time for an application for new coverage to be made and a new policy to be written under the plan, and the insurer shall, in writing, explain to the policyholder the procedures for obtaining an inspection under the plan in the notice of cancellation or nonrenewal; and

"(10) a continuing public education program will be undertaken by the participating insurers, agents, and brokers to assure that the plan receives adequate public attention.

"ALL-INDUSTRY PLACEMENT FACILITY

"SEC. 1212. Any plan under this part shall include an all-industry placement facility doing business with every insurer participating in the plan in the State, and shall provide that this facility shall perform certain functions including, but not limited to, the following:

"(1) seeking, upon request by or on behalf of any property owner requesting an inspection under the plan, to distribute the risks involved equitably among the insurers with which it is doing business; and

"(2) seeking to place insurance up to the full insurable value of the risk to be insured with one or more insurers with which it is doing business, except to the extent that deductibles, percentage participation clauses, and other underwriting devices are employed to meet special problems of insurability.

"INDUSTRY COOPERATION

"SEC. 1213. (a) Each insurer seeking reinsurance under this title shall file a statement with the State insurance authority in each State in which it is participating in a plan under this part, pledging its full participation and cooperation in carrying out the plan, and shall file a copy of such statement with the Secretary.

"(b) No insurer acquiring reinsurance under this title shall direct any agent or broker or other producer not to solicit business through such a plan, nor shall any agent, broker, or other producer be penalized by such insurer in any way for submitting applications for insurance to an insurer under the plan.

"PLAN EVALUATION

"SEC. 1214. (a) In accordance with such rules and regulations as the Secretary may prescribe, each State insurance authority shall—

"(1) transmit to the Secretary any proposed or adopted plan, or amendments thereto; and

"(2) advise the Secretary, from time to time, concerning the operation of the plan, its effectiveness in providing essential property insurance, and the need to form a pool of insurers or adopt other programs to make essential property insurance more readily available in urban areas of the State.

"(b) The Secretary may, after full consultation with the Board, by rules and regulations, modify the plan criteria set forth under this part, if he finds, on the basis of experience, that such action is necessary or desirable to carry out the purposes of this title. The Secretary may also, with respect to any State, waive compliance with one or more of the plan criteria, upon certification by the State insurance authority that compliance is unnecessary or inadvisable under local conditions or State law.

"PART B—REINSURANCE COVERAGE

"REINSURANCE OF LOSSES FROM RIOTS OR CIVIL DISORDERS

"SEC. 1221. (a)(1) The Secretary is authorized to offer to any insurer or pool, subject to the conditions set forth in section 1223, reinsurance against property losses resulting from riots or civil disorders in any one or more States.

"(2) Reinsurance shall be offered to any such insurer or pool only on all standard lines of property insurance enumerated under subparagraphs (A) through (E) of section 1203(a)(10) together, and any insurer or pool purchasing such reinsurance shall also be eligible, to purchase reinsurance on any one or more standard lines of property insurance enumerated under subparagraphs (F) through (J) of section 1203(a)(10) or which may be designated by regulation pursuant to subparagraph (K) of that section.

"(b) Reinsurance coverage under this section may be provided immediately following the enactment of this title to any insurer or pool in any State on a temporary basis, and on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, and coverage under such terms and conditions may be bound with respect to any such insurer or pool by means of a written binder which shall remain in force not more than ninety days and shall expire at the earlier of either—

"(1) the termination of such ninety-day period, or

"(2) the effective date of any governing contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement entered into between the insurer or pool and the Secretary under section 1222 for the purpose of providing reinsurance coverage against losses resulting from riots or civil disorders.

"(c) No reinsurance shall be offered to any insurer or pool in a State after the expiration of the written binder entered into under subsection (b), unless there is in effect in such State a plan as set forth under part A and the insurer or pool is participating in such plan, and unless, in the case of an insurer in a State where a pool has been established pursuant to State law, the insurer is participating in such a pool.

"REINSURANCE AGREEMENTS AND PREMIUMS

"SEC. 1222. (a) During the first year following the date of the enactment of this title, the Secretary is authorized to enter into any contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement with any insurer or pool for reinsurance coverage, in consideration of payment of such premiums, fees, or other charges by insurers or pools which the Secretary, after full consultation with the Board, deems to be adequate to obtain aggregate reinsurance premiums for deposit in the National Insurance Development Fund established under section 1233 in excess of the estimated amount of insured riot losses during the calendar year 1967, on the assumption that a substantial proportion of the property insurance written will be reinsured under this title, and thereafter the Secretary may increase or decrease such premiums for reinsurance if it is found after full consultation with the Board and the National Association of Insurance Commissioners that such action is necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this title.

"(b) Reinsurance offered under this title shall reimburse an insurer or pool for its total proved and approved claims for covered losses resulting from riots or civil disorders during the term of the reinsurance contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement, over and above the amount of the insurer's or pool's retention of such losses as provided in such reinsurance contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement entered into under this section.

"(c) Such contracts, agreements, treaties, or other arrangements may be made without regard to section 3679(a) of the Revised Statutes of the United States (31 U.S.C. 665(a)), and shall include any terms and conditions which the Secretary deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this title. The premium rates, terms, and conditions of such contracts with insurers or pools, throughout the country, in any one year shall be uniform.

"(d) Any contract, agreement, treaty, or other arrangement for reinsurance under this section shall be for a term expiring on April 30, 1969, and on April 30 each year thereafter, and shall be entered into within ninety days after the date of the enactment of this title or within ninety days prior to April 30 each year thereafter, or within ninety days after an insurer is authorized to write insurance eligible for reinsurance in a State which it was not authorized to write in the preceding year.

"CONDITIONS OF REINSURANCE

"SEC. 1223. (a) Subject to the provisions of subsection (b), reinsurance shall not be offered by the Secretary in a State or be applicable to insurance policies written in that State by an insurer—

"(1) after one year following the date of the enactment of this title, or, if the appropriate State legislative body has not met in regular session during that year, by the close of its next regular session, in any State which has not adopted appropriate legislation, retroactive to the date of the enactment of this title, under which the State, its political subdivisions, or a governmental corporation or fund established pursuant to State law, will reimburse the Secretary, in an amount up to 5 per centum of the aggregate property insurance premiums earned in that State during the preceding calendar year on those lines of insurance reinsured by the Secretary in that State during the current year, such that the Secretary may be reimbursed for amounts paid by him in respect to reinsured losses that occurred in that State during a calendar year in excess of (A) reinsurance premiums received in that State during the same calendar year plus (B) the excess of (i) the total premiums received by the Secretary for reinsurance in that State during a preceding period measured from the end of the most recent calendar year with respect to which the Secretary was reimbursed for losses under this title over (ii) any amounts paid by the Secretary for reinsured losses that occurred during this same period;

"(2) after thirty days following notification to the insurer that the Secretary finds (after consultation with the State insurance authority) that there has not been adopted by the State, or the property insurance industry in that State, a suitable program or programs, in addition to plans under part A, to make essential property insurance available without regard to environmental hazards, and that such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this title; except that this paragraph shall not become effective until two years after the date of the enactment of this title, or at such earlier date as the Secretary, after consultation with the State insurance authority, may determine;

"(3) after thirty days following notification to the insurer that the Secretary, or the State insurance authority, finds that such insurer is not fully participating—

"(A) in the plan in the State;

"(B) where it exists, in a pool; and

"(C) where it exists, in any other program found by the Secretary to aid in making essential property insurance more readily available in the State:

Provided, That the Secretary shall not make any such finding with respect to any insurer unless (i) prior to making such finding the Secretary has requested and considered the views of the State insurance authority as to whether such finding should be made, or (ii) the Secretary has made such a request in writing to the State insurance authority and such authority has failed to respond thereto within a reasonable period of time after receiving such request;

"(4) following a merger, acquisition, consolidation or reorganization involving one or more insurers having lines of property insurance in the State reinsured under this title and one or more insurers with or without such reinsurance, unless the surviving company—

"(A) meets the criteria of eligibility for reinsurance, other than as provided under section 1222(d); and

"(B) within ten days pays any reinsurance premiums due; or

"(5) upon receipt of notice from the insurer or pool that it desires to cancel its reinsurance agreement with the Secretary in the State.

"(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, reinsurance may be continued for the term of the policies written prior to the date of termination or nonrenewal of reinsurance under this section, for as long as the insurer pays reinsurance premiums annually in such amounts as are determined under section 1222, based on the annual premiums earned on such reinsured policies, and for the purpose of this subsection, the renewal, extension, modification, or other change in a policy, for which any additional premium is charged, shall be deemed to be a policy written on the date such change was made.

"RECOVERY OF PREMIUMS; STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

"SEC. 1224. (a) The Secretary, in a suit brought in the appropriate United States district court, shall be entitled to recover from any insurer the amount of any unpaid premiums lawfully payable by such insurer to the Secretary.

"(b) No action or proceeding shall be brought for the recovery of any premium due to the Secretary for reinsurance, or for the recovery of any premium paid to the Secretary in excess of the amount due to him, unless such action or proceeding shall have been brought within five years after the right accrued for which the claim is made, except that, where the insurer has made or filed with the Secretary a false or fraudulent annual statement, or other document with the intent to evade, in whole or in part, the payment of premiums, the claim shall not be deemed to have accrued until its discovery by the Secretary.

"PART C—PROVISIONS OF GENERAL APPLICABILITY

"CLAIMS AND JUDICIAL REVIEW

"SEC. 1231. (a) All reinsurance claims for losses under this title shall be submitted by insurers in accordance with such terms and conditions as may be established by the Secretary.

"(b)(1) Upon disallowance of any claim under color of reinsurance made available under this title, or upon refusal of the claimant to accept the amount allowed upon any such claim, the claimant may institute an action against the Secretary on such claim in the United States district court for the district in which a major portion (in terms of value) of the claim arose.

U. S. district courts, jurisdiction.

"(2) Any such action must be begun within one year after the date upon which the claimant received written notice of disallowance or partial disallowance of the claim, and exclusive jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon United States district courts to hear and determine such actions without regard to the amount in controversy.

"FISCAL INTERMEDIARIES AND SERVICING AGENTS

Contract authority.

"SEC. 1232. (a) In order to provide for maximum efficiency in the administration of the reinsurance program under this title, and in order to facilitate the expeditious payment of any funds under such program, the Secretary may enter into contracts with any insurer, pool, or other person, for the purpose of providing for the performance of any or all of the following functions:

"(1) estimating or determining any amounts of payments for reinsurance claims;

"(2) receiving and disbursing and accounting for funds in making payments for reinsurance claims;

"(3) auditing the records of any insurer, pool, or other person to the extent necessary to assure that proper payments are made;

"(4) establishing the basis of liability for reinsurance payments, including the total amount of proved and approved claims which may be payable to any insurer, and the total amount of premiums earned by any insurer in the respective States for reinsured lines of property insurance; and

"(5) otherwise assisting in any manner provided in the contract to further the purposes of this title.

"(b)(1) Any such contract may require the insurer, pool, or other person, or any of its officers or employees certifying payments or disbursing funds pursuant to the contract, or otherwise participating in carrying out the contract, to give surety bond to the United States in such amounts as the Secretary may deem appropriate.

"(2) In the absence of gross negligence or intent to defraud the United States—

"(A) no individual designated pursuant to a contract under this section to certify payments shall be liable with respect to any payment certified by him under this section; and

"(B) no officer of the United States disbursing funds shall be liable with respect to any otherwise proper payment by him if it was based on a voucher signed by an individual designated pursuant to a contract under this section to certify payments.

"NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT FUND

"SEC. 1233. (a) To carry out the programs authorized under this title, the Secretary is authorized to establish a National Insurance Development Fund (hereinafter called the 'fund') which shall be available, without fiscal year limitations—

"(1) to make such payments as may, from time to time, be required under reinsurance contracts under this title;

"(2) to pay such administrative expenses as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the purposes of this title; and

"(3) to repay to the Secretary of the Treasury such sums, including interest thereon, as may be borrowed from him for purposes of such programs under section 520(b). 79 Stat. 472. 12 USC 1735d.

"(b) The fund shall be credited with—

"(1) reinsurance premiums, fees, and other charges which may be paid or collected in connection with reinsurance provided under part B;

"(2) interest which may be earned on investments of the fund;

"(3) such amounts as may be advanced to the fund from appropriations in order to maintain the fund in an operative condition adequate to meet its liabilities;

"(4) receipts from any other source which may, from time to time, be credited to the fund; and

"(5) funds borrowed by the Secretary under section 520(b) and deposited in the fund.

"(c) If, after any amounts which may have been advanced to the fund from appropriations have been credited to the appropriation from which advanced (including interest thereon at the rate prescribed under section 520(b)), the Secretary determines that the moneys of the fund are in excess of current needs, he may request the investment of such amounts as he deems advisable by the Secretary of the Treasury in obligations issued or guaranteed by the United States.

"(d) An annual business-type budget for the fund shall be prepared, transmitted to the Congress, considered, and enacted in the manner prescribed by law (sections 102, 103, and 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act (31 U.S.C. 847–849)) for wholly-owned Government corporations.

59 Stat. 597; 61 Stat. 584.

"RECORDS, ANNUAL STATEMENT, AND AUDITS

"SEC. 1234. (a) Any insurer or pool acquiring reinsurance under this title shall furnish the Secretary with such summaries and analyses of information in its records as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title, in such form as the Secretary, in cooperation with the State insurance authority, shall, by rules and regulations, prescribe. The Secretary shall make use of State insurance authority examination reports and facilities to the maximum extent feasible.

"(b) Any insurer or pool acquiring reinsurance under this title shall file with the Secretary a true and correct copy of any annual statement, or amendment thereof, filed with the State insurance authority of its domiciliary State, at the time it files such statement or amendment with such State insurance authority.

Recordkeeping requirements.

"(c) Any insurer or other person executing any contract, agreement, or other appropriate arrangement with the Secretary under section 1222 or section 1232 shall keep reasonable records which fully disclose the total costs of the programs undertaken or the services being rendered, and such other records as will facilitate an effective audit of liability for reinsurance payments by the Secretary.

Access to records, etc.

"(d) The Secretary and the Comptroller General of the United States, or any of their duly authorized representatives, shall have access for the purpose of investigation, audit, and examination to any books, documents, papers, and records of any insurer or other person that are pertinent to the costs of any program undertaken for, or services rendered to, the Secretary. Such audits shall be conducted to the maximum extent feasible in cooperation with the State insurance authorities and through the use of their examining facilities.

"STUDY OF REINSURANCE AND OTHER PROGRAMS

"SEC. 1235. (a) The Secretary is authorized and directed to conduct a study of reinsurance and other means to help assure—

"(1) an adequate market for burglary and theft and other property insurance in urban areas; and

"(2) adequate availability of surety bonds for construction contractors in urban areas.

"(b) The Secretary shall submit the results of this study, together with appropriate recommendations, to the President and Congress no later than one year following the date of the enactment of this title.

"OTHER STUDIES

"SEC. 1236. (a) The Secretary is authorized to undertake such studies as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title including, but not limited to, inquiries concerning—

"(1) the operation of plans under part A;

"(2) the extent to which essential property insurance is unavailable in urban areas;

"(3) the market for private reinsurance; and

"(4) loss prevention methods and procedures, insurance marketing methods, and underwriting techniques.

"(b) To such extent and under such circumstances as may be practicable and feasible, the Secretary shall conduct any study authorized under this section in cooperation with State insurance authorities and the private insurance industry.

"GENERAL POWERS

"SEC. 1237. In the performance of, and with respect to, the functions, powers, and duties vested in him by this title, the Secretary shall (in addition to any authority otherwise vested in him) have the functions, powers, and duties (including the authority to issue rules and regulations) set forth in section 402, except subsections (c)(2), (d), and (f), of the Housing Act of 1950. Any rules or regulations of the Secretary shall only be issued after full consultation with the Board and after notice and hearing, if granted, as required by the Administrative Procedure Act.

64 Stat. 78; 73 Stat. 681 12 USC 1749a.

60 Stat. 237. 5 USC 551 et seq.

"SERVICES AND FACILITIES OF OTHER AGENCIES—UTILIZATION OF PERSONNEL, SERVICES, FACILITIES, AND INFORMATION

"SEC. 1238. The Secretary may, with the consent of the agency concerned, accept and utilize, on a reimbursable basis, the officers, employees, services, facilities, and information of any agency of the Federal Government, except that any such agency having custody of any data relating to any of the matters within the jurisdiction of the Secretary shall, to the extent permitted by law, upon request of the Secretary, make such data available to the Secretary.

"ADVANCE PAYMENTS

"SEC. 1239. Any payments which are made under the authority of this title may be made, after necessary adjustments on account of previously made underpayments or overpayments in advance or by way of reimbursement. Payments may be made in such installments and on such conditions as the Secretary may determine.

"TAXATION

"SEC. 1240. (a) The National Insurance Development Fund, including its reserves, surplus, and income, shall be exempt from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, or by any State, or any subdivision thereof, except that any real property acquired by the Secretary as a result of reinsurance shall be subject to taxation by any State or political subdivision thereof, to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed.

"(b) Any measures undertaken by any State to meet or to fund its obligations under section 1223(a)(1) shall not be the subject of any retaliatory or fiscal imposition by any other State.

"APPROPRIATIONS

"SEC. 1241. There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this title."

FINANCING

SEC. 1104. Section 520(b) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "(1)" after "necessary" in the first sentence, and by striking out the period at the end of such sentence and inserting in lieu thereof ", and (2) to make payments for reinsured losses under title XII of this Act: Provided, however, That borrowings to make payments for reinsured losses under title XII shall be limited to 79 Stat. 472. 12 USC 1735d.

(b) Section 101(c)(2)(E) of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 is amended by striking out "natural".

(c) Section 111 of the Housing Act of 1949 is amended by striking out "the Secretary" after "disaster," and inserting in lieu thereof "or which the Secretary has determined is in need of such redevelopment or rehabilitation as a result of a riot or civil disorder, he".

68 Stat. 592. 12 USC 1709.

(d) Section 203(h) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting "riot or civil disorder," before "or other catastrophe".

Relief prohibited to convicted felons.

(e) No person who has been convicted of committing a felony during and in connection with a riot or civil disorder shall be permitted, for a period of one year after the date of his conviction, to receive any benefit under any law of the United States providing relief for disaster victims.

TITLE XII—DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA INSURANCE PLACEMENT ACT

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1201. This title may be cited as the "District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act".

DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

SEC. 1202. The purposes of this title are—

(1) to assure stability in the property insurance market for property located in the District of Columbia;

(2) to assure the availability of basic property insurance as defined by this title;

(3) to encourage maximum use, in obtaining basic property insurance, of the normal insurance market provided by authorized insurers; and

(4) to provide for the equitable distribution among insurers of the responsibility for insuring qualified property in the District of Columbia for which insurance cannot be obtained through the normal insurance market and to authorize the establishment of a joint underwriting association in the District of Columbia to provide for reinsuring of basic property insurance without regard to environmental hazards.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 1203. As used in this title, unless the context otherwise requires—

(1) The term "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the District of Columbia or his designated agent.

(2) The term "basic property insurance" means (1) insurance against direct loss to property caused by perils as defined and limited in the standard fire policy and extended coverage endorsement thereon, as approved by the Commissioner, and (2) such other insurance (including insurance against the perils of vandalism, malicious mischief, burglary, theft, and robbery) as the Commissioner may designate (under regulations adopted or made under section 1205 of this title) from those lines of property insurance for which reinsurance is available for losses from riots or civil disorders under part B of title XII of the National Housing Act. Ante, p. 560.

(3) The term "environmental hazard" means any hazardous condition that might give rise to loss under an insurance contract, but which is beyond the control of the property owner.

(4) The term "inspection bureau" means any rating bureau or other organization designated by the Commissioner to perform inspections to determine the condition of the properties for which basic property insurance is sought.

(5) The terms "Industry Placement Facility" and "Facility" mean the facility consisting of all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing basic property insurance (including homeowners and commercial multiperil policies) within the District of Columbia to assist agents, brokers, and applicants in securing basic property insurance.

(6) The term "premiums written" means gross direct premiums charged with respect to property in the District of Columbia on all policies of basic property insurance and the basic property insurance premium components of all multiperil policies, less all premiums and dividends returned, paid, or credited to policyholders or the unused or unabsorbed portions of premiums deposits.

(7) The term "property owner" means any person having an insurable interest in real, personal, or mixed real and personal property.

INDUSTRY PLACEMENT FACILITY

SEC. 1204. (a) Within thirty days after the date of the enactment of this title all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, basic property insurance or any component thereof in multiperil policies, shall establish an Industry Placement Facility. The Facility shall formulate and administer a program, subject to disapproval by the Commissioner in whole or in part, to seek the equitable apportionment amount such insurers of basic property insurance which may be afforded applicants in the District of Columbia whose property is insurable in accordance with reasonable underwriting standards and who individually or through their insurance agent or broker request the aid of the Facility to procure such insurance. The Facility shall seek to place insurance with one or more participating companies up to the full insurable value of the risk, if requested, except to the extent that deductibles, percentage participation clauses, and other underwriting devices are employed to meet special problems of insurability.

(b) The Facility may, subject to the approval of the Commissioner, provide as part of its program for the equitable distribution of commercial risks and dwelling risks among insurers.

(c) Each insurer licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, basic property insurance or any component thereof in multiperil policies shall participate in the Industry Placement Facility program in accordance with the established rules of the program as a condition of its authority to transact such kinds of insurance in the District of Columbia, except that, in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the established rules of the program, the Commissioner may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such failure to so comply when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company in the District of Columbia.

Penalty for noncompliance.

FAIR ACCESS TO INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS

SEC. 1205. (a) The Industry Placement Facility shall on its own motion, or within thirty days after a request by the Commissioner, submit to the Commissioner such proposed rules and regulations applicable to insurers, agents, and brokers deemed necessary to assure all property owners fair access to basic property insurance through the normal insurance markets, including rules and regulations concerning—

(1) the manner and scope of inspections of risk by an inspection bureau;

(2) the preparation and filing of inspection reports and reports on actions taken in connection with inspected risks, and summaries thereof;

(3) the operation of the Facility, including rules and regulations concerning—

(A) the basic property insurance coverages to be provided through the Facility;

(B) the reasonable effort to obtain insurance in the normal commercial market required of an applicant before recourse to the Facility; and

(C) the appeals procedure within the Facility for any applicant for insurance regarding any ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of the Facility.

(b) The Commissioner may adopt such of the rules and regulations submitted pursuant to subsection (a) of this section as he approves. If the Commissioner disapproves any proposed rule or regulation submitted, he shall state the reasons for so doing, and he shall require the Facility to submit a revision therof within such time as he may designate, but no less than ten days. During such designated time, the Commissioner and the Facility shall consult regarding any such disapproved rule or regulation. If the Facility fails to submit a proposed rule or regulation, or revision thereof, within the designated time, or if a revised rule or regulation is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner may make such rules and regulations covering the proposed general subject matter as he shall deem necessary to carry out the purposes of this title. Any rule or regulation adopted or made under this section shall be consistent with the requirements of part A of title XII of the National Housing Act.

Ante, p. 558.

JOINT UNDERWRITING ASSOCIATION

SEC. 1206. (a) The Commissioner is authorized to establish by order a joint underwriting association if he finds, after notice and hearing, that such association is necessary to carry out the purposes of this title. Such joint underwriting association shall consist of all insurers licensed to write and engaged in writing in the District of Columbia, on a direct basis, such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner or any component thereof in multiperil policies.

(b) Every such insurer shall be and remain a member of the association and shall comply with all requirements of membership as a condition of its authority to transact such kinds of insurance in the District of Columbia, except that in lieu of revoking or suspending the certificate of authority of any company for any failure to comply with any of the requirements of membership, the Commissioner may subject such company to a penalty of not more than $200 for each such failure to so comply when in his judgment he finds that the public interest would be best served by the continued operation of the company in the District of Columbia.

Penalty for noncompliance.

(c) (1) Within sixty days following the effective date of the order of the Commissioner under this section the association shall submit to him a proposed plan of operation, consistent with the provisions of this title, which shall provide for economical, fair, and nondiscriminatory administration of the association and for the prompt and efficient provision of reinsurance, without regard to environmental hazards, for such basic property insurance as may be designated by the Commissioner. The plan of operation shall include provisions for—

(A) preliminary assessment of all members for initial expenses necessary to commence operations;

(B) establishment of necessary facilities;

(C) management and operation of the association;

(D) assessment of members to defray losses and expenses;

(E) commission arrangements;

(F) reasonable underwriting standards;

(G) assumption and cession of reinsurance; and

(H) such other matters as the Commissioner may designate.

(2) The plan of operation shall not take effect until approved by the Commissioner. If the Commissioner disapproves the proposed plan of operation (or any part thereof), he shall state the reasons for so doing, and the association shall within thirty days thereafter submit for his review an appropriately revised plan of operation. During such time, the Commissioner and the association shall consult regarding the disapproved plan or part thereof. If the association fails to submit a revised plan of operation, or if the revised plan so submitted is unacceptable to the Commissioner, the Commissioner shall promulgate a plan of operation.

(3) The association may, on its own initiative, amend such plan, subject to approval by the Commissioner, and shall amend such plan at the direction of the Commissioner if he finds such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(d) All members of the association shall participate in its writings, expenses, profits, and losses, or in such categories thereof as may be separately established by the association, subject to approval by the Commissioner, in the proportion that the premiums written by each such member during the preceding calendar year bear to the aggregate premiums written in the District of Columbia by all members of the association, or in accordance with such other formula as the association may devise with the approval of the Commissioner. Such participation by each insurer in the association shall be determined annually on the basis of such premiums written during the preceding calendar year as disclosed in the annual statements and other reports filed by the insurer with the Commissioner.

(e) The association shall be governed by a board of eleven directors, elected annually by cumulative voting by the members of the association, whose votes in such election shall be weighted in accordance with the proportionate amount of each member's net direct premiums written in the District of Columbia during the preceding calendar year.

The first board shall be elected at a meeting of the members or their authorized representatives, which shall be held within thirty days after the effective date of the order under this section establishing the association, at a time and place designated by the Commissioner.

EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER

SEC. 1207. The operation of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, and the joint underwriting association shall at all times be subject to the supervision and regulation of the Commissioner. The Commissioner shall have the power of visitation of and examination into such operations and free access to all the books, records, files, papers, and documents that relate to such operations, may summon and qualify witnesses under oath, and may examine directors, officers, agents, employees or, any other person having knowledge of such operations.

Access to records.

WAIVER OF LIABILITY

SEC. 1208. There shall be no liability on the part of, and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against, insurers, any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, the joint underwriting association, the agents or employees of such bureau, Facility, or association, or any officer or employee of the District of Columbia, for any statements made in good faith by them concerning the insurability of property (A) in any reports or other communications, (B) at the time of the hearings conducted in connection therewith, or (C) in the findings with respect thereto required by the provisions of this title. The reports and communications of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, and the joint underwriting association with respect to individual properties shall not be open to inspection by, or otherwise available to, the public.

ANNUAL REPORTS BY JOINT UNDERWRITING ASSOCIATION

SEC. 1209. The joint underwriting association shall file with the Commissioner, annually on or before the 1st day of March, a statement which shall contain information with respect to its transactions, condition, operations, and affairs during the preceding year. Such statement shall contain such matters and information as are prescribed by the Commissioner and shall be in such form as is approved by him. The Commissioner may at any time require the association to furnish him with additional information with respect to its transactions, condition, or any matter connected therewith which he considers to be material and which will assist him in evaluating the scope, operation, and experience of the association.

APPEALS

SEC. 1210. (a) Any applicant for insurance and any affected insurer may appeal to the Commissioner within ninety days after any final ruling, action, or decision by or on behalf of any inspection bureau, the Industry Placement Facility, or the joint underwriting association, following exhaustion of remedies available within such bureau, Facility, or association.

(b) All final orders or decisions of the Commissioner made under this title shall be subject to review by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals under section 11–742 of the District of Columbia Code.

77 Stat. 485.

REIMBURSEMENT FOR REINSURANCE PROVIDED UNDER NATIONAL INSURANCE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

SEC. 1211. (a) In order to carry out the purposes of this title and to make available to insurers who participate hereunder the reinsurance afforded under part B of title XII of the National Housing Act against losses to property resulting from riots or civil disorders, the Commissioner is authorized to assess each insurance company authorized to do business in the District of Columbia an amount, in the proportion that the premiums earned by each such company in the District of Columbia, on lines reinsured in the District of Columbia by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, during the preceding calendar year bear to the aggregate premiums earned on those lines in the District of Columbia by all insurance companies, sufficient to provide a fund to reimburse the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development in the manner set forth in section 1223(a)(1) of such part B. Such fund may be added to or such fund may be created by moneys appropriated therefor by the Congress. Ante, p. 560.

(b) Insurers shall add to the premium rate an amount, to be approved by the Commissioner, sufficient to recover, within not more than three years, any amounts assessed under subsection (a) of this section during the preceding calendar year. Such amount shall be a separate charge to the insured in addition to the premium to be paid and shall be reflected as such in the policy of insurance. No commission shall be paid thereon to any agent or broker producing or selling the policy of insurance wherein such amount is added.

DELEGATION

SEC. 1212. The Commissioner is authorized to delegate any of the functions vested in him by this title.

JUDICIAL REVIEW

SEC. 1213. Section 11–742(a) of the District of Columbia Code is amended (1) by striking out "and" immediately following paragraph (10); (2) by striking out the period following paragraph (11) and inserting in lieu thereof "; and"; and (3) by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph: 77 Stat. 485; 78 Stat. 633.

"(12) final orders and decisions of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia under the provisions of the District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act."

TITLE XIII—NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1301. This title may be cited as the "National Flood Insurance Act of 1968".

FINDINGS AND DECLARATION OF PURPOSE

SEC. 1302. (a) The Congress finds that (1) from time to time flood disasters have created personal hardships and economic distress which have required unforeseen disaster relief measures and have placed an increasing burden on the Nation's resources; (2) despite the installation of preventive and protective works and the adoption of other public programs designed to reduce losses caused by flood damage, these methods have not been sufficient to protect adequately against growing exposure to future flood losses; (3) as a matter of national policy, a reasonable method of sharing the risk of flood losses is through a program of flood insurance which can complement and encourage preventive and protective measures; and (4) if such a program is initiated and carried out gradually, it can be expanded as knowledge is gained and experience is appraised, thus eventually making flood insurance coverage available on reasonable terms and conditions to persons who have need for such protection.

(b) The Congress also finds that (1) many factors have made it uneconomic for the private insurance industry alone to make flood insurance available to those in need of such protection on reasonable terms and conditions; but (2) a program of flood insurance with large-scale participation of the Federal Government and carried out to the maximum extent practicable by the private insurance industry is feasible and can be initiated.

(c) The Congress further finds that (1) a program of flood insurance can promote the public interest by providing appropriate protection against the perils of flood losses and encouraging sound land use by minimizing exposure of property to flood losses; and (2) the objectives of a flood insurance program should be integrally related to a unified national program for flood plain management and, to this end, it is the sense of Congress that within two years following the effective date of this title the President should transmit to the Congress for its consideration any further proposals necessary for such a unified program, including proposals for the allocation of costs among beneficiaries of flood protection.

Proposals transmitted to Congress.

(d) It is therefore the purpose of this title to (1) authorize a flood insurance program by means of which flood insurance, over a period of time, can be made available on a nationwide basis through the cooperative efforts of the Federal Government and the private insurance industry, and (2) provide flexibility in the program so that such flood insurance may be based on workable methods of pooling risks, minimizing costs, and distributing burdens equitably among those who will be protected by flood insurance and the general public.

(e) It is the further purpose of this title to (1) encourage State and local governments to make appropriate land use adjustments to constrict the development of land which is exposed to flood damage and minimize damage caused by flood losses, (2) guide the development of proposed future construction, where practicable, away from locations which are threatened by flood hazards, (3) encourage lending and credit institutions, as a matter of national policy, to assist in furthering the objectives of the flood insurance program, (4) assure that any Federal assistance provided under the program will be related closely to all flood-related programs and activities of the Federal Government, and (5) authorize continuing studies of flood hazards in order to provide for a constant reappraisal of the flood insurance program and its effect on land use requirements.

AMENDMENTS TO THE FEDERAL FLOOD INSURANCE ACT OF 1956

SEC. 1303. (a) The second sentence of section 15(e) of the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956 (79 Stat. 1078) is amended—

70 Stat. 1078.
42 USC 2414.

(1) by striking out "rate" the second time it appears in such sentence, and inserting in lieu thereof "market yield", and

(2) by striking out "as of the last day of", and inserting in lieu thereof "during".

(b) Section 15(e) of such Act is further amended by striking out the last sentence thereof.

Repeal.
42 USC 2401 et seq.

(c) Sections 2 through 14, subsections (a) through (d), and (f) and (g) of section 15, and sections 16 through 23 of such Act are hereby repealed.

CHAPTER I—THE NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

BASIC AUTHORITY

SEC. 1304. (a) To carry out the purposes of this title, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to establish and carry out a national flood insurance program which will enable interested persons to purchase insurance against loss resulting from physical damage to or loss of real property or personal property related thereto arising from any flood occurring in the United States.

(b) In carrying out the flood insurance program the Secretary shall, to the maximum extent practicable, encourage and arrange for—

(1) appropriate financial participation and risk sharing in the program by insurance companies and other insurers, and

(2) other appropriate participation, on other than a risk-sharing basis, by insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations, in accordance with the provisions of chapter II. Post, p. 581.

SCOPE OF PROGRAM AND PRIORITIES

SEC. 1305. (a) In carrying out the flood insurance program the Secretary shall afford a priority to making flood insurance available to cover residential properties which are designed for the occupancy of from one to four families and business properties which are owned or leased and operated by small business concerns.

(b) If on the basis of—

(1) studies and investigations undertaken and carried out and information received or exchanged under section 1307, and

(2) such other information as may be necessary,

the Secretary determines that it would be feasible to extend the flood insurance program to cover other properties, he may take such action under this title as from time to time may be necessary in order to make flood insurance available to cover, on such basis as may be feasible, any types and classes of—

(A) other residential properties,

(B) other business properties,

(C) agricultural properties,

(D) properties occupied by private nonprofit organizations, and

(E) properties owned by State and local governments and agencies thereof, and any such extensions of the program to any types and classes of these properties shall from time to time be prescribed in regulations.

(c) The Secretary shall make flood insurance available in only those States or areas (or subdivisions thereof) which he has determined have—

(1) evidenced a positive interest in securing flood insurance coverage under the flood insurance program, and

(2) given satisfactory assurance that by June 30, 1970, permanent land use and control measures will have been adopted for the State or area (or subdivision) which are consistent with the comprehensive criteria for land management and use developed under section 1361, and that the application and enforcement of such measures will commence as soon as technical information on floodways and on controlling flood elevations is available.

NATURE AND LIMITATION OF INSURANCE COVERAGE

SEC. 1306. (a) The Secretary shall from time to time, after consultation with the advisory committee authorized under section 1318, appropriate representatives of the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, and appropriate representatives of the insurance authorities of the respective States, provide by regulation for general terms and conditions of insurability which shall be applicable to properties eligible for flood insurance coverage under section 1305, including—

(1) the types, classes, and locations of any such properties which shall be eligible for flood insurance;

(2) the nature and limits of loss or damage in any areas (or subdivisions thereof) which may be covered by such insurance;

(3) the classification, limitation, and rejection of any risks which may be advisable;

(4) appropriate minimum premiums;

(5) appropriate loss-deductibles; and

(6) any other terms and conditions relating to insurance coverage or exclusion which may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(b) In addition to any other terms and conditions under subsection (a), such regulations shall provide that—

(1) any flood insurance coverage based on chargeable premium rates under section 1308 which are less than the estimated premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) shall not exceed—

(A) in the case of residential properties which are designed for the occupancy of from one to four families—

(i) $17,500 aggregate liability for any dwelling unit, and $30,000 for any single dwelling structure containing more than one dwelling unit, and

(ii) $5,000 aggregate liability per dwelling unit for any contents related to such unit;

(B) in the case of business properties which are owned or leased and operated by small business concerns, an aggregate liability with respect to any single structure, including any contents thereof related to premises of small business occupants (as that term is defined by the Secretary), which shall be equal to (i) $30,000 plus (ii) $5,000 multiplied by the number of such occupants and shall be allocated among such occupants (or among the occupant or occupants and the owner) under regulations prescribed by the Secretary; except that the aggregate liability for the structure itself may in no case exceed $30,000; and

(C) in the case of any other properties which may become eligible for flood insurance coverage under section 1305—

(i) $30,000 aggregate liability for any single structure, and

(ii) $5,000 aggregate liability per dwelling unit for any contents related to such unit in the case of residential properties, or per occupant (as that term is defined by the Secretary) for any contents related to the premises occupied in the case of any other properties; and

(2) any flood insurance coverage which may be made available in excess of any of the limits specified in subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of paragraph (1) (or allocated to any person under subparagraph (B) of such paragraph) shall be based only on chargeable premium rates under section 1308 which are not less than the estimated premium rates under section 1307(a)(1), and the amount of such excess coverage shall not in any case exceed an amount which is equal to the applicable limit so specified (or allocated).

ESTIMATES OF PREMIUM RATES

SEC. 1307. (a) The Secretary is authorized to undertake and carry out such studies and investigations and receive or exchange such information as may be necessary to estimate, and shall from time to time estimate, on an area, subdivision, or other appropriate basis—

(1) the risk premium rates for flood insurance which—

(A) based on consideration of the risk involved and accepted actuarial principles, and

(B) including—

(i) the applicable operating costs and allowances set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311 and reflected in such rates, and

(ii) any administrative expenses (or portion of such expenses) of carrying out the flood insurance program which, in his discretion, should properly be reflected in such rates,

would be required in order to make such insurance available on an actuarial basis for any types and classes of properties for which insurance coverage is available under section 1305(a) (or is recommended to the Congress under section 1305(b));

(2) the rates, if less than the rates estimated under paragraph (1), which would be reasonable, would encourage prospective insureds to purchase flood insurance, and would be consistent with the purposes of this title; and

(3) the extent, if any, to which federally assisted or other flood protection measures initiated after the date of the enactment of this title affect such rates.

(b) In carrying out subsection (a), the Secretary shall, to the maximum extent feasible and on a reimbursement basis, utilize the services of the Department of the Army, the Department of the Interior, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Commerce, and the Tennessee Valley Authority, and, as appropriate, other Federal departments or agencies, and for such purposes may enter into agreements or other appropriate arrangements with any persons.

(c) The Secretary shall give priority to conducting studies and investigations and making estimates under this section in those States or areas (or subdivisions thereof) which he has determined have evidenced a positive interest in securing flood insurance coverage under the flood insurance program.

ESTABLISHMENT OF CHARGEABLE PREMIUM RATES

SEC. 1308. (a) On the basis of estimates made under section 1307 and such other information as may be necessary, the Secretary shall from time to time, after consultation with the advisory committee authorized under section 1318, appropriate representatives of the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, and appropriate representatives of the insurance authorities of the respective States, prescribe by regulation—

(1) chargeable premium rates for any types and classes of properties for which insurance coverage shall be available under section 1305 (at less than the estimated risk premium rates under section 1307(a)(1), where necessary), and

(2) the terms and conditions under which, and the areas (including subdivisions thereof) within which, such rates shall apply.

(b) Such rates shall, insofar as practicable, be—

(1) based on a consideration of the respective risks involved, including differences in risks due to land use measures, flood-proofing, flood forecasting, and similar measures.

(2) adequate, on the basis of accepted actuarial principles, to provide reserves for anticipated losses, or, if less than such amount, consistent with the objective of making flood insurance available where necessary at reasonable rates so as to encourage prospective insureds to purchase such insurance and with the purposes of this title, and

(3) stated so as to reflect the basis for such rates, including the differences (if any) between the estimated risk premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) and the estimated rates under section 1307(a)(2).

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, the chargeable rate with respect to any property, the construction or substantial improvement of which the Secretary determines has been started after the identification of the area in which such property is located has been published under paragraph (1) of section 1360, shall not be less than the applicable estimated risk premium rate for such area (or subdivision thereof) under section 1307(a)(1).

(d) In the event any chargeable premium rate prescribed under this section—

(1) is a rate which is not less than the applicable estimated risk premium rate under section 1307(a)(1), and

(2) includes any amount for administrative expenses of carrying out the flood insurance program which have been estimated under clause (ii) of section 1307(a)(1)(B), a sum equal to such amount shall be paid to the Secretary, and he shall deposit such sum in the National Flood Insurance Fund established under section 1310.

FINANCING

SEC. 1309. (a) All authority which was vested in the Housing and Home Finance Administrator by virtue of section 15(e) of the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956 (70 Stat. 1084) (pertaining to the issue of notes or other obligations to the Secretary of the Treasury), as amended by subsections (a) and (b) of section 1303 of this Act, shall be available to the Secretary for the purpose of carrying out the flood insurance program under this title; except that the total amount of notes and obligations which may be issued by the Secretary pursuant to such authority shall not exceed $250,000,000, and all authority of the Secretary to issue notes and obligations under said section 15(e) beyond such sum is hereby rescinded.

42 USC 2414.

(b) Any funds borrowed by the Secretary under this authority shall, from time to time, be deposited in the National Flood Insurance Fund established under section 1310.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE FUND

SEC. 1310. (a) To carry out the flood insurance program authorized by this title, the Secretary is authorized to establish in the Treasury of the United States a National Flood Insurance Fund (hereinafter referred to as the "fund") which shall be available, without fiscal year limitation—

(1) for making such payments as may, from time to time, be required under section 1334;

(2) to pay reinsurance claims under the excess loss reinsurance coverage provided under section 1335;

(3) to repay to the Secretary of the Treasury such sums as may be borrowed from him (together with interest) in accordance with the authority provided in section 1309; and

(4) to pay such administrative expenses (or portion of such expenses) of carrying out the flood insurance program as he may deem necessary; and

(5) for the purposes specified in subsection (d) under the conditions provided therein.

(b) The fund shall be credited with—

(1) such funds borrowed in accordance with the authority provided in section 1309 as may from time to time be deposited in the fund;

(2) premiums, fees, or other charges which may be paid or collected in connection with the excess loss reinsurance coverage provided under section 1335;

(3) such amounts as may be advanced to the fund from appropriations in order to maintain the fund in an operative condition adequate to meet its liabilities;

(4) interest which may be earned on investments of the fund pursuant to subsection (c);

(5) such sums as are required to be paid to the Secretary under section 1308(d); and

(6) receipts from any other operations under this title (including premiums under the conditions specified in subsection (d), and salvage proceeds, if any, resulting from reinsurance coverage).

(c) If, after—

(1) all outstanding obligations of the fund have been liquidated, and

(2) any outstanding amounts which may have been advanced to the fund from appropriations authorized under section 1376 (a)(2)(B) have been credited to the appropriation from which advanced, with interest accrued at the rate prescribed under section 15(e) of the Federal Flood Insurance Act of 1956, as in effect immediately prior to the enactment of this title,

70 Stat. 1083.
42 USC 2414.

the Secretary determines that the moneys of the fund are in excess of current needs, he may request the investment of such amounts as he deems advisable by the Secretary of the Treasury in obligations issued or guaranteed by the United States.

Investment of moneys.

(d) In the event the Secretary makes a determination in accordance with the provisions of section 1340 that operation of the flood insurance program, in whole or in part, should be carried out through the facilities of the Federal Government, the fund shall be available for all purposes incident thereto, including—

(1) cost incurred in the adjustment and payment of any claims for losses, and

(2) payment of applicable operating costs set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311,

for so long as the program is so carried out, and in such event any premiums paid shall be deposited by the Secretary to the credit of the fund.

(e) An annual business-type budget for the fund shall be prepared, transmitted to the Congress, considered, and enacted in the manner prescribed by law (sections 102, 103, and 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act (31 U.S.C. 847–849)) for wholly-owned Government corporations.

59 Stat. 597;
61 Stat. 584.

OPERATING COSTS AND ALLOWANCES

SEC. 1311. (a) The Secretary shall from time to time negotiate with appropriate representatives of the insurance industry for the purpose of establishing—

(1) a current schedule of operating costs applicable both to risk-sharing insurance companies and other insurers and to insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations participating on other than a risk-sharing basis, and

(2) a current schedule of operating allowances applicable to risk-sharing insurance companies and other insurers, which may be payable in accordance with the provisions of chapter II, and such schedules shall from time to time be prescribed in regulations.

Post, p. 581.

(b) For purposes of subsection (a)—

"Operating costs."

(1) the term "operating costs" shall (without limiting such term) include—

(A) expense reimbursements covering the direct, actual, and necessary expenses incurred in connection with selling and servicing flood insurance coverage;

(B) reasonable compensation payable for selling and servicing flood insurance coverage, or commissions or service fees paid to producers;

(C) loss adjustment expenses; and

(D) other direct, actual, and necessary expenses which the Secretary finds are incurred in connection with selling or servicing flood insurance coverage; and

"Operating allowances."

(2) the term "operating allowances" shall (without limiting such term) include amounts for profit and contingencies which the Secretary finds reasonable and necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

PAYMENT OF CLAIMS

SEC. 1312. The Secretary is authorized to prescribe regulations establishing the general method or methods by which proved and approved claims for losses may be adjusted and paid for any damage to or loss of property which is covered by flood insurance made available under the provisions of this title.

DISSEMINATION OF FLOOD INSURANCE INFORMATION

SEC. 1313. The Secretary shall from time to time take such action as may be necessary in order to make information and data available to the public, and to any State or local agency or official, with regard to—

(1) the flood insurance program, its coverage and objectives, and

(2) estimated and chargeable flood insurance premium rates, including the basis for and differences between such rates in accordance with the provisions of section 1308.

PROHIBITION AGAINST CERTAIN DUPLICATIONS OF BENEFITS

SEC. 1314. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, no Federal disaster assistance shall be made available to any person—

(1) for the physical loss, destruction, or damage of real or personal property, to the extent that such loss, destruction, or damage is covered by a valid claim which may be adjusted and paid under flood insurance made available under the authority of this title, or

(2) except in the situation provided for under subsection (b), for the physical loss, destruction, or damage of real or personal property, to the extent that such loss, destruction, or damage could have been covered by a valid claim under flood insurance which had been made available under the authority of this title, if—

(A) such loss, destruction, or damage occurred subsequent to one year following the date flood insurance was made available in the area (or subdivision thereof) in which such property or the major part thereof was located, and

(B) such property was eligible for flood insurance under this title at that date;

and in such circumstances the extent that such loss, destruction, or damage could have been covered shall be presumed (for purposes of this subsection) to be an amount not less than the maximum limit of insurable loss or damage applicable to such property in such area (or subdivision thereof), pursuant to regulations under section 1306, at the time insurance was made available in such area (or subdivision thereof).

(b) In order to assure that the provisions of subsection (a)(2) will not create undue hardship for low-income persons who might otherwise benefit from the provision of Federal disaster assistance, the Secretary shall provide by regulation for the circumstances in which the provisions of subsection (a)(2) shall not be applicable to any such persons.

(c) For purposes of this section, "Federal disaster assistance" shall include any Federal financial assistance which may be made available to any person as a result of— "Federal disaster assistance."

(1) a major disaster (within the meaning of that term as determined by the President pursuant to the Act entitled "An Act to authorize Federal assistance to State and local governments in major disasters, and for other purposes", as amended (42 U.S.C. 1855–1855g)), 64 Stat. 1109.

(2) a natural disaster, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture pursuant to section 321 of the Consolidated Farmers Home Administration Act of 1961 (7 U.S.C. 1961), or 75 Stat. 311.

(3) a disaster with respect to which loans may be made under section 7(b) of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 636(b)). 72 Stat. 389; 79 Stat. 206.

(d) For purposes of section 10 of the Disaster Relief Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1320), the term "financial assistance" shall be deemed to include any flood insurance which is made available under this title. "Financial assistance." 42 USC 1855ff.

STATE AND LOCAL LAND USE CONTROLS

SEC. 1315. After June 30, 1970, no new flood insurance coverage shall be provided under this title in any area (or subdivision thereof) unless an appropriate public body shall have adopted permanent land use and control measures (with effective enforcement provisions) which the Secretary finds are consistent with the comprehensive criteria for land management and use under section 1361.

PROPERTIES IN VIOLATION OF STATE AND LOCAL LAW

SEC. 1316. No new flood insurance coverage shall be provided under this title for any property which the Secretary finds has been declared by a duly constituted State or local zoning authority, or other authorized public body, to be in violation of State or local laws, regulations, or ordinances which are intended to discourage or otherwise restrict land development or occupancy in flood-prone areas.

COORDINATION WITH OTHER PROGRAMS

SEC. 1317. In carrying out this title, the Secretary shall consult with other departments and agencies of the Federal Government, and with interstate, State, and local agencies having responsibilities for flood control, flood forecasting, or flood damage prevention, in order to assure that the programs of such agencies and the flood insurance program authorized under this title are mutually consistent.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

SEC. 1318. (a) The Secretary shall appoint a flood insurance advisory committee without regard to the provisions of title 5, United States Code, governing appointments in the competitive service, and such committee shall advise the secretary in the preparation of any regulations prescribed in accordance with this title and with respect to policy matters arising in the administration of this title, and shall perform such other responsibilities as the Secretary may, from time to time, assign to such committee.

80 Stat. 408.
5 USC 2101 et seq.

(b) Such committee shall consist of not more than fifteen persons and such persons shall be selected from among representatives of—

(1) the insurance industry,
(2) State and local governments,
(3) lending institutions,
(4) the homebuilding industry, and
(5) the general public.

(c) Members of the committee shall, while attending conferences or meetings thereof, be entitled to receive compensation at a rate fixed by the Secretary but not exceeding $100 per day, including traveltime, and while so serving away from their homes or regular places of business they may be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as is authorized under section 5703 of title 5, United States Code, for persons in the Government service employed intermittently.

Compensation, travel expenses.

80 Stat. 499.

INITIAL PROGRAM LIMITATION

SEC. 1319. The face amount of flood insurance coverage outstanding and in force at any one time under this title shall not exceed the sum of $2,500,000,000.

REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT

SEC. 1320. The Secretary shall include a report of operations under this title in the annual report to the President for submission to the Congress required by section 8 of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act.

79 Stat. 670.
42 USC 3536.

CHAPTER II—ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION OF THE FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 1330. Following such consultation with representatives of the insurance industry as may be necessary, the Secretary shall implement the flood insurance program authorized under chapter I in accordance with the provisions of part A of this chapter and, if a determination is made by him under section 1340, under part B of this chapter.

Ante, p.574; Post, pp. 582, 584.

PART A—INDUSTRY PROGRAM WITH FEDERAL FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

INDUSTRY FLOOD INSURANCE POOL

SEC. 1331. (a) The Secretary is authorized to encourage and otherwise assist any insurance companies and other insurers which meet the requirements prescribed under subsection (b) to form, associate, or otherwise join together in a pool—

(1) in order to provide the flood insurance coverage authorized under chapter I; and Ante, p. 574.

(2) for the purpose of assuming, on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, such financial responsibility as will enable such companies and other insurers, with the Federal financial and other assistance available under this title, to assume a reasonable proportion of responsibility for the adjustment and payment of claims for losses under the flood insurance program.

(b) In order to promote the effective administration of the flood insurance program under this part, and to assure that the objectives of this title are furthered, the Secretary is authorized to prescribe appropriate requirements for insurance companies and other insurers participating in such pool including, but not limited to, minimum requirements for capital or surplus or assets.

AGREEMENTS WITH FLOOD INSURANCE POOL

SEC. 1332. (a) The Secretary is authorized to enter into such agreements with the pool formed or otherwise created under this part as he deems necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(b) Such agreements shall specify—

(1) the terms and conditions under which risk capital will be available for the adjustment and payment of claims,

(2) the terms and conditions under which the pool (and the companies and other insurers participating therein) shall participate in premiums received and profits or losses realized or sustained,

(3) the maximum amount of profit, established by the Secretary and set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311, which may be realized by such pool (and the companies and other insurers participating therein),

(4) the terms and conditions under which operating costs and allowances set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311 may be paid, and

(5) the terms and conditions under which premium equalization payments under section 1334 will be made and reinsurance claims under section 1335 will be paid.

(c) In addition, such agreements shall contain such provisions as the Secretary finds necessary to assure that—

(1) no insurance company or other insurer which meets the requirements prescribed under section 1331(b), and which has indicated an intention to participate in the flood insurance program on a risk-sharing basis, will be excluded from participating in the pool,

(2) the insurance companies and other insurers participating in the pool will take whatever action may be necessary to provide continuity of flood insurance coverage by the pool, and

(3) any insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations will be permitted to cooperate with the pool as fiscal agents or otherwise, on other than a risk-sharing basis, to the maximum extent practicable.

ADJUSTMENT AND PAYMENT OF CLAIMS AND JUDICIAL REVIEW

SEC. 1333. The insurance companies and other insurers which form, associate, or otherwise join together in the pool under this part may adjust and pay all claims for proved and approved losses covered by flood insurance in accordance with the provisions of this title and, upon the disallowance by any such company or other insurer of any such claim, or upon the refusal of the claimant to accept the amount allowed upon any such claim, the claimant, within one year after the date of mailing of notice of disallowance or partial disallowance of the claim, may institute an action on such claim against such company or other insurer in the United States district court for the district in which the insured property or the major part thereof shall have been situated, and jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon such court to hear and determine such action without regard to the amount in controversy.

PREMIUM EQUALIZATION PAYMENTS

SEC. 1334. (a) The Secretary, on such terms and conditions as he may from time to time prescribe, shall make periodic payments to the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, in recognition of such reductions in chargeable premium rates under section 1308 below estimated premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) as are required in order to make flood insurance available on reasonable terms and conditions.

(b) Such payments shall be based only on the aggregate amount of flood insurance retained by the pool after ceding reinsurance in accordance with the provisions of section 1335, and shall not exceed an aggregate amount in any payment period equal to the sum of the following:

(1) an amount for losses which bears the same ratio to the amount of all proved and approved claims for losses under this title during any designated period as the amount equal to the difference between—

(A) the sum of all premium payments for flood insurance coverage in force under this title during such designated period which would have been payable during such period if all such coverage were based on estimated risk premium rates under section 1307(a)(1) (excluding any administrative expenses which may be reflected in such rates, as specified in clause (ii) of section 1307(a)(1)(B)), and

(B) the sum of the premium payments actually paid or payable for such insurance under this title during such period, bears to the amount specified in clause (A); and

(2) subject to the terms and conditions specified in the agreements entered into with the pool under section 1332, a proportionate amount for appropriate operating costs and allowances (as set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311) during any designated period which bears the same ratio to the total amount of such operating costs and allowances during such period as the ratio specified in paragraph (1).

(c) Designated periods under this section and the methods for determining the sum of premiums paid or payable during such periods shall be established by the Secretary.

REINSURANCE COVERAGE

SEC. 1335. (a) The Secretary is authorized to take such action as may be necessary in order to make available, to the pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, reinsurance for losses (due to claims for proved and approved losses covered by flood insurance) which are in excess of losses assumed by such pool in accordance with the excess loss agreement entered into under subsection (c).

(b) Such reinsurance shall be made available pursuant to contract, agreement, or any other arrangement, in consideration of such payment of a premium, fee, or other charge as the Secretary finds necessary to cover anticipated losses and other costs of providing such reinsurance.

(c) The Secretary is authorized to negotiate an excess loss agreement, from time to time, under which the amount of flood insurance retained by the pool, after ceding reinsurance, shall be adequate to further the purposes of this title, consistent with the objective of maintaining appropriate financial participation and risk sharing to the maximum extent practicable on the part of participating insurance companies and other insurers.

(d) All reinsurance claims for losses in excess of losses assumed by the pool shall be submitted on a portfolio basis by such pool in accordance with terms and conditions established by the Secretary.

Part B—Government Program With Industry Assistance

Federal operation of the program

Sec. 1340. (a) If at any time, after consultation with representatives of the insurance industry, the Secretary determines that operation of the flood insurance program as provided under part A cannot be carried out, or that such operation, in itself, would be assisted materially by the Federal Government's assumption, in whole or in part, of the operational responsibility for flood insurance under this title (on a temporary or other basis) he shall promptly undertake any necessary arrangements to carry out the program of flood insurance authorized under chapter I through the facilities of the Federal Government, utilizing, for purposes of providing flood insurance coverage, either— Ante, p. 574.

(1) insurance companies and other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, and insurance adjustment organizations, as fiscal agents of the United States,

(2) officers and employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and such other officers and employees of any executive agency (as defined in section 105 of title 5 of the United States Code) as the Secretary and the head of any such agency may from time to time, agree upon, on a reimbursement or other basis, or 80 Stat. 379.

(3) both the alternatives specified in paragraphs (1) and (2).

(b) Upon making the determination referred to in subsection (a), and at least thirty days prior to implementing the program of flood insurance authorized under chapter I through the facilities of the Federal Government, the Secretary shall make a report to the Congress and such report shall— Report to Congress.

(1) state the reasons for such determination,

(2) be supported by pertinent findings,

(3) indicate the extent to which it is anticipated that the insurance industry will be utilized in providing flood insurance coverage under the program, and

(4) contain such recommendations as the Secretary deems advisable.

Adjustment and payment of claims and judicial review

Sec. 1341. In the event the program is carried out as provided in section 1340, the Secretary shall be authorized to adjust and make payment of any claims for proved and approved losses covered by flood insurance, and upon the disallowance by the Secretary of any such claim, or upon the refusal of the claimant to accept the amount allowed upon any such claim, the claimant, within one year after the date of mailing of notice of disallowance or partial disallowance by the Secretary, may institute an action against the Secretary on such claim in the United States district court for the district in which the insured property or the major part thereof shall have been situated, and jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon such court to hear and determine such action without regard to the amount in controversy.

U. S. district court, jurisdiction.

Part C—Provisions of General Applicability

services by insurance industry

Contract authority.

Sec. 1345. (a) In administering the flood insurance program under this chapter, the Secretary is authorized to enter into any contracts, agreements, or other appropriate arrangements which may, from time to time, be necessary for the purpose of utilizing, on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, the facilities and services of any insurance companies or other insurers, insurance agents and brokers, or insurance adjustment organizations; and such contracts, agreements, or arrangements may include provision for payment of applicable operating costs and allowances for such facilities and services as set forth in the schedules prescribed under section 1311.

(b) Any such contracts, agreements, or other arrangements may be entered into without regard to the provisions of section 3709 of the Revised Statutes (41 U.S.C. 5) or any other provision of law requiring competitive bidding.

use of insurance pool, companies, or other private organizations for certain payments

Sec. 1346. (a) In order to provide for maximum efficiency in the administration of the flood insurance program and in order to facilitate the expeditious payment of any Federal funds under such program, the Secretary may enter into contracts with pool formed or otherwise created under section 1331, or any insurance company or other private organization, for the purpose of securing performance by such pool, company, or organization of any or all of the following responsibilities:

(1) estimating and later determining any amounts of payments to be made;

(2) receiving from the Secretary, disbursing, and accounting for funds in making such payments;

(3) making such audits of the records of any insurance company or other insurer, insurance agent or broker, or insurance adjustment organization as may be necessary to assure that proper payments are made; and

(4) otherwise assisting in such manner as the contract may provide to further the purposes of this title.

(b) Any contract with the pool or an insurance company or other private organization under this section may contain such terms and conditions as the Secretary finds necessary or appropriate for carrying out responsibilities under subsection (a), and may provide for payment of any costs which the Secretary determines are incidental to carrying out such responsibilities which are covered by the contract.

(c) Any contract entered into under subsection (a) may be entered into without regard to section 3709 of the Revised Statute (41 U.S.C. 5) or any other provision of law requiring competitive bidding.

(d) No contract may be entered into under this section unless the Secretary finds that the pool, company, or organization will perform its obligations under the contract efficiently and effectively, and will meet such requirements as to financial responsibility, legal authority, and other matters as he finds pertinent.

(e)(1) Any such contract may require the pool, company, or organization or any of its officers or employees certifying payments or disbursing funds pursuant to the contract, or otherwise participating in carrying out the contact, to give surety bond to the United States in such amount as the Secretary may deem appropriate.

(2) No individual designated pursuant to a contract under this section to certify payments shall, in the absence of gross negligence or intent to defraud the United States, be liable with respect to any payment certified by him under this section.

(3) No officer disbursing funds shall in the absence of gross negligence or intent to defraud the United States, be liable with respect to any payment by him under this section if it was based upon a voucher signed by an individual designated to certify payments as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(f) Any contract entered into under this section shall be for a term of one year, and may be made automatically renewable from term to term in the absence of notice by either party of an intention to terminate at the end of the current term; except that the Secretary may terminate any such contract at any time (after reasonable notice to the pool, company, or organization involved) if he finds that the pool, company, or organization has failed substantially to carry out the contract, or is carrying out the contract in a manner inconsistent with the efficient and effective administration of the flood insurance program authorized under this title.

SETTLEMENT AND ARBITRATION

SEC. 1347. (a) The Secretary is authorized to make final settlement of any claims or demands which may arise as a result of any financial transactions which he is authorized to carry out under this chapter, and may, to assist him in making any such settlement, refer any disputes relating to such claims or demands to arbitration, with the consent of the parties concerned.

(b) Such arbitration shall be advisory in nature, and any award, decision, or recommendation which may be made shall become final only upon the approval of the Secretary.

RECORDS AND AUDITS

SEC. 1348. (a) The flood insurance pool formed or otherwise created under part A of this chapter, and any insurance company or other private organization executing any contract, agreement, or other appropriate arrangement with the Secretary under part B of this chapter or this part, shall keep such records as the Secretary shall prescribe, including records which fully disclose the total costs of the program undertaken or the services being rendered, and such other records as will facilitate an effective audit.

Ante, p. 582.
Ante, p. 584.

(b) The Secretary and the Comptroller General of the United States, or any of their duly authorized representatives, shall have access for the purpose of audit and examination to any books, documents, papers, and records of the pool and any such insurance company or other private organization that are pertinent to the costs of the program undertaken or the services being rendered.

Access to records for audit.

CHAPTER III—COORDINATION OF FLOOD INSURANCE WITH LAND-MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS IN FLOOD-PRONE AREAS

IDENTIFICATION OF FLOOD-PRONE AREAS

Contract authority.

SEC. 1360. The Secretary is authorized to consult with, receive information from, and enter into any agreements or other arrangements with the Secretaries of the Army, the Interior, Agriculture, and Commerce, the Tennessee Valley Authority, and the heads of other Federal departments or agencies, on a reimbursement basis, or with the head of any State or local agency, or enter into contracts with any persons or private firms, in order that he may—

Publication of information.

(1) identify and publish information with respect to all flood plain areas, including coastal areas located in the United States, which have special flood hazards, within five years following the date of the enactment of this Act, and Flood-risk zones.

(2) establish flood-risk zones in all such areas, and make estimates with respect to the rates of probable flood-caused loss for the various flood-risk zones for each of these areas, within fifteen years following such date.

CRITERIA FOR LAND MANAGEMENT AND USE

SEC. 1361. (a) The Secretary is authorized to carry out studies and investigations, utilizing to the maximum extent practicable the existing facilities and services of other Federal departments or agencies, and State and local governmental agencies, and any other organizations, with respect to the adequacy of State and local measures in flood-prone areas as to land management and use, flood control, flood zoning, and flood damage prevention, and may enter into any contracts, agreements, or other appropriate arrangements to carry out such authority.

(b) Such studies and investigations shall include, but not be limited to, laws, regulations, or ordinances relating to encroachments and obstructions on stream channels and floodways, the orderly development and use of flood plains of rivers or streams, floodway encroachment lines, and flood plain zoning, building codes, building permits, and subdivision or other building restrictions.

(c) On the basis of such studies and investigations, and such other information as he deems necessary, the Secretary shall from time to time develop comprehensive criteria designed to encourage, where necessary, the adoption of permanent State and local measures which, to the maximum extent feasible, will—

(1) constrict the development of land which is exposed to flood damage where appropriate,

(2) guide the development of proposed construction away from locations which are threatened by flood hazards,

(3) assist in reducing damage caused by floods, and

(4) otherwise improve the long-range land management and use of flood-prone areas, and he shall work closely with and provide any necessary technical assistance to State, interstate, and local governmental agencies, to encourage the application of such criteria and the adoption and enforcement of such measures.

PURCHASE OF CERTAIN INSURED PROPERTIES

SEC. 1362. The Secretary may, when he determines that the public interest would be served thereby, enter into negotiations with any owner of real property or interest therein which—

(1) was located in any flood-risk area, as determined by the Secretary,

(2) was covered by flood insurance under the flood insurance program authorized under this title, and

(3) was damaged substantially beyond repair by flood while so covered,

and may purchase such property or interests therein, for subsequent transfer, by sale, lease, donation, or otherwise, to any State or local agency which enters into an agreement with the Secretary that such property shall, for a period not less than forty years following transfer, be used for only such purposes as the Secretary may, by regulation, determine to be consistent with sound land management and use in such area.

CHAPTER IV—APPROPRIATIONS AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 1370. As used in this title—

(1) the term "flood" shall have such meaning as may be prescribed in regulations of the Secretary, and may include inundation from rising waters or from the overflow of streams, rivers, or other bodies of water, or from tidal surges, abnormally high tidal water, tidal waves, tsunamis, hurricanes, or other severe storms or deluge;

(2) the terms "United States" (when used in a geographic sense) and "State" includes the several States, the District of Columbia, the territories and possessions, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands;

(3) the terms "insurance company", "other insurer" and "insurance agent or broker" include any organizations and persons authorized to engage in the insurance business under the laws of any State;

(4) the term "insurance adjustment organization" includes any organizations and persons engaged in the business of adjusting loss claims arising under insurance policies issued by any insurance company or other insurer;

(5) the term "person" includes any individual or group of individuals, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, including State and local governments and agencies thereof; and

(6) the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

STUDIES OF OTHER NATURAL DISASTERS

SEC. 1371. (a) The Secretary is authorized to undertake such studies as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the extent to which insurance protection against earthquakes or any other natural disaster perils, other than flood, is not available from public or private sources, and the feasibility of such insurance protection being made available.

(b) Studies under this section shall be carried out, to the maximum extent practicable, with the cooperation of other Federal departments and agencies and State and local agencies, and the Secretary is authorized to consult with, receive information from, and enter into any necessary agreements or other arrangements with such other Federal departments and agencies (on a reimbursement basis) and such State and local agencies.

PAYMENTS

SEC. 1372. Any payments under this title may be made (after necessary adjustment on account of previously made underpayments or overpayments) in advance or by way of reimbursement, and in such installments and on such conditions, as the Secretary may determine.

GOVERNMENT CORPORATION CONTROL ACT

59 Stat. 597.
31 USC 841 note.

SEC. 1373. The provisions of the Government Corporation Control Act shall apply to the program authorized under this title to the same extent as they apply to wholly owned Government corporations.

FINALITY OF CERTAIN FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS

SEC. 1374. Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law—

(1) any financial transaction authorized to be carried out under this title, and

(2) any payment authorized to be made or to be received in connection with any such financial transaction, shall be final and conclusive upon all officers of the Government.

ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

SEC. 1375. Any administrative expenses which may be sustained by the Federal Government in carrying out the flood insurance program authorized under this title may be paid out of appropriated funds.

APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 1376. (a) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may from time to time be necessary to carry out this title, including sums—

(1) to cover administrative expenses authorized under section 1375;

(2) to reimburse the National Flood Insurance Fund established under section 1310 for— Ante, p. 577.

(A) premium equalization payments under section 1334 which have been made from such fund; and

(B) reinsurance claims paid under the excess loss reinsurance coverage provided under section 1335; and

(3) to make such other payments as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this title.

(b) All such funds shall be available without fiscal year limitation.

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 1377. This title shall take effect one hundred and twenty days following the date of its enactment, except that the Secretary, on the basis of a finding that conditions exist necessitating the prescribing of an additional period, may prescribe a later effective date which in no event shall be more than one hundred and eighty days following such date of enactment.

TITLE XIV—INTERSTATE LAND SALES

SHORT TITLE

SEC. 1401. This title may be cited as the "Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act".

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 1402. For the purposes of this title, the term—

(1) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development;

(2) "person" means an individual, or an unincorporated organization, partnership, association, corporation, trust, or estate;

(3) "subdivision" means any land which is divided or proposed to be divided into fifty or more lots, whether contiguous or not, for the purpose of sale or lease as part of a common promotional plan and where subdivided land is offered for sale or lease by a single developer, or a group of developers acting in concert, and such land is contiguous or is known, designated, or advertised as a common unit or by a common name such land shall be presumed, without regard to the number of lots covered by each individual offering, as being offered for sale or lease as part of a common promotional plan;

(4) "developer" means any person who, directly or indirectly, sells or leases, or offers to sell or lease, or advertises for sale or lease any lots in a subdivision;

(5) "agent" means any person who represents, or acts for or on behalf of, a developer in selling or leasing, or offering to sell or lease, any lot or lots in a subdivision; but shall not include an attorney at law whose representation of another person consists solely of rendering legal services;

(6) "blanket encumbrance" means a trust deed, mortgage, judgment, or any other lien or encumbrance, including an option or contract to sell or a trust agreement, affecting a subdivision or affecting more than one lot offered within a subdivision, except that such term shall not include any lien or other encumbrance arising as the result of the imposition of any tax assessment by any public authority;

(7) "interstate commerce" means trade or commerce among the several States;

(8) "State" includes the several States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the territories and possessions of the United States;

(9) "purchaser" means an actual or prospective purchaser or lessee of any lot in a subdivision;

(10) "offer" includes any inducement, solicitation, or attempt to encourage a person to acquire a lot in a subdivision.

EXEMPTIONS

SEC. 1403. (a) Unless the method of disposition is adopted for the purpose of evasion of this title, the provisions of this title shall not apply to—

(1) the sale or lease of real estate not pursuant to a common promotional plan to offer or sell fifty or more lots in a subdivision;

(2) the sale or lease of lots in a subdivision, all of which are five acres or more in size;

(3) the sale or lease of any improved land on which there is a residential, commercial, or industrial building, or to the sale or lease of land under a contract obligating the seller to erect such a building thereon within a period of two years;

(4) the sale or lease of real estate under or pursuant to court order;

(5) the sale of evidences of indebtedness secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on real estate;

(6) the sale of securities issued by a real estate investment trust;

(7) the sale or lease of real estate by any government or government agency;

(8) the sale or lease of cemetery lots;

(9) the sale or lease of lots to any person who acquires such lots for the purpose of engaging in the business of constructing residential, commercial, or industrial buildings or for the purpose of resale or lease of such lots to persons engaged in such business; or

(10) the sale or lease of real estate which is free and clear of all liens, encumbrances, and adverse claims if each and every purchaser or his or her spouse has personally inspected the lot which he purchased and if the developer executes a written affirmation to that effect to be made a matter of record in accordance with rules and regulations of the Secretary. As used in this subparagraph, the terms "liens," "encumbrances," and "adverse claims" are not intended to refer to property reservations which land developers commonly convey or dedicate to local bodies or public utilities for the purpose of bringing public services to the land being developed nor to taxes and assessments which, under applicable State or local law, constitute liens on the property before they are due and payable.

(b) The Secretary may from time to time, pursuant to rules and regulations issued by him, exempt from any of the provisions of this title any subdivision or any lots in a subdivision, if he finds that the enforcement of this title with respect to such subdivision or lots is not necessary in the public interest and for the protection of purchasers by reason of the small amount involved or the limited character of the public offering.

PROHIBITIONS RELATING TO THE SALE OR LEASE OF LOTS IN SUBDIVISIONS

SEC. 1404. (a) It shall be unlawful for any developer or agent, directly or indirectly, to make use of any means or instruments of transportation or communication in interstate commerce, or of the mails—

(1) to sell or lease any lot in any subdivision unless a statement of record with respect to such lot is in effect in accordance with section 1407 and a printed property report, meeting the requirements of section 1408, is furnished to the purchaser in advance of the signing of any contract or agreement for sale or lease by the purchaser; and

(2) in selling or leasing, or offering to sell or lease, any lot in a subdivision—

(A) to employ any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud, or

(B) to obtain money or property by means of a material misrepresentation with respect to any information included in the statement of record or the property report or with respect to any other information pertinent to the lot or the subdivision and upon which the purchaser relies, or

(C) to engage in any transaction, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon a purchaser.

(b) Any contract or agreement for the purchase or leasing of a lot in a subdivision covered by this title, where the property report has not been given to the purchaser in advance or at the time of his signing, shall be voidable at the option of the purchaser. A purchaser may revoke such contract or agreement within forty-eight hours, where he has received the property report less than forty-eight hours before he signed the contract or agreement, and the contract or agreement shall so provide, except that the contract or agreement may stipulate that the foregoing revocation authority shall not apply in the case of a purchaser who (1) has received the property report and inspected the lot to be purchased or leased in advance of signing the contract or agreement, and (2) acknowledges by his signature that he has made such inspection and has read and understood such report.

REGISTRATION OF SUBDIVISIONS

SEC. 1405. (a) A subdivision may be registered by filing with the Secretary a statement of record, meeting the requirements of this title and such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary in furtherance of the provisions of this title. A statement of record shall be deemed effective only as to the lots specified therein. Statement of record.

(b) At the time of filing a statement of record, or any amendment thereto, the developer shall pay to the Secretary a fee, not in excess of $1,000, in accordance with a schedule to be fixed by the regulations of the Secretary, which fees may be used by the Secretary to cover all or part of the cost of rendering services under this title, and such expenses as are paid from such fees shall be considered non-administrative. Fees.

(c) The filing with the Secretary of a statement of record, or of an amendment thereto, shall be deemed to have taken place upon the receipt thereof, accompanied by payment of the fee required by subsection (b).

(d) The information contained in or filed with any statement of record shall be made available to the public under such regulations as the Secretary may prescribe and copies thereof shall be furnished to every applicant at such reasonable charge as the Secretary may prescribe. Information available to public.

INFORMATION REQUIRED IN STATEMENT OF RECORD

SEC. 1406. The statement of record shall contain the information and be accompanied by the documents specified hereinafter in this section—

(1) the name and address of each person having an interest in the lots in the subdivision to be covered by the statement of record and the extent of such interest;

(2) a legal description of, and a statement of the total area included in, the subdivision and a statement of the topography thereof, together with a map showing the division proposed and the dimensions of the lots to be covered by the statement of record and their relation to existing streets and roads;

(3) a statement of the condition of the title to the land comprising the subdivision, including all encumbrances and deed restrictions and covenants applicable thereto;

(4) a statement of the general terms and conditions, including the range of selling prices or rents at which it is proposed to dispose of the lots in the subdivision;

(5) a statement of the present condition of access to the subdivision, the availability of sewage disposal facilities and other public utilities (including water, electricity, gas, and telephone facilities) in the subdivision, the proximity in miles of the subdivision to nearby municipalities, and the nature of any improvements to be installed by the developer and his estimated schedule for completion;

(6) in the case of any subdivision or portion thereof against which there exists a blanket encumbrance, a statement of the consequences for an individual purchaser of a failure, by the person or persons bound, to fulfill obligations under the instrument or instruments creating such encumbrance and the steps, if any, taken to protect the purchaser in such eventuality;

(7) (A) copy of its articles of incorporation, with all amendments thereto, if the developer is a corporation; (B) copies of all instruments by which the trust is created or declared, if the developer is a trust; (C) copies of its articles of partnership or association and all other papers pertaining to its organization, if the developer is a partnership, unincorporated association, joint stock company, or any other form of organization; and (D) if the purported holder of legal title is a person other than developer, copies of the above documents for such person;

(8) copies of the deed or other instrument establishing title to the subdivision in the developer or other person and copies of any instrument creating a lien or encumbrance upon the title of developer or other person or copies of the opinion or opinions of counsel in respect to the title to the subdivision in the developer or other person or copies of the title insurance policy guaranteeing such title;

(9) copies of all forms of conveyance to be used in selling or leasing lots to purchasers;

(10) copies of instruments creating easements or other restrictions;

(11) such certified and uncertified financial statements of the developer as the Secretary may require; and

(12) such other information and such other documents and certifications as the Secretary may require as being reasonably necessary or appropriate for the protection of purchasers.

TAKING EFFECT OF STATEMENTS OF RECORD AND AMENDMENTS THERETO

SEC. 1407. (a) Except as hereinafter provided, the effective date of a statement of record, or any amendment thereto, shall be the thirtieth day after the filing thereof or such earlier date as the Secretary may determine, having due regard to the public interest and the protection of purchasers. If any amendment to any such statement is filed prior to the effective date of the statement, the statement shall be deemed to have been filed when such amendment was filed; except that such an amendment filed with the consent of the Secretary, or filed pursuant to an order of the Secretary, shall be treated as being filed as of the date of the filing of the statement of record. When a developer records additional lands to be offered for disposition, he may consolidate the subsequent statement of record with any earlier recording offering subdivided land for disposition under the same promotional plan. At the time of consolidation the developer shall include in the consolidated statement of record any material changes in the information contained in the earlier statement.

(b) If it appears to the Secretary that a statement of record, or any amendment thereto, is on its face incomplete or inaccurate in any material respect, the Secretary shall so advise the developer within a reasonable time after the filing of the statement or the amendment, but prior to the date the statement or amendment would otherwise be effective. Such notification shall serve to suspend the effective date of the statement or the amendment until thirty days after the developer files such additional information as the Secretary shall require. Any developer, upon receipt of such notice, may request a hearing, and such hearing shall be held within twenty days of receipt of such request by the Secretary.

(c) If, at any time subsequent to the effective date of a statement of record, a change shall occur affecting any material fact required to be contained in the statement, the developer shall promptly file an amendment thereto. Upon receipt of any such amendment, the Secretary may, if he determines such action to be necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of purchasers, suspend the statement of record until the amendment becomes effective.

(d) If it appears to the Secretary at any time that a statement of record, which is in effect, includes any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, the Secretary may, after notice, and after opportunity for hearing (at a time fixed by the Secretary) within fifteen days after such notice, issue an order suspending the statement of record. When such statement has been amended in accordance with such order, the Secretary shall so declare and thereupon the order shall cease to be effective.

Access to records, etc.

(e) The Secretary is hereby empowered to make an examination in any case to determine whether an order should issue under subsection (d). In making such examination, the Secretary or anyone designated by him shall have access to and may demand the production of any books and papers of, and may administer oaths and affirmations to and examine, the developer, any agents, or any other person, in respect of any matter relevant to the examination. If the developer or any agents shall fail to cooperate, or shall obstruct or refuse to permit the making of an examination, such conduct shall be proper ground for the issuance of an order suspending the statement of record.

(f) Any notice required under this section shall be sent to or served on the developer or his authorized agent.

INFORMATION REQUIRED IN PROPERTY REPORT

SEC. 1408. (a) A property report relating to the lots in a subdivision shall contain such of the information contained in the statement of record, and any amendments thereto, as the Secretary may deem necessary, but need not include the documents referred to in paragraphs (7) to (11), inclusive, of section 1406. A property report shall also contain such other information as the Secretary may by rules or regulations require as being necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of purchasers.

(b) The property report shall not be used for any promotional purposes before the statement of record becomes effective and then only if it is used in its entirety. No person may advertise or represent that the Secretary approves or recommends the subdivision or the sale or lease of lots therein. No portion of the property report shall be underscored, italicized, or printed in larger or bolder type than the balance of the statement unless the Secretary requires or permits it.

COOPERATION WITH STATE AUTHORITIES

SEC. 1409. (a) In administering this title, the Secretary shall cooperate with State authorities charged with the responsibility of regulating the sale of lots in subdivisions which are also subject to this title and may accept for filing under section 1405 and declare effective as a statement of record, if he finds such action to be appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of purchasers, material filed with and found acceptable by such authorities.

(b) Nothing in this title shall affect the jurisdiction of the real estate commission (or any agency or office performing like functions) of any State over any subdivision or any person.

CIVIL LIABILITIES

SEC. 1410. (a) Where any part of the statement of record, when such part became effective, contained an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact required to be stated therein, any person acquiring a lot in the subdivision covered by such statement of record from the developer or his agent during such period the statement remained uncorrected (unless it is proved that at the time of such acquisition he knew of such untruth or omission) may, either at law or in equity, in any court of competent jurisdiction, sue the developer.

(b) Any developer or agent, who sells or leases a lot in a subdivision—

(1) in violation of section 1404, or

(2) by means of a property report which contained an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact required to be stated therein, may be sued by the purchaser of such lot.

(c) The suit authorized under subsection (a) or (b) may be to recover such damages as shall represent the difference between the amount paid for the lot and the reasonable cost of any improvements thereto, and the lesser of (1) the value thereof as of the time such suit was brought, or (2) the price at which such lot shall have been disposed of in a bona fide market transaction before suit, or (3) the price at which such lot shall have been disposed of after suit in a bona fide market transaction but before judgment.

(d) Every person who becomes liable to make any payment under this section may recover contribution as in cases of contract from any person who, if sued separately, would have been liable to make the same payment.

(e) In no case shall the amount recoverable under this section exceed the sum of the purchase price of the lot, the reasonable cost of improvements, and reasonable court costs.

COURT REVIEW OF ORDERS

SEC. 1411. (a) Any person, aggrieved by an order or determination of the Secretary issued after a hearing, may obtain a review of such order or determination in the court of appeals of the United States, within any circuit wherein such person resides or has his principal place of business, or in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, by filing in such court, within sixty days after the entry of such order or determination, a written petition praying that the order or determination of the Secretary be modified or be set aside in whole or in part. A copy of such petition shall be forthwith transmitted by the clerk of the court to the Secretary, and thereupon the Secretary shall file in the court the record upon which the order or determination complained of was entered, as provided in section 2112 of title 28, United States Code. No objection to an order or determination of the Secretary shall be considered by the court unless such objection shall have been urged before the Secretary. The finding of the Secretary as to the facts, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive. If either party shall apply to the court for leave to adduce additional evidence, and shall show to the satisfaction of the court that such additional evidence is material and that there were reasonable grounds for failure to adduce such evidence in the hearing before the Secretary, the court may order such additional evidence to be taken before the Secretary and to be adduced upon a hearing in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as to the court may seem proper. The Secretary may modify his findings as to the facts by reason of the additional evidence so taken, and shall file such modified or new findings, which, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive, and his recommendation, if any, for the modification or setting aside of the original order. Upon the filing of such petition, the jurisdiction of the court shall be exclusive and its judgment and decree, affirming, modifying, or setting aside, in whole or in part, any order of the Secretary, shall be final, subject to review by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari or certification as provided in section 1254 of title 28, United States Code. 62 Stat. 928.

Modification of findings.

(b) The commencement of proceedings under subsection (a) shall not, unless specifically ordered by the court, operate as a stay of the Secretary's order.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS

SEC. 1412. No action shall be maintained to enforce any liability created under section 1410(a) or (b)(2) unless brought within one year after the discovery of the untrue statement or the omission, or after such discovery should have been made by the exercise of reasonable diligence, or, if the action is to enforce a liability created under section 1401(b)(1), unless brought within two years after the violation upon which it is based. In no event shall any such action be brought by a purchaser more than three years after the sale or lease to such purchaser.

CONTRARY STIPULATIONS VOID

SEC. 1413. Any condition, stipulation, or provision binding any person acquiring any lot in a subdivision to waive compliance with any provision of this title or of the rules and regulations of the Secretary shall be void.

ADDITIONAL REMEDIES

SEC. 1414. The rights and remedies provided by this title shall be in addition to any and all other rights and remedies that may exist at law or in equity.

INVESTIGATIONS, INJUNCTIONS, AND PROSECUTION OF OFFENSES

SEC. 1415. (a) Whenever it shall appear to the Secretary that any person is engaged or about to engage in any acts or practices which constitute or will constitute a violation of the provisions of this title, or of any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant thereto, he may, in his discretion, bring an action in any district court of the United States, or the United States District Court for the District of Columbia to enjoin such acts or practices, and, upon a proper showing, a permanent or temporary injunction or restraining order shall be granted without bond. The Secretary may transmit such evidence as may be available concerning such acts or practices to the Attorney General who may, in his discretion, institute the appropriate criminal proceedings under this title.

(b) The Secretary may, in his discretion, make such investigations as he deems necessary to determine whether any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of this title or any rule or regulation prescribed pursuant thereto, and may require or permit any person to file with him a statement in writing, under oath or otherwise as the Secretary shall determine, as to all the facts and circumstances concerning the matter to be investigated. The Secretary is authorized, in his discretion, to publish information concerning any such violations, and to investigate any facts, conditions, practices, or matters which he may deem necessary or proper to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of this title, in the prescribing of rules and regulations thereunder, or in securing information to serve as a basis for recommending further legislation concerning the matters to which this title relates.

Publication of information.

(c) For the purpose of any such investigation, or any other proceeding under this title, the Secretary, or any officer designated by him, is empowered to administer oaths and affirmations, subpena witnesses, compel their attendance, take evidence, and require the production of any books, papers, correspondence, memorandums, or other records which the Secretary deems relevant or material to the inquiry. Such attendance of witnesses and the production of any such records may be required from any place in the United States or any State at any designated place of hearing.

Subpena power.

(d) In case of contumacy by, or refusal to obey a subpena issued to, any person, the Secretary may invoke the aid of any court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which such investigation or proceeding is carried on, or where such person resides or carries on business, in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers, correspondence, memorandums, and other records and documents. And such court may issue an order requiring such person to appear before the Secretary or any officer designated by the Secretary, there to produce records, if so ordered, or to give testimony touching the matter under investigation or in question; and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. All process in any such case may be served in the judicial district whereof such person is an inhabitant or wherever he may be found.

Court order requiring attendance and testimony of witnesses.

(e) No person shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing books, papers, correspondence, memorandums, and other records and documents before the Secretary, or in obedience to the subpena of the Secretary or any officer designated by him, or in any cause or proceeding instituted by the Secretary, on the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no individual shall be prosecuted or subject to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he is compelled, after having claimed his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except that such individual so testifying shall not be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 1416. (a) The authority and responsibility for administering this title shall be in the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development who may delegate any of his functions, duties, and powers to employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development or to boards of such employees, including functions, duties, and powers with respect to investigating, hearing, determining, ordering, or otherwise acting as to any work, business, or matter under this title. The persons to whom such delegations are made with respect to hearing functions, duties, and powers shall be appointed and shall serve in the Department in compliance with sections 3105, 3344, 5362, and 7521 of title 5 of the United States Code. The Secretary shall by rule prescribe such rights of appeal from the decisions of his hearing examiners to other hearing examiners or to other officers in the Department, to boards of officers or to himself, as shall be appropriate and in accordance with law. 80 Stat. 415-528.

(b) All hearings shall be public and appropriate records thereof shall be kept, and any order issued after such hearing shall be based on the record made in such hearing which shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act. Records of hearings. 60 Stat. 237. 5 USC 551 et seq.

UNLAWFUL REPRESENTATIONS

SEC. 1417. The fact that a statement of record with respect to a subdivision has been filed or is in effect shall not be deemed a finding by the Secretary that the statement of record is true and accurate on its face, or be held to mean the Secretary has in any way passed upon the merits of, or given approval to, such subdivision. It shall be unlawful to make, or cause to be made, to any prospective purchaser any representation contrary to the foregoing.

PENALTIES

SEC. 1418. Any person who willfully violates any of the provisions of this title or the rules and regulations prescribed pursuant thereto, or any person who willfully, in a statement of record filed under, or in a property report issued pursuant to, this title, makes any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state any material fact required to be stated therein, shall upon conviction be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

RULES, REGULATIONS, AND ORDERS

SEC. 1419. The Secretary shall have authority from time to time to make, issue, amend, and rescind such rules and regulations and such orders as are necessary or appropriate to the exercise of the functions and powers conferred upon him elsewhere in this title. For the purpose of his rules and regulations, the Secretary may classify persons and matters within his jurisdiction and prescribe different requirements for different classes of persons or matters.

JURISDICTION OF OFFENSES AND SUITS

SEC. 1420. (a) The district courts of the United States, the United States courts of any territory, and the United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction of offenses and violations under this title and under the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary pursuant thereto, and concurrent with State courts, of all suits in equity and actions at law brought to enforce any liability or duty created by this title. Any such suit or action may be brought to enforce any liability or duty created by this title. Any such suit or action may be brought in the district wherein the defendant is found or is an inhabitant or transacts business, or in the district where the offer or sale took place, if the defendant participated therein, and process in such cases may be served in any other district of which the defendant is an inhabitant or wherever the defendant may be found. Judgments and decrees so rendered shall be subject to review as provided in sections 1254 and 1291 of title 28, United States Code. No case arising under this title and brought in any State court of competent jurisdiction shall be removed to any court of the United States, except where the United States or any officer or employee of the United 62 Stat. 928, 929.

States in his official capacity is a party. No costs shall be assessed for or against the Secretary in any proceeding under this title brought by or against him in the Supreme Court or such other courts.

APPROPRIATIONS

SEC. 1421. There are authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out this title.

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 1422. This title shall take effect upon the expiration of two hundred and seventy days after the date of its enactment.

TITLE XV—MORTGAGE INSURANCE FOR NONPROFIT HOSPITALS

AMENDMENT TO NATIONAL HOUSING ACT

12 USC 1707-1715y.

SEC. 1501. Title II of the National Housing Act is amended by adding at the end thereof (after the new section added by section 307 of this Act) the following new section:

"MORTGAGE INSURANCE FOR NONPROFIT HOSPITALS

"SEC. 242. (a) The purpose of this section is to assist the provision of urgently needed hospitals for the care and treatment of persons who are acutely ill or who otherwise require medical care and related services of the kind customarily furnished only (or most effectively) by hospitals.

"(b) For the purposes of this section—

"(1) the term 'hospital' means a facility—

"(A) which provides community service for inpatient medical care of the sick or injured (including obstetrical care);

"(B) not more than 50 per centum of the total patient days of which during any year are customarily assignable to the categories of chronic convalescent and rest, drug and alcoholic, epileptic, mentally deficient, mental, nervous and mental, and tuberculosis; and

"(C) which is owned and operated by one or more nonprofit corporations or associations no part of the net earnings of which inures, or may lawfully inure, to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual; and

"(2) the terms 'mortgage' and 'mortgagor' shall have the meanings respectfully set forth in section 207(a) of this Act.

"(c) The Secretary is authorized to insure any mortgage (including advances on such mortagage during construction) in accordance with the provisions of this section upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe and to make commitments for insurance of such mortgage prior to the date of its execution or disbursement thereon.

"(d) In order to carry out the purpose of this section, the Secretary is authorized to insure any mortgage which covers a new or rehabilitated hospital, including equipment to be used in its operation, subject to the following conditions:

"(1) The mortgage shall be executed by a mortgagor approved by the Secretary. The Secretary may in his discretion require any such mortgagor to be regulated or restricted as to charges and methods of financing, and, in addition thereto, if the mortgagor is a corporate entity, as to capital structure and rate of return. As an aid to the regulation or restriction of any mortgagor with respect to any of the foregoing matters, the Secretary may make such contracts with and acquire for not to exceed $100 such stock or interest in such mortgagor as he may deem necessary. Any stock or interest so purchased shall be paid for out of the General Insurance Fund, and shall be redeemed by the mortgagor at par upon the termination of all obligations of the Secretary under the insurance.

"(2) The mortgage shall involve a principal obligation in an amount not to exceed $25,000,000, and not to exceed 90 per centum of the estimated replacement cost of the property or project, including equipment to be used in the operation of the hospital, when the proposed improvements are completed and the equipment is installed.

"(3) The mortgage shall—

"(A) provide for complete amortization by periodic payments within such term as the Secretary shall prescribe, and

"(B) bear interest (exclusive of premium charges for insurance and service charges, if any) at not to exceed such per centum per annum (not in excess of 6 per centum), on the amount of the principal obligation outstanding at any time, as the Secretary finds necessary to meet the mortgage market.

"(4) The Secretary shall not insure any mortgage under this section unless he has received, from the State agency designated in accordance with section 604(a)(1) of the Public Health Service Act for the State in which is located the hospital covered by the mortgage, a certification that (A) there is a need for such hospital, and (B) there are in force in such State or the political subdivision of the State in which the proposed hospital would be located reasonable minimum standards of licensure and methods of operation for hospitals. No such mortgage shall be insured under this section unless the Secretary has received such assurance as he may deem satisfactory from the State agency that such standards will be applied and enforced with respect to any hospital located in the State for which mortgage insurance is provided under this section. 78 Stat. 452. 42 USC 291d.

"(e) The Secretary may consent to the release of a part or parts of the mortgaged property or project from the lien of any mortgage insured under this section upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe.

"(f) The activities and functions provided for in this section shall be carried out by the agencies involved so as to encourage programs that undertake responsibility to provide comprehensive health care, including outpatient and preventive care, as well as hospitalization, to a defined population.

"(g)(1) Notwithstanding any of the other provisions of this title, the Secretary may insure under this section a mortgage which provides permanent financing or refinancing of existing mortgage indebtedness in the case of a hospital whose permanent financing is presently lacking, if the construction of such hospital was completed between January 1, 1966, and the date of the enactment of this Act.

"(2) The aggregate principal balance of all mortgages insured under paragraph (1) and outstanding at any one time shall not exceed $20,000,000.

"(h) The provisions of subsections (d), (e), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), and (n) of section 207 shall apply to mortgages insured under this section and all references therein to section 207 shall be deemed to refer to this section." 12 USC 1713.

LABOR STANDARDS

SEC. 1502. Section 212(a) of the National Housing Act is amended by inserting after the fifth sentence the following new sentence: "The provisions of this section shall also apply to the insurance of any mortgage under section 242, except that compliance with such provisions 12 USC 1715c.

may be waived by the Secretary in cases or classes of cases where laborers or mechanics, not otherwise employed at any time on the project, voluntarily donate their services without compensation for the purpose of lowering the costs of construction and the Secretary determines that any amounts thereby saved are fully credited to the nonprofit corporation or association undertaking the construction; and each laborer or mechanic employed on any facility covered by a mortgage insured under section 242 shall receive compensation at a rate not less than one and one-half times his basic rate of pay for all hours worked in any workweek in excess of eight hours in any workday or forty hours in the workweek, as the case may be."

TITLE XVI—HOUSING GOALS AND ANNUAL HOUSING REPORT

REAFFIRMATION OF GOAL

SEC. 1601. The Congress finds that the supply of the Nation's housing is not increasing rapidly enough to meet the national housing goal, established in the Housing Act of 1949, of the "realization as soon as feasible of the goal of a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family". The Congress reaffirms this national housing goal and determines that it can be substantially achieved within the next decade by the construction or rehabilitation of twenty-six million housing units, six million of these for low and moderate income families.

63 Stat. 413.
42 USC 1441 note.

REPORT OUTLINING PLAN

SEC. 1602. Not later than January 15, 1969, the President shall make a report to the Congress setting forth a plan, to be carried out over a period of ten years (June 30, 1968, to June 30, 1978), for the elimination of all substandard housing and the realization of the goal referred to in section 1601. Such plan shall—

Report to Congress.
Contents.

(1) indicate the number of new or rehabilitated housing units which it is anticipated will have to be provided, with or without Government assistance, during each fiscal year of the ten-year period, in order to achieve the objectives of the plan, showing the number of such units which it is anticipated will have to be provided under each of the various Federal programs designed to assist in the provision of housing;

(2) indicate the reduction in the number of occupied substandard housing units which it is anticipated will have to occur during each fiscal year of the ten-year period in order to achieve the objectives of the plan;

(3) provide an estimate of the cost of carrying out the plan for each of the various Federal programs and for each fiscal year during the ten-year period to the extent that such costs will be reflected in the Federal budget;

(4) make recommendations with respect to the legislative and administrative actions necessary or desirable to achieve the objectives of the plan; and

(5) provide such other pertinent data, estimates, and recommendations as the President deems advisable.

Such report shall, in addition, contain a projection of the residential mortgage market needs and prospects during the coming year, including an estimate of the requirements with respect to the availability, need, and flow of mortgage funds (particularly in declining urban and rural areas) during such year, together with such recommendations as may be deemed appropriate for encouraging the availability of such funds.

PERIODIC REPORTS

SEC. 1603. On January 15, 1970, and on each succeeding year through 1979, the President shall submit to the Congress a report which shall— Report to Congress. Contents.

(1) compare the results achieved during the preceding fiscal year for the completion of new or rehabilitating housing units and the reduction in occupied substandard housing with the objectives established for such year under the plan;

(2) if the comparison provided under clause (1) shows a failure to achieve the objectives set for such year, indicate (A) the reasons for such failure; (B) the steps being taken to achieve the objectives of the plan during each of the remaining fiscal years of the ten-year period; and (C) any necessary revision in the objectives established under the plan for each such year;

(3) project residential mortgage market needs and prospects for the coming calendar year including an estimate of the requirements with respect to the availability, need, and flow of mortgage funds (particularly in declining urban and rural areas) during such period, in order to achieve the objectives of the plan;

(4) provide an analysis of the monetary and fiscal policies of the Government for the coming calendar year required to achieve the objectives of the plan and the impact upon the domestic economy of achieving the plan's objectives for such period;

(5) make recommendations with respect to any additional legislative or administrative action which is necessary or desirable to achieve the objectives of the plan; and

(6) provide such other pertinent data, estimates, and recommendations as the President deems advisable.

COMMISSION ON MORTGAGE INTEREST RATES

SEC. 1604. Funds appropriated and available for studies of housing markets and credit as authorized by section 301 of the Housing Act of 1948 and section 602(a) of the Housing Act of 1956 shall be available for expenses of the Commission established by section 4(b) of Public Law 90–301, including the report required to be rendered by such Commission. 63 Stat. 431. 12 USC 1701e. 70 Stat. 1113. 12 USC 1701d-3. SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

SEC. 1716. (a) Section 5(b) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended to read as follows: 48 Stat. 132. 12 USC 1464.

"(b)(1) An association may raise capital in the form of such savings deposits, shares, or other accounts, for fixed, minimum, or indefinite periods of time (all of which are referred to in this section as savings accounts and all of which shall have the same priority upon liquidation) as are authorized by its charter or by regulations of the Board, and may issue such passbooks, time certificates of deposit, or other evidence of savings accounts as are so authorized. Holders of savings accounts and obligors of an association shall, to such extent as may be provided by its charter or by regulations of the Board, be members of the association, and shall have such voting rights and such other rights as are thereby provided. Except as may be otherwise authorized by the association's charter or regulation of the Board in the case of savings accounts for fixed or minimum terms of not less than thirty days, the payment of any savings account shall be subject to the right of the association to require such advance notice, not less than thirty days, as shall be provided for by the charter of the association or the regulations of the Board. The payment of withdrawals from savings accounts in the event an association does not pay all withdrawals in full (subject to the right of the association to require notice) shall be subject to such rules and procedures as may be prescribed by the association's charter or by regulation of the Board, but any association which, except as authorized in writing by the Board, fails to make full payment of any withdrawal when due shall be deemed to be in an unsafe or unsound condition to transact business within the meaning of subsection (d) of this section. Savings accounts shall not be subject to check or to withdrawal or transfer on negotiable or transferable order or authorization to the association, but the Board may by regulation provide for withdrawal or transfer of savings accounts upon nontransferable order or authorization.

"(2) To such extent as the Board may authorize by regulation or advice in writing, an association may borrow, may give security, and may issue such notes, bonds, debentures, or other obligations, or other securities (except capital stock) as the Board may so authorize."

(b) Section 5(c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended—

(1) by striking out "shares" in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof "savings accounts"; and

(2) by inserting after the first semicolon in the second proviso the following words: "or in time deposits, certificates, or accounts of any bank the deposits of which are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;".

(c) Section 5(c) of such Act is amended by inserting in the second paragraph after "property alteration, repair, or improvement" the following: ", including the construction of new structures related to residential use of the property".

(d) Section 5(c) of such Act is amended by adding immediately after the second paragraph thereof the following new paragraph:

"Without regard to any other provision of this subsection, but subject to such prohibitions, limitations, and conditions as the Board may by regulation prescribe, any such association may make and invest in—

"(A) any loan not exceeding $5,000 made for the repair, equipping, alteration, or improvement of any real property, or

"(B) any loan made for the purpose of mobile home financing."

(e) The first sentence of the paragraph which, prior to the amendments made by this Act, was the next to the last paragraph of section 5(c) of such Act is amended—

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY:

HOUSE REPORTS: No. 1585 accompanying H. R. 17989 (Comm. on Banking and Currency) and No. 1785 (Comm. of Conference).
SENATE REPORT No. 1123 (Comm. on Banking & Currency).
CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, Vol. 114 (1968):
May 23, 24, 27, 28: Considered and passed Senate.
July 10: Considered and passed House, amended, in lieu of H. R. 17989.
July 25: Senate agreed to conference report.
July 26: House agreed to conference report.

We looked at the experience. The Fifth Circuit (Texas) was a busy circuit. The California Circuit was also a busy circuit. I do not know a great many lawyers personally in either circuit. I considered several, though, on both circuits, as did the Attorney General.

I talked to several Members of the Senate about these men, including the leaders of various groups, Democratic groups, Republican groups, and other groups, young groups and older groups, and I submitted several names to them that I had under consideration for the Court posts.

After talking to them, I concluded that, in the words of Mr. Christopher, "It is a very rare thing to find a man with the unusual qualifications of our Associate Justice, Justice Thornberry." He had been a law enforcement officer for several years. He had been a mayor pro tem of a city for several years. He had been a member of a State legislature for several years. He had been a prosecuting attorney trying cases every day in the courtroom for ome time. He had been a Member of Congress for 15 ears. He is the only man now on the Court, if he is confirmed, to have ever served both on the trial court and the appellate court.

The members of the American Bar Association and the Senate had repeatedly recommended, I believe, that we promote judges to the Supreme Court from the appellate courts or the district trial courts. In this case, Judge Thornberry had served at both the city hall level, the State level, and the congressional level. There is only one other man now on the Court who has had legislative experience, and that is Justice Black.

After talking to the leaders of Congress, I submitted Judge Thornberry's name to the American Bar Association committee for the United States Supreme Court appointments. They had consultation on Justice Thornberry and representatives of the 12 regions all over the country ound him "highly qualified."

I did not anticipate that there would be any opposition because both of these men had been confirmed twice previously by the Senate, Justice Fortas, as Under Secretary of the Interior Department, and as Associate Justice just 2 or 3 years before, and Judge Thornberry as a district trial court judge and as a circuit court judge.

But while we were getting these clearances, there was a statement made by a group of Republican Senators who said that no appointment should be made because of this being an election year.

I analyzed that and asked for comment on that statement. I don't believe that many Senators felt that the President should refuse to send two names to the Senate for action on two Supreme Court appointments for 6 or 7 months or that I should play that I was not President for that period.

As a matter of fact, just a few days before some of the Senators who have since objected were recommending that I appoint their own judges and some are recommending that I appoint them now and we will be sending some of their judges up as soon as the American Bar Association gives clearance.

So, it is a matter for the Senate. I have no doubt that these two men, both of whom have been promoted from the bench, are qualified. I have no doubt but what a very substantial majority in the Senate believes them to be qualified.

Some men who said they will vote against them believe they are qualified and said they would vote for them next January if another President named them.

What the Senate decides is a matter for them. I have made my decision and promoted two good men.

Robert Pierpoint (CBS). Thank you.

Federal Power Commission

Announcement of Intention To Nominate John A. Carver, Jr., for Reappointment. July 31, 1968

President Johnson today announced his intention to nominate John A. Carver, Jr., of Boise, Idaho, for reappointment to the Federal Power Commission. If confirmed by the Senate, Mr. Carver's term would expire June 22, 1973. Mr. Carver was first appointed to the Federal Power Commission in 1966.

Mr. Carver was born April 24, 1918, in Preston, Idaho, and attended Brigham Young University, where he received the A.B. degree in 1939. In 1947, Mr. Carver was awarded the LL.B. degree by Georgetown University.

Mr. Carver began government service in 1936 as a messenger with the Senate Investigating Committee on Railroad Financing, and later served as a clerk with the U.S. Civil Service Commission and the National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel, in the Executive Office of the President. From 1941–43, Mr. Carver was employed by the War Department in Washington, D.C., Utah, Maryland, and New York City. From 1943–46 he served with the Army Air Corps as a commissioned officer.

From 1947–57 Mr. Carver engaged in the private practice of law in Boise, Idaho, and was an assistant attorney general of the State of Idaho from 1947–55. From 1957–61 Mr. Carver was administrative assistant to U.S. Senator Frank Church.

In 1961 Mr. Carver was appointed by President Kennedy as an Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and he served in this capacity until 1964, when he was elevated to Under Secretary of the Department. He remained Under Secretary until 1966, when he was named to his present post.

Mr. Carver, a Democrat, is married and has three children. He resides with his family in Arlington, Virginia.

HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 1968

The President's Remarks Upon Signing the Bill Into Law. August 1, 1968

Secretary Weaver, Mr. Vice President, Senator Sparkman, Congressman Patton, distinguished Members of the Congress, ladies and gentlemen:

I am sure that all of you good people out here on this delightful sunny day are going to be glad that we have taken action to provide roofs over your heads a little later on.

We come together today in ceremony—and in challenge.

The dreams and the hard work of many men and women have finally brought us here today.

It has been long in coming. The journey began more than three decades ago—with President Franklin D. Roosevelt's conviction that a compassionate and far-sighted government cannot ignore the plight of the ill-housed or the ill-fed or the ill-clothed.

Many milestones have marked our progress:

—First, there were the public housing experiments of the 1930's and 1940's, led by that great adventurer, Nathan Strauss, in the Roosevelt Administration. I remember back in 1938 when we met on a similar occasion with not quite so many approving citizens in our midst to sign the Wagner Housing Act of 1938. I remember us launching the first low-rent housing project under that act in a section of the country that sometimes you read about.

—Then, there was the beginning of a large-scale urban renewal in 1950.

—Then came the quickening strides of the last few years. We gave the cities, finally, after a long, bitter, difficult struggle, a voice at the Cabinet table—a century after they had really become an integral part of American life. We broke through the neglect of decades with our bold model cities and rent supplement program.

Now, today, all those paths converge. Today, we are going to put on the books of American law what I genuinely believe is the most far-sighted, the most comprehensive, the most massive housing program in all American history.

We cannot underwrite what can happen in the future. We already know how we have neglected matters in the past. But I think that this legislation can be the Magna Carta to liberate our cities. It is vast in scope and vast in promise. With it we now have new means to win new rights for every American in every city and on every country road. That new right is the fundamental and the very precious American right to a roof over your head—a decent home.

I had it vividly impressed upon me more than 35 years ago that the thing every woman in this world wanted, the thing that was right at the top of her priority list, was a home. I think it is something that every man and child in America ought to want—a home.

Now, for the first time, the Congress and the Executive are joining in a commitment here today to eliminate substandard housing in America and build homes for families.

Let me cite a specific or two, if I may. Over the 10 years of this program, the production rate of federally subsidized housing will be ten times higher than it has been in the last decade.

The bill opens the way for the construction of entire new communities, reducing the congestion of the crowded cities.

All of this would be cause for celebration enough, but the bill does a great deal more.

—For thousands of poor families, the dream of home ownership can be fulfilled.

—For the businessman and the resident of the inner city the vital flow of property insurance will be assured.

—For thousands who live in slums and barrios, life will be transformed through the model neighborhoods, through the model cities program, through rent supplements, through revitalized urban renewal.

—An American family of four, with two children, who have an income of only $4,500 per year, if that family wants to make use of home ownership under this act, is able to get a $14,000 home. The family would pay $99 a month plus normal maintenance, with a $200 down payment. The Government would help supplement that so that man and his family could become homeowners.

—If that family wanted to take advantage of the new rental program it could get a two-bedroom apartment and pay $94 a month rent and the Government would supplement the rest.

—A family of six with four children having an annual income of $5,500 a year can buy a home costing $17,300. They would pay $112 a month, plus normal maintenance, with a $200 down payment. The Government would help with the rest.

—An elderly couple with an income of $375 per month could rent an apartment under this new bill and pay $77 a month. The Government would make up the rest.

You know and I know that never before in all of our lifetime has the American Congress been far-sighted enough and has the American administration joined with it to provide as much housing at such modest cost as we are doing in this bill today.

We know that a city is not of brick alone. We know that a home is more than a shelter. Through dozens of other programs we are trying to work to improve the quality of man's life and to better humanity.

But the center of our effort is here—the center of man's life—the place we call our home.

We do the work of history here today. I believe that history will mark this first day of August 1968 as the day and the time and the moment when far-sighted people turned the clock ahead, setting the hands of progress to the tempo of man's racing needs.

Those needs are being partially met. I am proud to come here to this new home, with this new Cabinet office under this new leader to sign more than just a piece of parchment. This law is not stone. It is the rock of our commitment—the commitment of both parties in America—the commitment of all good Americans to raise up a new America in this country and to make this possible for a man who is willing to work and try and save to own his own home—every one of us.

On this rock, every man may stand in the certainty that his home will be his joy, a place where he and his wife and his children can live in pride and in safety and in pleasure and in dignity.

When we assure that, we will assure the continuance of our leadership in the world and we will insure the continuance of the greatest Government that man has ever devised.

NOTE: The President spoke at 11:34 a.m. in the Plaza of the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C. As printed above, this item follows the text of the White House press release.

Report on the Paris Peace Talks

White House Statement Following a Report to the President by William J. Jorden of the United States Delegation. August 1, 1968

The President met for a half hour this morning with William J. Jorden, member of the U.S. delegation at the peace negotiations in Paris.

Mr. Jorden reviewed for the President the current state of the Paris talks, including the various constructive proposals that have been made by the U.S. delegation to move the conversations in the direction of a resolution of the Vietnam war. He also described the consistent refusal of the North Vietnamese delegation to enter into serious discussion of any proposals, except their demand that all bombing of the North be ended.

The President expressed his earnest desire for an early and honorable end to the fighting. He told Mr. Jorden that the world had called upon the United States to exercise restraint in Vietnam. In response, he had taken a major and unilateral step toward peace on March 31 by ending the bombing of military targets in nearly 80 percent of North Vietnam, an area where about 90 percent of the people of the North live. The President now hoped that the world would call on North Vietnam to show similar restraint. He regretted that such restraint had not yet been undertaken.

The President expressed his sincere hope that the North Vietnamese representatives in Paris would soon join with the American delegation in serious consideration of meaningful measures to bring the fighting in Vietnam to an end.

Steel Price Increases

Letter from the President to the Speaker of the House and the Majority Leader of the Senate. August 1, 1968

As you know, two of the Nation's largest steel producers have announced general price increases of about five percent. This represents the largest single price increase in the steel industry since 1958. My economic advisers consider it the largest inflationary price increase for the nation in this decade.

I believe it is my duty to inform the Congress of the dire consequences which would result if these increases are allowed to stand.

The first is a clear and immediate threat to our efforts to restore price stability.

The second is the added danger to our balance of payments.

Just six weeks ago, the Congress enacted a tax and expenditure reduction bill. Nobody likes to pay more taxes. Nobody likes belt-tightening in needed Government services. But the health of our economy demanded strong fiscal medicine.

In signing that measure, I called upon business and labor to exercise the utmost restraint in price and wage decisions.

Clearly neither Bethlehem nor Republic has heeded this appeal. If their increases are allowed to stand—and if the other major steel companies follow suit—the immediate result will be $600 million in increased costs. The ultimate cost to the American consumer will exceed $1.1 billion in higher prices, as the increase is reflected in products containing steel.

GENERAL SUMMARY

HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 1968
Public Law 90-448, approved August 1, 1968

Housing goal - declaration of policy

The Congress affirms in the 1968 Act the national goal of "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family" (as stated in the Housing Act of 1949). It states further that the highest priority should be given to meeting the housing needs of those families for which the national goal has not become a reality, and that there should be the fullest practicable utilization, in administration of Federal housing programs, of the resources and capabilities of private enterprise and self-help techniques.

Opportunities for training and employment for lower income persons

The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is directed, in administering housing programs for low-income families, to require -

1. that opportunities for training and employment arising in connection with the planning, construction, rehabilitation, and operation of housing under the programs be given to lower income persons residing in the area of the housing; and

2. that to the greatest extent feasible contracts for work pursuant to the housing programs shall, where appropriate, be awarded to business concerns located in or owned in substantial part by persons residing in the area of the housing.

Improved design in Government housing programs

The Congress commends the Department of HUD for its recent efforts to improve architectural standards, but declares that in the administration of housing programs which assist in the provision of housing for low and moderate income families, emphasis shall be given to encouraging good design as an essential component of the housing.

Improvement of program administration

The Secretary is directed to make a report to the Banking and Currency Committees early in calendar years 1969 and 1970 identifying specific areas of program administration and management which require improvement. The reports shall describe actions taken and proposed to make improvements and recommend legislation needed to accomplish the improvements.

TITLE I - LOWER INCOME HOUSING

Homeownership for lower income families

A new program (sec. 235 of the National Housing Act) is authorized to provide Federal assistance to homeownership by lower income families (including membership in a cooperative). Under the new program, the Secretary of HUD may enter into contracts to make periodic payments to lenders who make FHA-insured home mortgage loans to these families. The payments will be in an amount necessary to make up the difference between 20 percent of the family's monthly income and the required monthly payment under the mortgage for principal, interest, taxes, insurance, and mortgage insurance premium. In no case, however, can the payment on a mortgage exceed the difference between the required payment under the mortgage for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium and the payment that would be required for principal and interest if the mortgage bore an interest rate of 1 percent. The amount of the payment on each mortgage will vary according to the income of the homeowner. The family's income is required to be recertified at least every 2 years and appropriate adjustments made in the assistance payment to reflect any changes.

The assistance payment is available for a purchaser having an income, at the time of his initial occupancy, not in excess of 135 percent of the maximum income limits that can be established in the area for initial occupancy in public housing. However, up to 20 percent of the funds authorized in appropriation acts for the program can be used to assist families with incomes above these limits but which are not in excess of 90 percent of the income limits for occupancy in a section 221(d)(3) below-market interest rate housing project.

In calculating the income of the homeowner for the purpose of determining eligibility as well as the amount on which the 20 percent computation will be made, there will be deducted $300 for each minor child who is a member of the homeowner's immediate family and living with him. Also, income of minors will not be included in the homeowner's income for this computation.

The amount of a home mortgage can not exceed $15,000 ($17,500 in high cost areas). These limits are increased to $17,500 ($20,000 in high cost areas for families with five or more members. The same limits apply to cooperative and condominium units.

The minimum downpayment is $200 for families with incomes up to 135 percent of the maximum income limits that can be established in the area for initial occupancy in public housing and 3 percent in other cases.

A homeowner is to be given the opportunity, to the maximum extent feasible, to contribute the value of his labor as equity in the dwelling.

The Secretary is authorized to provide budget, debt management, and related counseling services to homeowners who purchase homes under the new section 235 program.

The housing, with a few limited exceptions, must be new or substantially rehabilitated housing, except that up to 25 percent of the amount of contracts authorized to be made before July 1, 1969 can apply to existing housing, with this percentage decreasing to 15 percent the following year, and 10 percent the third year.

The aggregate amount of contracts to make payments can not exceed amounts approved in appropriation Acts. The payments pursuant to the contracts can not exceed $75 million per annum prior to July 1, 1969. This amount is increased by $100 million on July 1, 1969, and by $125 million on July 1, 1970. A reasonable portion of the contract authority is to be transferred from time to time to the Secretary of Agriculture for use in rural areas and small towns.

In addition to the foregoing provisions, a mortgage executed by a nonprofit organization or a public body or agency can be insured where it finances the purchase (and rehabilitation if necessary) of housing in viable, or potentially viable, areas for resale to lower income families. The housing must include at least four or more one-family dwellings (or two-family dwellings, one unit of which is to be occupied by the owner), or at least four or more one-family units in a condominium project, in the cases where rehabilitation is involved. The individual mortgages given to finance the resale of the housing to lower income families will also be insured by FHA and assistance payments made on behalf of the purchasers.

221 (h) Program

The 221 (h) program is changed to allow the Secretary to reduce the interest rate on a home purchaser's mortgage under the program to as low as 1 percent where the purchaser's income justifies, with periodic adjustments between 1 and 3 percent to reflect changes in the homeowner's income. Under this program nonprofit mortgagors purchase and rehabilitate housing with FHA insured mortgages and resell it to low-income families.

The limit on the aggregate amount of mortgages that can be insured and outstanding at any one time under the program is increased from $20 million to $50 million.

New FHA credit assistance for homeownership

FHA mortgage insurance is authorized (under a new Sec. 237 of the National Housing Act) for families of low and moderate income who, through the incentive of homeownership and counseling assistance, appear to be able to achieve homeownership but who, for reasons of credit history, irregular income patterns caused by seasonal employment, or other factors, are unable to meet the credit requirements generally applicable for the purchase of a home under the regular FHA mortgage insurance program.

A mortgage must meet the basic requirements under one of the various FHA home mortgage programs. The credit and income requirements of the particular program do not apply, however, and the principal obligation of the mortgage can not exceed $15,000 ($17,500 in high-cost areas). However, if the limit on the amount of a mortgage is lower under a particular program, the lower limit is applicable.

The monthly payments, combined with local real estate taxes on the property, will not exceed 25 percent of the home purchaser's income, computed over the previous year or the previous 3 years, whichever is higher. The interest rates and mortgage insurance premiums are the same as under the program involved for other mortgagors.

The Secretary of HUD is authorized to provide debt management and related counseling services to mortgagors whose mortgages are insured under these new more liberal provisions. He can also provide counseling to otherwise eligible families who lack a downpayment on a home in order to help them to save money for a downpayment.

The aggregate balance of mortgages insured under these new provisions can not exceed at any one time $200 million.

Mortgage insurance for housing in declining areas

Mortgage insurance is authorized, under any of FHA's mortgage insurance programs, for the purchase, repair, rehabilitation, or construction of housing located in older, declining urban areas without regard to the normal requirements of the particular program if FHA finds that (1) the area is reasonably viable, giving consideration to the need for providing adequate housing for families of low and moderate incomes in the area, and (2) the property is an acceptable risk in view of this consideration.

Special Risk Insurance Fund

A new Special Risk Insurance Fund is established which is not intended to be actuarially sound and out of which claims will be paid on mortgages insured under the several new special mortgage insurance programs for housing for low or moderate income families. A $5 million advance from the general insurance fund is authorized to initiate the new Special Risk Fund. Appropriations are authorized to cover any losses sustained by the new fund.

Condominium and cooperative ownership for low and moderate income families

Rental housing projects financed with below-market interest rate FHA 221(d)(3) mortgages are permitted to be converted to cooperative or condominium ownership.

A low or moderate income purchaser can purchase an individual family unit and an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities of a project at a price not in excess of the appraised value of the property and with a mortgage bearing the below-market interest rate then in effect. At least a 3 percent downpayment will be required, which can be applied in whole or in part toward closing costs.

A cooperative, with membership open only to low and moderate income families meeting income limits prescribed for 221(d)(3) below-market interest rate projects, can purchase a 221(d)(3) project for an amount not exceeding the appraised value of the property for continued use as a cooperative. The insured mortgage can bear the below-market interest rate in effect at the time the commitment to insure the mortgage is issued.

Assistance to nonprofit sponsors of low and moderate income housing

The Secretary of HUD is authorized to provide technical assistance with respect to the construction, rehabilitation, and operation of low and moderate income housing to nonprofit organizations. The Secretary can also make 80-percent, interest-free loans to nonprofit sponsors of such housing to cover certain preconstruction costs under Federally-assisted programs.

The Low and Moderate Income Sponsor Fund is established for the purpose of making the loans with an authorization for appropriations of $7.5 million for fiscal year 1969 and $10 million for fiscal year 1970. The Fund will be a revolving fund and repayments of loans will be deposited in the Fund.

National Homeownership Foundation

The National Homeownership Foundation is created to carry out a continuing program of encouraging private and public organizations to provide increased homeownership and housing opportunities in urban and rural areas for lower income families.

The Foundation is authorized to make grants and loans (not otherwise available from Federal sources) to such organizations to help defray organizational and administrative expenses, necessary preconstruction costs, and the cost of counselling or similar services to lower income families for whom housing is being provided. The Foundation can also provide technical assistance to the organizations.

Appropriations up to $10 million are authorized. The Foundation can also use donated funds.

The Foundation is to be administered by an 18-member Board of Directors. Fifteen members are to be appointed by the President. The Secretary of HUD, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Director of OEO are the other three members. The board will appoint an executive director as its executive officer.

New technologies - housing for lower income families

The Secretary of HUD is directed to institute a program under which qualified public and private organizations will submit plans for the development of housing for lower income families, using new and advanced technologies, on Federal land which has been made available for that purpose, or on other land which is suitable.

The Secretary will approve up to 5 plans which are submitted to him under the program. He will consider (among other things) the potential of the technology employed and the ability of the organization submitting the plan to produce at least 1,000 dwelling units a year utilizing that technology.

The Secretary is directed to seek to achieve the construction of at least 1,000 dwelling units a year over a 5-year period for each of the various types of technologies proposed in the plans approved. He is required to report at the earliest practicable date with respect to the projects assisted, together with his recommendations.

Mortgages financing the projects are authorized to be insured under the FHA experimental housing program.

Study of insurance protection for homeowners

The Secretary of HUD, in cooperation with the private insurance industry, is authorized to develop a plan for establishing an insurance program to enable homeowners to meet their monthly mortgage payments in times of personal economic adversity. The Secretary is required to report his actions and recommendations within 6 months following enactment of the law.

National Advisory Commission on Low-Income Housing

A National Advisory Commission on Low-Income Housing is established to undertake a comprehensive study and investigate the resources and capabilities in the public and private sectors of the economy which may be used to fulfill more completely the objectives of the national goal of "a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family".

The Commission is directed to submit to the President and the Congress an interim report with respect to its findings and recommendations not later than July 1, 1969, and a final report not later than July 1, 1970.

TITLE II - RENTAL HOUSING FOR LOWER INCOME FAMILIES

A new program of Federal assistance to rental and cooperative housing for lower income families is authorized by adding a new section 236 to the National Housing Act. The assistance is in the form of periodic payments to the mortgagee financing the housing to reduce the mortgagor's interest costs on a market rate FHA-insured project mortgage.

The interest reduction payments will reduce payments on the project mortgage from that required for principal, interest, and mortgage insurance premium on a market rate mortgage to that required for principal and interest on a mortgage bearing an interest rate of 1 percent.

The interest reduction payments will reduce rentals to a basic charge, and a tenant or cooperative member will either pay the basic charge or such greater amount as represents 25 percent of his income, but not in excess of the charges which would be necessary without any interest reduction payments. Incomes of tenants will be reexamined at least every 2 years for the purpose of adjusting rentals. Rental charges collected by the project owner in excess of the basic charges are to be returned to the Secretary for deposit in a revolving fund for the purpose of making other interest reduction payments.

Tenants of these projects who pay less than the fair market rental charge for their units will generally have to have incomes, at the time of the initial rent-up of the projects, not in excess of 135 percent of the maximum income limits that can be established in the area for initial occupancy in public housing dwellings. However, up to 20 percent of the contract funds authorized in appropriation acts may be made available for projects in which some or all of the units will be occupied, at the time of the initial rent-up, by tenants whose incomes exceed the above limit but do not exceed 90 percent of the income limits for occupancy of section 221(d)(3) below-market interest rate rental housing.

In determining income for the purpose of eligibility as well as the amount of rent to be paid a $300 deduction is permitted for each minor person in the family and any income of such minor is not counted.

To qualify for mortgage insurance under the new program, a mortgagor must be a nonprofit organization, a cooperative, or a limited dividend entity of the types permitted under the FHA section 221(d)(3) rental housing program. The mortgage limitations with respect to maximum mortgage amount are the same as for mortgages insured under the (d)(3) program. Interest reduction payments can also be made with respect to State-aided rental housing projects approved for receiving the benefits of the program prior to completion of construction or rehabilitation of the projects.

Contracts for assistance payments are authorized, subject to approval in appropriation acts, in the amount of $75 million annually prior to July 1, 1969. This amount is increased by $100 million on July 1, 1969, and by $125 million on July 1, 1970. A reasonable portion of this authority is to be transferred to the Secretary of Agriculture for use in rural areas and small towns.

A project financed under the new program can include such nondwelling facilities as the Secretary deems adequate and appropriate to serve the occupants of the project and the surrounding neighborhood, as long as the project is predominantly residential and any nondwelling facilities contribute to the economic feasibility of the project. Where a project is designed primarily for occupancy by the elderly or handicapped it can include related facilities for their use, such as dining, work, recreation, and health facilities.

With approval of the Secretary of HUD a mortgagor can sell the individual dwelling units to lower income purchasers and these purchasers are eligible for assistance payments under the provisions of the new homeownership program.

A cooperative or private nonprofit corporation or association can purchase a project from a limited dividend mortgagor and finance the purchase with a mortgage insured under the program.

Projects for low and moderate income families financed under the below marked 221(d)(3) program can be transferred, prior to final endorsement for FHA insurance, to the new rental housing interest reduction program.

Projects for the elderly or handicapped approved for direct loans can be refinanced under the new interest reduction program at any time up to, or a reasonable time after, project completion.

Rent supplement payments may be provided for tenants in projects financed under the new program, but no more than 20 percent of the units in any one project can receive rent supplement assistance.

Rent supplements

The authority for rent supplement contracts (subject to approval in appropriation acts) is increased by $40 million on July 1, 1969, and by $100 million on July 1, 1970.

State-aided projects are made eligible for rent supplements if the projects are approved for this benefit prior to completion of construction or rehabilitation.

In determining the income of any tenant for the purposes of the rent supplement program, $300 may be deducted for each minor person who is a member of the immediate family of the tenant and living with the tenant, and the earnings of any such minor person shall not be included in the income of the tenant.

Low-rent public housing

Authority for annual contributions to low-rent public housing is increased by $100 million on enactment of the law, and by $150 million on July 1, 1969, and July 1, 1970.

The Secretary of HUD is authorized to make grants to local housing authorities to assist in financing tenant services for tenants of public housing. Appropriations for the grants are authorized up to $15 million for fiscal year 1969, and $30 million for fiscal 1970.

Preference is to be given to programs providing for maximum tenant participation in the development and operation of tenant services. Tenant services include: counseling on household management, housekeeping, budgeting, money management, child care, and similar matters; advice as to resources for job training and placement, education, welfare, health, and other community services; services which are directly related to meeting tenant needs and providing a wholesome living environment; and referral to appropriate agencies when necessary for the provision of such services.

Public housing assistance is permitted for Indian families who live on or adjacent to their farmland.

High-rise public housing projects for families with children are prohibited except where the Secretary of HUD determines that there is no practical alternative.

The Secretary is prohibited from prescribing limitations on the types or categories of structures or dwelling units (other than those provided in the law) which can be leased under the public housing, section 23 leasing program.

An additional annual subsidy of $120 is authorized for public housing units occupied by large families or families with very low incomes.

Local housing authorities are permitted to purchase structures leased under the Section 23 program for the purpose of reselling the structure to the tenants, or to a group of tenants occupying units aggregating in value at least 80 percent of the structure's value. The purchase can be on such terms and conditions as may be necessary to enable the tenants involved to make their purchases without undue financial hardship.

TITLE III - FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION INSURANCE OPERATIONS

Perfecting and liberalizing changes are made in a number of existing FHA mortgage insurance programs. In addition:

FHA is authorized to - insure loans to homeowners to finance the purchase of fee simple title to property on which their homes are located where the homeowner has only a leasehold interest in the land; insure 90 percent supplemental loans to finance improvements and additions to FHA multifamily projects (including nursing homes and group practice facilities); insure supplementary rehabilitation loans to housing cooperatives which purchased war housing covered by an uninsured mortgage; permit the cost of nursing home equipment to be included in an insured nursing home mortgage; and insure mortgages on new seasonal homes.

The Title I home improvement loan insurance program is changed by -

1. raising the limit on the amount of a loan from $3,500 to $5,000,

2. raising the maximum maturity from 5 years and 32 days to 7 years and 32 days, and

3. increasing the maximum financing charge to $5.50 discount per $100 of the first $2,500 plus $4.50 in excess of $2,500 (now $5 and $4, respectively).

Mortgages financing the purchase of housing rehabilitated by local public agencies in urban renewal areas is authorized to be insured by FHA under the existing 220 and 221 (d) (3) programs as well as under the new section 236 program providing for interest reduction payments.

The maximum mortgage amount under section 203 (i) for homes in outlying, semirural and rural areas is increased from $10,000 to $13,500.

TITLE IV - GUARANTEES FOR FINANCING NEW COMMUNITY LAND DEVELOPMENT
("New Communities Act of 1968")

Title IV, the "New Communities Act of 1968", provides additional Federal assistance to new communities. It is designed to enlist new sources of private capital in their development.

The Secretary of HUD is authorized to guarantee obligations issued on the bond market by private developers to help finance the land acquisition and land development costs of new communities.

The obligations guaranteed for a new community may not exceed the lesser of (a) 80 percent of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the property upon completion of the land development, or (b) the sum of 75 percent of the Secretary's estimate of the value of the land before development plus 90 percent of his estimate of the actual cost of the land development, or (c) $50 million.

The aggregate amount of outstanding principal obligations that may be guaranteed is limited to $250 million.

To be eligible for a guarantee or commitment to guarantee the Secretary must determine that -

1. the proposed new community will be economically feasible and will contribute to the orderly development of the area of which it is a part;

2. there is a practicable plan for financing the new community and for marketing the land which represents an acceptable financial risk to the United States;

3. there is a sound internal development plan for the new community which has received all required State or local government approvals, and is acceptable to the Secretary as contributing to good living conditions in the area and including a proper balance of housing for families of low and moderate income; and

4. the internal development plan is consistent with comprehensive planning for the area which meets criteria established by the Secretary.

The Secretary is authorized to establish a revolving fund for the guaranty program which will be comprised of (1) receipts from fees and charges, (2) other receipts, and (3) such sums, authorized to be appropriated, as may be required.

The Secretary is also authorized to make supplementary grants to State and local public bodies and agencies for water and sewer facilities and open space assisted by grants under the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 or the Consolidated Farmers' Home Administration Act, and the Housing Act of 1961. The Secretary must determine that the supplementary grants are desirable for carrying out a new community development project, and that a substantial number of housing units for low and moderate income persons is to be made available through the project.

The supplementary grant cannot exceed 20 percent of the cost of the facility and the total Federal grant is limited to 80 percent of facility cost. Appropriations for supplementary grants are authorized up to $5 million for fiscal year 1969, and up to $25 million for fiscal year 1970.

TITLE V - URBAN RENEWAL

Neighborhood Development Programs

The Secretary of HUD is authorized to provide financial assistance for neighborhood development programs, a new approach to urban renewal which will facilitate more rapid rehabilitation and redevelopment of blighted areas on an effective scale. A neighborhood development program consists of urban renewal project undertakings and activities in one or more urban renewal areas that are planned and carried out on the basis of annual increments. Financing is based on the amount of loan and grant funds needed to carry out the activities planned during a 12-month period in each of the urban renewal areas contained in a community's program. If funds are available and a community's program is acceptable to the Secretary, a community can receive financial assistance based on its need for subsequent annual increments of the program.

The Redevelopment Land Agency of the District of Columbia is given authority to plan and undertake neighborhood development programs.

Increase in authorization of grants

The authorization for urban renewal grants is increased by $1.4 billion on July 1, 1969. In addition, the authorization for urban renewal grants for projects in model cities areas is increased by $350 million.

Rehabilitation grants

The limit on the amount of a rehabilitation grant to a low-income homeowner is increased from $1,500 to $3,000 and the grant is made available for rehabilitation of real property in addition to the dwelling itself.

Rehabilitation grants are authorized to be made to low-income homeowners for repairs and improvements of dwellings outside urban renewal and code enforcement areas -

1. where the dwellings are in areas certified by the local governing body as containing a substantial number of structures in need of rehabilitation,

2. if the locality has in effect a workable program for community improvement, and

3. the area is definitely planned for rehabilitation or code enforcement within a reasonable time, and the repairs to be assisted are consistent with the plan for rehabilitation or code enforcement.

The Secretary of HUD is also authorized to make rehabilitation grants to low-income homeowners whose property has been determined, after an inspection pursuant to an approved statewide property insurance plan, to be uninsurable because of physical hazards. The grant may be made only to rehabilitate the property to the extent that the Secretary determines necessary to make it meet reasonable underwriting standards imposed by the statewide plan.

Rehabilitation loans

The rehabilitation loan program has been broadened in the same manner as the rehabilitation grant program with respect to properties located outside urban renewal and code enforcement areas and those found to be uninsurable.

The amount authorized to be appropriated for each fiscal year is increased from $100 million to $150 million and the program is extended to June 30, 1973 (in lieu of the previous expiration date of October 1, 1969).

Eligibility for residential rehabilitation loans is limited to persons whose annual income is within the locally applicable income limits for the section 221 (d) (3) below-market interest rate program.

Limit on LPA rehabilitation in urban renewal areas

The previous limits on the acquisition and rehabilitation of residential properties by local renewal agencies are removed. Under prior law, an LPA could acquire and rehabilitate for demonstration purposes no more than 100 units or 5 percent of the total residential units in an urban renewal area, whichever is lesser.

Disposition of property for low and moderate income housing

Land in an urban renewal area is authorized to be leased (in addition to being sold as previously provided) for low or moderate income housing at a price consistent with the use for that purpose. A builder is permitted to purchase the land at the write-down price for low or moderate income sales housing. Under this provision land can also be made available at the write-down price for housing assisted under the 221(h) program, and the new interest reduction payment programs authorized by the Act for homeownership and multifamily housing.

Grants for low and moderate income housing in open land projects

Grants are authorized for open land urban renewal projects where the land is to be disposed of for low and moderate income housing. Previously, open land projects were not eligible for grants. The grant may be for two-thirds of the difference between the proceeds from any land disposed of at its value for low or moderate income housing and the proceeds which would have been realized if the land had been disposed of at its fair value without regard to its special use.

Demolition grants - rat harborages
The Demolition Grant Program is expanded to permit grants for the demolition of structures which are rat harborages or potential rat harborages.

Use of air rights sites for educational facilities
Air-rights urban renewal projects, and the construction of necessary foundations and platforms in any type project, are authorized for the development of educational facilities. As in the case of industrial development, an air-rights project and the construction of foundations and platforms would only be available for educational facilities if the area is unsuitable for low or moderate income housing purposes.

Low and moderate income housing in residential urban renewal areas
A majority of the total number of housing units in a community's residential urban renewal projects which receive Federal recognition after August 1, 1968 must be for low and moderate income families or individuals, with at least 20% of such total for low income families or individuals. The Secretary may waive the 20% requirement to the extent that the units are not needed in the community.

Workable program requirements in case of Indian tribes
An additional period of time, until January 1, 1970, is provided for Indian tribes, bands, or nations to adopt and carry out minimum standards housing codes for workable program certification.

Interim assistance for blighted areas
The Secretary of HUD is authorized to contract to make grants aggregating up to $15 million a year to cities or counties to assist them in taking interim steps to alleviate harmful conditions in slum or blighted areas of communities which are planned for substantial clearance, rehabilitation, or federally assisted code enforcement in the near future, but which need some immediate public action until permanent action can be taken.

The Secretary is required to encourage employment of unemployed or under-employed residents of an assisted area in carrying out the activities to be assisted.

Grants may not exceed two-thirds of the cost of planning and carrying out an interim assistance program, except that three-fourths grants can be made to any community with a population of 50,000 or less.

A community has to have an approved workable program for community improvement to qualify for assistance, and relocation assistance and payments will be available.

Relocation Payments

Relocation adjustment payments are broadened to permit payments of up to $500 per year, for a 2-year period. Such payments have been heretofore limited to a maximum of $500 payable over a 5 month period.

A new payment is authorized for a displaced owner-occupant of residential property to enable him to purchase a replacement dwelling. The payment, which cannot exceed $5,000, is the difference between the average price for an adequate replacement home and the acquisition price of his former home.

TITLE VI - URBAN PLANNING AND FACILITIES

Comprehensive planning

The section 701 planning assistance grant program is extensively revised. The Secretary of HUD is not authorized to make comprehensive planning grants to State planning agencies for assistance to "district" planning agencies for rural and other nonmetropolitan areas. Consultation with the Secretary of Agriculture is required prior to approval of any district planning grants. The Secretary of Agriculture and, when appropriate, the Secretary of Commerce may provide technical assistance in connection with the establishment of districts and the carrying out of planning by them. Such district planning may not be aimed at assisting businesses to relocate from one area to another.

Other new provisions authorize direct planning grants to Indian tribal planning councils or other bodies for planning on Indian reservations; to regional and district councils of government as well as those organized on a metropolitan basis; to regional commissions and economic development districts established under the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965; to cities, without regard to population, within metropolitan areas for planning which is part of metropolitan planning; and to official Government planning agencies for areas where rapid urbanization is expected as a result of a new community development assisted under title IV of this act. The Secretary is required to consult with the Secretary of Commerce before making any planning grant which includes any part of an economic development district.

The definition of comprehensive planning is broadened to include planning for the provision of governmental services and for the development and utilization of human and natural resources. The inclusion of a housing element is required as part of the preparation of comprehensive land use plans. The use of private consultants, where their professional services are deemed appropriate by the assisted governments, is added to the stated purposes of the program.

The authorization of appropriations for grants is increased by $35 million for fiscal year 1969 (including $20 million earmarked for district planning) and by $125 million (including $10 million for district planning) beginning fiscal year 1970. It is also provided that an additional $10 million of section 701 appropriations is to be available for study, research and demonstration projects.

Planned areawide development

Supplementary grants (designed to encourage areawide planning) are authorized for Federally-assisted projects in all multijurisdictional areas (not just metropolitan areas as previously provided)such as the rural planning districts proposed to be assisted with comprehensive planning grants under the comprehensive planning provisions of the law. Unused authorizations for appropriations for supplementary grants for fiscal year 1967 and 1968 are made available through fiscal year 1970.

Advance Acquisition of land

The advance acquistion of land program is extensively revised. Among the more significant changes is a broadening of the definition of eligible land from land "planned to be utilized in connection with the future construction of public works and facilities" to "land planned to be utilized in the future for public purposes". Grants can also be made for the imputed interest cost when a public body does not use borrowed funds to acquire the land. Authority is given the Secretary to extend the requirement that the land must be used for its proposed purpose within five years if he deems a longer period necessary due to unusual circumstances and so advises the Banking and Currency Committees of the Congress. It is also provided that assistance under this program will not render a project ineligible for other Federal assistance programs and that the cost of land acquired with assistance under this program will not be an ineligible project cost in such other programs.

Water and sewer facilities program

The interim planning requirements under the basic water and sewer facilities grant program is extended to October 1, 1969. It is also provided that in administering the program, to the greatest extent practicable, new job opportunities shall be provided for unemployed or underemployed persons.

Authorizations -- water and sewer, neighorhood facilities, and advance acquisition of land programs.

The authorization for appropriations for these three programs is extended to permit the appropriation, for fiscal year 1970, of any funds authorized but not appropriated prior to that time. Also, an additional $150 million for fiscal year 1969 and $115 million for fiscal year 1970 are authorized to be appropriated for the water and sewer facilities grant program.

Open space land program

The contract authorization of $310 million for grants under the open space land program is changed to a $310 million authorization of appropriations prior to July 1, 1969, with $150 million in additional appropriations authorized for fiscal year 1970. The limit on the amount of the funds that can be used for studies and publishing of information is increased from $50,000 to $125,000 per year.

Feasibility studies - public works planning advances

It is made clear that the Secretary of HUD has authority to make advances for feasibility studies under the public works planning advances program.

TITLE VII - URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION

Authorization

The authorization of appropriations for grants and other assistance to urban mass transportation is increased by $190 million for fiscal year 1970. The amount of funds which can be used for research, development, and demonstration projects is increased by $6 million, commencing July 1, 1968, and the statutory limit on the funds available for this purpose is removed, commencing July 1, 1969.

Emergency program extended

The emergency mass transportation capital grant program expiration date is extended from November 1, 1968 to July 1, 1970.

Definition

The definition of "mass transportation" in the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 is amended to allow greater flexibility and opportunity for application of new concepts and systems.

Non federal share of net project cost

Not more than half of the non-federal share of the net project cost of a mass transportation project is permitted to be paid from private sources, except in certain cases of demonstrated fiscal inability. Any public or private transit system funds provided for the non-Federal share must be solely from undistributed cash surpluses, replacement or depreciation funds or reserves available in cash, or new captial.

TITLE VIII - SECONDARY MORTGAGE MARKET

The existing Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) is directed to be partitioned into two separate corporations. One will be a Government sponsored private corporation, to be known as the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA), to operate the secondary mortgage market operations. The other will remain in the Government and continue to operate the special assistance functions for special Federally-aided housing programs, and the management and liquidating functions of the old FNMA. The new corporation will be known as the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA).

FNMA is authorized to issue and sell securities backed by a portion of its mortgage portfolio, with GNMA guaranteeing payment on such securities. GNMA can also guarantee similar securities issued by other private issuers where they are backed by FHA, VA, and some Farmers Home Administration mortgages or loans.

The special assistance authorization of FNMA (now GNMA) is increased by $500 million on July 1, 1969.

The provisions of this title will become effective after a date, no more than 120 days following its enactment, established by the Secretary of HUD. The Secretary has established this date as September 1, 1968.

Provisions are made with respect to the capital stock of FNMA and its board of directors during a transitional period. The transitional period will end when 1/3 of the FNMA common stock is owned by persons or organizations in the mortgage lending, home building, real estate or related businesses, but not sooner than May 1, 1970, nor later than May 1, 1973. The majority of FNMA's board of directors are to be appointed by the Secretary of HUD during the transitional period. The President of FNMA during this period will be appointed by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate. One of the Secretary's appointees to the Board will be the President.

After the transitional period FNMA will be governed by a 15-member board of directors, five of whom will be appointed by the President of the United States.

The new FNMA will be subject to the general regulatory control of the Secretary of HUD, who also must approve the issuance of all stocks and other obligations by FNMA and may require it to allocate a reasonable portion of its mortgage purchases to mortgages in low and moderate income housing.

TITLE IX - NATIONAL HOUSING PARTNERSHIPS

A national housing partnership is to be created for the purpose of securing the participation of private investors in programs and projects to provide housing for low and moderate income families.

Initially, a federally chartered, privately funded corporation will be organized under the District of Columbia Business Corporation Act. The corporation in turn will organize the National partnership under the D.C. Uniform Limited Partnership Act.

The corporation will serve as the general partner and managing agent of the National partnership and each of its stockholders can be limited partners. It will provide the staff and expertise for the Partnership in organizing and planning project undertakings in which the partnership has an interest, and receive a fee for such services.

Both the corporation and the National partnership are authorized to engage in a broad range of activities appropriate to the provision of housing and related facilities primarily for low or moderate income families, with or without the use of Federal programs, and may enter into and participate in all forms of partnerships and associations. The National partnership is expected to form partnership ventures with local investors for the purpose of building low and moderate income housing projects throughout the nation. Normally, it will be a limited partner in such undertakings, with an interest of not more than 25% of the aggregate initial equity investment for the project.

The President will appoint the incorporators of the corporation and 3 of the 15 members of the board of directors. The incorporators will serve as the initial board of directors and arrange for the initial offering of shares of stock in the corporation and interests in the National partnership.

The President is authorized to create additional partnerships when he determines it to be in the national interest.

National banks are authorized to invest in a corporation and other entities formed under this title.

TITLE X - RURAL HOUSING

Housing for low and moderate income persons and families

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to provide direct and insured loans for housing in rural areas to low and moderate income persons and families and to provide rental or cooperative housing for such persons where assistance is not available under the new interest reduction programs authorized by the law. The interest rate on the loans can be at a rate set by the Secretary after considering the cost of money to the Treasury and the payment ability of the applicants, but not less than 1 percent per annum. An interest supplement necessary to market the insured loans will be paid from, and reimbursed by annual appropriations to, the Rural Housing Insurance Fund.

Housing for rural trainees

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to provide financial and technical assistance to the provision of housing and related facilities in rural areas for rural trainees (and their families) enrolled in Federally assisted training courses to improve their employment capability.

Advances for land purchase for the housing will be repayable within 33 years and bear interest at a rate (not less than 1 percent) determined by the Secretary of the Treasury taking into consideration the current average market yield on outstanding Federal obligations. Other advances would be nonrepayable, or repayable with or without interest, depending on the applicant's payment ability, from project net income and any other available sources.

Mutual and self-help housing

A new program of grants and loans is authorized to provide assistance in rural areas and small towns to needy low-income individuals and their families for mutual or self-help housing. Grants can be made to public or private nonprofit organizations to pay part or all of the costs of developing comprehensive programs of technical and supervisory assistance to aid individuals and their families in carrying out mutual or self-help housing efforts.

Loans can be made on such terms and conditions and in such amounts as the Secretary of Agriculture deems necessary, to needy low-income individuals participating in programs of mutual or self-help housing approved by him, for the acquisition and development of land and for the purchase of building materials as may be necessary, for the construction of dwellings. Loans will bear interest at not more than 3 percent per annum, and be repayable within 33 years.

A self-help housing land development fund is authorized to provide a source of short-term loans to public or private nonprofit organizations to buy and develop building sites to be sold to families, nonprofit organizations, and cooperatives eligible for assistance under the new interest reduction programs for housing for lower income families.

TITLE XI - URBAN PROPERTY PROTECTION AND REINSURANCE

Title XI enacts the "Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act of 1968."

Under this Act the Secretary of HUD is authorized to provide private insurers with reinsurance against losses resulting from riots or civil disorders. The sale of reinsurance is limited to those insurers that cooperate with State insurance authorities in developing statewide plans to assure fair access to insurance requirements, called FAIR plans. Reinsurance may only be provided in States which have such plans.

FAIR plans may vary among the States, but all plans must satisfy minimum statutory criteria. The principal requirement is that no risk can be written at the surcharged rate or denied coverage unless there has been an inspection of the property and a determination made that it does not meet reasonable underwriting standards at the applicable premium. Additional requirements relate to the procedures to be followed with respect to inspections, the provision of reasonable notice to property owners of cancellation or nonrenewal of policies, and the formation of an all-industry facility which will place the insurance in the regular market. Such FAIR Plans are to be administered under the supervision of the State insurance authority. As a condition for providing reinsurance in a State, the Secretary can require additional programs to make property insurance available without regard to environmental hazards.

Reinsurance is offered in standards lines of property insurance coverage and can be provided immediately following enactment by means of a binder agreement, which expires after 90 days unless sooner replaced by a reinsurance contract.

Premium rates and the terms and conditions of reinsurance contracts are to be uniform throughout the country. The premiums for the first year must provide sufficient income to cover a level of riot losses in excess of the amount of insured riot losses in 1967.

A State is required to assume a portion of the losses reinsured by the Secretary within 1 year or by the close of its next regular legislative session. The ceiling on the share will be 5% of the property insurance premiums, earned in the State on reinsured lines of property insurance. Such sharing will only be required if reinsured losses exceed premiums paid for reinsurance by insurance companies in that State (premiums paid in the current year plus premiums paid in previous years in excess of reinsured claims).

A National Insurance Development Fund is created to carry out the program authorized. Treasury borrowings are authorized to make payments of claims for reinsured losses, limited to $250 million or such further sums as the Congress may authorize by joint resolution.

The Secretary is required to make a study concerning the availability of property insurance in urban areas and to submit the results to the President and the Congress no later than 1 year after the enactment of the law. He is also authorized to conduct other studies pertinent to his reinsurance and statewide plan responsibilities.

A 19-member advisory board is to be appointed by the Secretary with not less than four members to represent the insurance industry and not less than four members to represent the State insurance authorities.

TITLE XII - DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA INSURANCE PLACEMENT ACT

The District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act establishes programs to assure the availability of basic property insurance protection against fire and other perils for residential and business properties in the District of Columbia. Such programs are subject to the supervision and regulation of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

Within 30 days after enactment all licensed insurers in the District who write basic property insurance are required to establish an Industry Placement Facility which is to administer a program to provide for the equitable distribution of responsibility for insuring qualified property for which insurance cannot be obtained through the normal insurance market.

Rules and regulations are to be adopted by the Facility to assure all property owners fair access to insurance requirements. Such rules and regulations, which must be approved by the Commissioner, are required to be consistent with the state-wide plan requirements of the Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act of 1968 (Title XI, Supra).

The Commissioner is authorized to establish a joint underwriting association to provide for the reinsuring of basic property insurance without regard to environmental hazard, if he finds that such a program is necessary to carry out the purposes of the Act.

The Commissioner is authorized to assess each insurance company authorized to do business in the District an amount sufficient to satisfy the state sharing requirement for Federal reinsurance under the Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act. Such assessments would be based on a company's proportionate share of premiums earned on reinsured lines during the preceding year. In the event of such assessments, the companies will increase their premiums by an amount sufficient to recover the assessment within not more than a 3 year period.

TITLE XIII - NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE

Title XIII enacts the "National Flood Insurance Act of 1968". Under this Act, the Secretary of HUD is authorized to establish and carry out a national flood insurance program to enable persons to purchase insurance against losses resulting from physical damage to or loss of real property or personal property arising from any flood occurring in the United States. He is directed to encourage and arrange for maximum participation in the program by insurance companies and other insurers, and by related agents, brokers and organizations.

The Act provides for the operation of the flood insurance program as a joint venture between the Federal Government and the private insurance industry (with the industry participating on a risk-sharing basis). However, as an alternative, the Secretary may, if necessary, operate the program without the companies participating on other than a fiscal agency basis.

The Secretary is authorized to borrow up to $250 million from the Treasury to carry out the insurance program. A National Flood Insurance Fund is established for making payments authorized by the bill, including premium equalization payments and reinsurance for losses in excess of losses assumed by insurance company pools formed to provide flood insurance.

Coverage will be available initially for one to four family dwellings and small business establishments but is to be extended to additional types and classes of property as found feasible by the Secretary. In the case of dwellings, the insurance limit, where the rate is less than the full risk rate, will be $17,500 for any single dwelling and $30,000 for a two to four family structure, plus $5,000 per dwelling for contents. Small business properties can be insured for up to a total of $30,000 for the structure and $5,000 for the contents of each individual business. These limits may be doubled upon the payment of full premium rates for the coverage in excess of such limits by the insured property owner.

The Secretary is directed to develop criteria designed to encourage the adoption of State and local measures to constrict the development of land which is exposed to flood damage, guide development of proposed construction away from locations threatened by flood hazards, assist in reducing damage caused by floods, and otherwise improve land management and use of flood-prone areas.

After June 30, 1970, no new flood insurance coverage can be provided in any area unless an appropriate public body has adopted permanent land use and control measures which the Secretary finds are consistent with the criteria he has prescribed for land management and use in flood prone areas.

The Secretary is directed to appoint a flood insurance advisory committee.

The face amount of flood insurance coverage outstanding and in force at any one time is limited to $2.5 billion.

The Flood Insurance Program will go into effect 120 days following the date of enactment unless the Secretary prescribes a later effective date, not to exceed 180 days from the date of enactment.

The Secretary of HUD is authorized to undertake studies for the purpose of determining the extent to which insurance protection against earthquakes, or other natural disaster perils, other than flood, is not available, and the feasibility of such insurance protection being made available.

TITLE XIV - INTERSTATE LAND SALES

The "Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act" enacted by Title XIV makes it unlawful for any developer to sell or lease, by the use of the mail or by any means in interstate commerce, any lot in any subdivision (defined as one with 50 or more lots for sale as part of a common promotional plan) unless

(1) there has been filed with Secretary of HUD a statement of record listing certain required information about the ownership of the land, the state of its title, its physical nature, the availability of roads and utilities, and other matters; and

(2) a printed property report, containing pertinent extracts from the statement of record, is furnished to the purchaser in advance of the signing of an agreement for purchase or lease.

These requirements do not apply to any subdivision where the property is clear of all liens and if every purchaser has personally inspected the lot which he purchased, as evidenced by a written affirmation by the developer.

Any contract for the purchase or lease of a lot covered by this Act is voidable at the option of the purchaser if he was not furnished with a property report at least 48 hours in advance of his signing the contract. If the property report was received by the purchaser less than 48 hours in advance of his signing the contract, it is voidable for a period of 48 hours after the signing unless he stipulates in writing that he has read the report and inspected the lot before he signed the contract.

Willful violation of these requirements is subject to criminal penalties of imprisonment for not more than 5 years, or a fine of not more than $5,000, or both. Broader civil remedies than heretofore available are also provided. A suit for damages may be brought in any State or Federal court for the district in which the defendent may be found or in which the transaction took place. The Secretary is authorized to seek an injunction against any developer he can show is violating or about to violate the law.

In carrying out his responsibilities under this legislation, the Secretary is required to cooperate with State authorities charged with the responsibility of regulating the sale of lots in subdivisions.

This Act does not become effective until 270 days after enactment.

TITLE XV - MORTGAGE INSURANCE FOR NONPROFIT HOSPITALS

This title establishes a new FHA program (section 242 of the National Housing Act) under which the Secretary of HUD will insure mortgages covering new or rehabilitated hospitals (including initial equipment). The mortgage may not exceed $25 million or 90 percent of replacement cost and the hospital must be owned and operated by one or more nonprofit organizations.

TITLE XVI - HOUSING GOALS AND ANNUAL HOUSING REPORT

Reaffirmation of national goal

The Congress finds that the supply of the Nation's housing is not increasing rapidly enough to meet the national housing goal and reaffirms this goal. It determines that it can be substantially achieved within the next decade by the construction or rehabilitation of twenty-six million housing units, six million of these for low and moderate income families.

Report outlining plan

Not later than January 15, 1969, the President is required to make a report to the Congress setting forth a plan to be carried out over the next ten years for the elimination of all substandard housing and the realization of the national housing goal. The report shall, in addition, contain a projection of the residential mortgage market needs and prospects during the coming year, including an estimate of the requirements with respect to the availability, need and flow of mortgage funds, together with recommendations for encouraging the availability of funds.

Periodic reports

On January 15, 1970, and on each succeeding year through 1979, the President is required to submit to the Congress a report of results achieved in the provision of housing, and recommendations for legislation or additional administrative action that may be needed to achieve the objectives of the President's plan.

Commission on Mortgage Interest Rates

Funds appropriated and available for studies of housing markets and credit under laws previously enacted in 1948 and 1956 are made available for expenses of the Commission on Mortgage Interest Rates to study mortgage interest rates. This Commission was established by Public Law 90-301.

TITLE XVII - MISCELLANEOUS

Model cities

The authorization for supplemental grants for model cities is increased by $1 billion for fiscal year 1970, and an additional $12 million is authorized for fiscal year 1969 for grants for planning model cities programs. Amounts authorized but not appropriated are made available for appropriation for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970.

Urban renewal demonstration grant program

Urban renewal demonstration grants are authorized to be made to nonprofit organizations. Under prior law these grants were available only for public bodies.

The limit on the amount of urban renewal demonstration grants is increased from two-thirds of the cost of the undertakings to 90 percent of the cost.

The amount of funds available for these grants is increased from $10 million to $20 million.

Authorization for urban information and technical assistance service program

The authorization for grants to States to assist in the provision of urban information and technical assistance is increased by $5 million for fiscal year 1969, and by $15 million for fiscal year 1970. Amounts authorized for these grants but not appropriated are authorized to be appropriated for any succeeding fiscal year commencing prior to July 1, 1970.

Advances in technology in housing and urban development

Such sums as may be necessary are authorized to be appropriated commencing with fiscal year 1969, for studies of new and improved techniques and methods of applying advances in technology to housing construction and rehabilitation, and to urban development. Four-year contracts are authorized for such studies rather than 2-year contracts as heretofore authorized.

College housing

The college housing direct loan program is expanded to add a new program to provide financial assistance by means of annual debt service grants. The new grant program is to be used to reduce the borrower's annual debt service payments on private market loans to the average annual debt service that would have been required if the loan were based on the rate charged on loans under the direct loan program. Annual grants can be made over a fixed period up to 40 years. The total amount of annual grant contracts is subject to approval in appropriation acts. The total amount cannot exceed $10 million, with this limit increased by $10 million on July 1, 1969.

The loan and new grant program are made available for the purchase of existing properties which are in need of little or no rehabilitation.

Federal-State training programs

The Federal-State training program is broadened to permit grants to States for the training of subprofessional (heretofore limited to professional) persons who will be employed in the field of housing as well as community development. The trainees may be trained for employment by private nonprofit organizations which have responsibility for housing and community development programs, in addition to public organizations. Guam, American Samoa, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands are made eligible for grants under the program.

Additional Assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development

An additional Assistant Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized.

Self-help Studies

Grants are authorized to be made under the low-income housing demonstration program for studies of self-help in the construction, rehabilitation, and maintenance of housing for low-income persons and families and the methods of selecting, involving, and directing them in self-help activities. The Secretary of HUD is required to report to Congress within one year on the results of any such studies.

Savings and loan associations

Federal savings and loan associations are authorized to raise capital in the form of savings deposits or other accounts (in addition to shares) and to borrow and issue bonds or other obligations.

Their lending and investment powers are liberalized and broadened by authorizing them to invest in -

1. time deposits, certificates or accounts in banks insured by the FDIC;
2. unsecured loans not exceeding $5,000 to finance the construction of new structures relating to residential use (vacation homes);
3. mobile home financing;
4. loans not exceeding $5,000 for the equipping of homes;
5. loans guaranteed by AID on housing projects located in developing countries outside of Latin American; and

6. loans to Federally supervised financial institutions or brokers or dealers registered with the SEC, if the loans are secured by loans, obligations or investments in which the Federal association has statutory authority to invest directly.

Federal Home Loan Bank Act

Federal home loan banks are authorized to invest in housing project loans guaranteed under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

Federal Reserve Act

Section 24 of the Federal Reserve act is amended to authorize construction loans by national banks up to 36 months in length (seriously limited to 24 months) as an exception to the limitation on real estate loans.

National banks are permitted to continue to purchase participations in existing mortgages, and it is made clear that loans by national banks are not to be considered as real estate loans where the bank looks primarily for repayment out of security other than real estate.
